By state law, any effort to alter existing taxes require a vote by those in the impacted area. For Sierra Madre's business district, that involved seeking approval from almost 200 business owners, many of whom do not live in Sierra Madre.

In May, the city began the Prop 218 process which sent ballots to all within the proposed assessment district. Of the nearly 200 ballots, only 98 were returned. Of those completed ballots returned, those approving the changes numbered 42, however those opposing the changes numbered 46 so the effort did not pass.

The City currently has four existing special assessment districts which finance various services and improvements including parking, lighting, landscaping, and associated maintenance within the Central Business District area of the City. Each of the four districts was established to fund the cost of improvements and mainte-

GET A ONE-RING CALL? DON'T CALL BACK.

A while back, the public was warned you about the "one ring" scam. That's when you get a phone call from a number you don't know, and the call stops after just one ring. The scammer is hoping you'll call back, because it's really an international toll number and will appear as a charge on your phone bill — with most of the money going to the scammer. Well, the scam is back with a vengeance, and the FCC just issued a new advisoryabout it. Read the FCC's advisory for more detail, but the advice from both agencies remains the same if you get one of these calls:

- Don't call back
- Report the robocall to the FTC at www.donotcall.gov and to the FCC at www. fcc.gov/complaints
  - Always check your phone bill for suspicious or unusual charges

WALKING SIERRA MADRE - The Social Side by Deanne Davis

"Loud is the summer's busy song. The smallest breeze can find a tongue, while insects of each tiny size grow teasing with their melodies, till noon burns with its blistering breath around, and day lies still as death." John Clare

I'd say that's a pretty accurate description of August, which is coming right up. All we can do is move slowly, remember that only "Mad dogs and Englishmen go out in the mid-day sun," (Noel Coward); clip the burned leaves off our plants; water sparingly early in the morning and keep praying for that El Nino thing to show up this winter. Just celebrated granddaughter, Emily's, 9th birthday and her mommy's birthday is coming up July 30th. It's monsoon season in Arizona now and the skies look threatening early in the morning and it's windy windy windy.

"Hello August...can time slow down, please?"

Remember when school started after Labor Day and the month of August was the last hurrah of summer? Forget that! School starts for Jessie and Emily - 6th and 4th grade respectively - on August 7th! Emily's birthday presents featured a lot of school clothes and a trip to see the new Lion King live action movie, which was gorgeous to see, but everybody still loves the 1994 animated version best. Here she is with her new artist's portfolio as she is quite a talented artist.

"August in sub-Saharan Los Angeles is one of the great and awful tests of one's endurance, sanity and stamina." Henry Rollins

I made pancakes for everybody for breakfast this morning. One of my best ever $19.99 purchases from Kohl's a few years ago was the Presto griddle. This thing is fantastic, heats up instantly and you can't mess up your pancakes. Honest! Here's my recipe as I'm not a fan of mixes:

2 cups sifted all purpose flour

3 tsp. double-acting baking powder

1 tsp. salt

3 Tb. sugar

2 eggs

1-3/4 cup milk

3 Tb. melted butter

Blend the eggs and milk in your electric mixer, then add the dry ingredients which have been mixed together in a small bowl. Add in the melted butter. Be sure your griddle is hot then make pancakes in whatever size you like, from dollar to plate size. You Blog: www.authordeanne.com can't go wrong with this recipe. Enjoy!

"We are all faced with a series of great opportunities disguised as impossible situations. And they usually arrive in August!" Charles Swindoll

"A perfect summer day is when the sun is shining, the breeze is blowing, the birds are singing and the lawnmower is broken." James Dent

It's not too late to put in a tomato plant! Be good to yourself and drink a lot of water. Take heart: Fall is on the way!

May you have a perfect summer day every single day this week.

KATIE Tse....This and That

No, I haven't been to any interesting parties lately. Sorry if the title misled you. But when I was driving through Alta Dena the other day, I passed a market with items hanging outside, and was amused to see a piñata of a Patron Silver tequila bottle. That's a new one! A new one for me, anyway. When

I think of piñatas, I usually imagine the traditional type --colorful morning stars with streamers. Or those character-themed ones, like Batman, Winnie the Pooh, or the Little Mermaid. Patron, on the other hand, was a first.

Another common assumption regarding piñatas is that they're for kids. This got me wondering exactly what kind of party this Patron piñata was for. If it's for a kids' party, how does Patron fit in? That's kind of like having Johnny Walker or Maker's Mark party favor dispensers. A short skip and a hop from promoting other consumable vices, such as Marlboroughs or Camels cigarettes. Pick your poison, I guess.

But maybe I'm getting ahead of myself. Perhaps this thing wasn't for a kids' party at all. For all I know it could've been for adults. That line of reasoning begs the question, are grown-ups really going to blindfold each other and come out swinging at a piñata? I suppose anything's possible, and the more I thought about this, the more fun it sounded. I mean, haven't we all had times when it would feel so good to crack something open with a bat? Nothing violent, of course. Unless you're talking about violence from the piñata's point of view. It's like that song "Something's Gotta' Give." "When an irresistible force meets an old immovable object..." Surely those songwriters had Patron piñatas in mind. If this was a piñata for adults, what favors would go inside? Other than the pure thrill of connecting with something while blindly swinging a bat, how could you motivate adults to break this thing open? Little bottles of Patron is an obvious choice, but that might not be the best option, since whacking them hard enough could result in tequila-soaked guests. I don't know. Maybe those little bottles are plastic, anyway. However, filling something that big with pocket-sized bottles of booze would be expensive. (This was a regular, full-size piñata.) I suppose you could fill it with a cheaper tequila, but you wouldn't want to risk guests mutinying in disappointment if that were the case.

Setting the idea of little Patron bottles aside for the moment, most adults are easy. They'd go for chocolate or similar edibles. But do people put chocolate in piñatas? Doesn't it melt? I'm writing this on a three digit degree day, that's why I ask. AC would help, but piñatas aren't for indoors. Unless perhaps you have a mansion. In which case money is no object, and you could fill the thing with Dom Perignon for that matter.

At the end of the day, I continued past this market with its intriguing Patron Silver piñata, and have not had the opportunity to drive back again since. I have no idea what the inspiration behind this piñata creation was, nor do I have any notions about who bought it. But there's one thing I know -- the party it was used for must've sure been interesting!

RACING NEWS: PRATT TOP JOCKEY AT SANTA ANITA; JORGE VELEZ AT LOS AL AND DEL MAR OPENS By lean Sabmidt

By Joan Schmidt

There is so much to report in the Horse Racing World. Flavien Pratt was the jockey with the most wins during the last Santa Anita Meet. Then it was off to Los Alamitos for a 14 day meet; Apprentice Jorge Velez lead with 9 wins. Other recent highlights were Gary Stevens older brother Scott Stevens won the prestigious George Wolff Award, and Justify was horse of the year!

It's a disgrace that trainer Jerry Hollendorfer is banned from Santa Anita, Del Mar, Golden Gate Fields and some New York tracks. He is a scapegoat because of the negative publicity re: horse fatalities at Santa Anita in 2018. Well, CHRURCHILL DOWNS continues to lead in horse fatalities, followed by Hawthorne. No one realizes that because it's kept quiet. During the Kentucky Derby, the biased announcers kept sneaking in ROTTEN comments about Santa Anita, but failing to mention that THREE died at Churchill Downs during training. I honestly believe they are jealous of Santa Anita because the last two Triple Crown Winners, American Pharoah and Justify have come from here and actually California Chrome would have won if jockeys didn't purposely block him out.

Now, everyone is down at Del Mar, a beautiful venue for a 36-day meet. A lot of the jockeys and their families enjoy the close proximity to the beach. Del Mar opened Wednesday, July 17. Flavien won the Oceanside Stakes on Jasikan (Trained by John Sadler) besides wins on United and Give Me the Loot. Through Sunday, July 21, he leads with 10 wins. Joel Rosario has been successful, also. He had Stakes wins on Catalina Cruiser and Mutual Unusual on Saturday. Apprentice Jorge Velez had his first Del Mar win on Freedom Ride. Abel Cedillo who returned to Southern CA has been successful as also Ruben Fuentes. Everyone was happy when Victor had his first Del Mar win this year on Stormy Lady.

Trainer Jerry Hollendorfer and the CA Thoroughbred trainers have filed a civil complaint Monday, July 15 to allow him to train at Del Mar. The Judge has postponed a final decision; he wants to thoroughly go through all the information. Currently, Jerry's Assistant Dan Ward has been overseeing some of his horses.

Del Mar is really a beautiful venue. You can have breakfast there. Racing is Wednesdays-Sundays. Please visit their website. Also we have gone just for the day. I know people have taken the train there for daily excursions. But it's also great to stay a couple days and enjoy the beach and sights! See you there!

Despite their love for each other, Mi-ja and Young-sook's differences are impossi-ble to ignore. decades, be-ginning during a period of Japanese colonialism in the 1930s and 1940s, followed by World War II, the Korean War and its aftermath, through the era of cell phones and wet suits for the women divers. Throughout this time, the residents of Jeju find themselves caught between warring empires. Mi-ja is the daughter of a Japanese collaborator, and she will forever be marked by this association. Young-sook was born into a long line of haenyeo and will inherit her mother's position leading the divers in their village. Little do the two friends know that after surviv-ing hundreds of dives and developing the closest of bonds, forces outside their control will push their friendship to the breaking point. This beautiful, thoughtful novel illuminates a world turned upside down, one where the women are in charge, engaging in dangerous physical work, and the men take care of the chil-dren. A classic Lisa See story—one of women's friendships and the larger forces that shape them—The book introduces readers to the fierce and unforgettable female divers of Jeju Island and the dramatic history that shaped their lives.

PERSEPOLIS: THE STORY OF A CHILDHOOD BY MARJANE SATRAPI

A New York Times Notable Book. Wise, funny, and heartbreaking, Persepolis is Marjane Satrapi's graphic memoir of growing up in Iran during the Islamic Revolution. In powerful black-and-white comic strip images, Satrapi tells the story of her life in Tehran from ages six to fourteen, years that saw the overthrow of the Shahi's regime, the triumph of the Islamic Revolution, and the devastating effects of war with Iraq. The intelligent and outspoken only child of committed Marxists and the great-granddaughter of one of Iran's last emperors, Marjane bears witness to a childhood uniquely entwined with the history of her country. Persepolis paints an unforgettable portrait of daily life in Iran and of the bewildering contra-dictions between home life and public life. Marjane's child's-eye view of de-throned emperors, state-sanctioned whippings, and heroes of the revolution de-throned emperors, state-sanctioned whippings, and heroes of the revolution al-lows us to learn as she does the history of this fascinating country and of her own extraordinary family. Intensely personal, profoundly political, and wholly original, Persepolis is at once a story of growing up and a reminder of the human cost of war and political repression. It shows how we carry on, with laughter and tears, in the face of absurdity. And, finally, it introduces us to an irresistible little girl with whom we cannot help but fall in love.

LOCAL WINE SHOP HAS A GREAT SELECTION

One of the most common questions that I get as a restaurant advocate/food Influencer (fancy name for critic on line) is where is my favorite steakhouse? The Answer: My house, nothing beats heading over to Pavilions or Howie's for a filet and bbq'n at home. Wine by the glass another story. At a restaurant that can be a very tricky situation. To this, I say "buyer beware" from the get-go. Wine by the glass can provide a huge revenue stream for your favorite restaurant. In fairness to the restaurant (and before you start calculating how much the restaurant is paying for a bottle of wine and charging for a glass), let's remember that there is often some waste once a bottle is opened. For instance, sparkling wine can't last for more then 24 hours once opened. I have sent back many an old wine back and asked for a fresh bottle, and to my surprise, without much resistance. Local sommelier and wine geek Russ Meek tells me that even reds and whites, once opened, can easily lose their luster after just a few days. My advice is to ask the server/bartender to open a "fresh" bottle - it will make you feel a whole lot better about paying that premium price.

Chardonnay is the best selling wine by the glass here in California, and one that stands out to me is Rambuer Chardonnay. Hailing from the grape-rich area of Napa Valley, this higher end chardonnay satisfies those of us who like a bit of buttery and oaky chardonnay. I found this gem at one of my favorite non-home restaurants, Taylor's Steak House in La Canada. Taylor's has consistently offered a very good wine by the glass program; they aren't giving it away, but you won't feel like you've been gypped. Rombauer Chardonnay is light gold in color, well balanced, and the finish is crisp and clean. Some of my wine snob friends have called it "overrated" but I don't agree. This is a fantastic special occasion wine or a treat at a medium to higher end restaurants. The supply is ample, and you should have no problem finding it at your local market.

30 YEARS LATER AND THE HOUSE DEMOLISHED, DID IT MATTER IF WE USED GLOSSY OR FLAT?

[Nyerges is the author of Enter the Forest, Guide to Wild Foods, and co-author of Extreme Simplici-ty. He has led wilderness trips since 1974. He can be reached at the School of Self-Reliance (Box 41834, Eagle Rock, CA 90041); or on-line at www.Scho-

olofSelf-Reliance.com.]

It was the summer of 1973 when my brother and I lived on my grandfather's farm in Chardon, Ohio. One day, we decided to paint the kitchen a beautiful shade of light turquoise.

We turned on the radio, and began our task. We opened the windows, and I did the trim while my brother rolled. We listened to the radio as we busied ourselves with our individual tasks. We worked the corners, the edges, the front surfaces.

There's something about painting -- perhaps it's the fumes, perhaps it is the long quiet times of many little tasks. Painting requires no moral decisions, no great choices, no necessary pontifications about the meaning and purpose of life. And yet...

And yet, there you are, with your self, and the task before you. For me, painting time has often been a time to re-enter the inner I, to think, to remember. In many ways, it is the ideal task for self-enlightenment.

When we were done, we felt we'd accomplished something, and felt we'd given something back to the old farmhouse.

When the weekend came, another uncle came to visit us . He strode into the kitchen, looked around at the paint, and simply said "you didn't use glossy!"

Glossy? We were teenagers from California, visiting the home where our mother grew up. Though it may be second-nature to us today, back then we had no sense that a kitchen should be painted glossy. Glossy vs. flat were not issues that we thought much about. We didn't think it mattered all that much?

But Uncle Joe seemed to think it was a big deal, and just one more bit of evidence that teenag-ers from "the big city" were a bunch of dimwits who wouldn't know a cow from a goat. Uncle Joe shared it around to family and friends that we'd painted the kitchen in "wrong" paint, so we heard about in the weeks that followed. Some relatives didn't care, but others would comment as they came in, "Oh, so there's the flat paint job," instead of, "Hey, hello, long time no see!"

Dumb city boys who don't know the difference between flat and glossy paint, who actually had the stupidity to paint a kitchen in flat paint.

Of course, our intent was to make the family happy that we'd improved the old farmhouse. We wanted the relatives to comment that we were industrious nephews who proved that all city boys were not idiots.

Today, while I was painting my own bathroom --glossy paint, white -- memories of the summer of 1973 in Chardon began to play again in my mind. Perhaps it was the paint. Perhaps it was the cool breeze blowing fresh oxygen through the room . I heard the chickens out back and it reminded me of my brief period of farm-living.

I began to think about how Uncle Joe responded, and how he could have responded. I realized then the great truth in the phrase that WHAT we do is of little or no importance, but HOW we do it is eve-rything.

Uncle Joe died over 10 years ago, and when I visited the old farm site in 1999, the entire farm house and barn had been torn down and were now just a field. None of it mattered anymore in the world of physical reality. Joe was gone, and the entire farmhouse was simply a memory, glossy or flat.

Joe could have congratulated us on taking the initiative to paint, and could have explained why kitchens are always painted glossy. He could have told us that it was a great primer coat, and enthusi-astically offered to drive us right then to the hardware store to get glossy paint, and we'd all do the final coat together. That would have been something. Our memory would have been profoundly different had Uncle Joe taken that route of inclusiveness, familyness, and helpfulness.

I do not fault him for what he did do -- he probably knew no other way. In fact, from what I knew about his father (my grandfather), his father probably would have beaten him had Joe painted the kitchen with flat paint. So to Joe, that was just one of millions of automatic reactions to things in his world. He probably forgot about in a few years, after the novelty of talking about Marie's silly nephews wore off.

I realized then how important such "little things" can be, and I wondered how well I would do when my next opportunity arose. It is especially important with impressionable youth to do the very best we can to be a good example.

It seemed like an important insight, that the "how" is more important than the "what," and that flat or glossy really doesn't matter. Perhaps it was the paint. Perhaps it was the cool breeze blowing fresh oxygen through the room....

for an evening of fun! Fueling of NASA Mars 2020 Rover Power System Begins

NASA's Associate Administrator for the Science Mission Directorate, Thomas Zurbuchen, has given the goahead to begin fueling the Mars 2020 rover's Multi-Mission Radioisotope Thermoelectric Generator, or MMRTG. The generator will power the rover and help keep it warm while exploring the Red Planet.

"The progression of the Mars 2020 rover project is on schedule," said Zurbuchen. "The decision to begin fueling the MMRTG is another important milestone in keeping to our timetable for a July 2020 launch" our timetable for a July 2020 launch."
Essentially a nuclear battery, an

MMRTG can provide about 110 watts of electrical power to a spacecraft and its science instruments at the beginning of a mission. The excess heat from the generator can also serve to keep spacecraft systems warm in cold environments. In all, 27 past U.S. space missions have used radioisotope power — from the Viking missions on Mars to the Voyager spacecraft entering interplanetary space to, most recently, the Curiosity rover on Mars and the New Horizons spacecraft that sailed past Pluto.

MMRTGs work by converting heat from the natural decay of radioisotope materials into electricity. The generators consist of two major elements: a heat source that contains plutonium-238 (Pu-238) and thermocouples that convert the plutonium's decay heat energy to electricity. The process of loading the heat source into the MMRTG, which the Department of Energy (DOE) manufactured, is timed to a mission's launch date. The Mars 2020 fueling process has been initiated thanks to the continued progress constructing the rover and the spacecraft that will get it there.

One of South Pasadena's residents, Hanna Crowley (pictured), came to South Pasadena Police Department and donated a collection of about 60 Beanie Babies that her mother had collected over a decade ago. Margo and Hanna had heard of a story up in San Luis Obispo where a person had donated stuffed animals to local law enforcement. The stuffed animals were given to kids during a crisis situation to help comfort them. Hanna previously worked as a camp counselor did not want their valuable collection of Beanie Babies to just end up on the trash or to go unwanted. She wanted to donate their collection of Beanie Babies to local children who could appreciate and also use them in a crisis situation as a way of comfort.

A MESSAGE FROM BRIAN MCDONALD SUPERINTENDENT

Dear PUSD Employees, Families, and Community,

Interim Superintendent Dr. David Verdugo I hope you are having a productive and restful summer break. The PUSD team is busy preparing for the start of the school year so that our faculty, staff, and schools will be ready to welcome students when the new school year begins on August 12.

Although the start of each new school year is one of my favorite times because it is filled with optimism, hope, and excitement, I will have to miss this special time with you this year since I am scheduled for a planned surgery in late July and will be on medical leave recuperating for several weeks.

Dr. David Verdugo (pictured, right) the former Superintendent of Paramount Unified School District and a veteran leader who has served more than 43 years in K-12 education and mentored and coached aspiring superintendents across the country, will lend his experience and expertise in guiding PUSD until I return.

Dr. Verdugo's leadership as interim superintendent will be invaluable as we resolve important issues facing our school district at one of the busiest times of the school year. He will support our Executive Leadership Team, which will be led by Chief Academic Officer Dr. Élizabeth Blanco.

I am so proud of our team and the thoughtful and caring way they are preparing to welcome students back to school.

My family and I truly appreciate your well wishes and kind thoughts during this time. I will see you soon!

Sincerely, Brian McDonald, Ed.D. Superintendent

FAMILY MATTERS By Marc Garlett

MORE ON THE LIFETIME ASSET PROTECTION TRUST – YES, IT'S THAT BIG

Last week, I discussed the general benefits of a unique estate planning vehicle known as a Lifetime Asset Protection Trust (LAPT). This is an mportant enough estate planning tool that I want to dive in a little deeper this week.

LAPTs are primarily designed to protect your loved ones and their inheritance from threats, such as divorce, serious debt, devastating illness, and unfortunate accidents. At the same time,

LAPTs can provide your heirs with a unique educational opportunity in which they gain valuable experience managing and growing their inheritance, while enjoying airtight asset protection. Safeguarding

If you're like most people, you hope to leave an inheritance for your children. Indeed, it may even be one of the primary motivations driving your life's work. Yet if you don't take the proper precautions, the wealth you pass down can easily be lost or squandered. And in certain cases, the inheritance can even end up doing more harm than good.

When it comes to leaving an inheritance, most lawyers will advise you to place the money in a trust, which is the right thing to do. However, not every lawyer goes past a basic distribution of the trust assets outright to your loved ones at specific ages, such as one-third at 25, half of the balance at 35, and the rest at 40. Check your own trust now to see if it does this or something similar. But giving outright ownership of the trust assets in this way puts everything you've worked so hard to leave behind at risk. While a trust may protect your loved ones' inheritance as long as the assets are held by the trust, once the assets are disbursed to the beneficiary, they can be lost to future creditors, a catastrophic accident or illness, divorce, bankruptcy, or a major lawsuit. Rather than risking their inheritance by leaving it outright to your children at certain ages or following certain life events, such as graduating college, you can gift your assets to your children at the time of your death using an LAPT. When you gift an inheritance to your kids via an LAPT, the trust owns the assets, not Therefore, if your kids ever get divorced, file bankruptcy, have a major medical issue, or are ordered to pay damages in a lawsuit, they can't lose their inheritance because they never owned it in the first place. An LAPT can be built into a revocable living trust, which becomes irrevocable at the time of your death and holds your loved one's inheritance in continued trust for their lifetime. A trustee of your choice manages the trust assets upon your death. Because the LAPT is discretionary, this individual has the power to distribute the assets at their own discretion, instead of being required to release them in a rigid structure. This discretionary power enables the trustee to control when and how your kids can access their inheritance, so they're not only protected from outside threats like ex-spouses and creditors, but from their own poor judgment as well.

And if you're afraid that a trustee would keep your beneficiary from using the trust assets, you can build in protections to ensure your beneficiary has flexible use, unless there would be a significant risk of loss if he or she did. You can even allow your beneficiaries to become Co-Trustees and then sole Trustees of their own LAPT.

And contrary to what some might think, LAPTs are not just for the mega wealthy. In fact, the asset protection they provide is even more valuable for those leaving behind a modest inheritance. With less money to pass on, it's much more likely that the inheritance could be totally wiped out by a single unfortunate event, as opposed to a much larger inheritance, which might survive even multiple mishaps.

An educational opportunity

Additionally, you can use an LAPT as a unique way to educate your children about investing, charitable giving, and even running a business. This is done by adding provisions into the trust allowing the beneficiary to become co-trustee of the trust with a person you've chosen and trust to support their education.

In this way, the beneficiary would become co-trustee at a predetermined age or stage of life and be able to use and control the trust assets under the supervision of the other co-trustee you've named to guide them. You can even allow the beneficiary to become sole trustee later in life, once he or she has been properly educated and is ready to assume full control. As sole trustee, the beneficiary would be able to resign and replace themselves with an independent trustee, if necessary, to provide the ultimate asset protection.

A priceless gift If you wish to protect your child's inheritance from all possible threats, while incentivizing them to invest and grow the money rather than squander and waste it, consider including a Lifetime Asset Protection Trust in your plan for the ones you love. Indeed, the trust's highly flexible structure, combined with its bulletproof asset protection make it one of the most valuable gifts you can give your loved ones.

The point is, there are several different ways your trust can be structured to meet your family's unique needs, which is why it's so important to explore what options might be best for your particular situation before simply executing a "one-size-fits-all" trust.

Midge is a petite 1 ½ year old pretty brown tabby with silky long hair, delightful to touch. When people first approach, Midge's striking green eyes capture their attention. Midge needs a cat person who understands. She may initially play hard to get, but has demonstrated a loving side. While she remains shy inside her condo, when brought out to the "catio", her cautious demeanor noticeably changes. Midge has rewarded the outpouring of love from staff and volunteers she knows by melting into petting hands on a lap and relaxing stretched out on a bed. She especially enjoys laying peaceful in sunbeams. She may like a feline friend. A calm, steady environment and patience will help her adjust while she warms up to a new any seniors fear that moving out of their home into an assisted living residence means forfeiting control of their lives. At The Kensington, nothing could be further from the truth. We believe it is our role to support our residents, not to assume complete decision-making authority. Of course, as specialists in caring for older adults, we monitor routines, behavior and mood every day. If we see changes that concern us, then we talk with residents and their families immediately. Together, we all decide about making adjustments to care and services to preserve comfort, wellness and morale.

HOW TO HELP AN AGING PARENT WITH A HOARDING PROBLEM

Dear Savvy Senior:

My 70-year-old mother has become somewhat of a hoarder. Since my father died a few years ago, her house is so disorganized and messy with stuff that it's becoming a hazard. What should I do to help

Troubled Son

Dear Troubled:

Clutter addiction is a problem that effects up to five percent of Americans, many of whom are seniors. The problems can range anywhere from moderate messiness to hoarding so severe it may be related to a mental health disorder like obsessive-compulsive disorder. Here's what you should know, along with some tips and resources that can help your mom

Why People Hoard

The reasons most people hoard is because they have an extreme sentimental attachment to their possessions, or they believe they might need their items at a later date. Hoarding can also be a sign that an older person is depressed or showing early symptoms of dementia.

Common problems for seniors who live in excessive clutter are tripping, falling and breaking a bone; overlooking bills and missing medications that are hidden in the clutter; and suffering from the environmental effects of mold, mildew and dust, and even living among insects and rodents.

What to Do

To get a handle on your mom's problem, the Institute for Challenging Disorganization offers a free "Clutter Hoarding Scale" that you can download off their website at ChallengingDisorganization.

If you find that your mom has a moderate cluttering problem, there are a number of things you can do to help.

Start by having a talk with her, respectfully expressing your concern for her health and safety, and offering your assistance to help her declutter.

If she takes you up on it, most professional organizers recommend decluttering in small steps. Take one room at a time or even a portion of a room at a time. This will help prevent your mom from getting overwhelmed.

Before you start, designate three piles or boxes for your mom's stuff – one pile is for items she wants to keep-and-put-away, another is the donate pile and the last is the throwaway pile.

You and your mom will need to determine which pile her things belong in as you work. If your mom struggles with sentimental items that she doesn't use, like her husband's old tools or mother's china for example, suggest she keep only one item for memory sake and donate the rest to family members who will use them.

You will also need to help her set up a system for organizing the kept items and new possessions.

If you need some help with the decluttering and organizing, consider hiring a professional organizer who can come to your mom's home to help you prioritize, organize and remove the clutter. The nonprofit group National Association of Productivity and Organizing Professionals has a directory on the website at NAPO.net to help you locate a professional in your area.

If your mom has a bigger, more serious hoarding problem (if her daily functioning is impaired, or if she is having financial difficulties, health problems, or other issues because of her hoarding) you'll need to seek professional help. Antidepressants and/or talk therapy can help address control issues, anxiety, depression, and other feelings that may underline hoarding tendencies, and make it easier for her to confront her disorder.

To learn more and find professional help see the International OCD Foundation which provides a hoarding center on their website (Hoarding.iocdf.org) that offers information, resources, treatments, self-help groups, and more. Also see HoardingCleanup.com, a site that has a national database of qualified resources including cleaning companies and therapists that can help.

Send your senior questions to: Savvy Senior, P.O. Box 5443, Norman, OK 73070, or visit Savvy Senior. org. Jim Miller is a contributor to the NBC Today show and author of "The Savvy Senior" book.

THE STORY...?

I was having a rather down it is; you are going along 100 miles an hour and finally you crash. I was experiencing one of those reality crashes. Reclining in my chair, drinking coffee, I thought of one of my old friends. Oh my, he has been gone for almost 5 years now. How time flies by You know you have friends and then you have those who are really friends. He was without a doubt one of the latter. In fact, I do not have any friend that quite equals him as a friend.

Thinking about him, I began chuckling. The Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage came in about that time and said, "What are you laughing at?"

She knew I was going through a rather busy schedule and to find me sitting in a chair chuckling was a little strange.

"I was just thinking," I said while still chuckling, "of my good friend Brother Lloyd."

As soon as I said that, she started chuckling herself and sat on the couch. We knew Brother Lloyd for 30 years. In those 30 years, we have had some great times with him and his wife. The last five years of his life, he was a widower.

It seemed like nothing got him down for long. Oh yes, he had his issues and would give you a commentary on his issues. He never was afraid to speak his mind. He had an opinion on every subject under the sun and some over the sun. He must have had a great mind because he always gave people a piece of it.

I knew anytime I was struggling with something, all I had to do was call and he knew how to solve every problem in the world.

We talked on the phone quite a bit, but also we met for lunch at least once a month. He lived about two hours from me and so we met in the middle at a nice little restaurant.

Thinking back on him, I cannot say how much I appreciated our monthly lunches. It got me away from my world and I enjoyed being in his world, even though it was a short time. We almost could order each other's lunch and sometimes we did.

Of all the friends I have known down the years, nobody had more stories to tell than good old Brother Lloyd. He had a story for every subject you could think of at the time.

I would be talking about something in my life and he would interrupt, "Did I ever tell you the story about...?" Not waiting for my reply, he would go on with the story.

I have heard all his stories, and could tell them almost as good as he did. They must have been

DID I TELL YOU true because every time he told them they were almost word for word as before.

Because I admired the old brother so much, I listened to each story as though I was hearing it day recently. You know how for the very first time. I must admit, they always had a great application, particularly concerning the subject at hand. How he was ever to do that I

> Looking back, I wished he'd put all his stories in a book. They would have been a fascinating read for anyone.

> I must confess I did something once rather naughty. We were talking about some subject, I can't remember what now, and I said, "Brother Lloyd, did I ever tell you the story about...?"

Without giving him an opportunity to respond, I went on with the story. The story I was telling him was one of his stories he told me probably 100 times. I tried to tell it from my perspective, but kept it almost word for word.

I was sure he would catch on but he never did. When I finished with "his" story he said, "That's quite remarkable because something like that happened to me." Then he went on and retold that story as though he was telling it for the very first time. As far as I knew, he never caught on. I simply listened as though I was hearing it for the very first time.

Occasionally, I will think of one of his stories and it brings a certain sense of encouragement to my heart. Although he has been dead these many years, his stories still live in my heart to this very day. I only wish I was as good a storyteller as he

One thing he taught me was that everything that happens in a person's life, whether good or bad, is seed for a story. I am quite sure that there was a seed of truth in every story he told me. I never could tell where the twist was in any of his stories. He was such a wonderful brother that I really did not care.

Sometimes when my wife and I are talking I will say, "Did I ever tell you the story...?" To which my wife will always respond, "Yes, you did Brother Lloyd."

I chuckled and then thought of what David said. "Let the words of my mouth, and the meditation of my heart, be acceptable in thy sight, O Lord, my strength, and my redeemer" (Psalm 19:14).

Everybody has a story, but God's story is the only one that really matters.

THE GASLIGHTING OF AMERICA

Gaslighting is a form of psychological manipulation in which a person seeks to sow seeds of doubt in a targeted individual or in members of a targeted group, making them question their own memory, perception, and sanity. Using persistent denial, misdirection, contradiction, and lying, gaslighting involves attempts to destabilize the victim and delegitimize the victim's belief. Don't know of anyone who would use such tactics other than villains like Hitler? Well, wake up and smell the roses. The 45th President of these United States, should be correctly bestowed with the title of Gaslighter in Chief!

Before we go any farther, here is a brief glossary for this article: Victim/You: The American Public; They/Him: The many faces of Donald J. Trump. Don't believe it? Consider this: (In a 2017 Psychology Today article, they articulate the 11 Warning Signs of a Gaslighter, from the Book: "Manipulative and Emotionally Abusive People – and Break Free" by Stephanie A. Sarkis Ph.D.)

- 1. They tell blatant lies. You know it's an outright lie. Yet they are telling you this lie with a straight face. Why are they so blatant? Because they're setting up a precedent. Once they tell you a huge lie, you're not sure if anything they say is true. Keeping you unsteady and off-kilter is the goal. As of June 7, 2019 Donald Trump has told more than Verified 10,700 lies to the American Public! "Totally Exonerated"
- 2. They deny they ever said something, even though you have proof. Who are you going to believe? Him or your lying eyes? Time after time we have watched the replays of what he has said right along with him saying he "never said that". You know they said they would do something; you know you heard it. But they out and out deny it. It makes you start questioning your reality—maybe they never said that thing. And the more they do this, the more you question your reality and start accepting theirs. Like the Wall Mexico was going to pay for or the tax break that would benefit everyone. Let us not forget the infamous pre-election video about sexual abuse of women.
- 3. They use what is near and dear to you as ammunition. The US Constitution and the protections and freedoms it bestows on all citizens; social justice concerns and traditional American values. He attacks the foundation of your being. He attacks all political identifies that are not his kind of Republican. Democrats are not devils or demons any more than Republicans are. In this country, we have a right to our individual beliefs.
- 4. They wear you down over time. This is one of the insidious things about gaslighting—it is done gradually, over time. A lie here, a lie there, a snide comment every so often...and then it starts ramping up. Even the brightest, most self-aware people can be sucked into gaslighting—it is that effective. It's the "frog in the frying pan" analogy: The heat is turned up slowly, so the frog never realizes what's happening to it. After years of his 'noise' and the media's attempt to keep the public informed, your resistance is wearing thin. You'd rather listen to a TV or Radio station broadcasting in a language you don't understand rather than hear another word about him.
- 5. Their actions do not match their words. When dealing with a person or entity that gaslights, look at what they are doing rather than what they are saying. What they are saying means nothing; it is just talk. What they are doing is the issue.
- 6. They throw in positive reinforcement to confuse you. This person or entity that is cutting you down, telling you that you don't have value, is now praising you for something you did. This adds an additional sense of uneasiness. You think, "Well maybe they aren't so bad." Yes, they are. This is a calculated attempt to keep you off-kilter—and again, to question your reality. Also look at what you were praised for; it is probably something that served the gaslighter.
- 7. They know confusion weakens people. Gaslighters know that people like having a sense of stability and normalcy. Their goal is to uproot this and make you constantly question everything. And humans' natural tendency is to look to the person or entity that will help you feel more stable—and that happens to be the gaslighter.
- 8. They project. They are a liar and/or a cheater, yet they are constantly accusing you of that. This is done so often that you start trying to defend yourself, and are distracted from the gaslighter's own behavior. He yells 'Fake Media' so much you begin to doubt the very institutions that have always kept the public informed.
- 9. They try to align people against you. Gaslighters are masters at manipulating and finding the people they know will stand by them no matter what—and they use these people against you. They will make comments such as, "This person knows that you're not right," or "This person knows you're useless too." Keep in mind it does not mean that these people actually said these things. A gaslighter is a constant liar. When the gaslighter uses this tactic it makes you feel like you don't know who to trust or turn to—and that leads you right back to the gaslighter. And that's exactly what they want: Isolation gives them more control.
- 10. They tell you or others that you are crazy. This is one of the most effective tools of the gaslighter, because it's dismissive. The gaslighter knows if they question your sanity, people will not believe you when you tell them the gaslighter is abusive or out-of-control. It's a master technique. Hence, the many, many nicknames he loves to bestow on his enemies.
- 11. They tell you everyone else is a liar. By telling you that everyone else (Dempcrats, the media) is a liar, it again makes you question your reality. You've never known someone with the audacity to do this, so they must be telling the truth, right? No. It's a manipulation technique. It makes people turn to the gaslighter for the "correct" information—which isn't correct information at all.

So, there you have it. Stop all the outside noise and take a moment to think about what is going on. Our country has always had differences of opinions, and our priorities have not always been in alignment with each other, but never before has there been such a reign of chaos.

Why, you might ask? Let's see, consider this familiar title, "The Man Who Would Be King". And that he will be if we continue to allow him to destroy the foundations that our country was built upon. Get your heads out of the sand people, that's for ostriches. As citizens, we need to be aware and take more responsibility for future generations. By the way, if you want to continue as an ostrich, remember, when his head is in the sand looking for food to satisfy his urges, his butt is sticking straight up in the air, and easy target

MUELLER'S TESTIMONY: IM-PEACHMENT ACCELERANT OR ANTICLIMAX?

Remember the now-distant days when we Americans who closely track Donald Trump's lies and lawlessness waited in great anticipation for "Mueller Time"?

That historic reckoning seemed virtually assured - until Trump's servile attorney general, Bill Barr, falsely spun the Mueller report as a total exoneration of his client. Barr's bumpersticker mantra, amplified by his client's relentless tweets, infested the mainstream media bloodstream and struck a chord with a public that hasn't bothered to read the densely circumlocutions report.

So it's quite possible that Robert Mueller's long-awaited open testimony, slated for Wednesday in front of the House Judiciary and Intelligence committees, will be a yawner. Indeed, he recently warned that "the report is my testimony." But key House Democrats believe (or hope) that if the special counsel merely recites the most crucial passages on TV, that he will somehow bring the report to life and seed more grassroots support for impeachment.

If that were to happen, fine. But it's a sad commentary on our attention-deficit, sub-literate culture that the powerful substance of the Mueller report has not sufficiently resonated. Only three percent of Americans have reportedly read the entire thing, and only 10 percent say they've read some of it.

If Mueller's public testimony moves the needle, fine. But legal experts with federal prosecutorial experience know already how damning it is regardless of whether Mueller remains characteristically reticent under questioning.

Donald Ayer, a former assistant U.S. attorney and a deputy attorney general under George H. W. Bush, calls it "a very readable account of repeated acts by the president carefully tailored to interfere with and disrupt (Mueller's) investigation." Mimi Rocah, another former assistant U.S. attorney, says the report amasses "an overwhelming amount of incriminating information" that documents how Trump "engaged in obstruction of justice by repeatedly trying to dissuade witnesses from cooperating or testifying, using threats and intimidation" - and she points out (as have more than 1000 current and former prosecutors) that if not for a Justice Department memo that argues against indicting a sitting president, obstruction charges were likely justified.

Indeed, those current and former prosecutors write in their open letter: "To look at these facts and say that a prosecutor could not probably sustain a conviction for obstruction of justice - the standard set out in Principles of Federal Prosecution - runs counter to logic and our experience."

There's certainly fertile ground for substantive questions. House Democrats, most notably Judiciary Chairman Nadler, would ideally love to hear Mueller endorse the obstruction angle - in colloquial, everyday language. They will surely ask him whether he, as an experienced professional prosecutor, believes that Trump committed obstruction-of-justice crimes, as determined by the weight of the evidence, even though Trump, as a sitting president, cannot be criminally charged.

Will Mueller elaborate on his report and answer that question in the affirmative? Yeah, right. And the 2019 Phillies will rally to win the National League East.

So if Mueller won't bite on whether Trump should be criminally charged, Judiciary Democrats will surely ask him to elaborate on the remedy he offered in his report: "The Constitution requires a process other than the criminal justice system to formally accuse a sitting president of wrongdoing." Well, the only other process is impeachment. Does Mueller believe that the evidence he amassed meets the threshold for an impeachment probe of high crimes and misdemeanors?

Could Mueller answer in the affirmative? Yeah, right. And unicorns will gambol on the National Mall.

Excuse me for trying to lower expectations, but Mueller is not likely to break character and deliver an indelible Hollywood moment. In fact, when the news broke that his testimony was being pushed back one week, because House committee Democrats wanted to ensure that their junior members would have the chance to speak, the odds of another Democratic muck-up increased. Expect repetitive questions badly framed within a five-minute window, all while preening for the cameras.

Perhaps Mueller's mere appearance on live TV will dominate the news cycle for a day, and remind enough potential 2020 voters that our Russia-enabled president is soaked in corruption – regardless of whether Mueller does little more than read aloud from what he has written. But if "Mueller Time" lays an egg, I'll be reminded of an old Peanuts cartoon, circa 1968, when Charlie Brown laments, "What a team. We can't even win enough games to have a slump!"

He could easily have been talking about the Democrats.
