MAMA BEAR, BABY BEAR, DOG AND DOG OWNER SURVIVE ENCOUNTER WITHOUT CATASTROPHE

volving the clashing of cultures between California bear activity right now. humans, and in this case domesticated animals, concerns just about the entire Early last week, a black bear and her cub came down from the hillsides and encountered a dog who apparently did not care for the visitors in the dogs backyard, Numerous accounts say the dog was particularly interested in why the cub was in the tree and that did not sit well with Mama Bear who decided to protect her cub. In turn, the homeowner came out to save his dog, and he too was 'addressed' by Mama bear. That is the lighter version of the incident.

Both the man and his dog escaped serious injury and Mama Bear and her cub eventually were released back into the hillsides.

A wildlife officer responded to the scene and tranquilized both bears after the man identified them as the ones involved in the incident. Officers collected DNA evidence samples from the man and the sow and sent them to the CDFW Wildlife Forensics Laboratory in Sacramento for analysis. Forensics scientists compared the DNA profile of the captured adult bear to those of evidence taken from the man to conclude with a very high level of confidence that the captured bear was the one

There is a definite uptick in bear activity, which occurs every year around this time, all across the state. In most instances, we're witnessing the dispersal of young male black bears. Young bears typically spend about two years with their mother, after which the mother chases off her young male offspring in the spring to fend for themselves. The behavior itself is not unusual for the time of year.

Nature provides these youngsters with the best chance of survival as they are The incident captured the attention of turned out on their own at a time of year when food and water resources on the landscape are the most available and plentiful.

HAPPY FATHER'S DAY

"A father is neither an anchor to hold us back, nor a sail to take us there,

But a guiding light whose love shows us the way." Unknown

"The heart of a father is the masterpiece of nature." Antoine Francois Prevost

"I've said it before, but it's absolutely true: My mother gave me my drive, but my father gave me my dreams. Thanks to him I could see a future." Liza Minnelli

Father's Day is tomorrow, and if you still have a father, by all means celebrate him. It's not too late to get a card if you haven't already. But at least make a phone call to tell him you love him tomorrow.

I am fortunate to have married an exceptional man who was a fantastic father. As I grew up without one, I had no clue how this worked, but John showed me that a father is patient, he is kind, he isn't proud, doesn't dishonor the children or his wife, not selfseeking, not easily angered, keeps no record of wrongs. A good father rejoices with the truth. Always protects, always trusts, always hopes, always perseveres. That means explaining the same algebra problem for the nineteenth time without throwing the book or the child on the floor. It means going to get a daughter and bring her home from a bad situation. It means staying awake at night when someone isn't home who should be, and gently grounding them for a year or till they're 30. It means being so proud of every achievement, no matter how minor. This sounds a whole lot like that 1 Corinthians 13 in the Bible thing, doesn't it. I have frequently said, and totally mean it, that John raised all best parents possible, rejoicing in these girls' accomplishments five of us: Leah, Patti, John, Crissy and me!

Our son, the aforementioned John, is an excellent father, dealing simultaneously with adult children, a six-year old and a four-year old. He may not have the energy of younger dads, but he's ready to take his little guys on all sorts of excursions and be active in whatever they are doing, want to do, or are involved with. John's oldest daughter, Ashley, is a registered nurse and she and her husband, Trevor, are the parents of an adorable little girl. Trevor, too, is an amazing dad, taking care of Addie when Ashley is working.

My son-in-law, Patti's, husband, Dave, is an splendid father. He and Patti have raised four exceptional people: David, who lives in Germany and is a wonderful father to his little girl, Erin, and his son, Jamison; Nicole, who works at Wildlife World Zoo, Aquarium & Safari Park in Litchfield Park, AZ as one of the sea lion trainers; Blake, who has graduated from Biola and USC with Engineering degrees galore and has now gone back to school for a Master's Degree; and Luke, who is talented, charming, bright, graduated from USC a month or so ago and will surely star on Broadway one day. Watching the Tony Awards show last Sunday I had no trouble seeing Luke in the starring role in Beetlejuice! Dave is unfailingly available to his family and to his children.

My Arizona son-in-law, Chris, is the father of two little girls, Jessie who is 11 and Emily who is 8. These girls are adopted foster children, born of drug addicted mothers. These are not easy little people, but Chris and Crissy will keep on keeping on, being the Follow me on Twitter, too! https://twitter.com/@playwrightdd and the neat people they are becoming. This week they are attending not one, but two Vacation Bible Schools at our two local churches. One in the morning and one in the evening. I have to laugh about VBS and these girls... "Cheez-its loves me, this I know, for the Bible tells me so!" That's what they came home with their first year at VBS.

I don't know about you, but I have a mental image of Jesus, who loved hanging around with little kids, in addition to tax collectors and ladies of questionable virtue, laughing heartily at 'Cheez-its!" The picture is of Nicole, Jessie and Emily Easter Sunday morning.

Take a look at the guys around you who are fathers, and tell them they are God's appointed and anointed men and you appreciate them. I got to tell my Dad I loved him many times before he died, we missed that father-daughter thing, but I've seen the best at work in my family. I hope you have, too. Happy Father's Day!

As you can see below here, my new book is available and there's a copy at Amazon.com just waiting for you to order it for yourself. I talk about my own dad in there. It's a good story!

GET A ONE-RING CALL? DON'T CALL BACK.

JUNE 22, 2 P.M.

A while back, the public was warned you about the "one ring" scam. That's when you get a phone call from a number you don't know, and the call stops after just one ring. The scammer is hoping you'll call back, because it's really an international toll number and will appear as a charge on your phone bill — with most of the money going to the scammer. Well, the scam is back with a vengeance, and the FCC just issued a new advisoryabout it. Read the FCC's advisory for more detail, but the advice from both agencies remains the same if you get one of these calls:

- Don't call back
- Report the robocall to the FTC at www.donotcall.gov and to the FCC at www.fcc.gov/complaints
- Always check your phone bill for suspicious or unusual charges

AUTHOR LAUNCHES NEW BOOK AT SIERRA MADRE

Meet author Linda LaRoche

Award-winning local author Linda LaRoche unveils her third book, Echoes Amongst Us, at the Sierra Madre Public Library on Saturday, June 29 at 1:00 pm.

Echoes Amongst Us is a memoir that follows the life of a woman through love, work, betrayal, and disappointment while her biological clock is ticking. It speaks to women with creative and romantic impulses, who question love within the context of social norms.

Attractive, curious and single, Linda is on a spiritual quest to discover her life's meaning. Searching for pieces of her life's puzzle, she finds answers—primarily in her sleep. A prophetic dreamer since childhood, her dreams cause her to give up her belongings, quit her job in Hollywood and head to Berlin, then to New York. Why was she given this ability, when it is so intrusive? She goes through the eradication of everything she ever thought she was supposed to do or be. As time wears on, harrowing experiences cause her to lift the veil, and see her true identity.

LaRoche is a journalist, screenwriter, teacher, and public relations specialist.

Copies of the book will be available at the signing and on her website.

MONROVIA POLICE DEPARTMENT HONORS AWARD RECIPIENT

MONROVIA, CA – On June 13, the Monrovia Police Department held its annual Awards Ceremony. Officer Rosendo Ramos III was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal for his exceptional work and dedication to the Monrovia Police Department and the community of Monrovia.

Serving as a police officer for just over one year, Ramos has become a highly-valued employee of the department, consistently ranking as one of the most proactive officers in the Operations Division.

In addition to his on-duty work ethic, this past year, Ramos demonstrated his commitment to service by taking immediate action during two incidents while off duty. The first incident involved a motorcyclist who went down on the 210 Freeway in heavy traffic. Witnessing the incident while on the freeway, Ramos and his father stopped to divert traffic and render aid until paramedics responded. During the second incident, Ramos observed a deputy sheriff involved in a physical altercation with a suspect. Ramos, again, immediately responded professionally to assist the deputy with detaining the individual until backup units responded.

"Officer Ramos has developed an excellent reputation among his supervisors and peers. He maintains a positive attitude and is always willing to help his fellow employees at a moment's notice and without fail" said Alan SanVictores, Chief of Police. "His strong, unwavering work ethic has earned Officer Ramos the Monrovia Police Department Commendation Medal in the relatively short time he has been assigned to Patrol. This accomplishment is indicative of his steadfast and tenacious dedication to duty."

Ramos has also expressed his dedication to the community through volunteerism. In November 2018, Ramos participated in the annual Thanksgiving Food Distribution, where he helped distribute food to families in need. He also participated in the annual Special Olympics Torch Run and the Special Olympics Tip-A-Cop event, both events help to raise money for Special Olympics.

For his professionalism, commitment to service, and dedication to the Monrovia Police Department and the community he serves, Officer Rosendo Ramos III was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal and recognized as the Monrovia Police Department's 2018 Officer of the Year. ### TABLE FOR TWO by Peter Dills thechefknows@yahoo.com

HAPPY FATHER'S DAY!

Peter and Elmer Dills

It often appears that only the noblest experiences of ones youth can defy the decay of time, those memories somehow ripen to perfection in those dream filled moments of innocence and all our lives when so much is lost, they alone are brave enough to achieve a place none other is accomplished, perpetually perfect in the greatest form of love.

I would like to invite you on a single night with a man that has left this Earthy realm many years before but dwells in a devote place of my heart.

My entire life has been an eight-course meal. In my late teens I had the distinguished position of discovering myself a bagger at the local supermarket, and later with references, I was able to move to Jurgensen's Gourmet Grocery. I had long believed it all started there because at twenty-three I was pretentious about food. For most of my life I thought the love for my career developed in those markets, but I have come to realize that I was wrong. For many people in life the inspiration quickens from a famous athlete or religious figure, for others it is a musical master or the profound artist. How many times in life, if ever do we get a chance to break bread with those that inspire us? If I am allowed to claim a single prize in this life it would be this, I was gifted with the opportunity to observe, to ask, and lastly follow in the footsteps of single the person that holds that place in my life.

Many of you know my Father Elmer Dills from television and radio, where he was seen and heard for twenty-eight years in Los Angeles. I had probably been out with my Father at least five hundred times over his life but as a fine wine his wisdom only increased in its depth. There was something sublimely special on this night, a night that took us to Madeleines (since closed) in Pasadena. It seems my Dad was a regular there and I heard him repeat their praise a number of times. "Table for three, please," my father politely, asked. Being my daughter Lauren (the budding Critic) was accompanying us on this evening. Whenever I see courteous, well-behaved child; I know their parents are invariably decent people. Likewise whenever I receive a compliment, I know the honor extends to my parents. As the three of us were seated this evening there is no struggle for attention, no spectacle of ego, my father seemed the most unto me. I was struck by his courteous respect for each person in the restaurant. My Dad, the legendary restaurant critic doesn't even demand a recital of the ingredients in the dishes he ordered that evening. He doesn't push the waiter to see the sommelier, and I am brought to wonder, is this man a restaurant critic? I am waiting for a sign of pretension or at least the stipulation of a demand. But the evening all transpires as naturally as going to dinner with a group of close friends.

The waiter come to the table after the meal and asks my father, "How was the meal" and I know 99% of us when asked would give the response, "Fine, Thank You!" The restaurant critic is Solomon like in his decision, "The lamb chops were great!!!"

"And the dessert was?"

A shrugged of his shoulders said all that was needed. It was this variety of honesty and passion that made me to love the business of food. Today, I'm still found at a restaurant and I even get a crazy dream that I may one day own a restaurant. And when the soft candlelight waves in the passing of a waiter and the conversation of the restaurant is so rich it spills into my heart, my mind instinctively drifts to a place and the immortal strength of a picture and that floods my soul in a memory that can time has allowed me to touch.

To my Father above - Happy Father's Day, Elmer – I would have never traded sitting across from you for anything in this world.

Please listen to Go Country 105 FM every Sunday Morning for my show!

All Fireworks Are Illegal in Pasadena

Police and firefighters team up for special enforcement patrols

The City of Pasadena amended its municipal code last year to hold property owners and tenants responsible for permitting the possession, sale, usage or discharge of fireworks on their property. The code allows for the prosecution of fireworksrelated offenses and for the demand of payment for all costs associated with the safe disposal of confiscated fireworks. The City maintains a zero tolerance enforcement policy for fireworks and Pasadena's police and firefighters are teaming up for special fireworks enforcement patrols before, during and after the Fourth of July holiday. Violators are subject to arrest; having their vehicles impounded; and serving up to one year in jail with fines up to $50,000.

Statistics show that fireworks are among the most dangerous of all consumer products. Even hand-held sparklers, which many consider safe, are dangerous and can reach 1,200 degrees Fahrenheit, causing serious burns or fires. National Fire Protection Association statistics reveal that 90 percent of all fireworksrelated injuries are caused by so-called "safe and sane" fireworks which are illegal in Pasadena.

The City of Pasadena invites you to celebrate the Fourth of July responsibly and join us for the 93rd annual "Americafest," one of the best family-friendly celebrations and professional fireworks shows in Southern California at the Rose Bowl Stadium. For ticket and event information, please visit www.rosebowlstadium.com.

Due to the potential for fire hazards and injuries, Pasadena police and fire personnel will staff checkpoints around the stadium to search for and seize any fireworks. Parking enforcement officers will ensure that vehicles illegally parked in Pasadena's hillside areas on July 4th are impounded.

The Pasadena Fire Department will be applying Phos-Chek on Tuesday, July 2nd to brush areas around the Arroyo area. The main ingredients of this fire retardant are phosphates and fertilizers to help prevent plants from burning and to re-vegetate burned wildland areas.

Fourth of July reminders: Celebrate responsibly and always designate a driver. Stay hydrated, drink water or other nutritious fluids before becoming thirsty; limit alcohol & sugary drinks. If outdoors, remember to use sunscreen, wear a brimmed hat and seek shade, if needed. Fight the Bite, use bug spray/ repellant to protect against mosquitoes. Many areas of the City, including outdoor areas, are designated as "No Smoking" zones. Smoking anything in "No Smoking" areas is strictly prohibited. Always make sure that whatever you smoke in an official smoking area is fully extinguished before disposing in an appropriate trash container.

ARCADIA POLICE BLOTTER

For the period of Sunday, June 2nd, through Saturday, June 8th, the Police Department responded to 1,075 calls for service, of which 122 required formal investigations. The following is a summary report of the major incidents handled by the Department during this period.

Sunday, June 2:

1. Shortly before 11:54 a.m., an officer responded to a parking structure for H Mart, 1101 West Huntington Drive, regarding a vehicle burglary report. The victim discovered her vehicle was unlocked by unknown means and the suspect fled with her designer wallet and cash. No suspects were seen and no witnesses

2. At approximately 7:06 p.m., an officer noticed a small plume of smoke nearby and determined it was coming from a fire in a vacant parking lot. Arcadia Fire responded and extinguished the fire. The investigation is ongoing.

Monday, June 3:
3. Just after 12:46 p.m., officers responded to Vons, 745 West Naomi Avenue, regarding a shoplifting report. An investigation revealed two suspects stole two bottles of whiskey. The officers located one of the suspects, found him in possession of the stolen alcohol, and a consensual search revealed he was also in possession of methamphotoming. The 40 weer old male from possession of methamphetamine. The 40-year-old male from Azusa was arrested and transported to the Arcadia City Jail for booking.

4. At approximately 9:29 p.m., an officer responded to CVS Pharmacy, 188 Las Tunas Drive, regarding a domestic dispute. The officer discovered the victim's estranged husband, was following and harassing her. The harassment occurred three separate times in one day, all requiring police response. The suspect, a 42-yearold male from Temple City, was arrested and transported to the Arcadia City Jail for booking. for Stalking and transported to the Arcadia City Jail for booking.

Tuesday, June 4:

5. Around 5:34 a.m., an officer responded to Si Hai Restaurant, 713 West Duarte Road, regarding a commercial burglary report. Employees arrived at work and discovered the front glass door had been smashed and the cash register had been stolen. Surveillance footage revealed at least three suspects are responsible for the crime.

The suspects are described as males wearing white hooded sweatshirts. The investigation is ongoing.

Just before 10:14 a.m., an officer responded to StorAmerica, 5630 Peck Road, regarding a commercial burglary report. Surveillance footage revealed the suspect broke into six storage units sometime during the night of June 2nd.

The suspect is described as a white male with a thin build, wearing a black baseball hat, long sleeve plaid shirt, and shorts. The investigation is ongoing.

Wednesday, June 5:

At about 6:42 a.m., an officer responded to the 1400 block of South Baldwin Avenue regarding a stolen vehicle in the area. Upon locating the vehicle unoccupied and parked, the officers waited for the driver to return. The driver, a 29-year-old female from Chino Hills, was arrested and transported to the Arcadia City Jail for booking. A records check revealed she had one outstanding misdemeanor warrant and one felony warrant. A consensual search revealed she was in possession of a controlled substance and unlawful paraphernalia.

8. Shortly after 3:23 p.m., officers responded to a traffic collision in the 900 block of West Duarte Road. #### MONROVIA'S CITY COUNCIL ADOPTS RESOLUTION TO CALL FOR A SPECIAL ELECTION TO KEEP MONROVIA REVENUE LOCAL SALES AND USE TAX PROPOSAL ON NOVEMBER 5, 2019

Over the past few months, staff has coordinated more than a dozen outreach meetings to discuss the possibility of calling for a special election in November 2019 for our community to consider a sales tax increase. The genesis of this idea was borne from the propensity of LA County to continue gaining approval for local sales tax rate increases, which have placed Monrovia on the precipice of hitting the State maximum rate of 10.25%. Currently, we only have 0.75% of sales tax capacity remaining, and there are several potential regional sales tax increase proposals being considered.

Throughout all of our outreach efforts, the response from most of the community regarding the possibility of increasing our local sales tax rate to keep Monrovia's revenue local (and away from regional agencies, like LA County) has been generally positive. Given that feedback, on May 7, staff prepared a study session overview for City Council regarding our efforts to date, and also outlined a staff proposed spending plan should the measure be approved. The proposed spending plan was developed based on looming future fiscal threats, and to fund aspirational local priority projects that have been put on hold due to lack of funding.

The key priority funding areas include:

Fund an upgrade to the City's Community Center

Achieve a AAA Rating

Give money back to residents by lowering the monthly municipal services bill Continue to invest in capital upgrades, including parks, facilities and infrastructure

Set a fixed amount of money aside for community priorities, such as affordable housing, community based organiza-

These items were discussed in greater detail at the May 29 and June 4 Budget Study Sessions with the City Council. Additional details regarding the proposed spending plan and sales tax initiative can be found online.

Following all of the consideration regarding this matter, the City Council last Tuesday voted to adopt the requisite resolutions needed to call for a special election to allow the community to consider the Keep Monrovia Revenue Local Sales and Use Tax Proposal. The item will be considered by Monrovia voters on Tuesday, November

During the next several months, staff will continue to reach out to various community groups to gather additional feedback, and as the spending plan continues to develop, staff will continue to keep everyone apprised of any new information.

MONROVIA HIGH SCHOOL CLASS OF 2019 GRADUATES 'POISED TO CHANGE THE WORLD'

MONROVIA - Wildcat Stadium roared as administrators, teachers, and family and friends celebrated 367 Class of 2019 graduates who said goodbye to Monrovia High School during an evening commencement ceremony on June 5.

This year's commencement ceremony was dedicated in memory of senior Kelsey Meza and MHS teacher Tom Reale, who passed away this school year. Amongst the sea of graduates, an empty seat was set up next to Meza's best friends, and her diploma was presented to her family.

"Look at yourselves and look around you - 12 long years of education and I am proud to be representing this Class of 2019," valedictorian Penny Lan said. "I see in front of me such a variety of talent and limitless protentional, but don't forget where we came from. Once a Wildcat, always a Wildcat.'

The 2019 Honor Guard was made up of more than 60 Monrovia Unified teachers, coaches, and counselors who applauded and cheered. The honor guard was nominated by the Class of 2019 for the continued inspiration and support members give to students.

A Monrovia High School graduate acknowledges his friends and family in the bleachers after receiving his diploma during Monrovia High School's graduation ceremony on June 5.

"When I look at this group of graduates, I see many different stories and I see leaders," Principal Kirk Mc-Ginnis said. "These young adults are poised to change the world as we know it, and they will put a mark on humanity with both flair and purpose but - more importantly - with energy, intelligence, and a sense of service to something bigger than themselves."

The night of celebration continued as Santa Fe Computer Science Magnet School Principal Geoff Zamarripa delivered a keynote address, inspiring students to continue following their dreams and take risks.

The 2019 graduating class includes 160 students recognized with special honors, 91 Golden State Merit Diploma graduates, 51 students who earned the State of California Seal of Biliteracy, 59 members of the ninth graduating class of the Math and Science Academy, and 14 members of the second graduating class of the Humanities Academy.

"It is my honor to receive and accept this graduation class of Monrovia High School," Board President Ed Gililland said. "We know that you have done the hard work to acquire the knowledge and the life skills to be successful wherever your next steps take you."

Ending the night, graduates walked on stage and were congratulated by MHS administrators, the Board of Education, and Superintendent Katherine Thorossian.

"Having hope and a plan will lead you to the most unexpected and remarkable places," Thorossian said. Enjoy the journey and continue to give your family and friends reasons to be proud, celebrate, and" take pride in you. Congratulations Wildcats."

Students turned their tassels from right to left, threw their caps in the air, and hugged each other as McGinnis acknowledged them as the new graduating class of MHS.

CAT OF THE WEEK

Katnip News!

Here's a sweet and beautiful senior, age 12. Her name is senior, age 12. Her name is DIVA! Yes, this gorgeous girl is a diva, but in a good way. She's very friendly with humans, and loves to be petted & cuddled, but she would prefer to be your and only kitty! She had one and only kitty! She had a home and was well loved, but, sadly, her owner passed away, leaving Diva without a home. This is a sad situation for any cat, but especially for an older one. Diva has a good many years ahead, and she'd love to live them in the comfort of a loving, forever home. She is now residing at Whiskers to Tails Cat Hospital in Pasadena, where you can call to make an appointment to meet this sweetie. Call 626-795-

Pet of the Week

This Mom needs a break! Of course, ALL moms do but this sweet girl really deserves one soon. This kitty is a year old and ready to hand in her "Mama" cat name tag. As a mother of three, she's proud her kittens are all grown up and is ready for some "me time." She's excited to soon be footloose and fancy free, combating empty toilet paper rolls, playing hide and pounce in grocery bags and stealthily assailing treacherous shoelaces! Mom is ready and waiting for a new family, fun adventures and a second chance at kittenhood.

KATIE Tse....This and That

"END GAME"

So I finally watched "End Game" a couple weeks ago. Surely you've heard of it. For those of you who haven't, "End Game" is the third (?) movie in a series about the Marvel comics Avengers characters. That's my understanding of it,

If you haven't already guessed by now, it wasn't my idea to go watch it at the theater. I love movies, but I'm very particular about them. I was raised without a television. (That in itself is the topic of a whole other article. One I've already written.) So, growing up without a TV, my family and I watched a lot of old movies. This resulted in me becoming the closet old person that I am today. But I'm totally over any shame or self consciousness by this point. I'm an out-of-the-closet closet old person. If you're going to be a closet old person, you might as well be proud of it, I always say.

So, back to "End Game." I saw the second movie in the trilogy. I think that's the one I saw anyway. We rented it, which was a heck of a lot more convenient than watching it in the theater. It was a real tear jerker and nearly half the good guys died in the end. I think I was the only one who didn't cry. Don't get me wrong, it's a pity they all "died." But since this is Comic Book Land, people never really "die." You see, the villain had the infinity stones, a couple of which control time and "reality," whatever that means... So you know they're going to cash in on that and resurrect everyone in the next movie. I know, I'm so cynical.

I work at a school, and after "End Game" came out I found it amusing to listen to my students' different perspectives as to how the super villain was ultimately defeated. If I saw ten different kids I got ten different responses as to how the good guys beat the bad guy.

One particularly fun interaction happened when a fellow middle school teacher asked me to briefly watch her class while she went to get her keys. A line of boys was leaning against a rail discussing the finer points of "End Game." "So how, exactly, does Thanos (the villain) die?" I asked them. Not really because I care, but just to make conversation. "I've heard a trillion different theories." Which was, in fact, the case.

One of the boys jokingly told me that Ant Man crawled up one of Thanos' body cavities and deposited an explosive. Another told me that they simply served Thanos the supreme nachos from Taco Bell, and he exploded.

I laughed and agreed that those were all popular memes circulating on social media. Not that I'm into social media, but I'm definitely into memes! Don't know how we all got by so long without

"Well, my husband wants to see this movie, that's why I ask," I said. They all assured me it was great and that I'd have a fabulous time. "But it's THREE HOURS!" I told them. "I'm old! When you get to be my age, you have to seriously consider how you spend the precious time left to you. You can't just go splashing it around on movies you're not totally committed to. None of my students seemed to grasp this concept. Understandable.

So, now that I've seen "End Game" and those three hours of my life are forever gone, I must say it had its moments. There were funny scenes, and I always like the "Guardians of the Galaxy" crowd because their segments play old music (circa Howie's Ranch Market, 2001).

Near the end there was a big showdown between the good guys and bad guys. (The good guys who died in the last movie got resurrected. Big surprise.) What I thought was hilarious was that there seemed to be just random super heroes created for the sole purpose of showing up in this last battle. There was a girl on a pegasus and another one who was all firey. Okay... I was waiting to see if they'd have a super hero whose magic power was Cheese Wiz, but I was disappointed.

I must say though that I truly liked the ending of the movie. Spoiler alert! If you haven't seen it, stop reading now. Captain America, who I guess was around during the WW II era, got time traveled into the present day and had to leave his girlfriend behind in the 1940's. He kept her photo in a locket and they showed it periodically in these movies.

Very long story a bit shorter, he got the opportunity to go back in time on a separate mission and ended up staying there in order to reunite with his lost love. Very touching. I told my dad about it (he's not going to watch the movie, so no spoiler alerts necessary). He laughed and said that was straight out of an old Twilight Zone episode. As I continued describing the scene he kept saying, "Yes, yes. That's exactly how it was!"

Oh well, even though "End Game" wasn't entirely original, it still had its points. But I'll never get those three hours back. They're gone forever now...

any seniors fear that moving out of their home into an assisted living residence means forfeiting control of their lives. At The Kensington, nothing could be further from the truth. We believe it is our role to support our residents, not to assume complete decision-making authority. Of course, as specialists in caring for older adults, we monitor routines, behavior and mood every day. If we see changes that concern us, then we talk with residents and their families immediately. Together, we all decide about making adjustments to care and services to preserve comfort, wellness and morale.

We regard ourselves as our residents' champion, not their boss. Call or visit soon to learn about our collaborative approach to assisted living.

HOW TO CHOOSE AND USE A HOME BLOOD PRESSURE MONITOR

Dear Savvy Senior:

I just found out I have stage 1 hypertension and my doctor recommended I get a home blood pressure monitor to keep an eye on it. Can you offer me any tips on choosing and using one? Hypertensive Helen

Dear Helen:

It's a smart idea! Everyone with elevated or high blood pressure - stage 1 (or 130/80) and higher - should consider getting a home blood pressure monitor. Home monitoring can help you keep tabs on your blood pressure in a comfortable setting. Plus, if you're taking medication it will make certain it's working, and alert you to a health problem if it arises.

Home Monitors

The best type of home blood pressure monitors to purchase are electric/battery powered automatic arm monitors, which are more reliable than wrist or fingertip monitors. With an automatic arm monitor, you simply wrap the cuff around your bicep and with the push of one button the cuff inflates and deflates automatically giving you your blood pressure reading on the display window

Many monitors today also come with additional features like irregular heartbeat detection; a risk category indicator that tells you whether your blood pressure is in the high range; a data-averaging function that allows you to take multiple readings and get an overall average; multiple user memory that allows two or more users to save their readings; and downloadable memory that lets you transmit your data to your computer or smartphone.

You can find these monitors at pharmacies, medical supply stores or online, and you don't need a prescription to buy one. Prices typically range between $40 and $100.

In most cases, original Medicare will not cover a home blood pressure monitor, but if you have a Medicare Advantage plan or a private health insurance policy it's worth checking into, because some plans may provide coverage.

Some of the best automatic arm monitors as recommended by Consumer Reports are the Omron 10 Series BP786N ($75); Rite Aid Deluxe Automatic ($60); Omron Evolv BP7000 ($70); and A&D Medical UA767F ($45).

How to Measure

After you buy a monitor, it's a good idea to take it to your doctor's office so they can check its accuracy and make sure you're using it properly. Here are some additional steps to follow to ensure you get accurate readings at home.

Relax: Don't exercise, smoke or drink caffeinated drinks or alcohol for at least 30 minutes before measuring. Sit quietly for at least five minutes before you take a measurement and remain quiet during the test.

Sit correctly: Sit with your back straight and supported (on a dining chair, rather than a sofa). Your feet should be flat on the floor and your legs should not be crossed. Your arm should be supported on a flat surface (such as a table) with the upper arm at heart level. Make sure the middle of the cuff is placed directly above the bend of the elbow. Check your monitor's instructions for an

Put the cuff directly on your bare skin: Putting it over clothes can raise your systolic (upper)

Measure at the same time every day: It's important to take the readings at the same time each day, such as morning and evening. It doesn't matter whether you do it before or after taking medication. Just be consistent.

Go to the bathroom: A full bladder can rise your systolic pressure by 10 to 15 mmHg. Take multiple readings and record the results: Each time you measure, take two or three readings one minute apart and record the results by writing them down, or using an online tracker

THE WORLD AROUND US

OUT TO PASTOR

A Weekly Religion Column by Rev. James Snyder

ONE MAN'S JOKE IS ANOTHER MAN'S DISCOUNT

The Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage and I were dining out at a very nice restaurant. We had been on the road for two days and were weary of travel. At least, I was. Nothing I hate more on a vacation than travel.

But this time it was not so bad because my wife was doing all the driving. She's an excellent driver because she had the world's best teacher. I admit that I was her teacher.

We were seated and began looking at the menu. Then my wife said, "You don't take very many things seriously, do you?"

We both laughed, but I knew she was right. Life is too short to be serious about everything. I do not want to come to the last of my days and find I have 100 giggles left over. I want to giggle all the way to the end.

The waitress came, graciously took our order and then brought back the bread for us to be-

I picked up the knife to cut some of the bread and I dropped it on my right forefinger. There was a little cut there and so I squeezed it to get as much blood out as I possibly could.

My wife looked at me shaking her head and said, "What in the world are you doing?" At the time I had no idea what I was doing, I was just doing.

Then I saw the waitress heading for our table. Every once in a while I have a thought rattling around in my head. And so when she got to the table I said, "I cut myself and it hurts so much." She shook her head and said, "Your finger's okay, I saw you using it as I was coming to your table."

"But look at the blood," I complained, "can I get a discount?"

Still shaking her head, she walked away from the table.

I think my wife thought I was just going to let it go, but when you have a good thing going, why not keep it going. I was going to play this to the very end. My philosophy is when a bad thing happens, try to find something good out of it. I got my handkerchief out of my back pocket, made a little sling for my finger and attached it to my shirt. There I was with my finger in that little sling as though I had hurt it very badly. As the waitress came to our table again she stopped, looked at my finger in the sling and burst out laughing. I said in such a dreary voice, "Does this qualify for a discount?"

I sat there with my bleeding finger in the little sling and the customers around me were laughing as they watched. Their laughter was worth what I was doing.

Was there any pain in my finger? Not at all. But ship.com.

I did have a drop of blood. That alone should count for something.

My wife looked at me, shook her head and said, "I can't take you anywhere."

I would not give up on my pursuit of a discount. After all, life is full of discounts if only you can find them. Believe me, I look for them. 'Don't you know people are watching you?" My wife said as quietly as possible.

I snickered a smile in her direction and continued my "woe is me" attitude.

She knew I was not taking this seriously and she knew that I was going to milk this for everything I could get.

Eventually the waitress came back with our ticket and said, "When my manager heard your story he broke down laughing. Nobody has ever tried this in this restaurant before."

I smiled; I like to hear things like that. Then she said something that really surprised me. "The manager said that I could give you a 10% discount for your pain and suffering in our She handed me the ticket and there it was in black-and-white. "10% discount for pain and suffering." Several of the customers around me clapped and laughed at my success. Nothing is more important to me than making people laugh. Too much gloom and doom in our world today. Somebody needs to step up and turn on the laughter machine. I took a picture of that ticket to make sure I would not forget that sometimes one person's joke can equal a good discount. As we began driving after lunch, both of us chuckled for quite a while.

I said to my wife, "Who in the world would have thought that would work?"

You never know what's going to work until you try it. If it does not work, okay, move on to the next joke.

People take things so seriously these days. Then there are those people who laugh at the wrong things. I need a balance in my life and I know that laughter is like medicine to the soul. It just depends what I am laughing at or who. One of my favorite Bible passages is found in the book of Proverbs. Solomon wrote the Proverbs and is known as the wisest man that ever lived. He wrote, "A merry heart maketh a cheerful countenance: but by sorrow of the heart the spirit is broken" (Proverbs 15:13).

I have a responsibility to help stir up and give people a merry heart.

FAMILY MATTERS By Marc Garlett

AVOID ANOTHER COMMON CAUSES FOR DISPUTE OVER YOUR ESTATE PLAN

one part of your family over another.

In the first part Some of the leading reasons for such unhappiness of this series, include having a plan that benefits some children more discussed than others, as well as when your plan benefits friends, one of the most unmarried domestic partners, and/or other individuals frequent causes instead of, or in addition to, your family. Conflict is also for dispute over likely when you name a third-party trustee to manage your estate plan. Here, we'll your an adult beneficiary's inheritance because he or she is likely to be negatively affected by the sudden windfall of look at another leading cause for dispute and

In these cases, it's vital to make sure your plan is properly created and maintained to ensure these individuals will not have any legal ground to contest your will or trust. One way you can do this is to include clear language that you are making the choices laid out in your plan of your own free will, so no one will be able to challenge your wishes by claiming your incapacity or duress.

Beyond having a sound plan in place, it's also crucial that you clearly communicate your intentions to everyone affected by your will or trust while you're still alive, rather than having them learn about it when you're no longer around. Indeed, we often recommend holding a family meeting (which we can help facilitate) to go over everything with all impacted parties.

Outside of contests originated by disgruntled loved ones, the potential for your will or trust to cause dispute is significantly increased if you have a blended family. If you are in a second (or more) marriage, with children from a prior marriage, there's an inherent risk of dispute because your children and spouse often have conflicting interests.

To reduce the likelihood of dispute, it's crucial that your plan contain clear and unambiguous terms spelling out the beneficiaries' exact rights, along with the rights and responsibilities of executors and/or trustees. Such precise terms help ensure all parties know exactly what you

If you have a blended family, it's also essential that you meet with all affected parties while you're still alive (and of sound mind) to clearly explain your wishes in person. Sharing your intentions and hopes for the future with your spouse and children is key to avoiding disagreements over your true wishes for them.

Prevent disputes before they happen

The best way to deal with estate planning disputes is to do everything possible to make sure they never occur in the first place. This means working with a trusted attorney to put planning strategies in place aimed at anticipating and avoiding common sources of conflict. Moreover, it means constantly reviewing and updating your plan to keep pace with your changing circumstances and family dynamics.

following legal grounds:

*The document was improperly executed (signed, witnessed, and/or notarized) as required by state law. * You did not have the necessary mental capacity at the time you created the document to understand what you *Someone unduly influenced or coerced you into creating or changing the document. *The document was procured by fraud.

Contesting the validity of wills and trusts
The validity of your will and/or trust can be contested in court for a few different reasons. If such a contest is successful, the court declares your will or trust invalid, which effectively means the document(s) never existed in the first place. Obviously, this would likely be disastrous for everyone involved, especially your intended beneficiaries.

However, just because someone disagrees with what he or she received in your will or trust doesn't mean that person can contest it. Whether or not the individual agrees with the terms of your plan is irrelevant; it is your plan after all. Rather, he or she must prove that your plan is invalid

(and should be thrown out) based on one or more of the

Furthermore, only those individuals with "legal standing" can contest your will or trust. Just because someone was intimately involved in your life, even if they're a blood relative, doesn't automatically mean they can legally contest your plan. Those with the potential for legal standing generally fall into two categories: 1) Family members who would inherit, or inherit more, under state law if you never created the document. 2) Beneficiaries (family, friends, and charities) named or given a larger bequest in a previous version of the document. Solution: There are times when family members might contest your will and/or trust over legitimate concerns, such as if they believe you were tricked or coerced into changing your plan by an unscrupulous caregiver.

However, that's not what I'm addressing here.

Here, we're looking at—and seeking to prevent—contests which are attempts by disgruntled family members and/ or would-be beneficiaries seeking to improve the benefit they received through your plan. We're also seeking to prevent contests that are a result of disputes between members of blended families, particularly those that arise between spouses and children from a previous

First off, working with an experienced lawyer is of paramount importance if you have one or more family members who are unhappy—or who may be unhappy with how they are treated in your plan. This need is especially critical if you're seeking to disinherit or favor

MY REMARKABLY 'UNREMARKABLE' FATHER

OPINION

My dad turns 86 next month. He never thought he'd live so long - or see as many Father's Days as he has - because his parents both died far too young.

A stroke claimed his mother when she was 69 - the same night Pittsburgh Pirates great Roberto Clemente's hurricane-relief plane went missing. It was the first time I'd ever heard my father sob.

My dad's father was only 34 when he died in 1937. My father, then just 3, lost half of his universe. His dad had a great job as an accountant for the Mellon family. His early death greatly altered my father's future.

My dad's mother had to work full-time to make ends meet, leaving him to fend for himself on city streets. Often unsupervised, he got into some trouble - once, a stone he set on the tracks nearly derailed a trolley car - but sports saved him.

His high school football coach shaped him into a championship running back while serving as the father figure he ached for. And then, after a baseball game he'd played, my father met my mother. When their eyes met on that afternoon 68 years ago, it was lights out for him.

Their 1950s courtship was not unlike those in the 1970s sitcom "Happy Days." When football scholarship offers rolled in, my father couldn't bear the thought of four long years away from my mother.

Not even Chuck Noll, then captain of the University of Dayton football team who'd coach the Pittsburgh Steelers to four Super Bowl wins - could persuade my dad to leave her behind.

My dad never desired great fortune or fame. He didn't need to be a corporate executive or public figure. All he wanted was to be with my mother, start a family with her and build a life.

He worked hard for Bell Telephone for nearly 40 years. He and my mother would be blessed with six children, 17 grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren and counting! - amid the many ups and downs that a long marriage and a large, extended family bring.

He'd tell you his life is unremarkable - that lots of men made the choices he made. But I disagree.

Never a man big on words, his actions always have spoken loudly.

He worked long hours to support us, but never kept more than $5 a week for himself - to buy a couple of cups of coffee.

He made clear his devotion to our mother, and to us. He and my mother gave us a deep sense of security that he never had as a child.

His five daughters all married men with the same sort of character and integrity that still guide his existence, and their children have embraced these important traits, too.

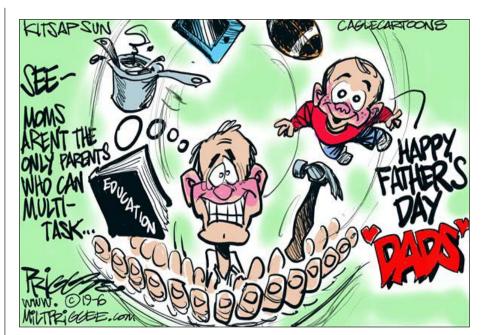

My dad still pays his bills and his taxes on time. He never took a loan he didn't repay. He coached baseball and served his church.

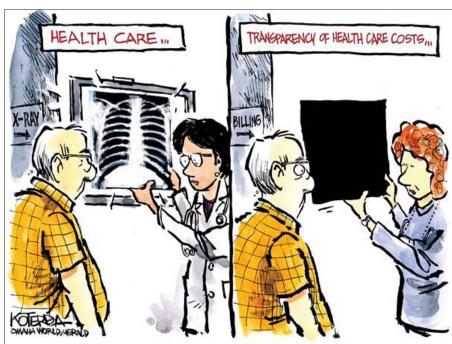

And all along, he desired only his family's love and well-being - and a few icecold Pabst Blue Ribbons - as rewards.

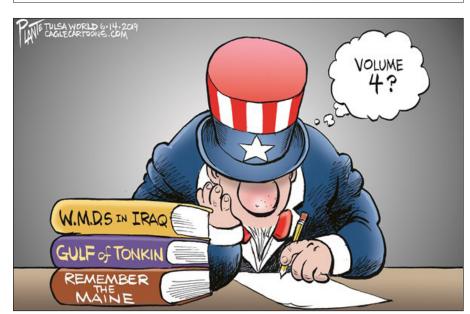

Fathers like my father make magnificent contributions to their families and our world. Great civilizations are built on their shoulders.

Yet they see their selfless support, guidance and nurturing of their families as "unremarkable" - which makes them all the more extraordinary.

That's why, this Father's Day, I want my father to know just how remarkably "unremarkable" he is.

the famed crusty commentator, said one century ago: "A politician is an animal which can sit on a fence and yet keep both ears on the ground."

I thought of that quip the other day when former Vice President Joe Biden magically declared that he supports federal Medicaid funding for poor women seeking abortions. Biden had staunchly opposed such funding for decades - and had restated his opposition as recently as last Wednesday. But then, on Thursday, he suddenly announced his support, because, in his words, "circumstances had changed." You bet they had.

Biden is a front-running candidate for president, and even though polls show him beating Donald Trump by margins that exceed those of his Democratic rivals, he still needs to hose down liberals who think he's too much of an old-school moderate. Most urgently, he needed last week to get himself in sync with a party base that supports abortion access for all women regardless of income - especially now, with Roe v. Wade under attack as never before. So, in response, Biden made the decision to speedily flip-flop on federal Medicaid funding. All Democratic presidential nominees since 1992 have supported that funding.

In recent days, liberal activists and pundits long hostile to Biden have been quick to pounce on the guy, painting his policy reversal as a sign of weakness. But all politicians - indeed, often the most successful ones - are wont to be flexible from time to time, recalibrating their views for reasons of political expediency or exigent circumstances.

Some of our biggest flip-floppers are lionized on monuments. Thomas Jefferson hated public debt so much that he called for a constitutional provision that would strip the government of its power to borrow money. Then, as president, he reversed himself. He bought the Louisiana Territory from France with borrowed money, and justified it by saying, "Is it not better that the opposite land of the Mississippi should be settled by our own brethren and children than by strangers of another family?"

Abraham Lincoln campaigned for president, and marked his 1861 inaugural, by promising that the feds would not force

H L. Mencken, existing slave states to free their chattel. He initially defended "the right of each state to order and control its own domestic institutions according to its own judgment exclusively." We know what happened to that promise.

> One of the most notorious flip-floppers was Franklin D. Roosevelt, known back in the day as a chameleon of no particular fixed convictions. He stumped for the White House in 1932 by promising fiscal conservatism and a balanced budget; after he won, he launched the New Deal. He often shifted leftward only when liberal activists (including the First Lady) pressured him to do so. Frances Perkins, one of his Cabinet members, said that FDR was guided by "his feeling that nothing in human judgment is final. One may courageously take the step that seems right today because it can be modified tomorrow.

> More recently, Barack Obama reversed himself on same-sex marriage. He had opposed it as a senatorial and presidential candidate, but as president he endorsed it and explained his change of mind: "Attitudes evolve, including

> In fact, Obama - the only Democrat since FDR to be elected twice with a majority of the vote - had a string of reversals. He vowed as a candidate to close the Guantanamo Bay prison, but as president he kept it open. He vowed as a candidate that he would not appoint lobbyists to help run his administration, but then he did. He campaigned against extending the Bush tax cuts that favored the rich, but then signed legislation extending the cuts. He said early in his tenure that secret campaign donations were "a threat to democracy," but his 2012 re-election bid was buoyed by Democratic groups that took secret donations.

> But John Kenneth Galbraith, the renowned economist who served four presidents, once said that the best chief executives typically made "pragmatic accommodations to whatever needed to be done." Joe Biden's Democratic critics are predictably condemning his reversal on federal abortion funding in a bid to lower his poll standing (much to the Trump team's delight, because they'd love to run against someone else), framing his pragmatism as rank opportunism, but one can easily view this episode as evidence that he's willing to be flexible, that he's responsive to the views of his constituents. And isn't that what we want from a

HIS OWN EYE

What the heck was President Trump

What was he thinking when he told ABC's Imagine if Presijournalist George Stephanopoulos on Wednesday that if a foreign adversary offered him dirt on a political opponent he'd take a look at it before calling the FBI.

That was an incredibly stupid thing to conservative media say. And all day Thursday in the media we world would have heard a bipartisan chorus of everyone but gone nuts - justifiably. his wife Melania saying exactly that.

But what was Trump even doing giving a professional Clinton apologist like Stephanopoulos unlimited access to him for two whole days? Has he forgotten that his chief enemy is Fake News, Inc.? And can't the president restrain his ego for a few days and let the news media focus on something else but him?

How about the total collapse of the Mueller Report, the impending investigation into the corrupt origins of the Russian Collusion Hoax, the southern border crisis or the latest bumblings of old Joe Biden? No chance.

For better or worse, Trump is still Trump - and always will be. But that's no excuse. His statement was not just wrong, it was politically dumb.

What he said to Stephanopoulos didn't merely provide several days of fresh free ammo to the Democrats on the House committees who want to impeach him.

It also may have tested the loyalty of the 42 percent of MAGA Americans who so far have been willing to support him no matter what crazy thing he says or does.

In this case, most hard-core Trump supporters probably will say, "So what? Hillary Clinton didn't just accept Russian dirt on Trump during the 2016 election.

"She and her corrupt campaign actually paid someone to get fake dirt on Trump from Russia and put it in a dossier to give to her soulmates running the FBI."

Stephanopoulos and his liberal pals in the mainstream media conveniently forgot what Hillary's gang actually did with Russian dirt because they were so busy beating up Trump for what he said he might do if he were offered dirt on an opponent.

But the media's blind liberal bias doesn't absolve Trump of his stupidity or his mistake. And it doesn't absolve his die-hard supporters of their hypocrisy.

dent Obama or any other Democrat had made that statement to Stephanopoulos. Talk radio and the

Meanwhile, what's happening in Washington on important problems like health care reform and border security? Nothing not even gridlock.

Republicans and Democrats in Congress can agree on just one thing, and we'll see what it is when they vote for it in a few days - a pay raise for themselves.

In our upside-down Trump World of Washington, Democrats and Republicans have flipped 180-degrees on issues like immigration and the national debt ceiling.

Today Democrats want open borders and Republicans don't.

And remember how Republicans were always worrying about the soaring national debt, even before Obama nearly doubled it to $20 trillion?

Now, after Trump has added about $2 trillion more to the federal debt, all we hear from Republicans on the subject are crickets.

The only person left who consistently warns us about our rising national debt these days is William Devane in those Rosland Capital gold commercials on TV.

You'd think that after what happened in last fall's election you'd see some action in Congress on health care or immigration, but there's been nothing.

That's because it's been clear for more than three decades that Democrats and Republicans would rather have both issues as political weapons than come up with the bipartisan answers to fix them. If they fix them, they lose the issue.

Which is why the 2020 election is going to be about health care and immigration, the 2024 election is going to be about health care and immigration, the 2028 election is going to be about health care and immigration, the 2032 election is...

Happy Father's Day!

What Makes a Dad

God took the strength of a mountain, The majesty of a tree, The warmth of a summer sun, The calm of a quiet sea, The generous sould of nature, The comforting arm of night, The wisdom of the ages, The power of the eagle's flight, The joy of a morning in spring, The faith of a mustard seed, The patience of eternity, The depth of a family need, Then God combined these qualities, When there was nothing more to add, He knew His masterpiece was complete, And so, He called it...Dad
