DOUBTING THOMAS

Josh Swanson, Pastor Christ Church Sierra Madre

Easter is about a lot of things: Dresses, lilies, dresses, bunnies, eggs, peeps, but at it's core is a historical claim: Jesus of Nazareth put through the rigors of crucifixion, was raised physically and bodily from the grave... but more—theological claim: God is not absent, he is present, he enters in and bear our sin and shame and takes on darkness and comes out the other side. And a cosmological claim: Old world is put to an end-God is ushering a new world, he will flood creation with his justice, love, and new life.

It is so good: This is news is fertile ground for hope, faith, love, freedom, joy, radical sacrificial action...So much to find-Julian Barnes (I don't believe in God, but a miss him). It has brought hope in the face of death, stirred people up to action of justice, brought tremendous comfort and peace (Peter John Courson: "Dad, it works").

But it is so dramatic (almost too good to be true), that for most of us have asked, "is it true?" is also cause for some doubt. We have our questions: Did it happen? Does God really care? Is Jesus God incarnate, come into the world to make everything new? Is there life after death? Will I really be reunited with loved ones. Some of us at different times in our life have asked that question—or find ourselves haunted by doubts.

Many of us find ourselves—in both places—doubt and

You are not alone. Sometimes – people will ask you as a pastor, "Pastor, do you ever doubt" and I say: I never doubt. Ever. Years ago one of my kids Crying—I know a lot of parents-greater faith and they think, we should pray and teach kids to turn to God with the little things. I thought, what if she wets her bed! It would be so obvious and what would it do to her young faith, and what will it do to mine?

Charles Taylor—A Secular Age: What does it mean to live in a secular age? Sure, there a fundamentalist believer and unbelievers. But those are on the far edges. Most of us are not fundamentalist believers or unbelievers, but somewhere in between. Believers are fraught with doubt. Doubters haunted by belief transcendence, that there's got to be something more. Jaime Smith: "Faith is fraught...it is haunted by an inescapable sense of its contestability. We don't believe instead of doubting; we believe while doubting. We are all Thomas Now."

Do you see what he is saying? If you have doubts, you are not alone. It's normal. Asking questions is important. Doubt does not discredit faith / Doubt is a sub-category of faith. The opposite of faith is not doubt, it is unbelief

Disbelieve = I will not believe! = that is the opposite of faith. / But faith is a sub-category of faith.

Faith and doubt are companions on the journey. It presses and moves you in the hunt for truth.

Both the fundamentalist believer and fundamentalist unbelievers simply doubt and make it hard to talk about. Religious people: say it's a terrible and threatening thing and they don't make it safe to express doubt. And secular people see perennial doubt as the only position of sophistication. It's intellectual maturity. But Jesus has a different approach....and you see it in the story

On the one hand Jesus welcomes and is incredibly generous and understanding towards doubters. On the one hand it encourages trust – stop doubting, and believe. Questions are good. It's important. But the point is to lead to a life of trust and commitment.

A faith without some doubts is like a human body without any antibodies in it. People who blithely go through life too busy or indifferent to ask hard questions about why they believe as they do will find themselves defenseless against either the experience of tragedy or the probing questions of a smart skeptic. A person's faith can collapse almost overnight if she has failed over the years to listen patiently to her own doubts, which should only be discarded after long reflection." – Tim

In the story Thomas moves from doubt to a place of deep trust. We know him as doubting Thomas (what a bummer to get that label for the rest of your life), but he actually makes one of the greatest confessions of faith in the NT. How? We will see....

1. The Reality of Doubt

Read 20:24-25: "Now Thomas, one of the twelve, called the Twin, was not with them when Jesus came. So the other disciples said to him, "We have seen the Lord." Where we pick up the story it is the first day of the week (the first Easter) resurrection, the disciples are gathered, and Jesus shows up. And Thomas missed it. This is one of the reasons you should never miss church. You never know when Jesus might show up. You don't want your friends to say, "You should have been there! Jesus really showed up." Don't miss church. They say, "We saw the Lord!"

Notice his response (25b) Thomas is incredulous. He can't believe it. There was reason for him to believe. He saw the miracles, he heard the words of Jesus. The disciples received the Holy Spirit. They all say the same thing. Their demaener is transformed. Tears have yielded to Joy, their fear gives way to confidence. And still he does not believe. He is adamant. "Unless I see...I will never believe."

Why did he doubt? What is the cause of his skepticism? (Continued on page 3)

PAUL HAGEN CHOSEN AS 2019 SIERRA MADRE OLDER AMERICAN OF THE YEAR

The City of Sierra Madre and Sierra Madre Senior Community Commission are pleased to announce Paul Hagen as the Sierra Madre Older American of the Year for 2019.

Every May, the Administration on Aging, part of the Administration for Community Living, leads our nation's observance of Older American's Month. Connect, Create, Contribute, the 2019 theme encourages older adults and their networks to connect with friends, family, and services that support community participation.

Paul Hagen is a thriving example that you are never too old (or young) to take part in activities that can enrich your physical, mental, and emotional well-being.

Paul willingly served his community as a dedicated volunteer Sierra Madre firefighter for 25 years, while working for the Sierra Madre Water Department for two decades. Paul's passion for public service is further exhibited through his fundraising efforts for the Home Boy Industries "Fun Run 5K", whose motto is "Jobs are better than guns."

Paul will be honored at the Older American of the Year Reception on Friday, May 10th at the Hart Park House

At the time, Johnson was teaching night classes at the college. She describes being asked to run as this: "women were asked to run in [certain] districts where they were sacrificial lambs,". The county could show that they were progressive enough to have a woman as a candidate while still keeping men in power. That was not what was going to happen to Nan Johnson, however. Sierra Madre-Arcadia-Pasadena-

REMEMBRANCE: PATRICIA LYNN GRIGG

Patricia Lynn Grigg, 76, of Sierra Madre, Ca, went on to be with the Lord April 10, 2019.

She was born to the late Clinton and Eleanor Burton on January 23, 1943, in Rosemead, Ca., where she was raised. As a youth she became an accomplished Accordion player through Arrettas Music School alongside her lifetime best friend Gail Marshall. Her quartet moved on to win state championship. Pa-tricia Graduated from Rosemead High School in 1961, attended Pasadena City College, and worked as a dental assistant in her early years.

At age 25 she married Kendall Nash Grigg on November 11, 1967 in Las Vegas, Nv. Their wedding re-ception was held at Eaton's Restaurant in Arcadia, Ca. They lived in Pasadena during their first few years of marriage and then moved to Sierra Madre in 1971, where they started their family. Patty and her husband lovingly devoted their lives to each other and the raising of their children. She dedicated her life as a homemaker.

They both attended Sierra Madre Congregational church under the pastoral leadership of Dick Anderson. Through her example and many years of praying for her husband and kids, they all came to know the Lord and dedicated their hearts and lives to Jesus Christ. As a family, they have attended Calvary Chapel Monrovia over the last decade. Patricia is survived by her husband Kendall Grigg Sr., daughter Melanie, and son Kendall Jr. She is also survived by her daughter-in-law Perla and children Ricardo, Michael, Maritza, and great grandson Kaiden, all whom she lovingly took in as her own. Patricia was known for her kind and loving spirit, beautiful smile, and giving nature. She became like a mother to her sons best friend Damian Daniels when he was a teenager, becoming as a son to her, and brother to the whole family, along with his wife Diane and daughter Kenadie.

Patty is remembered as the angel mom and grandmother. Pat and her husband were known to lovingly embrace her children's teenage friends as their own, opening up their home where they felt welcomed, loved, and safe. Their marriage, love for each other and for their children, was a godly example to all. Patty's top priority was her devotion to her husband and staying at home to raise her children.

Patricia was young at heart! She loved being in the mountains. Her husband Kendall fondly remembers her love for camping with family and taking trips to the High Sierras, her favorite being Convict Lake. He particularly remembers her driving the motor home on highway 395 and loving the open road. They shared many trips with mutual friends, Bob and Karen Forward, as well as Ken's brother Larry and wife Bev. Patricia also loved going to the beach to relax and people watch. We recall her always saying how much the ocean was soothing to her.

She loved her animals, feeding the wild birds, and daily devotion time with the Lord, as He was her first love and it radiated to all who knew her. Pats deepest desire was to share the love of God and for others to come to know Jesus Christ as their personal Lord and Savior.

Through her faith she was a light to all. Her most worthy accomplishment was glorifying God through her life. "Whosoever therefore shall humble himself as this little child, the same is greatest in the kingdom of heaven." Matthew 18.4 KJV

"Her children rise up and call her blessed; Her husband also, and he praises her:" Proverbs 31:28 NKJV

She was loved by all and will be greatly missed.

As an active community member, professor, and elected representative, Johnson spent what little free time she had looking at the history of the area. Rochester is a mere 50 miles away from Seneca Falls, which is home to the Women's Park and the Women's Hall of Fame. In 1995, while still teaching three courses and servicing on the SUNY Board and the County Legislator, Johnson formed the Friends of Women's Rights Historic Park, persuaded the Rochester School of Music to produce Mother of Us All by Gertrude Stein, and founded the Susan B Anthony Center with her colleague Dr. Applegate. She continued to do outreach in her community and brought in speakers to hold conferences on different topics such as Women in Health, Women in Law, Women in Sports, and Women in Politics. She also brought teen parents in as speakers to show that having children at a young age does not limit a person's potential.

Johnson retired around the age of 70, and she and her husband moved to their vacation home in Southern Shores, near Kitty Hawk, North Carolina. In 2017, Johnson and her husband moved to Southern California,

WALKING SIERRA MADRE by Deanne Davis

Easter is tomorrow! A time of celebration that has a lot to do with bunnies; chocolate ones – yes, most of us eat the ears first. The stores are filled with Peeps candies, now in all sorts of flavors and I've been trying to find a Cadbury caramel egg with no success at all. There are exhaustive hunts in various parks for tie-dyed eggs and, if you're lucky and get invited somewhere good for lunch, there might be honey-baked ham. Easter might have something to do with new outfits, but extensive biblical research has not proven that, one way or the other. What Easter is really about is the fact that the stone was rolled away and there was an empty tomb. As the angel said, "He is not here, He is risen!" An amazing concept upon which many of us base our lives. It really is more exciting than chocolate bunnies and Easter eggs...unless, of course, they were dyed for you by some small person you absolutely love and

BEFORE DAWN..... EASTER SUNDAY

The sky was gray, The world was hushed, Before dawn... Sunday.

The women walked Toward a tomb, Jars of spices in their hands, To tend the One, The One Who died, Crucified that Friday.

The women walked, Toward the tomb, Mary Magdalene and another. They walked, and wondered, Wondered who would roll away the stone.

> The sky was gray, The world was hushed, Before dawn, Sunday.

They stopped to rest, Await the day, Sad eyes filled with tears, Sorrow for the One, Who died, Crucified that Friday.

Another dawn, Another day, What did it matter, anyway? The One who loved her as she was, Who changed her life, was gone.

She raised her eyes to see the sky, Streaks of pink and gold.
And then they saw, The guards were gone, The stone was rolled away!

The grief she'd felt since Friday, Like the stone, was rolled away! She grabbed that jar of spices, And running like a child, Climbed the hill, To tend her Lord before dawn, Sunday.

They looked inside that borrowed tomb, Petrified with fright, An angel sat there on the stone, Clothed in brilliant white. "I know the one you seek," he said, "Jesus, crucified."

> "He is not here, he's risen! He's risen, as he said He's risen! He's risen! He's risen, as he said!"

"Now go! And tell the others, He's risen, as he said! Look not for the living, Here among the dead! He is not here, he's risen! He's risen, as he said!"

And joy broke free... Before dawn, That first Easter Sunday.

Much thanks to Susan Blakeslee for the Easter lilies she puts out each year.

KATIE Tse.....This and That AN EASTER MESSAGE

Happy Easter! I was considering titling this article "Subject to Bondage," but didn't want that to be misinterpreted. Because I suppose unless you're familiar with the verse from Hebrews that it's quoting you might think I was writing about something weird. Here is the verse:

"Inasmuch then as the children have partaken of flesh and blood, He Himself likewise shared in the same, that through death He might destroy him who had the power of death, that is, the devil, and release those who through fear of death were all their lifetime subject to bondage."

The fear of death; what a universal theme. A lifetime subject to bondage; what a concise picture of the human condition.

I hate the flowery language often used to describe death. The worst is to say it's "a part of life." Well, of course it's a part of life now, but that wasn't God's original plan for humanity. The Bible teaches that death is the last enemy to be destroyed. Death drove Jesus to weep at Lazarus' tomb. Not because He didn't have the power to raise him from the dead, but because of the whole tragedy of it brought on by sin.

Another bad thing is when people deride others for their fears. To be brave is great, but some fears are completely healthy and should not be ignored. In a limited sense, I believe that the fear of death is one of those healthy fears that should not be quelched before it is thoroughly resolved.

Death is the great unknown. No one has lived to tell about it except one. I believe that anyone who is honest with themselves will admit to being afraid of death at least at some point in their life. For the Christian, Jesus has answered the question of death, and we do not need to fear if we have committed our souls to Jesus. But for the person who doesn't have this hope, what is your plan?

I think a lot of non-Christians have repressed their fear of death to the point that they barely feel it anymore. But that's a truly scary place to be, where you're anesthetized to the gut reaction that tells you you're in danger.

This article isn't meant to scare anyone, I'm just trying to lay things out plainly. The message of Easter (and Christmas) is simple. Jesus died to save you from an eternity in hell. Of course that message makes no sense if you don't recognize your need to be saved. That is where the story stops for many people.

We're all good people, right? Sure, we're not perfect, but who is? Certainly we're in better shape than the drunk down the street and the murderer on death row. Yes, true. But those aren't the comparisons that count. The only one that matters is your standing against a perfect, sinless God. And we all fall short on that test.

The good news though, is that God has provided a way to save us. The bad news, for some, is that there's only one way. God didn't provide a thousand different avenues of salvation and then turn to His son and suggest the cross as another viable option. What kind of monster would do that if there was any other way? No, God's not like that.

He has done everything He can to bridge the gap between us and Him. We could never climb up to Him, so He came down to us. He has accomplished everything for us, because we cannot bring anything to the table as far as our salvation is concerned. No, there is only one lifeline. God has provided it, but you must accept it. And that lifeline's name is Jesus.

*If you choose to accept Jesus as your Savior you can pray this prayer and He will come into your heart and give you peace with God, today and forever.

"Dear Lord Jesus, I know that I am a sinner, and I ask for Your forgiveness. I believe You died for my sins and rose from the dead. I turn from my sins and invite You to come into my heart and life. I want to trust and follow You as my Lord and Savior. In Jesus' name. Amen." on your wedding day, you are not 100% certain, but

Mountain Lion Naps in Pasadena Backyard

California Department of Fish and Wildlife officers along with Animal Control carefully removed a large pound mountain lion Thursday from the backyard of a home in the 1600 block of Fiske Avenue and Lake Avenue –far from the foothills were they normally roam.

According to reports and Pasadena Public Information Officer Lisa Derderian, the large cat was seen by residents sleeping under a tree. Police along with Pasadena Humane Šociety officers arrived at the scene shortly before 5 p.m. Based on its sluggish behavior, the mountain lion may have been sick and looking for food or water according to Derderian.

The animal was sedated and removed from the area around 7:30 p.m. It will be evaluated for any health concerns and most likely released back into the forest Derderian said.

For the past 20 years, Peace Over Violence has run its Denim Day campaign on a Wednesday in April in honor of Sexual Assault Awareness Month. The campaign was originally triggered by a ruling by the Italian Supreme Court where a rape conviction was overturned because the justices felt that since the victim was wearing tight jeans she must have helped her rapist remove them, thereby implying consent. The following day, the women in the Italian Parliament came to work wearing jeans in solidarity with the victim. Peace Over Violence developed the Denim Day campaign in 1999 in response to this case and the activism surrounding it. Since then, wearing jeans on Denim Day has become a symbol of protest against erroneous and destructive attitudes about sexual assault. In this rape prevention education campaign, community members, elected officials, and students businesses are asked to make a social statement with their fashion by wearing jeans on Denim Day as a visible means of protest against the misconceptions that surround sexual assault. "It takes cross-sector collaborations and educational awareness campaigns, such as Denim Day, to bring attention to this issue that continues to plague our society, and ensure we are all informed and equipped to combat sexual violence. We are thankful to Patti Giggans and her wonderful team at Peace Over Violence for helping create a society free of violence," says Norma Fernandez, chair of Pasadena's Commission on the Status of Women.

Scientists Identify Millions of Hidden Earthquakes

Caltech seismologists announced Thursday they have identified nearly two million previously unidentified tiny earthquakes across Southern California occurring between 2008 and 2017.

The efforts, published online by the journal Science on April 18, expand the earthquake catalog for that region and period of time by a factor of 10—growing it from about 180,000 recorded earthquakes to more than 1.81 million. The new data reveal that there are about 495 earthquakes daily occurring at an average of roughly three minutes apart. Previous earthquake cataloging had suggested that approximately 30 minutes would elapse between seismic

This 10-fold increase in the number of recorded earthquakes represents the cataloging of tiny temblors, between negative magnitude 2.0 (-2.0) and 1.7, made possible by the broad application of a labor-intensive identification technique that is typically only employed on small scales. These quakes are so small that they can be difficult to spot amid the background noise that appears in seismic data, such as shaking from automobile traffic or building construction.

"It's not that we didn't know these small earthquakes were occurring. The problem is that they can be very difficult to spot amid all of the noise," says Zachary Ross, lead author of the study and postdoctoral scholar in geophysics, who will join the Caltech faculty in June as an assistant professor of geophysics. Ross collaborated with Égill Hauksson, research professor of geophysics at Caltech, as well as Daniel Trugman of Los Alamos National Laboratory and Peter Shearer of Scripps Institution of Oceanography at UC San Diego.

To overcome the low signalto-noise ratio, the team turned to a technique known as "template matching," in which identified, then scanned records from nearby seismometers to see whether the earthquake's signal had been recorded elsewhere and could be independently verified.

USGS Pasadena

Template matching works best in regions with closely spaced seismometers, since events generally only cross-correlate well other earthquakes within a radius of about 1 to 2 miles, according to the researchers. In addition, because the process is computationally intensive, it has been limited to much smaller data sets in the past. For the present work, the researchers relied on an array of 200 powerful graphics processing units (GPUs) that worked for weeks on end to scan the catalog, detect new earthquakes, and verify their findings.

However, the findings were worth the effort, Hauksson says. "Seismicity along one fault affects faults and quakes around it, and this newly fleshedout picture of seismicity in Southern California will give us new insights into how that works," he says. The expanded earthquake catalog reveals previously undetected foreshocks that precede major earthquakes as well as the evolution of swarms of earthquakes. The richer data set will allow scientists to gain a clearer picture of how seismic events affect and move through the region, Ross says.
"The advance Zach Ross and colleagues has made fundamentally changes the way we detect earthquakes within a dense seismic network like the one Caltech operates with the USGS. Zach has opened a new window allowing us to see slightly larger and more easily millions of previously unseen identifiable earthquakes are earthquakes and this changes used as templates to illustrate our ability to characterize what an earthquake's signal what happens before and at a given location should, after large earthquakes," said in general, look like. Resolution to Recognize Armenian Genocide

U.S. Representatives Adam Schiff and Gus Bilirakis (FL-12) introduced legislation Last week to officially recognize the Armenian Genocide of 1915. The Resolution recognizes the genocide against the Armenian people by the Ottoman Empire, rejects efforts to enlist the U.S. Government in denial of genocide, and encourages about education Armenian Genocide, as well as the unprecedented relief efforts undertaken by the United States in the aftermath of the Armenian Genocide.

"Over 100 years ago, the Ottoman Empire undertook a brutal campaign of murder, rape, and displacement against the Armenian people that took the lives of 1.5 million men, women, and children in the first genocide of the 20th century," said Rep. PUSD Robotics Students take Over the Rose Bowl

Approximately 200 Pasadena Unified School District (PUSD) middle school robotics students took over the Rose Bowl Stadium's end-zone last week to compete for this year's prize in the deep-sea exploration themed robotics competition, the Pasadena Educational Foundation's Robo Rally Driven by Honda. The 9th annual competition April 12 showcased the student teams' robotic skills while combining the practical application of science and technology with the fun, intense energy of a championship-style sporting

Students were challenged to program their robots to explore newly discovered underwater ruins that are too deep and dangerous for human divers. To complete the course challenge, robots were required to autonomously scan key structures as an exploratory probe then retrieve valuable artifacts for later analysis.

"The Pasadena Educational Foundation has been building dynamic community partnerships to support our PUSD schools for almost 50 years," said PEF Executive Director Patrick Conyers. "We are thrilled to have Honda and the Rose Bowl help us drive innovation, creativity, and imagination in our schools."

As a National Historic Landmark and a California Engineering Landmark, the Rose Bowl provided a platform to teach Robo Rally students the values of teamwork and heroics that have inspired millions since the stadium first opened its gates in 1922.

"This incredible venue is rooted in a history of teamwork, leadership, risk taking and so much more," said Chief Development Officer Dedan Brozino. "It is an absolute honor to partner with Honda, the Pasadena Educational Foundation, PUSD and others to bring the Robo Rally and the students to the venue as an important tool promoting education."

EASTER AND THE MAN BEHIND IT

In Search of the Real Historical Jesus

[Nyerges is an educator, and author of such books as "Extreme Simplicity," "Enter the Forest," and "Self-Sufficient Home." You can learn more about his classes and activities at www.SchoolofSelf-Reliance.com.]

Jesus! What a man he was! He is a man who is known and worshipped by at least a third of all humanity, and around whom our system of reckoning time revolves. Amazing! Perhaps the most amazing thing about Jesus is that there is still so much debate about who he was, whathe did, how he lived, and what he believed. Hundreds of differing sects are stark testament to the fact that though Jesus might have had "one message," that message has been widely interpreted over the centuries.

Let's work through some of the most basic facts. As an historical person, he can be placed in a specific time and location. All historians concede that they do not know the birthday of Jesus, but it is widely acknowledged that the birth date is not December 25. Most scholars suggest that Jesus was born in either April or September, in 4 B.C. or 6 B.C. of our current reckoning.

"Jesus" was not his name! Really? Then why do we call him that? "Jesus" is the English rendering of Yeshua. Did he have a full name? Yes, of course, and it was not "Jesus Christ," either, which is a title, meaning Jesus the Christ, or Jesus the Annointed. Historians say that the actual name was Yeshua ben Josephus, that is, Jesus son of Joseph. Another version says it is Yeshua ben Pandirah, Jesus son of the Panther. In Indian literature, he is referred to as Yuz Asaf, and when mentioned in the Koran, he is Isa (or Issa). Diletante "historians" have suggested that "Jesus" didn't actually exist because they were unable to find "Jesus Christ" in other contemporary historical records.

WAS JESUS BLACK?

Ethnically, culturally, and religiously, he was Jewish, by and large. But occasionally, a writer will suggest that Jesus was actually black, with such evidence as the preponderance of the "Black Madonnas" found throughout Europe. The only Biblical evidence on this are the two lineages of Jesus provided, which uncharacteristically include women. Look them up yourself.

The key genealogies of Jesus listed are Luke 3: 23-31, and Matthew 1:1-17. In these lineages, we are told of at least four of the women in Jesus' genealogical line. These are Rehab, Ruth, Tamar, and Bathsheba. Rehab (also spelled Rahab) was a Canaanite. Tamar was probably a Canaanite. Bethsheba, often referred to as a Hittite, was more likely Japhethic, that is, not a descendant of Ham. (However, this is not clear). Ruth was in the line of Ham. Now, who was Ham? Who were the Canaanites and Hittites?

According to Genesis 9:19, all mankind descended from Noah's three sons: Shem, Ham, and Japheth. Ham's descendants became the black people who settled in Africa, and parts of the Arabian peninsula. His sons were Cush, whose descendants settled in Ethiopia, Mizraim, whose descendants settled in Egypt, Put, whose descendants settled in Libya, and Canaan, whose descendants settled in Palestine. The descendants of Cush were the main populace of the Cushite Empire, which extended from western Libya to Ethiopia and Nubia, all of present day Egypt, and the Arabian peninsula into the mountains of Turkey. They spoke several languages and had skin pigmentation ranging from dark black to medium brown.

It takes a bit of study to ascertain who these people were - and there were other possible African women in Jesus' lineage as well - but, in general, when we are speaking of Cushites, Canaanites, descendants of Ham, etc., we are speaking of Africans. It is entirely possible that this wasn't a big deal when the scriptures were written since Jesus' racial background was common knowledge.

So, although Jesus had some African ancestry, his physical appearance was such that he fit right in with the Jews of that era, based on several passages that indicate that Jesus not only looked like every one else of the day, but was also very average and normal looking Middle-Easterner, not sticking out at all.

Though politely referred to as "rabbi," his ideas about life, family, death, and relationships did not always mesh well with the religious elite, who viewed Jesus as innocent, but nevertheless a trouble-maker to the establishment.

THE EARLY YEARS

It is worth noting that the Persian Kings (the so-called 3 kings) who sought out the infant Jesus were engaged in very much the same search that the Tibetan priests employed when seeking the embodiment of the next Dali Lama. The Bible speak of the young Jesus talking to the Rabbis in the Temple, sharing his youthful wisdom with the elders to the surprise of his parents. Then there is no Biblical record of what he did as a teenager, and during his 20s. We don't hear from his again in the Bible until his appearance on the scene at about age 30, where he turned water into wine at a wedding feasts, and is depicted as a healer, prophet, and fisher of men.

His religious observations would have been the regular observations for Jews of the day, and almost entirely different from the observations of most Christian sects today. (The reasons for this are well-known and found in any encyclopedia on the history of the Church.)

Growing up as a Catholic, I studied Jesus, and wanted to be holy like him. I wanted to be like Jesus -- but what did that really mean? There was so much about this person that was beyond my ability to research. For example, what Holy Days would Jesus have observed? Was he an Essene? Was he a Nazarene? What did these groups believe and practice? Did he have any Buddhist influence? Who were his closest followers, the apostles? What did he actually teach his close followers, beyond what is known from his various public talks? Were his miracles and public healings actual events, or were they symbolic stories? These and other questions have always swirled around this man called Jesus.

As a student of the real and historical Jesus, here are just a few of the many books I have found

Garner Ted Armstrong of the Worldwide Church of God in Pasadena, wrote a book about the "Real Jesus," and Jesus was described as a hard-working, athletic, health-food eating powerful man, a sort of health advocate Gypsy Boots of the past who also spoke about the Kingdom within.

Holger Kersten in his "Jesus Lived in India" book presents a very different Jesus, one who is depicted on the Shroud of Turin, and one who traveled to India and studied from the Buddhists.

According to Harold Percival in his "Thinking and Destiny" book, Jesus succeeded in re-uniting his Doer and Thinker and Knower, his internal trinity, which put him in touch with his divinity, which made him, effectively, a God. Though Percival's terminology is unfamiliar to most Christians, he is less concerned about the historical details of Jesus and more concerned about what Jesus did, and became, that made him a focal point of most societies on earth over the last 2000 years. According to Percival, the virgin birth, the miracles, and the resurrection should all be studied to find the inner meanings for our own individual evolution.

Regardless of your religious background or belief, you are likely to be richly rewarded by delving deeply into the nuances of who Jesus was. When everyone's mind is upon Jesus and the Mysteries during the Easter season, I have found great value in viewing the "Jesus of Nazareth" series, and I even in such depictions as "Jesus Christ Superstar." Unlike so many who purport to follow in his path, I find a real Jesus emerging who was not dogmatic, but one who knew that only when we recognize each other's humanity do we rise up into our own divinities.

According to Holger Kersten, "Jesus did not supply theories to be ground in the mills of academia, about his path and message – he just lived his teachings! Tolerance, unprejudiced acceptations and the supply theories to be ground in the mills of academia, about his path and message – he just lived his teachings! Tolerance, unprejudiced acceptations are supply theories to be ground in the mills of academia, about his path and message – he just lived his teachings! tance of others, giving and sharing, the capacity to take upon oneself the burdens of others, in other words, unlimited love in action and service for one's fellow human beings - this is the path which Jesus showed to salvation."

OUT TO PASTOR

A Weekly Religion Column by Rev. James Snyder

A COOKIE ISN'T A COOKIE UNLESS YOU CAN SNEAK

The Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage and I enjoy one glorious connection; she loves to bake and I love to eat what she bakes. I did not marry her because of her baking skills because I did not know she had them at the time. I did know her mother was a wonderful cook and I assumed there might be some gene

If the truth were known, she loves to bake as much as I love to eat. Whenever there is a function in the church, she is always baking, especially cookies. Her cookies are the best I have ever eaten, and believe me, I have eaten a lot. So many that I have gotten into trouble several times.

transferred to her daughter.

My only response to her inquiries along this line is, "If you didn't make such delicious cookies I would not be tempted to eat them. So, it's all your fault."

I have yet to sell that line to her, but I still try. Of course, if I could sell her this I could sell her anything. So much for trying.

I am not sure which cookie she bakes that I like the most. I usually say, "The cookie I like the most is the one I'm eating at the time."

To which, she usually responds, "The trouble with that is, you never eat just one at a time."

Okay. She's got me on that one. She usually does, so it's no big deal for me.

An incident happened recently that caught me by surprise. It was leading up to a special fellowship function in our church. These are great times of fellowship, especially around the dessert table. Don't get me wrong here. I do like fellowshipping with other people, but I like it best when we fellowship around some dessert. It does not matter the dessert.

I was working on a difficult project and was not thinking about anything outside of my work zone. I spent a day at home trying to catch up on some of the things I was doing and I happened to notice on top of the refrigerator was some freshly baked cookies.

Right here I would like to say that I did my very best to resist temptation. I am not a fan of Oscar Wilde, but I do like one quote of his. "I can resist anything except temptation." When it comes to the Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage's freshly baked cookies, that describes me to an afternoon tea.

Several times as I walked by the refrigerator, I could smell those wonderful cookies. To my credit, I resisted as much as I could, which according to my wife is not quite enough. I walked by the cookies and took one. After all, I thought to myself, who's going to miss one cookie?

However, after eating that first cookie, I could not think of my work anymore and all I could think of was how delicious that cookie was. I thought to myself, "Isn't my wife one wonderful baker." Then I smiled and tried to go back to my work at hand.

It worked for maybe three minutes, but then my thoughts wandered back to those freshly baked cookies on top of the refrigerator. "What's it going to hurt," I said to myself, "if I get one more cookie?"

So, walking by the refrigerator I took one more cookie. After all, I thought to myself, if they were not so delicious, I would not want to eat them. That has to stand for something! Soon I was engulfed in my work at hand and not paying attention to anything outside that realm. I got my work done. The only thing I remember is going out into the kitchen and sneaking just one more cookie.

It was then that the Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage came home. How fast time goes. Then I heard it. "You did not eat these cookies on top of the refrigerator did you?" By the tone of her voice, I knew I was in trouble. It is not that I have not been in trouble before. This one caught me completely off guard. "Those cookies were for our fellowship this coming Sunday. What happened to them?" h

"I couldn't resist those cookies and so I had just one." "If you had just one, where did the rest go?"

At this point, to come up with an explanation that would satisfy her inquiry was well beyond my pay grade. I did not recall eating all those delicious cookies. Each cookie tasted better than the one before. I tried to explain, "Those were the best cookies in the whole wide world. The best cookies you have ever baked." She just gave me one of "those stares."

After apologizing for my misdeed, I thought of a Scripture verse along this line. "There hath no temptation taken you but such as is common to man: but God is faithful, who will not suffer you to be tempted above that ye are able; but will with the temptation also make a way to escape, that ye may oe able to bear it" (1 Corinthians 10:13).

The worst temptation is the one you think is not a temptation and one you can handle on your own. If it were not for temptations, I would not know how gracious God is in his forgiving power.

At first, Dad and I didn't see eye to eye about moving to The Kensington, but since he did, we're both thrilled
