SIERRA MADRE POLICE DEPARTMENT'S OFFICER MARK DEEM RECOGNIZED BY MOTHERS AGAINST DRUNK DRIVERS (MADD)

Each year MADD recognizes outstanding work by law enforcement officers who have made significant driving under the influence enforcement efforts in the communities they serve. These efforts help to reduce traffic fatalities in our communities.

Driving under the influence continues to be the leading cause of death and injuries on our nation's highways. MADD was started by a group of mothers that have lost loved ones due to a subject driving under the influence. They work to educate the public about the dangers of driving under the influence.

Officer Deem has worked diligently to enforce driving under the influence laws to protect our community. His efforts for an agency our size have earned recognition from MADD. We are very proud of the good work Officer Deem has done this last year to keep our community members safe.

SIERRA MADRE PLAYHOUSE BRINGS JOE RAIOLA TO TOWN

By Rebecca Wright

"When comedy is censored, free speech is in danger." Joe Raiola knows what he is talking about. The comedian served as the editor of MAD Magazine for over 30 years, and in that time, he wrote more than one controversial piece. One piece in particular caused enough of an uproar that in subsequent reprints it was omitted. Despite that, he enjoyed a successful career doing something that he loved, an opportunity that he knows not everyone gets. Eventually, though, his time at the magazine came to an end. Raiola likes to joke that "Jesus died at 33, and so did my career at MAD."

The magazine moved from NYC to Burbank, but Raiola was not ready to make the move himself because, in addition to working at MAD, he was and still is, heavily involved with Theater Within, a non-profit that is dedicated to helping cancer survivors and children who have lost parents to cancer by offering free workshops on topics such as art, meditation, and more. As part of his work at Theater Within, Raiola works on the Annual John Lennon Tribute Concert, one of the main fundraisers for Theater Within. Every year since 1981, prominent artists have come to perform and to honor the memory of John Raiola describes himself as "very fortunate" to have had the opportunities at MAD and Theater Within. He draws on personal periences as well as current events to develop his comedy, and his current show has toured for several years and has made it to 44 states. This month, in his first trip to Southern California, Raiola's show, The Joy of Censorship: Free Speech and Comedy in the Age of Political Correctness, will be coming to Sierra Madre. His show will be an evening discussing comedy in light of the First Amendment, and especially in light of the many comedians who have recently apologized for their jokes (e.g. Kathy Griffin). His work is also informed by the bold and often controversial acts and jokes made by comedians before him. As Raiola puts it, "The purpose of satire is to provide truth," and therefore he is seriously interested in when and how what comedians are allowed to say appears to change. He believes that comedians should always be aware of what they are saying, and take responsibility for their words, but that they should not "cede ground".

Raiola is fascinated by words and language, and he uses many controversial and offensive words in his act, though he clarifies that he uses them "in context". He raises the questions "What are acceptable images/words?" and "Who is the judge of what is and is not acceptable?" As he examines these questions, Raiola also looks at slurs, and who owns them. According to Raiola, "if an oppressed group does not reclaim a slur, it remains the property of the oppressor for as long as it stays in use,". He also discusses the history of MAD Magazine, complete with photographs of content that was censored, banned, or that writers were reprimanded for. His own work is included. Raiola describes his show as an "edgy, provocative evening."

The Joy of Censorship: Free Speech and Comedy in the Age of Political Correctness will be playing at the Sierra Madre Playhouse on Thursday, May 31, 2019. Tickets can be purchased online.

SCHIFF INTRODUCES CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT TO OVERTURN CITIZENS UNITED

Amendment Would Allow Reasonable Limits on Donations and Option for Public Financing for Candidates

WASHINGTON, D.C. – Today, Rep. Adam Schiff (D-CA) introduced a constitutional amendment to overturn Citizens United and increase regulation of campaign contributions and spending. In 2010, the Supreme Court's Citizens United decision struck down decades of restrictions on corporate campaign spending and allowed corporations to spend unlimited funds to run campaign advertisements.

"The Supreme Court's decision in Citizens United overturned decades of legal precedent and has enabled billions in dark money to pour into our elections," Schiff said. "Amending the Constitution is an extraordinary step, but it is the only way to safeguard our democratic process against the threat of unrestrained and anonymous spending by wealthy individuals and corporations. This amendment will restore power to everyday citizens."

The Amendment makes it clear that the Constitution does not restrict the ability of Congress or the States to propose reasonable content-neutral limitations on campaign contributions and independent expenditures to protect the integrity of our democracy. It is a concise statement of this principle, and

"Nothing in this Constitution shall be construed to forbid Congress or the states from imposing reasonable content-neutral limitations on private campaign contributions or independent election expenditures."

The Amendment also allows - but does not require - public financing of campaigns when states like Arizona choose to enact such laws. It reads:

"Nor shall this Constitution prevent Congress or the states from enacting systems of public campaign financing, including those designed to restrict the influence of private wealth by offsetting campaign spending or independent expenditures with increased public funding."

GET A ONE-RING CALL? DON'T CALL BACK.

by Michael Atleson

Acting Assistant Director, Division of Consumer & Business Education

A while back, we warned you about the "one ring" scam. That's when you get a phone call from a number you don't know, and the call stops after just one ring. The scammer is hoping you'll call back, because it's really an international toll number and will appear as a charge on your phone bill — with most of the money going to the scammer. Well, the scam is back with a vengeance, and the FCC just issued a new advisoryabout it. Read the FCC's advisory for more detail, but the advice from both agencies remains the same if you get one of these calls:

- Don't call back
- Report the robocall to the FTC at www.donotcall.gov and to the FCC at
- www.fcc.gov/complaints
- Always check your phone bill for suspicious or unusual charges

WALKING SIERRA MADRE by Deanne Davis

"You don't take a photograph, you make it." Ansel Adams

"Painting is easy when you don't know how, but very difficult when you do." Edgar Degas "Every artist was first an amateur." Ralph Waldo Emerson

You probably spent at least an hour or so last weekend at the 57^{th} Annual Sierra Madre Art Fair. At least, I hope you did! The weather was spectacular, perfect for meandering, browsing

The first thing I saw was Lucia Friedericy's booth, where the walls were filled with shadowboxes with dolls perched on their bottom edges. Everybody famous you can think of was represented: The Beatles, Jimi Hendrix, the characters from Alice in Wonderland - I especially loved the Mad Hatter. Lucia's dolls, whimsical little people that they are, are sculpted in porcelain and paper clay on a wire framing body. Their clothing is created from vintage textiles, laces and silks and I don't think I've seen anything like these before. Just charming!

Robert Marble had me with his hysterical interpretation of "When Pigs Fly" featuring deliriously happy winged porkers flying up, down, sideways and every which a way! Robert's acrylic paintings, limited edition lithographs and giclees are seen all over the world, including, I'm pretty sure, in our own Dr. Patrick Challita's office. And, in case you're wondering what a giclee is, it's a fine art digital print made on an inkjet printer! If you'd like one of Robert Marble's whimsical pieces where he defines the human predicament by creating outlandish wildlife with titles that speak to the more positive side of life, check out his website: www.robertmarble.

I fell in love again at Tony Galindo's booth where paintings of musical instruments, hibiscus flowers, palm trees and a glass of red wine superimposed over piano keys took my breath away. Tony's artwork is a process where he photographs images then combines watercolor, pen, ink, acrylic gel, resins directly onto film or watercolor paper to create what he calls lively works of art and I call fantastic! The palm trees against a background of the most intense blue were awesome. The drums, saxophone and other musical instruments were combined with colors that were beyond intense. Photomanipulation art is what his work is called. Ya gotta see it!

My son-in-law, Chuck Seitz, was especially taken by the stone sculpture of Robin M. Cohen, as was I. As Robin herself says, "I love art making in all its forms yet stone sculpture has my heart like no other. There is something about the dance of shaping these "bones of the earth" that stirs my passion. That phrase, "bones of the earth" truly describes Robin's work with stone. It has been said that the true sculptor lets the stone speak to him/her before they lift the chisel. That's Robin Cohen.

There were so many ceramic makers with beautiful and unusual work. I wanted everything that Dane Venaas was displaying, particularly some gorgeous dinnerware and vases. Cathy Reichel-Clark was showing vases of extremely unusual shapes and sizes to fit anything from one lone flower to masses of blossoms. There was jewelry of every kind, but I liked everything displayed by Barbara and Colene of Beaded Asylum. Oh, dear friends and neighbors, I could go on for about another page about all the beauty I saw at our Art Fair and, frankly, I think this was our best one ever. The Garden Club had some lovely succulents in really nice pots for Mother's Day and, if you haven't bought your mother a card, get up right now and get one!

I loved all of Ivan Adaniya's blown glass pieces and my picture of this polar bear by Ira Meyer touched me deeply. He had photographs of penguins, the Arctic, Antarctica, assorted wildlife, views from inaccessible spots around the globe and each one made me think, "How on earth did you get that shot!" You can check out Ira Meyer's website, too: www.irameyer.com

Bottom line: If you didn't go to the Art Fair this year, for pity's sake, don't miss it next year. Twohey's had a food truck there, as did the Kettle Corn and Olvera Street Tamales folks. See? A perfect event.

Happy Mother's Day!! May all you moms out there get taken out to dinner

"Sunrises & Sunflowers Speak Hope" is coming soon! KATIE Tse.....This and That CREATIVITY & MOTHER'S DAY

Happy Mother's Day! I bought my mom earrings. Not the most inspired of gifts, but like most people in this age of online shopping, my mom's hard to buy for. If she wants something, it appears in a box on her doorstep in a couple of days. But getting back to the earrings, these aren't just any earrings. These were made by my Polish friend, Krys. I'm totally shameless about plugging Krys. She's just amazing. She's been making beautiful Baltic amber jewelry for decades. She also sells pieces made by her uncle, a master at hand carving in addition to other old world techniques all but lost now. You can find Krys and her beautiful work at the La Canada farmers' market Saturday mornings. Her website is CreationsbyKrys.com. Highly recommended!

While I'm not very creative when it comes to Mother's Day,

One sticks out in my memory. I was probably in first or second grade at the time. I was definitely older than kindergarten because the only thing I vividly remember from kinder is hitting my teacher in the butt during music. (She'd bent down with her rear in my face and I was holding rhythm sticks. "When an irresistible force meets an old, immovable object...") But that's a whole other article.

Anyway, this particular Mother's Day brainchild was napkin holders. As if our families gathered around the dinner table to neatly rolled cloth napkins resting fashionably next to fine cutlery and other high-end niceties. I don't know; maybe other families did that, but we were more utilitarian.

The first thing our teacher instructed us to do was find out the color theme of our dining rooms. Uh, sure, that's something first graders can reliably determine. I think I asked my mom something real subtle like, "Hey, Mom. What color is our dining room? Miss X wants to know." Discretion at it's finest. So after we'd all discovered the color theme of our dining rooms, Miss

X cut toilet paper rolls into two inch sections and had us pick the color of contact paper that best matched our dining rooms at home. We had a choice of maybe five different patterns. I suppose contact paper was classier than tempera paint. After all, we were big first graders, and everyone knows tempera is for kindergarteners. Mom did a great job of suppressing laughter when I presented my lovely gift to her that Mother's Day. She even let me comically roll up our utilitarian one-ply double folded paper napkins and insert them into their snazzy toilet paper roll holders. Dinner seemed extra elegant that night. So, I think you can agree that I've come a long way in my gift selection since those days. True, toilet paper rolls and contact paper napkin holders beat out earrings as far as creativity is concerned. But creativity is so overrated. Happy Mother's Day!

City to Again Discuss Space Bank Property

The Pasadena city council is set Monday night to authorize the City Manager, Steve Mermell, to communicate to the Department of Toxic Substance Control a comment letter regarding the Draft Remedial Action Workplan (DRAW) for the Pasadena Gateway Mixed-Use Project located at 3200 E. Foothill Boulevard. The site was a U.S. Navy weapons research facility.

According to the city staff report, on April 8, the City Council heard public testimony regarding concerns related to the environmental analysis, adequacy of the DRAW and the proposed method and extent of cleanup. On April 9. the Mayor sent a letter to DTSC requesting an extension of the public comment period until July 30. DTSC subsequently extended the comment period but only to May 14 [Tuesday].

In the letter the city is asking for better sampling to investigate the presence of chemicals used in the design and testing of underwater weapons systems including, hexahydro-1,3,5-1,3,5-triazine (RDX) and for 2,3,6 -trinitrotolune (TNT).

The council's concerns also include, soil vapor confirmation sampling and mitigation measures to be implemented in the event soil vapor cleanup goals are not met. Other issues deal with groundwater studies and third-party oversight by an environmental consulting

The council meets at 6:30 p.m. in the Council Chamber, Pasadena City Hall 100 North Garfield Avenue, Room S249.

PUSD to Offer Free Summer Meals

The Pasadena Unified School District (PUSD) announced they will offer free breakfasts and lunches for children and youth 18 years old or younger this summer through the 2019 Summer Food Program.

Sponsored by the U.S. Department of Agriculture and PUSD's Food and Nutrition Services Department and operated by PUSD, the City of Pasadena and other organizations, the free meals will be served at schools, parks, and other sites throughout Pasadena, Altadena, and Sierra Madre. Children do not need to be enrolled in PUSD schools to receive a meal and no preregistration is required.

The USDA's Free Summer Meals program is an amazing program that ensures all children continue to receive nutritious meals when school is not in session. Parents can bring their children to one of the 27 community sites and they will be provided a free breakfast or lunch. Each school day at PUSD, we serve over 14,000 nutritious meals to students. This program provides an opportunity for PUSD students and all the children in our community to continue receiving these meals during the summer.

Participants just need to show up to receive a meal but must eat all meals at the site. For more information and a list of sites, visit www. pusd.us/foodservices or call PUSD Food and Nutrition Services at (626) 396-5852.

HIGHLAND PLACE DEBRIS BASIN TO BE REMOVED BY LA COUNTY

We're still trying to sort out all of the details related to this particular issue, and as part of our research, we're trying to determine if there was any arrangement or agreement that the City entered into with LA County regarding the structure. Furthermore, we're doing calculations regarding ongoing costs for managing the debris basin.

Staff's initial reaction to the news is that the City seriously needs to consider taking the debris basin facility over. It's become a vital part of our debris management plan here in Monrovia, and of note, according to our team, there is currently around 10' – 12' of debris behind the basin right now!

We'll be sure to continue analyzing this overall issue, and as additional information becomes available, we will be sure to pass the details along.

As everyone may recall, after the Madison Fire, LA County installed a debris basin at the top of Highland Place to control and manage mud / debris flows. The structure was built by LA County, and for the past ~5 years, LA County has managed and maintained the

This past week, an engineer from LA County contacted our Public Works team to discuss the future disposition of the debris structure. It appears that given we've hit the 5-year mark since the Madison Fire, LA County has given the City two options regarding the future of the debris structure, which are as follows:

LA County will remove the structure

LA County will convey the structure to the City, and we will be responsible for all operating and maintenance related costs moving forward

MONROVIA UNIFIED DEDICATES ALTER-NATIVE SCHOOLS' LIBRARY TO LONG-TIME VOLUNTEERS

MONROVIA - More than 50 members of the Monrovia Unified community joined together May 6 to share stories, laughter, and tears as they dedicated a library at the District's alternative schools to Bruce and Mariellen Staller - volunteers who spent more than 20 years developing and improving the library.

The dedication highlighted the duo's efforts in taking the library of Canyon Oaks High School and Mountain Park School under their wing and enhancing the schools' literacy programs.

"So many of our students have developed a love for literacy because of Bruce and Mariellen Staller," said Flint Fertig, Director of Alternative Education. "We are so thankful for the time they've given to us, the library, and our students. This library is theirs - Mariellen, who recently passed away, used her background in library science to work alongside Bruce and make the library what it is today. Bruce, who attended the event, shared the special moment with his family and friends who cheered him on as he thanked the Board of Education and school administrators. library and how honored Mariellen is feeling right now as she looks down upon us," Bruce said.

The library – which had no books available 20 years ago – is a fully functioning multi-media center that houses more than 8,000 volumes and periodicals and enriches the lives of students by promoting literacy and giving them a place to conduct research, work on assignments, and deepen their love for reading. "It is so important for our students to have this kind of a library, and Bruce and Mariellen saw that and they worked tirelessly to make this library what it is today," Board of Education President Ed Gililland said. "It is paramount that we have great literacy programs in our schools and this library supports that."

Rob Hammond, Board Vice President, noted his long history with the Stallers and thanked them for their commitment to generations of Monrovia students - past, present, and future. Also present were Board members Maritza Travanti and Selene Lockerbie.

The celebration concluded with a video put together by the schools' audiovisual program, who followed Bruce around the library for a day as he highlighted his personal history and, of course, some of his favorite books.

"Our students are enriched by the time and expertise volunteers offer so selflessly. Bruce epitomizes the spirit of volunteerism so embedded within the Monrovia community," Superintendent Katherine Thorossian said. "The job of a superintendent is made just a little easier when we have people who give as graciously as Bruce and Mariellen in her time.

ALEXIA SAIGH TAKES 1ST PLACE IN THE 2019 ARTISTIC DISCOVERY CONGRESSIONAL ART COMPETITION

Congresswoman Judy Chu recently announced Altadena resident Alexia Saigh as the first place winner of this prestigious award for young artists.

Said Chu at the presentation, "This young artist will receive a paid trip for two to Washington D.C. to attend the National Artistic Discovery unveiling ceremony. The artwork will be displayed for an entire year in the halls of our nation's capitol building, and they will also receive a $1000 scholarship.

This young artist's photo was unex-pectedly captured on a recent visit to her great aunt in New York. Seeing the tattoo on her great aunt's arm, she was fascinated by the story and history behind this elderly woman; an immigrant from Jordan who only speaks Arabic. This sense of fascination is conveyed by using a black and white color scheme that focuses attention on the tattoo. The focus on the tattoo forces the audience to ask, what does this mark mean? Given the person's age we also begin to wonder about the history of the individual. What has she gone through? Why does she have this tattoo?

Well, with the help from her dad, the artist was able to identify that tattoo was a symbol marked by the Jordanian government to identify her great aunt as a Christian in a predominantly Muslim country. Her great aunt remembers having this tattoo imprinted on her at a young age as a way for the government to track her and her religious activities.

Having grown up mainly interacting with her Greek relatives, the artist was only familiar with her Greek culture. However the conversation and photo of her great aunt opened her eyes to a whole new world and a side of her heritage that she was not aware of. It also reaffirmed her belief that marks like the one imprinted on her great aunt have no place in our world and that no government has the right to mar a woman's body.

The desire to tell stories is what drives the artist's passion in art. Her interests began at the age of three, having the opportunity to dabble with different mediums like paint, drawing, and recently, experimenting with multi-medium projects. However, her love lies with photography because it allows her to experiment with different genres while having the ability to tell human stories through the candidness of each piece. She strives to oneday work for Disney as an Imagineer so that she can combine arts with the sciences, and develop a career in the art world.'

Scott Kiloby, Reflections Of The One Life: Daily Pointers To Enlightment "What you take to be a "you" totally separate from the rest of life is really just awareness contracting or focusing on (i.e., identifying with) phenomena arising in awareness. The phenomena are the body, thoughts, beliefs, ideas, positions, opinions, emotions, sensations, experiences, states and all other temporary forms. As phenomena arise in awareness, there is identification. This identification creates a false center known as "me."

Some are false, some have truth buried inside

thing is, the less-reliable axioms usually have a kernel of truth buried inside. Here are some of the outdoor-related sayings that we hear all the time. We hear some of these so often that we tend to think they must be true. But, most of these are not true, despite the kernel of truth often buried inside. Let's separate myth from fact.

If you're lost, you can find the north if you can find the north star, which is the brightest star in the sky, right? If you find the brightest star in the sky, you've found Sirius, not the North Star. The north star is actually the 48th brightest star in the sky, and if you don't know how to find it, you should consult a star chart.

Moss always grows on the north sides of trees.

When I was first studying survival in high school, one of my teachers was Abbie Keith, who was head of the Sierra Madre Search and Rescue team at the time. He would ask us if moss grows on the north side of trees, and most of us said yes. He'd laugh and say, yes it does, but it also grows on the east side, the west side, and the south sides of trees. Moss needs shade and moisture and it will grow there the shade and moisture is greatest. Often, this is the north side of a tree, or a rock, or a barn, but not often and precise enough for this to be a good tool for navigation.

The so-called Universal Plant Test has been widely published, even in military handbooks. > People go crazy and commit more crimes during a full moon.

Well, is that an old wives tale, or an old husband's tale? We've heard it a lot. Some studies debunk this idea, saying that there is no clear correlation between the full moon and crimes, except that there is more light to commit crimes during that time.

Low barometric pressure increases the crime rate.

Barometric pressure is low when a storm is nearing, or present. Studies have shown that there is an increased feeling of restlessness and frustration, trouble concentrating, and quarrelsomeness during low barometric pressure. A study that was done of police records of major cities - including New York, Los Angeles, Chicago, and New Orleans - showed that there was an increase in violence - including suicide - when the barometric pressure fell below 30 inches. So we know there is a correspondence between violence and low barometric pressure, but no one can say for certain that the low barometric pressure caused the violence. For example, those who felt particularly frustrated about their job during these times might consider getting a different job.

Radioactive: Marie & Pierre Curie: A Tale of Love and Fallout

by Lauren Redniss

In 1891, 24-year-old Marie Sklodowska moved from Warsaw to Paris, where she found work in the laboratory of Pierre Curie, a scientist engaged in research on heat and magnetism. They fell in love. They took their honeymoon on bicycles. They expanded the periodic table, discovering two new elements with startling properties, radium and polonium. They recognized radioactivity as an atomic property, heralding the dawn of a new scientific era. They won the Nobel Prize. Newspapers mythologized the couple's romance, beginning articles on the Curies with "Once upon a time . . . " Then, in 1906, Pierre was killed in a freak accident. Marie continued their work alone. She won a second Nobel Prize in 1911, and fell in love again, this time with the married physicist Paul Langevin. Scandal ensued. Duels were fought. In the century since the Curies began their work, we've struggled with nuclear weapons proliferation, debated the role of radiation in medical treatment, and pondered nuclear energy as a solution to climate change. In Radioactive, Lauren Redniss links these contentious questions to a love story in 19th Century Paris. Radioactive draws on Redniss's original reporting in Asia, Europe and the United States, her interviews with scientists, engineers, weapons specialists, atomic bomb survivors, and Marie and Pierre Curie's own granddaughter. Whether young or old, scientific novice or expert, no one will fail to be moved by Lauren Redniss's eerie and wondrous evocation of one of history's most intriguing figures.

THE GOOD LIFE

TABLE FOR TWO by Peter Dills thechefknows@yahoo.com

HAPPY MOTHER'S DAY

The phenomenon of Mother's Day goes well back to ancient Greek times, and really only in the past 100 years have we celebrated here in the United States (in Mexico it's celebrated on Thursday May 10th). I heard on a radio commercial "don't get mom a card this year, get her something she really wants." Okay, it didn't say, "get her a bottle of wine", but for the sake of this article let's get her a bottle of wine. Here are three wines that I have enjoyed

For sparkling wine fans, I really like the Domaine Carneros - affordable and easily found in your local supermarket aisles. This wine is as close to real champagne that I ever had!! Planning a backyard BBQ for mom? This sparkler is perfect..

I see the billboards all over town, "come Stellabrate". Stella Rosa Prosecco is the perfect wine for the pre-meal toast. The wine is full of mousse (bubbles) and goes well with light appetizers such as cheese and crackers. I've lost count of how many Stella Rosa products are on the shelves, but they are all light on calories and alcohol content. The price point is about $15 so you could afford two.

Last but not least, a chardonnay. Moms love chardonnay - they can put a little ice in the glass or drink at room temperature. The Pouilly Fuisse, Louis Jardot's white wine made with chardonnay grapes, is the pick here. It's from Burgundy, France, but not bad on the wallet, and has a crispness that makes it an exceptional wine. It retails for about $25. There are white wines from the same region for a few dollars more, but hey - it's mom we are talking here. Don't be stingy! Whatever direction you take, have a great Mother's Day!

My mom just recently passed, but I will hoist this glass in her honor and for that matter to you as

FAMILY MATTERS By Marc Garlett

The Real Cost To Your Family: Not Planning For Incapacity

When it comes to estate planning, most people automatically think about taking legal steps to ensure the right people inherit their stuff when they die. And these people aren't wrong.

Indeed, putting strategies in place to protect and pass on our wealth and other assets is a fundamental part of the planning equation. However, providing for the proper distribution of our assets upon death is just one part of

And it's not even the most critical part.

Planning that's focused solely on who gets what when you die is ignoring the fact that death isn't the only thing to be prepared for. You must also consider that at some point before your eventual death, you could be incapcitated by accident or illness.

Incapacity can be a temporary event from which you eventually recover, or it can be the start of a long and costly event that ultimately ends in your death. Indeed, incapacity can drag out over many years, leaving you and your family in agonizing limbo. This uncertainty is what makes incapacity planning so incredibly important.

In fact, incapacity can be a far greater burden for your loved ones than your death. This is true not only in terms of its potentially ruinous financial costs, but also for the emotional trauma, contentious court battles, and internal conflict your family may endure if you fail to address it in your plan.

The goal of effective estate planning is to keep your family out of court and out of conflict no matter what happens. So if you only plan for your death, you're leaving your family—and yourself—extremely vulnerable to potentially tragic consequences.

Planning for incapacity requires a different mindset and different tools than planning for death. If you're incapacitated by illness or injury, you'll still be alive when these planning strategies take effect. What's more, the legal authority you grant others to manage your incapacity is only viable while you remain alive and unable to make decisions about your own welfare.

If you regain the cognitive ability to make your own decisions, for instance, the legal power you granted others is revoked. The same goes if you should eventually succumb to your condition—your death renders these powers null and void.

To this end, the first thing you should ask yourself is, "If I'm ever incapacitated and unable to care for myself, who would I want making decisions on my behalf?" Specifically, you'll be selecting the person, or persons, you want making your healthcare, financial, and legal decisions for you until you either recover or pass away.

You must name someone

The most important thing to remember is that you must choose someone. If you don't legally name someone to make these decisions during your incapacity, the court will choose someone for you. And this is where things can get extremely difficult – and costly – for your loved ones.

This potential turmoil and expense can be easily avoided through proper estate planning. An effective plan would give the individuals you've chosen immediate authority to make your medical, financial, and legal decisions, without the need for court intervention. What's more, the plan can provide clear guidance about your wishes, so there's no mistake or conflict about how these vital decisions should be made.

Determining which planning tools you should use to grant and guide this decision-making authority depends entirely on your personal circumstances. There are several options available, but choosing what's best is something you should ultimately decide after consulting with an experienced lawyer.

That said, we can tell you one planning tool that's totally worthless when it comes to your incapacity: a will. A will only goes into effect upon your death, and then it merely governs how your assets should be divided, so having a will does nothing to keep your family out of court and out of conflict in the event of your incapacity.

Don't let a bad situation become much worse You may be powerless to prevent your potential incapacity, but proper estate planning can at least give you control over how your life and assets will be managed if it does occur. Moreover, such planning can prevent your family from enduring needless trauma, conflict, and expense during this already trying time.

If you've yet to plan for incapacity, we can counsel you on the proper planning vehicles to put in place, and help you select the individuals best suited to make such critical decisions on your behalf. If you already have planning strategies in place, we can review your plan to make sure it's been properly set up, maintained, and updated. Contact us today to get started.

UNDERSTANDING MEDICARE'S ENROLLMENT PERIODS

Dear Savvy Senior:

What can you tell me about the different enrollment periods for Medicare? I'm planning to work past age 65 and understand Medicare offers Initial, Special and General periods in which I can enroll. How does this work? Medicare Illiterate

Dear Medicare:

The rules for signing up for Medicare can be quite confusing, especially if you plan to work past age 65. But it's critical to understand the ins and outs of enrolling because the consequences of missing a deadline can be costly and last a lifetime. Here's what you should know about Medicare's three different enrollment periods.

Initial Enrollment Period

At age 65, the Initial Enrollment Period is the first opportunity that most people are eligible to enroll in Medicare. If you're already claiming Social Security benefits at least 4 months before age 65, you are automatically enrolled in Medicare, with coverage starting the first day of month you turn 65. If you're not receiving Social Security benefits, it's up to you to enroll in Medicare either online at SSA. gov/Medicare, over the phone at 800-772-1213 or through your local Social Security office.

You can enroll any time during the Initial Enrollment Period, which is a seven-month period that includes the three months before, the month of, and the three months after your 65th birthday. It's best to enroll three months before your birth month to ensure your coverage starts when you turn 65.

If, however, you plan to keep working and have health coverage from your employer, or from a spouse's employer, you may want to delay Medicare Part B, which covers outpatient services, and Part D, which covers prescription drugs. But to see how your employer insurance works with Medicare.

Typically, if your employer has fewer than 20 employees, Medicare will be your primary insurer and you should enroll. But if you work for a company that has 20 or more employees, your employer's group health plan will be your primary insurer as long as you remain an active employee. If this is the case, you don't need to enroll in Part B or Part D when you turn 65 if you're satisfied with the coverage you are getting through your job. But in most cases, unless you're contributing to a Health Savings Account, you should at least signup for Medicare Part A, which is free and covers hospital services.

Special Enrollment Period

If you delay Part B and Part D past age 65, you can sign up for Medicare during the Special Enrollment Period. Once you (or your spouse) stop working and you no longer have group health coverage, you have eight months to enroll in Part B. But if you miss that deadline, you'll pay a lateenrollment penalty for the rest of your life. The penalty increases your premiums by 10 percent for each 12-month period that you don't have coverage.

The window for Part D is shorter. You must sign up for Part D within two months of losing drug coverage. If you go 63 days or more without drug coverage, you'll pay a lifetime late-enrollment penalty that equals 1 percent of the monthly base premium (about $33 in 2019) times the number of months you don't have Part D of other creditable coverage.

General Enrollment Period

If you miss either of these first two enrollment periods, you'll have to wait until the General Enrollment Period, which is January 1 through March 31 of each year, but your Part B and Part D coverfirst check with the human resources department age will not begin until July 1. And you'll be subject to late-enrollment penalties.

There is, however, no penalty for late enrollment for Part A. You can sign up anytime with coverage beginning the first day of the following month.

OUT TO PASTOR

A Weekly Religion Column by Rev. James Snyder

AND THEN IT WAS FRIDAY

so I can accomplish as much as possible.

For example, the Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage on Monday morning hands me her "honey-do-list" to complete by the end of the week. When she hands it to me, I smile and underneath that list I have concealed from her my "to-do-list."

It is not that I ignore her list... well, maybe I do. But, I don't do it on purpose... well, maybe I do.

I have a priority with my "to-do-list" and most times forget about hers.

Through the years, I have become an expert at making excuses about why her "honey-do-list" has not been fully completed by me on time. If there is an excuse to be found anywhere in the room, I have it in my pocket.

Most of the time I get away with it. I am not bragging here, although I lean slightly in that direction. But I have my own things I need to do for

If I do not write down my "to-do-list," I will never remember what I am supposed to be doing. I have a good memory, but I am saving it for when I am older and I will need more memory. Of course, by that time I will forget everything I have remembered.

When it comes to memory, my wife beats the band. She remembers everything that has ever happened. Even those things that, from my opinion, never happened.

Quite often, she starts a conversation by saying, "Do you remember when..."

Then she goes on with a story that for the life of me I cannot remember. Instead of embarrassing myself, I go along with it and tell her, "Oh, yes I remember that."

It is easier to go along than to cause any kind of friction. I have no advantage in contradicting any story that she might be telling. So far, I've gotten away with it, I'm happy to say.

That is, until once when telling a story she said, "Do you remember the name of that person?"

At the time, I did not know if it was a trick question to see if I am really paying attention or if she did not remember. I am going with the former because of all the years I have known her I cannot remember anything that she has ever forgotten.

Forgetting at times can be a blessing. If someone does something against you and hurts your feelings, the best thing to do is to move ahead and forget it.

Probably the worst area to forget anything is with your wife. It is not that I intentionally forget, it is just that I forget.

I go into a panic when she says, "Do you remember..." Because I probably have forgotten what she's talking about at the time.

The redacted Mueller report is clear about that.

Like many people, I try plan- Another problem I have is my attention span. ning and arranging my week When my wife begins a long story, it is very difficult for me to pay close attention. By the time she's into the middle of her story, I'm thinking of something on my "to-do-list."

She can tell me a story 17 times and I'm always hearing it for the very first time.

After finishing one of her stories, the friends listening, turned to me and said, "Is that what really happened?"

What am I to say? As long as they don't ask me to verify certain elements of that story, I can go ahead and say, "Yes, as best as I remember, that's how it happened."

I got in trouble one time. She was telling a story and in the middle she turned to me and said, "Honey, would you tell them the rest of the story

I cannot remember how I got out of that spot, but it was the most difficult spot I have ever been in. If I make something up, will she correct me in front of all our friends?

I'm not sure about this, but one time she did it on purpose to catch me. Not wanting to embarrass her or me in particular, I made up the rest of the story as best I could. As long as the people were laughing when I finished was all that really

It was Friday morning and my wife looked at me and said, "It's Friday. Are you ready to go?"

"Go where?" Not knowing what she was talking

You did look at the "honey-do-list" I gave you on Monday, didn't you?

With a little bit of a stutter, I assured her that I

"Then," she said rather sarcastically, "you know what we're doing today?"

I had no idea what she was talking about. Finally, out of desperation, I did look at the "honeydo-list." There in bold letters I could never have overlooked were these words, "Friday take your wife out for a special Mother's Day celebration dinner."

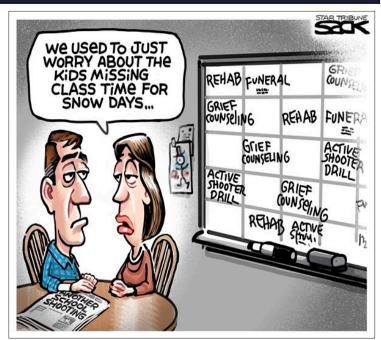

I looked at her, then looked at the list and looked back at her.

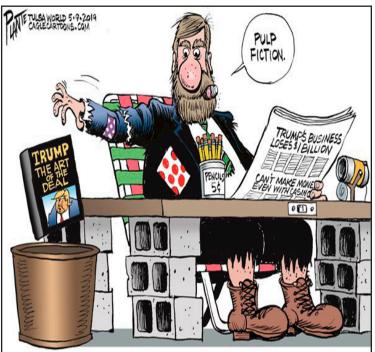

"You didn't look at that list on Monday, did you?"

I could not help but think of what Solomon said. "Whatsoever thy hand findeth to do, do it with thy might; for there is no work, nor device, nor knowledge, nor wisdom, in the grave, whither thou goest" (Ecclesiastes 9:10).

We had a wonderful lunch that Friday, a lunch I will remember for a long time.

TRUMP'S THREAT TO CONSTITUTION NOW WORSE THAN NIXON'S

How do we judge our current president's words and deeds when he says he might not abide by the 2020 election results or when he openly ignores or says he will refuse any future congressional subpoenas. What is Congress to do to carry out its constitutionally mandated duty of oversight of the Executive Branch?

The short answer is it can't. How are the three co-equal branches—Legislature, Executive, Judiciary—of the national government to be able to continue to function as a democratic republic as intended by the Founding Fathers in the Constitution? Again, the short answer is it will cease to function as a democratic republic.

Am I the only American who sees the dangerous path down which President Trump is leading the nation? It is the same path that every other would-be dictator has traveled before. Take control of the sources mass information or at least be able to influence what's being communicated on TV, radio, newspapers, magazines, by religious organizations, on the Internet and social media, and then everything else will follow:

- Establishing a new or taking over an old political party—legitimately winning election as a national leader isn't as important as making sure your followers believe you did and are willing to violently support your rule.
- With leadership of a nation, of course, comes the beginning of the elimination of your political opposition and the replacement of an independent judiciary.
- Finally, as the nation's leader, you control the military as its Commander-in-Chief and control national police, domestic and foreign intelligence services as Chief Executive.

If this all sounds scary, it's because it is. President Trump did not win the popular vote in 2016—not by a long shot. Though he did win 304 electoral votes to Clinton's 227, he lost the popular vote by 2.9 million votes! Russian interference in the election is no longer debatable.

So what can we do about a rogue president who refuses to obey the law, openly defies Congress, and most importantly, abuses his powers as Chief Executive? The U.S. Constitution only offers two remedies: 1) Vote him or her out of office in the next general election; and 2) impeachment by the House, and trial, conviction and removal from office by the Senate. But are these remedies mutually exclusive, or can they be accomplished concurrently?

More importantly, is it wise to allow Trump, and supporters in Congress any of a head start spreading Attorney General William Barr's shamelessly twisted false narrative purporting the President's "exoneration" in the Mueller report—a conclusion Barr publicly admitted to the Senate is not based on the facts presented in the Mueller report because, according to Barr himself, he hadn't read it.

Earlier this week an extraordinary happened. Monday morning a letter was published online by Medium. Signed by 400 former DOJ officials (by Wednesday the number was up to 700!), some of who go back to the Carter and Reagan Administrations, the letter, STATE-MENT BY FORMER FEDERAL PROSECUTORS, slammed AG Barr's conclusion and his resulting shamelessly twisted false narrative.

They point out that: "Each of us believes that the conduct of President Trump described in Special Counsel Robert Mueller's report would, in the case of any other person not covered by the Office of Legal Counsel policy against indicting a sitting President, result in multiple felony charges for obstruction of justice...

The letter went on to say, "The Mueller report describes several acts that satisfy all the elements for an obstruction charge: conduct that obstructed or attempted to obstruct the truth-finding process, as to which the evidence of corrupt intent and connection to pending proceeding is overwhelming...."

Speaker Pelosi, follow the lead of these honorable former federal prosecutors. Hold the President accountable. Establish a House Select Committee to impeach President Trump. Hold televised public gavel-to-gavel hearings, like the Senate Select Watergate Committee's 1973 investigation of President Richard Nixon.

Even without the President's removal from office by the Senate, impeachment hearings may be the only way finally expose Trump's many abuses of power and other impeachable offenses that Mueller was unable to properly investigate because of the restrictive mandate he had to follow as Special Counsel. More importantly, the exposure of Donald Trump's misdeeds as President, along with the almost robotic support of Republicans, may very well be the best way to help secure a Democratic victory in both the presidential and congressional elections in 2020.

I hope to be just like my mother one day. Now in her eighth decade, my ma has arrived at a she has no problem telling anyone what's on her mind. "Ma, please don't tell us any more details," my five sisters and I beg her, when she shares "way too much personal information" about her 63 years

"Worry about your own silly deck," she says, supremely confident she and my father will get the project done without help, as they've done dozens of times before. "And while you're up, get me another glass of wine!"

I can't blame her for thinking as stubbornly as she does. She's proved naysayers wrong for most of her adult life.

YOUR INVITATION TO AN EVENT AT THE KENSINGTON SIERRA MADRE

Jeannine Savedra is a painter that works mainly with oils. For the last few years she has used the outdoors to inspire her work. The local San Gabriel foothills and canyons where she grew up and currently resides is the primary inspiration for her work. She transforms these local landscapes into expressive works of texture and color. Her thick application of paint lends a sculptural quality to her work. Jeannine's unique landscape paintings brings new life and a fresh look to Southern California landscapes.

There will be a painting demonstration, as well as, wine and cheese. Come out and see some beautiful works of art and meet the artist in person!
