SIERRA MADRE POLICE OFFICERS SAVE BABY

Early Monday 5/27/19, morning at about 12:03AM, Corporal Luis Castillo and Field Training Officer (FTO)Joe Lazcano answered a call for service of a baby not breathing in the 100 block of E. Alegria Ave. When Joe arrived he found the two month old baby girl not breathing, unresponsive and she did not have a pulse. Utilizing the CPR/AED training all SMPD personnel receive, Joe was success-ful in his efforts and was able get the baby to regain consciousness and crying in a few minutes. The baby girl was evaluated by responding SMFD paramedics and taken to a local hospital for a fol-low up examination.

Officer Lazcano's commitment of handling a life and death emergency with competence, compas-sion and dedication represents the values of this police department. His leadership, courage and work ethic exemplifies what a Field Training Officer's quality traits are. Thank you FTO Joe Lazca-no, for your efforts as your hard work did not go unnoticed.

"DISCUSSION ON FUTURE OF FIRE SERVICES IN SIERRA MADRE" TOPIC OF ARCADIA TOWN COMMUNITY FORUM

The City of Arcadia is hosting a Fire Services Community Forum to discuss Sierra Madre residents' concerns, insights, and priorities regarding a potential partnership between the cities of Arcadia and Sierra Madre for fire and emergency response delivery alternatives. This free community event is being held at Arcadia Fire Station 107, located at 79 W. Orange Grove, on Wednesday, June 19, 2019 at 7:00 PM.

"This is an opportunity for Sierra Madre residents to share their needs, wants, and expectations for a potential partnership," said Arcadia Fire Chief Michael Lang. "The Arcadia Fire Department is a premier, Class One fire service. Extending our fire and emergency response services to Sierra Madre will provide enhanced fire suppression capabilities along the foothills."

The Cities of Sierra Madre and Arcadia approved a feasibility study in February to review a potential partnership.

However, since that time, the Sierra Madre Department has become eligible to Mutual Aid status with the hiring and training of additional staff. No final decision has been made by Sierra Madre City officials as of this date regarding whether or not outsourcing fire services is still a possibility.

As the lead agency, the City of Arcadia study will provide valuable information regarding the impacts and opportunities of consolidating services. For more information, please contact Arcadia City Hall at 574-5401.

she announced the opening last week of a VA healthcare clinic in Arcadia to serve the San Gabriel Valley, which has been lacking a VA facility. This clinic will be a temporary fix until the VA establishes a larger, permanent full ser-vice clinic here in the SGV in the next 3 to 5 years. She thanked the VFW for their support and advocacy over the last 7 years as she worked toward bringing these fa-cilities to the region, and that is why she has named the Post her "Non-Profit" of the year.

In addition to the honor for the Post as a whole, Congresswoman Chu presented certificates of Congressional recognition to Post members Rev. Baker, WWII tail-gunner Ken Anhalt, Bud Switzer, who served in the Korean War, Stanley Pinta who served in Vietnam, and former Post commander David Loera.

Assembly member Holden spoke next and also thanked the Post for bringing the community together each year to "...pay remembrance to those who laid their lives on the line and did not come home, but were on the battle fields in foreign lands fighting for our freedom and to preserve our freedom and to preserve democracy around the world. He thanked Congresswoman Chu for her "steadfastness and hard work to bring a very important service to our veterans in the San Gabriel Valley." He spoke of his father, former State Senator and long-time LA City Council member Nate Holden, who lied about his WWII, and a 100-year old uncle who served and how lucky he is that they are still hear today.

Commander Ohara spoke following Assembly member Holden. She referenced the famous General George Patton quote, that "it is foolish and wrong to mourn the men who died. Rather, we should thank God that such men lived," noting that "... They sacrificed everything for the noblest of causes, and it is up to you and me to carry their memory forward in an effort to repay a debt that can never truly be repaid...What we really must do to honor their sacrifice, is to live what they died for, live the America they died for, a country of freedom, equality, opportunity and unlimited promises... They gave up their todays for our tomorrows."

She then paused to remember the lone VFW member that passed away since last year's ceremony, WWII veteran Art

Following the speakers, members of the Post participated in the traditional laying of the wreaths, with Paul Puccinelli leading the crowd in "God Bless America" and performing Taps.

Following the ceremony, the Post provided a free lunch to the crowd from Bean Town.

WALKING SIERRA MADRE by Deanne Davis

"It is imperative that the sacrifices made by the fallen not fade provider and patient education, health information services, and into the ether. We believe that a veteran, a person – anyone – has two deaths, once when their breath leaves their body, and the second time is when no one is able to talk about them or say their name. That is why its important for communities to come out and honor those who paid the ultimate sacrifice. It's really getting the community around remembering those people and making sure that they are never forgotten." Rachel Charles, Acting Director of the National Memorial Cemetery of Arizona

There have been so many pictures everywhere you look this past weekend, leading up to Monday, Memorial Day, of small flags adorning graves, stretching as far into the horizon as the eye can see, as friends and family of those who gave all gather together to remember. There was one on Facebook that especially touched me of my grandchildren, Nicole, Blake and Luke Simon, at the Los Angeles National Cemetery, to visit the grave of their grandmother, Margaret Ineson, who was a Navy nurse. They were pretty small at the time the photo was taken, which made it so sweet to see.

There were families and children galore at Sierra Madre's own Memorial Day Observance at Pioneer Cemetery, which was so good to see. Rev. Thomas Baker of St. Rita's Church, during It was such a beautiful day to be there in our Pioneer Cemetery, his invocation said, "Their names may fade with the passing of generations, but never let what they have done be forgotten.

As always, good to see Congresswoman Judy Chu, who spoke with such pride about her father who served during WWII as Veteran's Health Clinic here in the San Gabriel Valley. Judy has labored for seven years to achieve this goal and she was thrilled to announce that last Monday, the Department of Veteran Affairs (VA) officially opened a Veteran's healthcare clinic in Arcadia, called the San Gabriel Valley Community Based Outpatient Clinic (CBOC).

self-care via telecommunications and digital communication technologies.), to basic laboratory services. This is the culmination, the fruition, of years of trying to achieve this goal; VA healthcare right here in the area which is home to more than 45,000 U.S. Veterans. Judy wanted to specially thank our Sierra Madre VFW Post 3208 for their donations and time spent in many meetings working as advocates, raising awareness for this health clinic. These folks were there with her every step of the way in making the VA clinic a reality.

Ms. Chu also presented Certificates of Congressional Recognition to Kenneth Anhalt WWII Veteran, Bud Switzer, Korean Conflict Veteran, Stanley Pinta, Vietnam Veteran, Dave Loera, Vietnam Veteran, and Cindy O'Hara, Post 3208 Commander. Ms. O'Hara quoted General George S. Patton, "It is foolish and wrong to mourn the men who died. Rather we should thank God that such men lived."

Assembly Member, Chris Holden, - again we are astonished by how tall he is! - spoke of his father, who lied about his age, he was only 16, and enlisted to fight in WWII.

REMEMBERING OUR FALLEN PEACE OFFICERS By Joan Schmidt

Remembering fallen peace officers is done at national, state, and local ceremonies. Peace Officers Memorial Day is May 15th; and President Trump placed a wreath on the National Monument in Washington

On state level, there have been California Peace Officer Memorial Ceremonies in Sacramento since 1977 at a beautiful bronze monument of three standing figures, an 1880's County Sheriff, a 1930's state trooper and a 1980's city policeman looking down at a life-sized figure of a woman comforting a child sitting on a bench, representing the grief-stricken families left behind.

Locally, the Sheriff's Department begins its tribute with the annual three-day Memorial Torch Relay Run totaling 339 miles and stopping at each mainland station. Also the Avalon Station has its relay run on Catalina Island.

This past May 22, Sheriff Alex Villanueva presided at the 50th Annual Los Angeles County Peace Officers Memorial. Six names were added to the wall, including Gardena Officer Toshio Hirai (EOW: 11/15/2018), Pomona Officer Gregory J. Casillas (EOW: 3/09/2018), Compton Officer Ralphs K. Reeves, Sr. (EOW 2/01/16), Long Beach Officer James R. Wilkinson (EOW 01/17/23), LASD Constable George A. Curtis (EOW 02/01/1916) and LASD Deputy Daniel A Todd (EOW 02/22/16). During the beautiful Memorial Service, the Sheriff spoke of brave fallen officers, their sacrifice, and their families left behind. The Memorial Torch from the Run was handed to the Sheriff, doves released, a beautiful wreath for each fallen officer, and the honor guard of Memorial. Six names were added to the wall, including wreath for each fallen officer, and the honor guard of officers from many agencies. Truly a fitting Memorial for these brave men, and their engraved names are on the Memorial Wall so they are never forgotten.

SIERRA MADRE PLAYHOUSE CELEBRATES ITS UPCOMING PRODUCTION OF DAMES AT SEA WITH A TIME STEP "MARATHON" ON JUNE 1

To celebrate the tap dance-filled summer musical "Dames at Sea", Sierra Madre Playhouse is holding a Time-Step Marathon from 9:00 am till 1:30 pm on Saturday, June 1, 2019. This is a participatory event about the joy of tap dancing – sharing dance steps . . . sharing dance

Outside, on the sidewalk, under the historic Sierra Madre Playhouse marquee, we will gather young and more seasoned tap dancers.

With a portable tap surface and live feed over Facebook, dancers will demonstrate their version of the time step (or talk up it if they have aged out of tapping). They will talk about their favorite dance steps and perhaps demonstrate them. We will hear about where they learned the time step, the costumes they wore and, if they have them, see pho-tos of these dancers around the time when they first learned the time step. These dancers will share/tap during scheduled 15 minutes slots filling the time from 9 am to 1:30 pm.

It is a "Marathon" and if we don't make it, i.e. signing up enough dancers to fill all the 15 minute slots, we will spotlight the stories of some of our favorite tap dancers, watching them in videos (on our ipads and phones) and talking about their dancing.

To sign up for a 15 minute tap dance slot on June first, send an email to Diane Siegel at diane.siegel@sierramadreplayhouse.org. Please send your three top choices from 9 am till 1:15 pm. We will contact you with further details and to confirm your time slot.

Event: Time Step Marathon

Where: Sierra Madre Playhouse – on the sidewalk under the marquee 87 W. Sierra Madre Boulevard, Sierra Madre, CA 91024. This is just east of Pasadena.

When: Saturday, June 1st, 2019 continuously from 9:00 am till 1:30

What: A different dancer every 15 minutes will do their version of the classic tap dance time step and talk about their tap dance memories, costumes, dance school/s, and other favorite tap steps

Watch: The dancers live in front of the Playhouse or on a live Facebook feed on the Sier-ra Madre Playhouse Facebook [page.

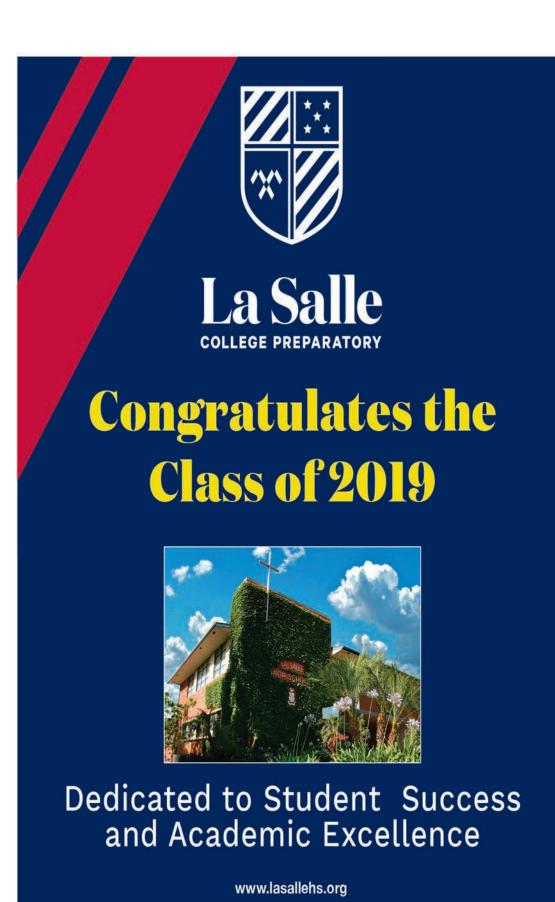

Participate: Sign up by emailing your top three desired 15 minute time slots from 9 am till 1:15 pm - to diane.siegel@sierramadreplayhouse.org . Get your confirmed time slot via return email. On Saturday June 1st, wear your tap shoes or any shoes and arrive 15 minutes before your scheduled time slot.

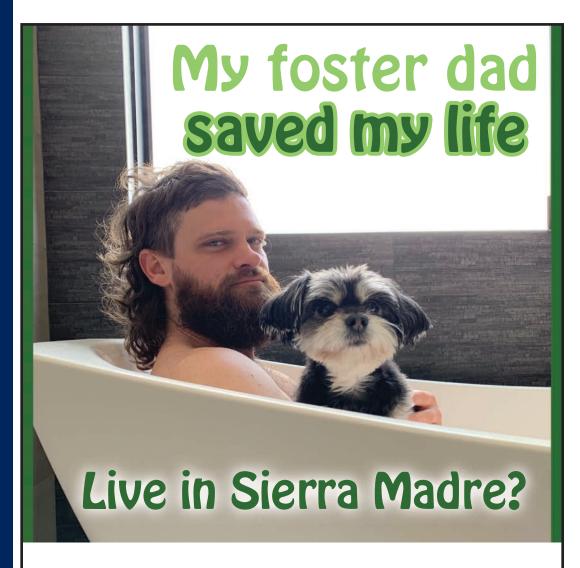

See: Sierra Madre Playhouse's summer musical Dames at Sea for tap dancing in the 1930's movie musical style. Runs June 15th (preview on June 14th) through July 21st. Blair Middle School Teacher Named 2019 PUSD Teacher of the Year

Elizabeth Najera-Bustillos, Spanish Dual Language Immersion and English Language Development teacher at Blair Middle School, has been named the 2019 Pasadena Unified School District (PUSD) Teacher of the Year and is the district's nominee for the 2019 Los Angeles County Teacher of the Year honors competition.

Najera-Bustillos was one of five Rotary Teachers of Excellence honored in May.

"Congratulations to Ms. Najera-Bustillos for this well-deserved honor," said Superintendent Brian McDonald, a former middle school teacher and principal. "She is a phenomenal teacher who cares about the success of her students. I am grateful for the dedication and professionalism of all PUSD teachers who work hard every day in their classrooms to prepare and inspire our students to reach their potential."

Since 2016, Ms. Najera-Bustillos has taught Spanish Language Arts and works with students who are learning English at Blair Middle School, an International Baccalaureate school that encourages students to develop multilingual skills and think critically in local and global contexts. In addition to International Baccalaureate, the school also has a Spanish Dual Language Immersion Program, an International Academy and a Health Careers Academy.
Najera-Bustillos joined PUSD

in 2005 as an English Language Development teacher at Pasadena High School and later was often asked to present

PHS was very difficult for her, she decided to move to Blair where she would be involved in the development and implementation of the school's Spanish Dual Immersion Program.

The child of Mexican immigrants, Najera-Bustillos was her family's translator as a young child, an experience that inspired her to become a biliteracy teacher to help students "build bridges of understanding and compassion through language." For her, it was very clear early on in her life that "there is power in being bilingual and biliterate and that living in a diverse community where people's languages and cultures are respected is a great asset as our world becomes more and more globalized."

"I am extremely fortunate to be part of the Blair community that values biliteracy, where students can create and learn together," said Ms. Najera-Bustillos. "My favorite part of teaching is that perfection is not the goal; instead, it's the journey that children take learning from their experiences and mistakes, taking risks, and becoming creative problemsolvers."

She has a bachelor's degree in Anthropology from the University of California Santa Cruz (UCSC), where she earned a master's degree in Education. Ms. Najera-Bustillos began her teaching career in the Pajaro Valley Unified School District. As a biliteracy teacher, she worked in collaboration with a group of bilingual teachers and the UCSC New Teacher Center's English Learners Institute to create and write curriculum for a program where students studied in both English and Spanish.

As the district's nominee, Najera-Bustillos will represent PÚSD in the annual Los Angeles County Office of Education (LACOE) Teacher of the Year competition, the largest of its kind in the state became the school's Language Resource teacher. At PHS, she and most prestigious honors developed and refined her contest in the U.S. for public teaching skills and as a result school teachers. If selected as L.A. MONROVIA FIRE & RESCUE TO HOST FREE HANDS-ONLY CPR TRAINING ON "SIDEWALK CPR DAY" JUNE 6

MONROVIA, CA – Monrovia Fire & Rescue will provide free hands-only CPR training on Sidewalk CPR Day, Thursday, June 6, at Library Park, from 8:30 a.m. to 1:00 p.m. Every year, communities across Southern California learn how to save a life in just five minutes with a quick lesson from local fire-fighters and medical professionals through the coordinated LA County-wide Sidewalk CPR Day pro-gram.

"Citizen CPR is rapidly growing as a way to empower bystanders to save a life when someone suffers sudden cardiac arrest," said Captain Chris Huson. "We are glad to team up with the Los Angeles County Emergency Medical Services Agency and the American Heart Association to bring Sidewalk CPR to our local communi-ty. With 70 percent of all cardiac arrests occurring at home, we need to help family and friends learn how to double or triple their loved one's chance of survival."

Learning hands-only CPR helps local emergency responders by focusing on the first few critical minutes following a cardiac arrest. Since the lungs and blood con-tain only enough oxygen to keep vital organs healthy for that amount of time, by-standers become heroes until emergency responders arrive on scene. With each chest compression using hands-only CPR, ordinary citizens can easily provide the ongoing blood flow needed to give the patient a much better chance of survival once responders arrive.

Don't be a bystander in a cardiac emergency, be a lifesaver! For more information about this upcoming training, contact Captain Chris Huson at (626) 256-8119 orchuson@ci.monrovia. ca.us.

CHU BILL TO INCREASE ACCESS TO MENTAL HEALTH CARE IN SCHOOLS

Last week, as part of Mental Health Awareness a problem early on, "said Rep. Chu. "Our Month, Representative Judy Chu (CA-27) and Senator Jon Tester (D-MT) introduced H.R. students deserve better. That is why I am proud to work with Senator Tester to introduce the 2958, the Increasing Access to Mental Health in Schools Act. This legislation would establish a Act. This legislation aims to put more qualified grant program to increase the number of mental of school counselors, social workers, and psychologists. Professionals that participate in these partnerships would be eligible for student loan forgiveness after 5 years of employment at a low income school. Rep. Chu, one of two psychologists in Congress, and Sen. Tester in both chambers of Congress." released the following statements:

"As one of only two psychologists in Congress, I know that mental healthcare is no less essential than our physical healthcare. And that's why I have worked to encourage more people to take care of their mental health. And yet, far too many mental health problems go undiagnosed and untreated because our schools lack the funding and staff needed to spot and address

Act. This legislation aims to put more qualified professionals in schools that wouldn't otherwise health professionals at low income schools by be able to support them, and also encourages supporting partnerships between institutions of more people to enter psychology and counseling higher education and local education agencies as a career by defraying some costs in exchange to support teaching, training, and employment for their service to our communities. This is a smart bill. It helps students, school districts, and the mental health services professions. All while meeting an urgent need. I'm grateful for Senator Tester's work to introduce this bill in the Senate and I hope to see it receive consideration

> "In a rural state like Montana, our schools are often the first and only resources for kids with no other access to mental health care," said Sen. Tester. "Providing schools with a way to hire more mental health care professionals will give kids the tools they need to be healthy, happy, and successful in the classroom."

Pet of the Week

Sir Jamie (A475591) celebrated Memorial Day this year by attending the La Cañada Flintridge Memorial Day parade. He went with the Pasadena Humane Society's Wiggle Waggle Waggin' volunteers and a few other dog buddies. Despite his regal demeanor, he enjoyed the festivities. He particularly liked being petted by tons of new people who thought his wrinkly Chinese Sharpei face was adorable. Sir Jamie is a 4-year-old who was found roaming around Glendale about a month ago. He's now at Pasadena Humane looking for a new home, with new trusting friends, so he can prove his loyalty.

The adoption fee for dogs is $140. All dogs are spayed or neutered, microchipped, and vaccinated before going to their new home.

New adopters will receive a complimentary health-and-wellness exam from VCA Animal Hospitals, as well as a goody bag filled with information about how to care for your pet.

View photos of adoptable pets at pasadenahumane.org. Adoption hours are 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday; 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Friday; and 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday.

Pets may not be available for adoption and cannot be held for potential adopters by phone calls or email.

any seniors fear that moving out of their home into an assisted living residence means forfeiting control of their lives. At The Kensington, nothing could be further from the truth. We believe it is our role to support our residents, not to assume complete decision-making authority. Of course, as specialists in caring for older adults, we monitor routines, behavior and mood every day. If we see changes that concern us, then we talk with residents and their families immediately. Together, we all decide about making adjustments to care and services to preserve comfort, wellness and morale.

We regard ourselves as our residents' champion, not their boss. Call or visit soon to learn about our collaborative approach to assisted living.

THRIFTY TRAVEL: HOW RETIREES CAN FIND CHEAP TRAVEL ACCOMMODATIONS

Dear Savvy Senior:

Can you recommend some good websites for finding cheaper travel accommodations? My husband and I love to travel but hotel costs eat up our budget so much that we can't afford to go as often as we'd like. We've used Airbnb with some luck but are wondering if there are other options for budget-conscious retirees.

Retired Travelers

Dear Retired:

Accommodations are typically one of the costliest travel expenses. But, if you're willing to do a little research and preplanning, there are a number of ways you can lower (or eliminate) your lodging costs and live more like a local when you travel. Here are some different options to consider and some websites that can help you locate them.

B&B Clubs

If you like staying in bed and breakfasts and have a spare bedroom yourself, check out the Evergreen Club (EvergreenClub.com) and the Affordable Travel Club (AffordableTravelClub.net).

These are B&B clubs for travelers over ages 50 or 40 that offer affordable lodging in the spare bedroom of other club members, or they may stay with you when they're on the road. You pay a modest gratuity of around $20 per night, with breakfast. And the clubs charge membership fees of $65 to $75 per year.

Lower Cost Rentals

There are literally millions of privately-owned properties in the United States and abroad that are offered as short-term rentals. This has become a very popular alternative to hotels for retirees.

Renting a fully furnished apartment or house is usually cheaper than hotel rooms of comparable quality, and they almost always offer more space, a homier feel and a kitchen, which can save you the expense eating out every meal.

Short-term rentals are offered through the individual property owners or property-management companies. Some of the best sites for finding them include Airbnb.com, HomeAway.com and FlipKey.com. These sites are free to use for travelers.

Another nifty site you should check out is The Freebird Club (FreebirdClub.com) that connects 50-plus travelers with 50-plus hosts.

Unlike Airbnb and the other previously listed lodging rental sites, Freebird users pay a $31 fee to join and to have their identities verified. They then fill out a questionnaire asking where they'd like to travel and how much interaction they'd like to have with their hosts. On the other end, hosts are not offering rental properties and a key in a drop box, but their own homes, along with conversation and companionship, for much less than the price of a hotel.

House Sitting

If you have a flexible schedule and you don't mind doing a few household chores when you travel, house sitting is another option that offers lodging for free.

How it works is you live in someone else's home while they're away for a long weekend or even a few months. And in exchange for the free accommodations, you take care of certain responsibilities such as their pets, lawn, garden, mail, etc.

To find these opportunities, try sites like Nomador.com, MindMyHouse.com, HouseCarers.com and TrustedHousesitters.com – they all charge a small membership fee.

Home Swapping

Another way to get free accommodations when you travel is by swapping homes with someone who's interested in visiting the area where you live.

To make a swap, you'll need to join an online home exchange service where you can list your home and get access to thousands of other listings. Then you simply email the owners of houses or apartments you're interested in – or they email you – and you make arrangements.

Most home exchange sites like HomeExchange.com, HomeLink.org and Intervac-HomeExchange.com charge membership fees ranging from $50 to $150.

Send your senior questions to: Savvy Senior, P.O. Box 5443, Norman, OK 73070, or visit Savvy Senior. org. Jim Miller is a contributor to the NBC Today show and author of "The Savvy Senior" book.

A Weekly Religion Column by Rev. James Snyder

WHAT IS A DAY OFF, REALLY?

I'm not one who gets excited about holidays. If up to me there would be one holiday per month, and

The Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage loves holidays, no matter what it is. For her it is a time to have a "Day Off." If anybody knows how to celebrate a day off it is her.

By January, she has all the holidays noted on her calendar and what she is going to do on those hol-idays.

I do not even want to celebrate my birthday. With all my birthdays, you would think I would get tired of celebrating them. And, I have. The birthday just reminds you are getting older. I do not need that kind of reminder; the pain in my body does that for me.

The problem with my birthday is it is two days before my wife's birthday. I am not quite sure how I planned that, but if I had to do it over again, I am not sure our birthdays would be that

In order for her to celebrate her birthday, I must celebrate my birthday. And, oh boy, is that a chal-lenge for me. After as many birthdays as I have had, I do not know what I could do differently in celebrating my next birthday. Of course, I do not have to think this through; I have someone in our residence that takes care of this.

A certain holiday was coming up and my wife said to me very gingerly, "What are we going to do on our day off?"

My response was, "Huh?"

"You know," she said, "this Thursday we are having a holiday and so it is a day off for us. So, what are we going to do?"

I knew what I wanted to do, but I was not going to express it in audible words.

"Well," I said as thoughtfully as I could, "I need to do some more work on the book I'm writing now." Then I smiled at her.

Looking at me with one of "those looks," and both hands on her hips, she said, "Absolutely not. Thursday is a day off and we are going to take the day off. End of the subject.'

When she says "End of the subject," it really means it is the end and the subject is settled.

In nervous anticipation, I was looking forward to "our day off."

I'm not quite sure what that means. For me every day I'm off my mark, so to speak. However, that is not what she was talking about.

The best days of my life are when I am working on one of my projects. The day seems to go by so quickly when I am doing what I love.

My wife recently informed me that at my age I need to start slowing down. I told her that I would slow down in my walking, but that was not what she meant.

"You work too much, you need to take time off every once in a while."

Because I do not say something, does not mean I am not thinking of something. What I wanted to ask her at the time was, "Would you please explain to me what 'once in a while' means? What day of the week is it?"

However, I kept the thought to myself and for good reasons.

According to her definition of "day off" it is doing things that you really love that you cannot do on a workday.

When I wore a younger man's suit, many things I could do would fit her category. Since I have traded the younger man's suit for a more mature man's suit, many things I cannot do even if I wanted to.

I wrestle with this "day off syndrome" that seems to occupy my wife's mind. Every time I take a day off, all I can think of is the work I could be doing. That does not make me a happy camper, to say the least.

Getting older, I have come to appreciate certain variations in life. I am not trying to live yesterday because that is past. I am trying to learn how to live today and if it were not for my wife, I would not know what that means.

My father once told me, "Son, remember this. If your wife is happy, everybody in the house is happy." At the time, I did not understand what he meant. After years of living with the wife, I dis-covered exactly what he meant.

So, after so many years of being married, I have discovered what this "Day Off" really means. I wish I would have seen this when I was younger. However, I am so glad I have finally come to terms with what it really means.

A "Day Off" to put it very simply, is a day to spend with your wife. No other agenda on my sched-ule, but what is making her happy. We spend a day together and if she is happy then the rest of the week is a melody of happiness.

I wonder if this is what Solomon was thinking of when he wrote, "She is a tree of life to them that lay hold upon her: and happy is every one that retaineth her" (Proverbs 3:18).

I have discovered a day off with my wife is the supreme recipe for a happy day.

FAMILY MATTERS By Marc Garlett

over their late father's estate by filing a lawsuit against Petty's second wife that seeks $5 million in damages. In the lawsuit, Adria Petty and Annakim Violette, claim their father's widow, Dana York Petty, mismanaged their father's estate, depriving them of their rights to determine how Petty's music should be released.

Petty died in 2017 of an accidental drug overdose at age 66. He named Dana as sole trustee of his trust, but the terms of the trust give the daughters "equal participation" in decisions about how Petty's catalog is to be used. The daughters, who are from Petty's first marriage, claim the terms should be interpreted to mean they get two votes out of three, which would give them majority

In April, Dana filed a petition in a Los Angeles court, seeking to put Petty's catalog under control of a professional manager, who would assist the three women in managing the estate's assets. Dana alleged that Adria had made it difficult to conduct business by acting abusive and erratic. Since Petty's death, two compilations of his music have been released, including "An American Treasure" in 2018 and "The Best of Everything" in 2019. Both albums reportedly involved intense conflict between Petty's widow and daughters, over "marketing, promotional, and artistic considerations." In reply to the new lawsuit, Dana's attorney, Adam Streisand, issued a statement claiming the suit is without merit and could potentially harm Petty's legacy.

Destructive disputes

The fight over Petty's music demonstrates a sad but true fact about celebrity estate planning. When famous artists leave behind extremely valuable—yet highly complex—assets like music rights, contentious court disputes often erupt among heirs, even with planning in place.

The potential for such disputes is significantly increased for blended families like Petty's. If you're in a second (or more) marriage, with children from a prior marriage, there is always a risk for conflict, as your children and spouse's interests often aren't aligned. In such cases, it's essential to plan well in advance to reduce the possibility for conflict and confusion.

Petty did the right thing by creating a trust to control his music catalog, but the lawsuit centers around the terms of his trust and how those terms divide control of his assets. While it's unclear exactly what the trust stipulates, it appears the terms giving the daughters "equal participation" with his widow in decisions over Petty's catalog are somewhat ambiguous. The daughters contend the terms amount to three equal votes, but his widow obviously disagrees.

Reduce conflict with clear terms and communication

It's critical that your trust contain clear and unambiguous terms that spell out the beneficiaries' exact rights, along with the exact rights and responsibilities of the trustee. Such precise terms help ensure all parties know exactly what you intended when setting up the trust.

What's more, you should also communicate your wishes to your loved ones while you're still alive, rather than relying on a written document that only becomes operative when you die or should you become incapacitated. Sharing your intentions and hopes for the future can go a long way in preventing disagreements over what you "really" wanted.

For the love of your family

While such conflicts frequently erupt among families of the rich and famous like Petty, they can occur over anyone's estate, regardless of its value. When planning your estate, make sure to work with an attorney who's willing and able to make an effort above and beyond simply drafting legal documents for you. That alone can dramatically reduce the chances of conflict over your estate and bring your family closer at the same time. And if you have a blended family (meaning children from a prior marriage), take your time and do things right so your family doesn't end up bitter and embattled, like Tom Petty's.

All Things By Jeff Brown

THE MYSTERY!

In The Week's office, the country's newspapers are laid out in a line each day along a counter. One day last week, the same spooky image stared out from every front page, like a cosmic eyeball, the first every "photo" of a black hole. (This supermassive black hole is some 55 million light-years from Earth and is 6.5 billion times the mass of the Sun.")It's an achievement once thought impossible, given that black hole exert such monstrous gravity that they swallow light itself. To see the unseeable, it took 200 scientists on four continents using 8 radio telescopes, synchronized so that they function like one giant radio dish the size of earth.

Even Einstein, whose theories pre-dicted black holes, initially doubted something so outlandish could exist. Now as-tronomers have captured what one looks like: a radiant orange red ring of super-heated gas swirling around an enormous void-the event horizon-where all matter and energy is sucked into no-one knows where.

The value of feats like this are not entire-ly scientific: they remind us that human beings are not always petty, small and mean, and that at our collaborative best, Homo Sapiens is capable of magnificent things. Over the last century, science has shown that our universe is a far stranger place than our everyday experience would suggest. Space itself is curved and warped by mass. Time slows down on an object the faster it travels. Electrons act as both particles and waves. Entangled particles seem to instantly know and react to what happens to their partners across vast distances. At a quantum level, there is no empty space: Particles constantly pop in and out of existence, creating an ephemeral quantum "foam."

At the other end of the scale, there are at least 2 trillion galaxies in the known universe, each containing billions of stars and probably more than a few planets where intelli-gent life has evolved and is puzzling over the same questions as we are.

The more we discover, the more is becomes clear that our certainties, whatever they may be, are built on illusions. We live in a great mystery. William Falk, Editor in chief of The Week.

E MISSING PAG Real Life Tips from LIfe's Instruction Manual

LIVING FROM A POINT OF POWER

The concept that thoughts become things is new for many people that have never stopped to ponder creation, but when we pause to consider it isn't that foreign. The clothes that adorn our bodies and chairs that support our rest were first a thought in a designer's mind. Our homes started in the mind of an architect before they graced the pages of a blueprint.

I hope that you find this as exciting as I do! Whenever we allow ourselves to dream and imagine we are tapping into our creative powers.

The next step to realization is the write that idea down. In reducing our thoughts to writing, we gain greater clarity. When we allow ourselves to dream, we ignite a fire to become something new, a bigger version of ourselves; this is especially true when we imagine accomplishing a task beyond our current expertise. A great way to build momentum is to ask yourself, "what's one step I can take that will move this idea forward?" My coaching programs help clients move from dreamer to builder, and many are surprised how quickly their goals are accomplished using my system.

However, the most crucial aspect of understanding our creative power is not with how easily and effortlessly clients change their outward life experiences, but instead, the inner peace that comes with an awareness practice.

Clients begin to move away from a "Life is happening TO me" mindset to a more harmonious "Life happens THROUGH me" mindset.

Instead of thinking things like "he makes me feel...", or "she makes me so mad, " or saying, " I have to do x, y, or z."

My happiest, most empowered clients recognize their choices in their lives and retire their victim-hood mindset. They realize that they cannot control every circumstance, but they can direct their responses and decide how they will feel about the events that occur in their lives.

Is there an area that you have been acting like a victim? What would recognizing your point of power mean to your life? Lori A. Harris is a lawyer and Life Mastery consultant. Learn more about her and her services at www.loriaharris.com

Reflections of the One Life

REFLECTIONS OF THE ONE LIFE: DAILY POINTERS TO ENLIGHTENMENT by Scott Kiloby

Reflections on the One Life is a book of daily expressions or pointers to spiritual awakening—one pointer for each day of the year. The clarity is astounding. This demystifies spiritual awakening, strips it of all fundamentalism, and presents it in a clear and easy-to-read way. This is about the timeless presence that you already are. Each pointer peels away beliefs, positions, and ideas about spirituality, includ-ing the idea that you exist as a separate self, only to reveal—in the end—that nothing is excluded. Its central message is that there is only One Life appearing in a myriad of forms. You are that One Life. This is when the distinctions between absolute and relative, form and formlessness, timelessness and time, no self and self, One and many, and all other boundaries collapse into a great and loving mys-tery that Scott calls 'This'. WE NEED THE NATIONAL POPULAR VOTE TO DECIDE WHO'S PRESIDENT

Whether you're Republican, Democrat or Independent, can we agree on one thing? Out of simple fairness, can we agree that the presidential candidate who wins the national popular vote in November – across all 50 states and the District of Columbia – should be guaranteed the presidency?

If you answered "yes", then you stand eye-to-eye with 3,125 legislators from all 50 states who have endorsed the state-based National Popular Vote Interstate Compact that would guarantee the presidency to the candidate who receives the most popular votes across all 50 states and DC – and ensure that every vote, in every state, will matter in every presidential election.

Wait - doesn't the current system already do that? Not by a long shot. Five times in our nation's history – most recently in the presidential elections of 2000 and 2016 – the popular will of the people did not prevail. The presidency was awarded to the candidate who lost the national popular vote, but still won the 270 electoral votes necessary to become president.

Outliers like these are made possible because 12 so-called "battleground" states – states with the propensity to "swing" from one party to another – command nearly 100 percent of the candidates' time, money and attention. The remaining 38 states are largely ignored because candidates see no point in campaigning in places where they are almost certain to win, or virtually certain to lose.

On the other hand, it stands to reason that if winning the White House with 270 electoral votes directly depended on winning the national popular vote, presidential candidates would be forced to pay attention to every state. Because every person's vote would count equally toward a national popular vote majority.

As momentum continues to build, it is increasingly possible that the 2020 presidential election could be the first conducted under the National Popular Vote Interstate Compact, where the winner of the most popular votes across all 50 states and the District of Columbia is guaranteed to win the White House. Fourteen states and the District of Columbia have already signed the National Popular Vote bill into law, giving the Compact 189 of the 270 electoral votes necessary to become effective.

This is how it works: The National Popular Vote Interstate Compact will go into effect when passed by states possessing enough electoral votes to elect the president – 270 out of 538. In December, when electors meet to cast their ballots for president and vice-president following a presidential election, the electoral votes of all the compacting states would be awarded in a package to the candidate who receives the most popular votes across all 50 states and DC.

And let us also be clear that the National Popular Vote Interstate Compact is constitutionally conservative, and maintains the Electoral College.

The Constitution allows states to form compacts for all kinds of reasons. And Article 2, Section 1 of the Constitution leaves the choice of how to award electoral votes to the states, stipulating: "Each state shall appoint, in such Manner as the Legislature thereof may direct, a Number of Electors ...

It is also important to note that the state-level winner-take-all method of awarding electoral votes is not part of the Constitution – nor was it debated at the 1787 Constitutional Convention or mentioned in the Federalist Papers.

Simple fairness dictates that every voter in every state must count equally in choosing the President of the United States. That is what the National Popular Vote Interstate Compact is all about, and with it, we have a very real opportunity to make 2020 the year that every state becomes a "battleground" state.

ELECTION POLITICS VS. SOLEMN OATHS

Where does say in the United States Constitution that the desire of the Speaker of the House to defeat the incumbent president and expand her party's majority, but fearful enough that beginning impeachment hearings will squander her party's majority justifies ignoring her duty to begin the impeachment process to remove President Trump from office for his many obstruction of justice and abuse of power allegations? Allegations that, if proved true, could seriously compromise the Constitution of the United States?

Is it true, that the President of the United States is not bound by the solemn oath given by the Chief Justice of the United States Supreme Court he took when he was inaugurated, January 20, 2017?.: "to support, and defend the Constitution of the United States... So help me God".

Even the young men and women serving in our nation's armed forces, putting their its nation's welfare before themselves, in harm's way, to fulfill the oath they freely took, as all Americans have, before joining the U.S. Armed Forces forces, before being trained to fight in all the other wars America has

So, I am very disappointed that President Trump chose not to commemorate our most solemn national holiday, Memorial Day, at home with the rest of the nation home by placing the traditional wreath of flowers at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier, in remembrance of all Americans who have died fighting our nation's wars. Rather, the President chose spend the holiday with North Korean's ruthless dictator and megalomaniac, President Kim Jong-un.

Of all the Americans commemorating Memorial Day this year, only Donald Trump chose to use this solemn national holiday as a "political opportunity" to exhibit one of his worst characteristics: the Trump signature pejorative political "put-down."

Once Air Force One landed in Washington Tuesday, did the President Trump "spin" the statement blaming the North Korean President for calling former Vice President Joe Biden of being laying blame on Kim Jung-un, however. It sounded too much like similar statements Trump has made about others since becoming President.

Madam Speaker: Why are you stalling to begin impeachment hearings on President Trump's because of his words and behavior since he took office. Now, even after Special Counsel Robert Mueller has spoken about his report, correcting the misrepresentation of it made two months ago by Attorney General William Barr, clearly made to protect the President, you still remain reluctant to begin impeachment hearings.

Madam Speaker, what will it take to make you to open impeachment hearings more than 20 weeks since Democrats retook the House. The Special Counsel's findings of fact have met the meaning, if anyone cares to do the research it as I have, of "High Crimes and Misdemeanors," as used in Article II, Section 4 of the U.S. Constitution

Yet, Madame Speaker, the new Democratic majority you now lead has not even begun to choose and impanel members of a Select House Impeachment Committee, schedule witnesses and negotiate live televised gavel-to-gavel coverage, as was done by the Senate when it convened the Senate Select Watergate Committee when it convened its hearings

Madam Speaker, I do hope you also understand the need for live televised gavel-to-gavel coverage of the hearings. Questioning witnesses live on television is the best way to expose the truth about Trump's wrongdoing as president. And as a result, the most important reason for his impeachment—the numerous instances of his abuse of his powers as President of the United States.

Perhaps, gross and irreverent, but it is the most expeditious way to uncover the truth underlying President Trump's lies, and to get Americans to begin grappling with magnitude of the damage he leadership his leadership has done to the nation and our alliances overseas, as well as to expose the stress his administration has put on our institutions and values watching witnesses testifying at the televised Hearings. It will be like stripping the Emperor of his clothes and standing him naked on television live in front of millions of his subjects.

Unfortunately, most members of this generation of Americans, for no fault of their own, can't be expected to read a 448 page report, especially written in legalese by a prosecutor for other prosecutors, judges, and defense attorneys.

a "low IQ Idiot." No one was buying his | MUELLER'S BIG NOTHING BURGER

There was a big media buildup and a lot of wild guessing by the pundits on FOX and CNN about what Special Counsel Robert Mueller was going to say in his public statement on Wednesday.

But in the end, after Mueller's nearly 10-minute sum-up of his two-year, $40 million investigation into Russian election interference in the 2016 election, we were left with no bombshells, no smoking guns, no surprise twists - nothing new.

We heard nothing from Mueller we didn't already know, and he took no questions from reporters.

But because the language Mueller used this week was different from the language Attorney General William Barr used when he summarized the basic conclusions of the Mueller Report Barr in April, Mueller's statement gave a fresh jolt of energy and hope to the Deranged Democrats' dream of impeaching the president.

Everyone knows that if Mueller had found even a whiff of collusion with the Russians or the slightest hint of obstruction of justice by President Trump, he would have already made that charge - in BIG CAPITAL LETTERS - on page one of his 400-plus-page report.

didn't do it Wednesday.

But that didn't stop most of the 23 Democrats running for president or the Trump Hate Media from slobbering all over Mueller's deviously worded and legally shifty statement.

The Democrats and CNN's embarrassingly unbalanced panels of Trump-hating journalists parsed every other word to "prove" that, see, Mueller thought Trump really was guilty of obstruction but he just couldn't charge him because he's a sitting

Now, thanks to what Mueller said and didn't say, the craziest Democrats in the House wanted to start impeaching the president yesterday morning. But Speaker of the House Nancy Pelosi knows nothing new was learned Wednesday that wasn't already in Mueller's report.

Pelosi may eventually be forced by her caucus to proceed with impeachment, but she knows that it would probably backfire politically on the Democrats in 2020 and that it is never going to happen anyway as long as Republicans rule the Senate.

Despite the liberal media's biased overreaction, Mueller's statement was another fizzled "blockbuster" in the "Russian Collision" fantasy that diehard Trump haters still think was real.

The issue Mueller raised that should matter most to Americans now is, What exactly did the Russians do to screw with our democracy in 2016?" and "What should we be doing to prevent them from trying to screw with our elections next fall?"

None of the Democrats running for president said anything about working on legislation to prevent Russian hackers from meddling in our elections again.

All they and their soulmates in the liberal media did was declare Mueller a great American patriot and climb on the "Impeach Trump Now" bandwagon.

Meanwhile, Vladimir Putin and his old KGB comrades in Moscow are still laughing their butts off about 2016.

They didn't spend much on Facebook ads. They didn't hack our election systems and change vote totals. And they didn't help Trump steal the White House from Hillary.

Mueller didn't do that in April and he But their meddling has succeeded in disrupting the American political system far beyond Putin's wildest dreams.

> And thanks to the sore-loser Democrats and the Trump-hating establishment media, both of which still refuse to believe Trump could have beaten Hillary without committing a crime or treason, Russia's interference is still succeeding.

> Mueller made a big deal out of Russia's meddling in the 2016 election on Wednesday and stressed in his written report how deeply involved they were.

> But you don't hear the Democrats in Congress and the liberal media talking about the importance of stopping the Russians from interfering in our elections.

> All we're hearing is the "I" word - impeachment.

> In the end, the deranged reaction to Mueller's statement by the Democrats in Congress and their soulmates in the media has made it clear -- for the hundredth time -- that they are much more interested in stopping Trump in 2020 than stopping the Russians.
