Some Tips for Living a Greener Lifestyle at Home

Plant Native Species

Native plants can adapt to your local climate and use less water.

Buy Local or Plant a Garden

Supermarkets, even organic farmer's markets often transport produce from great distances creating large carbon emissions. Try planting your own garden or buying local produce.

Eat Less Meat

Livestock accounts for nearly 15% of human-induced greenhouse gas emissions. Going meat-free just one day a week will make a huge difference.

Buy Resuable Water Bottles

80% of plastic water bottles we buy end up in landfills, and account for more than 2 million tons of waste.

Use Reusable Shopping Bags

COMMUNITY CONCERN GROWS OVER POSSIBLE CLOSING OF SIERRA MADRE MIDDLE SCHOOL By Susan Henderson

The Board of the Pasadena Unified School District, in its efforts to deal with devastating budget shortages and declining enrollment, will hold a meeting on Thursday, October 10, 2019 at 4:30 pm at PUSD headquarters to discuss the second phase of the report by the Master Plan/Boundary subcommittee. According the the agenda distributed on Friday evening, discussion of additional consolidations/closures of secondary schools will occur. In the presentation that will be presented, Sierra Madre Middle School is included in several of the scenarios, one of which is to close the school completely. In the report, the scenario that would close SMMS would leave open Eliott, Wilson, Washington and Blair. Children currently attending Sierra Madre would be directed to one of the remaining schools. Also closing in that scenario would be McKinley and Marshall Middle Schools.

In 2013, after years of delays, the district spent in excess of $27 million dollars on SMMS, making it a State of the Art educational facility. It is the best performing Middle School in the district and the only school that has a Mandarin Immersion Program. Many feel that perhaps for those reasons alone, Sierra Madre may survive closure and would expand its student population from other schools.

After the first round of closures, PUSD President Larry Torres, who represents the district that includes Sierra Madre, wrote an open letter to the entire PUSD community describing the difficulty in making such tough decisions. It has been reprinted on the right. To review the full presentation go to: https://pusd. granicus.com/MetaViewer.php?view_id=15&event_id=408&meta_id=112599

OPEN LETTER BY PUSD ABOUT SCHOOL CLOSINGS

Dear Pasadena Unified community

Last night [Septmeber 26] was an important time for the entire PUSD community. With a goal of deepening equitable student access to high quality educational programs while laying a stable and sustainable foundation for the future, the Board of Education made the very difficult decision to consolidate Franklin Elementary, Jefferson Elementary, and Roosevelt Elementary at the end of the 2019-2020 school year. In October, the Board will deliberate on recommendations for secondary schools.

This comes after nearly a year of conversations with the Master Plan/Boundary Subcommittee and the Board of Education about the number and location of schools that our District should operate in the next five to ten years, given the ongoing challenges of lower birth rates, rising housing costs, and the resulting impact on enrollment and funding.

Our decision... is anchored in our goal of creating a future for PUSD as a stable, sustainable, and high quality public school system. It moves us toward actualizing our mission to deliver a caring, engaging, and challenging education for every child, every

Over the last decade, we have strengthened Pasadena Unified schools with excellent, rigorous, and engaging services for our students: from arts and music, dual language, magnet, and STEM to International Baccalaureate and high school academies. Our schools are igniting a curiosity for learning and producing extraordinary graduates who are poised to excel in the careers of

As a result of these decisions, we can preserve and enhance our students' experience with the resources they need to be successful in school and in their future.

This was a very painful decision for everyone, beginning with the students, families, and staff of Franklin, Jefferson, and Roosevelt. In the weeks ahead, we will work to ensure that the transition to new schools is as smooth as possible for everyone. We have already begun to strategically review the specific needs and requirements related to our Special Education population affected by this consolidation. We remain focused on providing a calm and stable environment so that all children continue to learn.

Sincerely, Larry Torres President, Board of Education David Verdugo, Ed.D. Interim Superintendent

WALKING SIERRA MADRE - The Social Side by Deanne Davis

"Bittersweet October. The mellow, messy, leafkicking perfect pause between the opposing miseries of summer and winter!" Carol Bishop

"Listen! The wind is rising and the air is wild with leaves. We have had our summer evenings, now for October eves." Humbert Wolfe

"Welcome October! New month, new chapter, new pages, new wishes. May the month give you courage, strength, confidence, patience, selflove and inner peace. May every day in October fill your days with Hope, Love, Sunshine and Energy. Let there be Joy, Fun and Laughter!" www.beautifulquotes.com

Those quotes pretty much say it all! But I thought I'd add an October offering of my own to the mix:

O...Oh please, please, let it cool off! Oh please, let the temperatures hover around those nice high 70's and low 80's! Oh please, let the nights be cool enough to think of pulling up the covers!

C...Cider! I'd love some hot apple cider. If you buy a gallon of apple cider, but it in an old percolator type coffee maker, add five or six cinnamon sticks broken in half, an orange cut in quarters, a bunch of whole cloves and whole allspice, then turn it on so the cider perks through the spices, you will end up with a big pot of happiness. Hot apple cider on a cold day is pure joy.

T...Total change of wardrobe! Wouldn't it be nice to wear jeans, boots, socks and...oh bliss! A sweater! Wouldn't it be nice to put all the shorts you've been living in since June into a drawer and forget about them till next June!

O...Outdoors! Wouldn't it be nice to actually enjoy being outdoors! To sit out on your patio in the morning with a cup of coffee and watch the sun come up? To sit outside with dear friends and enjoy a glass of wine or two and something simple like Triscuits and Humus or some veggies and ranch dip? And watch the moon appear in the sky. Be sure to spray yourself with mosquito spray and light that romantic citronella candle.

B...Blessed! Yes, we are blessed to see another fall season come around. To see the scarecrows all over town, to know that kids are going to paint all the downtown windows with wonderfully creepy designs, to know there will be a costume parade and that your own personal children are going to have a wonderful time trick or treating in a safe environment.

E...Excitement! The air is filled with excitement. Fall is a new beginning. October is the opal month of the year. It is the month of glory, of ripeness. It is the picture-month. It's the month when we buy pumpkins and put them out on our front porch. The month when we decorate inside with fall leaves and yellow chrysanthemums. The month when I put out my spider-adorned sign that says, "The Witch Is in!" The month when we start thinking of pumpkin goodies, like pumpkin cookies and pumpkin cheesecake.

R...Rejoice! Your electric bill is going to be less! Rain might be on the way! October is red and golden and brown. Carve a pumpkin, donate candy to one of the churches doing Trunk or Treat, and rejoice because you are alive! You are loved and this could very well be your best month of the year.

> "I'm so glad I live in a world where there are Octobers!" Anne of Green Gables, L.M. Montgomery

Watch for scarecrows! They're everywhere and so clever. They are where you least expect them to be! Have a great week, dear friends and neighbors and treat yourself to a Pumpkin Spice Latte. And don't think about the calories. They are one more reason to Rejoice!

> "Sunrises & Sunflowers Speak Hope" is a great gift for yourself or someone you love! Look for it on my book page: Amazon.com: Deanne Davis Star of Wonder the CD is now on TuneCore! Take a look! Blog: www.authordeanne.com Follow me on Twitter, too! https://twitter.com/@playwrightdd "A Tablespoon of Love, A Tablespoon of Laughter" is also available on my Amazon book page.

HALLOWEEN --AGAIN It's that time of year again. Time for me to recycle my Halloween article. But I updated it, so I a moderate slacker. Halloween, the longest holiday of the year, is upon us again. Why is Halloween the longest holiday, you ask. Primarily because of its position don't feel like a total slacker. Just in the calendar. We haven't had a decent celebration since the Fourth of July, and even that might not have been a big

Before that was Easter. And depending on what your family's like, that might not have been big, either. Going back farther takes us to St. Patrick's. Again, generally not huge. Which brings us to Valentine's, a holiday you either love or hate. I'm convinced that more people are in the latter category. Even those with a significant other often stress over the perfect dinner reservations and making sure they live up to the other's expectations. (My husband and I usually stay home and fix something indulgent like ribs.)

All this is to say that by the time we come around to Halloween we haven't had a good party since New Year's. And that was so long ago! We're starved for festivity. We've been looking forward to it since the middle of summer when stores packed away their Fourth of July decorations. By the time October 1st rolls around we've been marinating in Halloween decor for a good month. We're primed.

Why else is Halloween so big? Namely because it's not sentimental. People who despise the holiday season for their own reasons still love Halloween, or at least tolerate it. Halloween doesn't come with baggage. There are no tender songs like "I'll be home for Halloween," or "Have Yourself a Merry Little Halloween" to tug at the old heart strings.

Yes, Halloween is emotionally safe. Besides that, there's the whole aspect of dressing up that people get jazzed about. Personally, I don't go in for that, but a lot of people do. I work at a school, so arriving in character is kind of expected. But I'm not a classroom teacher, so I usually pass on it.

The kids always ask what I'll be. I tell them, "A speech teacher."

"But that's what you are everyday!" Nodding, "Exactly."

Maybe this year I'll give in and do something. But more likely not. That's why I have my trusty tee-shirt that's worn but once a year. It says, "This IS my Halloween costume." I know, such a humbug. But if you're not a humbug, more power to you. I hope you have a fun Halloween. Not for a few weeks, but who's counting?

*Have you checked out my novel, "A Year at Apex?" It's got humor, romance, the human condition, and public education. Just the thing to get you through the holiday season in one piece. Find it in paperback and ebook on Amazon and Barnes & Noble.

Suspects Caught in DUI Warrant Operation

Some think if they don't show up for a court hearing, the police won't have the manpower to go find them. If your violation is a DUI, don't count on it. On Thursday, Sept. 26, Pasadena Police Department officers fanned out across the city in search of high-risk DUI offenders. Four people with outstanding misdemeanor DUI warrants were located and arrested without incident during this

"Anyone with a missed DUI court date should contact the court on their own and work to set a new appearance date," said Pasadena Police Department Lieutenant Mark Goodman. "If you don't, that warrant is not going to disappear, and you could end up in jail."

Special DUI warrant service operations, along with regularly scheduled high-visibility DUI enforcement, such as DUI checkpoints, have a deterrent effect on those who disregard driving safety and abuse alcohol and drugs. Pasadena Police Department places a high priority on lowering deaths and injury with the goal of removing impaired drivers and increasing awareness of the dangers of driving under the influence of drugs and

SAN ANTONIO WINERY OFFERS WINE TASTING, TOURS, AND DELICIOUS CUISINE IN THE HEART OF LOS ANGELES

Pasadena is home to many of my friends in the restaurant business. One family that has made their home here for many years is the Riboli family. Does the name sound familiar to you? If not, I bet you know their wines. The San Antonio Winery is just a few miles away from where you are reading this right now - no long drive to Napa or Temecula. Los Angeles is home to the longest and largest producing winery in Southern California. San Antonio Winery, located just east of downtown Los Angeles in Lincoln Heights, offers the ultimate romantic experience, or the ideal spot to celebrate love and good times with friends. Step into the vast tasting room and up to the counter, and one of the friendly, learned staff will guide you on your wine tasting adventure. You can choose from a selection of award-winning dry wines from San Antonio Winery's Maddalena and San Simeon collections, or semi-sweet, semi-sparkling wines from their popular Stella Rosa line, like Stella Rosa Red, and sparkling Stella Rosa Moscato Rosé, perfect for "stellabrating" romance. On my recent visit I took a tour of the entire winery, where I learned about the original urban winery's history. I even got to see where the wines are fermented, aged, and bottled. Once I worked up an appetite, I indulged in homestyle Italian cuisine at Maddalena restaurant. Named after the winery's matriarch, Maddalena was the first restaurant inside a winery in California. It was opened in the 1970s after Maddalena Riboli's sandwiches became so popular, a long line would form outside the winery. Today, you can still enjoy some of Maddalena's delicious recipes, like her outstanding lasagna and handmade ravioli. You can listen to live music in the restaurant all weekend long. San Antonio Winery is located at 737 Lamar Street. There is also an ample parking lot with complimentary parking. Visit sanantoniowinery.com for more information.

CHRISTOPHER Nyerges ENRIQUE VILLASENOR: PRICKLY PEAR'S AMBASSADOR

Nyerges is the author of "Guide to Wild Foods," Foraging California," "How to Survive Anywhere," and other books. He leads regular field trips, and can be reached at www.SchoolofSelf-

Enrique Villaseñor is at the head of the classroom, extolling the many unsung virtues of the prickly pear cactus. "It's often referred to as poor people's food," he explains, "but did you know that it contains all the essential amino acids, and some non-essential amino acids as well?"

Villaseñor is the defacto ambassador of the humble prickly pear cactus, a plant that has been used for food and medicine for

After 35 years as a school teacher, Villaseñor recently retired and now actively works as an assistant to pharmacologist Dr. James Adams, who shares traditional Chumash healing methods.

In the two hour presentation, Villaseñor takes his audience through the fascinating history, and the vast healthful benefits, of the prickly pear cactus, beginning with the fact that cacti remnants were found in jars in Mexico dating back 10,000 years. He explains that archaeologists have found old jars that contained not only cactus, but teostine (the forerunner to corn), chili, amaranth, sapote, and mesquite, some of the earliest foods from this continent.

As part of his presentation, Villaseñor shares details from the historical book, "Relacion de Cabeza de Vaca," the account of Alvar Nunez Cabeza de Vaca's journey in the unknown interior of America. He was one of four survivors of the 1527 Narvaez expedition. From 1527 to 1536, he wandered across the U.S. Southwest, learning from the natives about the local foods. Though he was a slave for the first two years, he became both a trader and a healer to the various tribes. He learned of the value of the nopal (aka the prickly pear cactus) from the natives and used it for scurvy, treating arrow wounds, and for stomach issues. After returning to Spain in 1537, he wrote his account of the journey, first published in 1542. Cabeza de Vaca is sometimes considered a proto-anthropologist for his detailed accounts of the many tribes of Native Americans that he encountered.

"The prickly pear cactus is one of the best immune system boosters," says Villaseñor, quoting Hippocrates, who said "Let food be thy medicine, and let medicine be thy food."

Historically, the prickly pear cactus pads have been used for lowering cholesterol levels, digestive issues, edema, wounds, bronchitis, fevers, vitiligo, inflammation, type II diabetes, muscle pain, urinary problems, burns, and liver problems. Students of Villaseñor listen in awe, wondering why they have always considered the prickly pear just a food to eat when you're next to starving, rather that is tasty and easy to prepare. The benefits are that it strengththan the superfood it is.

Villaseñor explains that because prickly pear was always available in good times and bad, in times of drought and plenty, it was always something that poor people could and did use, but then it came to be regarded as simply a food of last resort.

Today, however, that view is changing. Villaseñor points out that one can find hundreds of products made from the prickly pear on Amazon. This includes food and food supplements, pills for diabetes, as well as various products from the cochineal bug that is often found on the prickly pear plants. The cochineal has historically been dried and crushed to get carminic acid, and a very good red dye for clothing and even food products.

The highlight of Villaseñor's presentation is when he turns on a food processor and makes a prickly pear drink for everyone to try.

First, he scrapes the young pads to remove the spines and the tiny hair-like glochids. He puts one large pad into the blender, and adds one apple and one orange, and blends it all. The resultant drink is thick, and so it can be thinned further with water if one prefers. Everyone enjoyed the tartness and sweetness of the drink. No sugar is ever added.

THE RECIPE:

"Agua de Nopales" -- Prickly Pear Cactus Water, by Enrique Villaseñor:

Ingredients

- 1 Prickly Pear Cactus pad (cleaned and rinsed)
- 1 Peeled Orange
- 1 Green Apple
- 2 Cups of chilled water
- 1 Ice
- 1 Lime

Dice 1 Prickly Pear pad. Place in blender with 2 cups of water. Blend. Dice 1 green apple. Blend. Dice 1 peeled orange. Blend. Add additional water to taste if the smoothie is too thick for you. Serve chilled with ice. Use lime to taste. Do not add sugar. Suggested serving is 1.5 cups 2X a day. Enjoy!

According to Villaseñor, this is one of the best ways to get your daily intake of the prickly pear, in a form ens your immune system, helps you to lose weight, and lowers your cholesterol.

Villaseñor adds that complete health is really about complete balance, and by "balance" he explains that each of us need to find balance physically, spiritually, socially, and financially within our community and family. "You should work at this every day," he

Additionally, Villaseñor points out that the natural immune boosters include sleep, plant-based diet, exercise, not-smoking, having minimal stress in your life, maintaining a healthy weight, minimal alcohol consumption, maintaining healthy relationships, and avoiding infections. Consuming prickly pear cactus daily is just one part of this overall balance.

Villaseñor shares a little about his background during his presentation. His mother is still alive at 101 years old, and she taught him Balance in all things. "I was outside all day, always doing things outdoors," he explains. "And when we had a problem, my mother healed us!"

Villaseñor also shares testimonials from students of his and Dr. Adams, students who have experienced lower glucose levels, improved bwel movements, weight loss, and lower cholesterol levels by consuming the prickly pear cactus drink, and other herbal remedies they teach.

Regarding the many additives to foods today, Villaseñor advises, "If you cannot pronounce it, do not eat it!"

Villaseñor smiles as he shares an old idiom, which underscores how Mexico's identity is tied to the nopal, or prickly pear cactus. "Soy mas Mexicano que el nopal," he says, which translates as "I am more Mexican than the cactus." The expression is asking, between the lines, what came first, the Mexican or the cactus, affirming the person's pride in being Mexican.

LIFE UNDERCOVER: COMING OF AGE IN THE CIA HARDCOVER BY AMARYLLIS FOX

Amaryllis Fox's riveting memoir tells the story of her ten years in the most elite clandestine ops unit of the CIA, hunting the world's most dangerous terrorists in sixteen countries while marrying and giving birth to a daughter. Fox was in her last year as an undergraduate at Oxford studying theology and international law when her writing mentor Daniel Pearl was captured and Galvanized by this brutality, Fox applied to a master's program in conflict and terrorism at Georgetown's School of Foreign Service, where she created an algorithm that predicted, with uncanny certainty, the likelihood of a terrorist cell arising in any village around the world. At 21, she was recruited by the CIA. Her first assignment was reading and analyzing hundreds of classified cables a day from foreign governments and synthesizing them into daily briefs for the president. Her next assignment was at the Iraq desk in the Counterterrorism center. At 22, she was fast-tracked into advanced operations training, sent from Langley to "the Farm," where she lived for six months in a simulated world learning how to use a Glock, how to get out of flexicuffs while locked in the trunk of a car, how to withstand torture, and the best ways to commit suicide in case of captivity. At the end of this training she was deployed as a spy under non-official cover--the most difficult and coveted job in the field as an art dealer specializing in tribal and indigenous art and sent to infiltrate terrorist networks in remote areas of the Celebrating literacy and paying it forward, books will be 'hidden' throughout the Foothill Communities for children to find. Young readers can enjoy the book as long as they would like, keep it, or rehide it when they are done with it for another child to enjoy. The parents of the book finders are encouraged to share the story of how they found the book on social media and use the hashtags #mkaok #mackidarcadia.

"I am thrilled to use our local Macaroni Kid platform to spread the love of literacy and kindness throughout our communities, while also being part of a larger national movement. It's amazing and encouraging to see hundreds of publishers throughout the country positively impacting their communities during the same week," says Kathy E., Macaroni Kid Publisher for Arcadia, Monrovia, Temple City & Sierra Madre.

Macaroni Kid Act of Kindness Week is an annual nationwide celebration which occurs on the third week in September. Over the past years, Macaroni Kid Publishers raised $50,000 for local charities, donated more than 35,000 diapers to families in need, encouraged hundreds of kids to sign antibullying pledges, cleaned dozens of parks and trails and delivered more than 3,000 handwritten cards to first responders.

MONEY TIP FOR STUDENTS, OCTOBER 2019

Time to start repaying student loans

If you finished college in May and have federal student loans, it's almost time to start repaying them. These tips from KHEAA may help.

One of the smartest things you can do is pay more than your scheduled amount. If you ask your lender to apply the extra to the principal, you'll pay less interest over the life of your loan.

Several plans are available. The standard repayment plan calls for equal monthly payments over 10 years. The minimum monthly payment is usually $50. Other options include:

- Graduated repayment, with lower amounts that get higher over the 10-year period.
- Income-driven repayment plans, with monthly amounts based on income and family size. Some plans forgive the balance if you make on-time payments for a certain time.
- Pay As You Earn, if you received no loans before Oct. 1, 2007, and at least one loan after Sept. 30, 2011.

You'll probably pay more interest over the life of the loan if you use any option other than standard repayment. Also, you may have to pay taxes on any amount that is forgiven.

Remember that the federal government can change repayment programs at any time.

KHEAA is a public, non-profit agency established in 1966 to improve students' access to college. It provides information about financial aid and financial literacy at no cost to students and parents. KHEAA also helps colleges manage their student loan default rates and verify information submitted on the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA). #### CAT OF THE WEEK

SNOW WHITE TWINS

A beautiful set of all white twins—we call them, Buggsies!" Since their all white mother was named June Bug, we continued with the cute buggy names. The gorgeous male is Hopper, all white, while Lady Bug, female, is a Hopper look-alike. Lady Bug is so sweet & delicate, sometimes a little shy but she does like to play. Sweet Hopper is just simply a loving playful boy, who often likes to give you lick kisses. Adopt both & use our "Twofur" offer! Born 5/1/2017. They will come spayed/neutered, current on vaccines, and microchipped. See more pictures of them, their videos, and adoption info at https://www.lifelineforpets.org/teens--adult-cats.html, then call 626-676-9505 for a meet & greet.

Pet of the Week

Raven's not a regular mom, she's a cool mom! Raven came into the shelter as a nursing mom with five kittens, and now she's looking for a home of her own. When you visit her, she'll immediately grab your attention with a dulcet meow. And she has so many things to tell you. She'll talk your ear off! Sometimes, it's that she wants you to pet her. Other times, she wants you to pet her with your eyes! But either way, we doubt you've seen a cat as gorgeous as her. If you've been wanting a house panther, Raven's ready to be yours.

The adoption fee for cats is $90. All cats are spayed or neutered, microchipped, and vaccinated before being adopted.

New adopters will receive a complimentary health-and-wellness exam from VCA Animal Hospitals, as well as a goody bag filled with information about how to care

View photos of adoptable pets at pasadenahumane.org. Adoption hours are 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday; 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Friday; and 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday. Pets may not be available for adoption and cannot be held for potential adopters by phone calls or email.

LOOKING FOR A BEST FRIEND?

BUBBA

Bubba makes a show stopping fashion first impression in his orange tuxedo with white bib and spats. That silky coat is a pleasure to see and softly stroke. He is a young cat who can appear shy at first meeting. But he is a good guy and just needs a little extra care to gain his confidence. While inside his cubby, Bubba acts quirky, slinky and silly but can be lured out with a string, a mouse tail or anything snake like. As he gets to know his guest, he enjoys coming out into the "catio", melts into petting hands and will snuggle into a lap purring his appreciation being brushed. Treats are another path to his heart. Bubba is looking for a forever home that will appreciate his charm. The adoption fee is $99, which includes neuter surgery, microchip, first vaccinations and a free wellness check-up at a participating veterinarian.

MY TAKE ON THE SNIFF BREAK

In my on-going pursuit of learning the best techniques for humane dog-handling, I read books and articles, I view tutorials and I try to tune into rolated and I and I try to tune into related programs by Chris Leclerc that might enhance my skills. I go through phases of learning followed by the purposeful application of what I've learned many years, I've come to believe that a little goes a long way when it comes to the humans' attempt to We two-legged, upright walkers have a tendency to think we know it all, therefore we need to teach our pets how to think and behave the way we want them to. I personally tend to maintain the mind set that I am the one learning from them, more often than the other way around. There are important lessons to be learned on both our parts, but I am very aware of my own need to look, listen and anticipate the

and I think this system serves me well. Having worked with a wide variety of dogs over the course of interesting and enlightening messages the dog has to offer. I realize that dogs do benefit from the structure and consistent patterns we set forth for them, and basic behavioral training is an important aspect of helping a puppy mature into adulthood. But I also think it is important to achieve a healthy balance in the relationships we have with our canine companions. First and foremost, we humans must give our pets mutual respect and allow them the freedom of being themselves. There's a reason why we call them our best friends, and to miss out on what a dog is capable of sharing would be a travesty of opportunity.

One common challenge is the concept of training a dog to walk on leash. Of course, every pet owner wants to be able to walk their dog without the stress of excess pulling or over-excitement, and fortunately there are some basic tips that can help with teaching a dog to walk obediently on-leash. But what about allowing a dog to stop and sniff during a walk? Should that be allowed? Or, does it mean you are being a lazy owner, allowing the dog to take charge? There are various schools of thought on this issue, and for some trainers the bottom-line question is; "Who's walking who?" I guess my question is; "How important is it to control every moment of the dog's attention during a walk around

I vacillated from one side of the fence to the other regarding this specific dog-handling technique for quite some time, but I now know for sure where I stand. My personal take on allowing the dog to stop and have a sniff break during a walk is based on what I've learned about the physical characteristics of the canine's olfactory system, along with what I understand about the dog's way of thinking. First of all, I accept that a dog does, indeed, think and that his thoughts do matter.

I won't go into the specific 'rules of the road' I have heard told by the many trainers I've come across over the years, because it is such a wide variety of opinion to consider, and because I am not a professional trainer myself. I am just a person who spends a lot of time around different dogs on a daily basis, and I've come to realize that each one is an individual, just as my human friends are. I don't assume any particular behavior or response from one human that I might expect to get from another, and the same goes for my four-legged friends. However, there are a few predictable traits I can anticipate from every dog I know, not the least of which is the desire to take a sniff break during a walk.

The dogs' way of "reading" or "seeing" the world is a major factor in considering whether or not random sniff breaks should be allowed on leash, and you can be sure that any healthy dog will want to pause and enjoy those precious moments. Why? Because their noses work over time, and they are viewing the world through their nostrils much in the way we view the world through our eyes. How would you feel if you were forced to wear a blind-fold every time you went out for a walk? I imagine it would be very frustrating, and I have no doubt that is how a dog feels when he or she is not allowed to use their nose to sniff or "view" the world during an on-leash outing.

Inasmuch as we humans want to believe dogs should think and experience the world the same way we do, that philosophy could not be further from the truth. In her book, Inside of a Dog (Simon & Schuster, 2009), psychologist Alexandra Horowitz shares her wealth of knowledge about why dogs do what they do, and what they are likely thinking when they do it. In one chapter she makes the point that humans place an immense amount of value on inanimate objects, whereas dogs don't give them a second thought. They don't assign meaning to, say a chair or a couch unless we've been sitting there, leaving our personal scent for them to investigate with their overactive olfactory's when we walk away. Then, and only then does that sitting spot become of interest to the dog.

The same goes for a tree or flower you may come across during a walk with your dog. I assure you that the dog won't think, "What a beautiful tree or flower." He or she will only choose to pay attention to that object if there happened to have been a previous visitor who passed by and sprinkled a urinary "calling card" on that spot for the next passing pet to take a whiff of.

There's a lot more to know about the benefits for a dog being allowed to take a sniff break, but I hope the few thoughts I shared in this column might inspire others to pay attention and try to understand why their dog behaves the way they do. Understanding their wants and needs can help us give them with a fuller, happier life and after all, isn't that the whole point of having a pet? To enjoy their company and give them a good life? Get out with your animals often and explore the outdoors together. Try not to obsess on being the boss of your dog, rather work toward achieving a respectful, balanced friendship with them. #### FLU VACCINES FOR SE-NIORS THAT PROVIDE BETTER PROTECTION

Dear Savvy Senior:

What can you tell me about the flu shots designed for older adults? I got sick last winter after getting a standard flu shot and would like to find out if the senior-specific flu vaccine is worth getting. Approaching 80

Dear Approaching:

There are actually two different types of flu shots available to people age 65 and older. These FDAapproved vaccines are designed to offer extra protection beyond what a standard flu shot provides, which is important for older adults who have weaker immune defenses and have a great risk of developing dangerous flu complications.

The Center for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) estimates that during the 2018-2019 flu season, up to 647,000 people were hospitalized and 61,200 died because of the flu - most of whom were seniors.

You also need to be aware that these senior-specific flu shots cannot guarantee that you won't get the flu this season, but they will lower your risk. And if you do happen to get sick, you probably won't get as sick as you would without it. Here's more information on the two vaccines:

Fluzone High-Dose: Approved for U.S. use in 2009, the Fluzone High-Dose is a high-potency vaccine that contains four times the amount of antigen as a regular flu shot does, which creates a stronger immune response for better protection. This vaccine, according to a 2013 clinical trial, was 24 percent more effective than the regular-dose shot at preventing flu in seniors.

FLUAD: Available in the U.S. since 2016, the FLUAD vaccine contains an added ingredient called adjuvant MF59 that also helps create a stronger immune response. In a 2012 Canadian observational study, FLUAD was 63 percent more effective than a regular flu shot. The CDC does not recommend one vaccination over the other, and to date, there have been no studies comparing the two vaccines.

You should also know that both the Fluzone High-Dose and FLUAD can cause more of the mild side effects that can occur with a standard-dose flu shot, like pain or tenderness where you got the shot, muscle aches, headache or fatigue. And neither vaccine is recommended for seniors who are allergic to chicken eggs, or those who have had a severe reaction to a flu vaccine in the past.

If you are allergic to eggs you can ask for a Flucelvax or FluBlok shot. Neither of these vaccines uses chicken eggs in their manufacturing process.

All of these vaccines are covered 100 percent by Medicare Part B as long as your doctor, health clinic or pharmacy agrees not to charge you more than Medicare pays.

Pneumonia Vaccines

Two other important vaccinations the CDC recommends to seniors, especially this time of year, are the pneumococcal vaccines for pneumonia. Around 1 million Americans are hospitalized with pneumonia each year, and about 50,000 people die from it.

The CDC recommends that all seniors, 65 or older, get two vaccinations -Prevnar 13 and Pneumovax 23. Both vaccines, which are administered just once at different times, protect against different strains of the bacteria to provide maximum protection.

If you haven't yet received any pneumococcal vaccine you should get the Prevnar 13 first, followed by Pneumovax 23 at least one year later. But if you've already been vaccinated with Pneumovax 23, wait at least one year before getting the Prevnar 13.

Medicare Part B covers both shots, if they are taken at least one year apart. To locate a vaccination site that offers any of these shots, visit Vaccine Finder org and type in your location.

A MINISTER AND A DAY OFF HIS ROCKER

business for the day done. In fact, I was feeling good about the progress

I was making with my "to-do list." Nothing is more satisfying to me than the sense of being in control of my schedule. I love checking off items on my "to-do list."

As the scheme of things usually develops with me, this euphoric situation was not long-lived. It was left to the Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage to bring a sense of reality into my life.

"Haven't you forgotten something?" She asked me.

This question drove me back to my daily planner. Frantically, I searched my schedule to see what appointment I had missed or what project I had overlooked this time. With all due respect to her, I could not find anywhere in my schedule, or on my calendar, where I had missed anything.

"No," I cautiously said to her. "I seem to have covered everything." With that, I flashed a confident smile in her direction.

She caught that smile and returned a menacing glance in my immediate direction. I caught her drift, which clearly undermined my previous confidence in

"Don't you recall," my wife almost sneered, "your New Year's resolution?

This sent me into a mild panic. New Year's resolutions, as everybody except my wife knows, are not to be taken seriously. People make such resolutions only because it's the thing to do at the time. What a person says on New Year's Eve should have no bearing whatsoever with the coming New Year.

Looking at her with all the seriousness I could muster at the time I said, "I really don't know what you At the time, I thought she mistook my seriousness for what she likes to call "my flippancy."

"I think you know exactly what I mean," she

Seeing the blank expression on my face, or more blank than usual, she began to realize I had no idea what she was talking about. Placing both hands on her hips, which is a warning sign to me of something ominous to follow, she stated her case.

"One of your New Year's resolutions was to take a day off each week. When was the last time you took a day off?" She demanded.

Then it all started coming back to me. I did remember such a resolution. But if I recall it accurately, someone, I'll mention no names, backed me into a corner forcing me into such a resolution.

At the time, the resolution was not the result of any

I was tootling along one day last week, quite focused on getting my placating her at the time. I never imagined months later she would be calling me on the carpet for it.

'Well," I stammered, "there was that week in February when I took several days off." Then my smile returned to me along with a little bit of confidence. "You don't mean those days you were sick in bed with a cold, do you? Tell me you're not including those in the category of days off?"

My smile along with my confidence deserted me. No matter what anybody says, I do sometimes think of taking a day off. And people should get credit for some of their intentions.

be enough to think about doing it. The only problem with this pitch is, my wife doesn't buy it. Believe me, if she was buying, I would give a good discount to her. 'Okay," I conceded. "I'll take a day off next week." I thought that would settle it and with any good luck by next week she will have forgotten this conversation. This just points out one of the major differences between husbands and wives. When it comes to conversations, wives have total recall of every conversation they have ever had.

If, for example, I can't actually take a day off, it should

Of course, I don't know if my wife has total recall on our conversations. There have been times when I thought she was making up what I said 13 years ago. I just had no way to prove it.

"Why not take a day off this week?" she queried. "Let me think about it," I tried stalling her, "and I'll get back with you on the day."

"How about tomorrow? It's a day," she replied.

Well, she had me there. Tomorrow was a day this week. My problem is I don't like to make snap judgments on things affecting my schedule. Looking back on the conversation, I can see my mistake. I hesitated. In my many years as a husband, I have noted whenever I hesitated, my wife assumed it was a sign of agreeing with her proposal. "It's settled then," she said. "Tomorrow you will be taking the day off."

This was an invitation I could not refuse. I love it when a plan comes together and I felt compelled to go along with the plan.

The Bible offers a wonderful invitation. "Come unto me, all ye that labour and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest. Take my yoke upon you, and learn of me; for I am meek and lowly in heart: and ye shall find rest unto your souls. For my yoke is easy, and my burden is light" (Matthew 11:28-30.) My advice is to take God up on his marvelous offer, today, not tomorrow...

STUART TOLCHIN CHANGE IS NEVER EASY

The right side of the front page of the L.A. Times of October 1, 2019 is completely taken up by two stories relating to whether the State will allow college athletes to profit from endorsements. Senate Bill 206 signed by Governor Newsom prohibits the NCAA from barring a university from competition if its athletes are compensated for the use of their name, image, or likeness beginning January 1, 2023. The University of California System, California State University Schools, Stanford, and USC all opposed the bill saying that it would lead to fines or even expulsions from the NCAA. Governor Newsom refused to yield to this opposition and publicly stated that the state needed to address the racial, gender and economic injustices ingrained in college athletics. He stated that the NCAA system has been perverted and this bill is fundamentally about rebalancing things.

A federal Court opinion was issued today in the Students for Fair Admission v. Harvard. The name of the plaintiff is misleading. It is a conservative organization that has filed other actions in an attempt to end affirmative action admission programs. The plaintiff's argument in this matter was that racial identity was considered as one of the grounds for admission which resulted in discriminatory exclusion of Asian American Students who had higher test scores and grade point averages. The Court refused to accept this argument. The court emphasized that discriminatory conditions relating to educational opportunities still were prevalent within the society and that in order to obtain the desirable diversity within each class it was necessary to consider racial identity. The Court also emphasized that diverse student bodies were a good thing. This case will be appealed perhaps all the way to the Supreme Court. If the lower court opinion is reversed and affirmative action admission programs are eliminated it would be

The existence of historic discriminatory policies is directly involved with the need for the elimination of the restriction against the acceptance of financial benefit that is particularly unfair to low-income student athletes. Today's headlines describe the outrageous illegal bribes paid by wealthy individuals in order to obtain acceptance for their less than gifted children. Meanwhile African American and Hispanic students who have been accepted because of their recognized athletic accomplishments are completely uncompensated for the daily hours spent training and traveling. The universities are compensated with television rights and stadiums filled by tens of thousands of fans who cheer for these unpaid athletes

Why do the Universities and the NCAA strongly oppose the California Bill? Today I purchased the Revolt of The Black Athlete by Harry Edwards who is the San Jose State Professor who was often criticized for being involved in the 1968 protest by the gold and bronze medalists in the 1968 Mexico City Olympics. These African American sprinters dared to wear a black glove and raise their hands in protest from the victory stand. For this act they were banned from future Olympics and faced continued criticism. Harry Edwards explains that the historical conditions affecting college sports should not allow it to be called amateurism but rather should be termed "a modern day misnomer for economic tyranny. He uses the term "plantation analogy", a term that has been used for fifty years as an apt description of the circumstances of Black Athletes in College Sports. He explains that in exchange for the right to perform for free Black Athletes have had to agree to keep their mouths shut, never respond to insults, and just play ball. These were the same conditions to which Jackie Robinson agreed in order to be used to break the color line in 1947.

In conclusion, the universities and the NCAA more than resemble the plantation owners of the pre-Civil War period. The status quo provides them great financial remuneration based upon the unpaid labor of others. Hopefully, the universities and the NCAA are not willing to create a Civil War in order to avoid change which they fear might cause a loss of revenue. Right now change is coming slowly. Inadequate schools often improperly prepare students for college and once in College they, like other students, need all the help they can get. Young people like LeBron James, at the time he graduated High School, should not be forced to forego College in order to go directly into the NBA and earn enough money to assist his family. Now he earns enough money as a businessman and athlete such that money grants him power to have his voice be heard such that he can help bring about positive change. Hopefully we are on the way to creating true diversity and equality.

TOM PURCELL 'FALL BACK' TO PUTTING LIFE'S SMALL JOYS AHEAD OF POLITICS

Autumn has arrived. I can't think of a better time to put priorities back in order.

You see, a new University of Nebraska-Lincoln study finds that "the current U.S. political climate is literally making Americans physically sick, damaging friendships, and driving many people 'crazy," according to studyfinds.org.

Among the findings: About two in five Americans are stressed out by politics, and one in five are losing sleep over it.

Look, politics is important. An informed, engaged public is essential to our country's continued success at the local, state and federal levels.

But aren't we taking our politics - and ourselves - a bit too seriously?

To be sure, in the era of social media - and a president who tweets 24/7 - politics is in our faces more than ever. We carry politics around on our smartphones.

proper perspective. Consider: We each have little control over who becomes president - just one vote. But we have total control over how we respond to who becomes president.

But that doesn't mean we shouldn't make a concerted effort to keep politics in

A president's policies do affect our day-to-day lives - health insurance policies, taxes and regulations do impact us some. But the truth is that our politicians otherwise have minimal daily impact on our lives.

Life is largely made up of colds, bills, speeding tickets and people who sometimes grate on our nerves.

Between those experiences are mundane tasks and drudgeries.

Interrupting those drudgeries are delicious meals with friends, the occasional hearty laugh, the love of a truly special person who's supportive in times of need and autumn, one of the most wonderful times of the year.

Spring is about new life and fresh starts. Summer is about toil, sweat and a oneweek break at the beach. Autumn is about harvesting your labor's hard-earned

It's about peacefully accepting that warm weather will be gone soon - and that bitter-cold winds and snow will be back soon.

Among my favorite things to do at this time of year are driving to fall festivals in small country towns, going on hayrides after dark, and drinking hot apple cider with a dash of Irish whiskey - around a roaring bonfire with my closest friends, while we tell each other ghost stories and tales of haunted houses, ghouls and goblins with Halloween approaching.

Autumn allows us to reflect on what is most valuable in our lives - our loved ones, our extended family. It's about spending time with each other and talking about everything and nothing at all.

It's about taking a much-needed respite from politics - about making chili in a cast-iron dutch oven that sits for hours on fireside coals, then feasting on that chili with your parents and siblings while thanking God that all are still healthy and together after no small number of years.

We're tearing ourselves apart with our politics. Autumn offers a chance to renew friendships and reprioritize our lives.

As the leaves turn bright colors and drop from the trees, drop politics down on your list of priorities - way down to its proper place.

Autumn is too important and too enjoyable to let politics intrude.

Light a bonfire, heat up some apple cider and focus on the most important things in our lives - while taking a much-needed break from our overly heated politics.

JOHN L. MICEK

THE ONLY SHOCK ABOUT TRUMP'S ACTIONS IS THAT WE'RE SHOCKED

The explosive release of a federal whistleblower complaint alleging that President Donald Trump abused the power of his office, and that "unidentified White House officials" then attempted to cover it up, is sending shockwaves throughout

And while the underlying details of the complaint were eyeopening and alarming, its fundamental premise was not.

Given the choice between protecting and promoting his own interests, or the interests of the nation he was elected to govern and whose Constitution he swore to uphold, Trump's interests win every time.

From crassly pitching his ailing Doral resort in Miami as the site of the next G7 meeting to revelations that the Air Force essentially propped up a Trump property in Scotland to a lawsuit alleging that Trump is illegally profiting from his hotels and restaurants in Washington, D.C. and New York, the priorities of America's reality star-in-chief have been on public display for months.

But there is something so singularly offensive about Trump's utterly transparent request for dirt on former Vice President Joe Biden from Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelensky. It makes every previous assault on our Democratic norms by the narcissistic 45th chief executive look like an amateur hour performance in

"In the course of my official duties, I have received information from multiple U.S. government officials that the President of the United States is using the power of his office to solicit interference from a foreign country in the 2020 U.S. election, the whistleblower wrote in a 7-page memo.

Finally, in plain English: Trump's avarice laid bare.

Trump, predictably, has pushed back, dismissing the Congressional impeachment inquiry as the latest iteration of the ongoing "witch hunt." He can bluster and deflect as much as he wants, but the undeniable proof of his self-dealing is vivid in the rough transcript the White House released on Wednesday. It's an extraordinary exercise in mob-style shakedowns, prefaced by only the slenderest of pleasantries.

By early Friday morning, a majority of the House's membership - at least 225 of the 435 sitting lawmakers - supported some kind of impeachment action.

The bulk of those votes were overwhelmingly Democratic, though, as NBC News reports, they are not unified in voting to impeach Trump. Some Democrats, as well as Rep. Justin Amash, I-Mich., have asked for an inquiry, while others support an investigation initiated by the House Judiciary Committee.

Some Democrats, mainly from vulnerable districts, have yet to announce their intentions.

While much work remains for Democrats who serve on the six congressional committees charged with conducting the inquiry, it's more than safe to say that impeachment will become the definitional debate of the 2020 campaign.

Trump will use it to rail against Democrats in his hockey stadium rallies, as he carpet bombs his ever-loyal base with conspiracy theory after conspiracy theory. Democrats will use it as a cudgel in their ongoing argument that Trump lacks the fitness to lead. Everyone who believes something will continue to believe it, and the needle among loyalists won't move.

Where this gets worrying for Trump, beyond the prospect of carrying the mark of impeachment with him into history (assuming he and it get that far), is his standing among the independent voters who were so critical to his election in 2016.

The Mueller affair, while damning, was difficult to quantify. Here we have, in the president's own words, an attempted shakedown of a foreign leader to secure his own re-election. And he's selling out the country to do it. Every voter who's seen an episode of "The Sopranos" can recognize that.

It's a nice presidency you got there. It'd be a shame if anything happened to it.
