Some Tips for Living a Greener Lifestyle at Home

 Plant Native Species Native plants can adapt to your local climate and use less water.

- Buy Local or Plant a Garden Supermarkets, even organic farmer's markets often transport produce from great distances creating large carbon emissions. Try planting your own garden or buying local produce.
- Eat Less Meat

Livestock accounts for nearly 15% of human-induced greenhouse gas emissions. Going meat-free just one day a week will make a huge difference.

- Buy Resuable Water Bottles 80% of plastic water bottles we buy end up in landfills, and account for more than 2 million tons of waste.
- Use Reusable Shopping Bags

SIERRA MADRE TO VOTE ON MEASURE S NOVEMBER 5TH

Ballots have arrived for the special Sierra Madre City election on November 5, 2019. This Citizens Initiative was circulated by dedicated volunteers to allow a sales tax raise of .75% to enhance the services of Sierra Madre.

Those who vote at the polls, check your sample ballot for the polling place near you and be sure to mark your calendar for November 5th to vote. Those who vote by mail, get your ballot in now so you won't forget to vote.

Your YES votes will enable the City of Sierra Madre to keep the sales tax money in our village. As such, the City will be able to increase their services for parks, streets, public safety, library, sidewalks and other services.

Why do we need your YES vote?

The State of California has imposed a Sales Tax limit of 10.25% by cities, counties and other districts. Sierra Madre's sales tax is currently 9.50%, thus the citizens proposal is to close the gap between the two, or 0.75%.

If we don't close that gap, it is extremely likely that another district such as LA County, or an agency that you might not agree with, will impose a Sales Tax at that limit that will not have a direct benefit on the city of Sierra Madre.

Should the citizens pass Measure S, we will close the gap for our benefit.

Closing that gap means our City will receive all of those funds and they will go directly into our General Fund to pay for the services we enjoy from our City.

Why a special election and why now?

If we had waited, we would have run the risk of there being competing Sales Tax measures on the general election ballot in 2020. Those Tax measures would be voted on County wide, and statistics has shown that past tax measures have overwhelmingly passed when they are on the General Ballot.

By closing the gap on November 5th, that 0.75% cannot be taken by any entity that passes a tax raise in 2020. It's really a win-win for us. It means that there will be an additional $200,000 to $225,000 added to our City's treasury per year.

The Citizens Committee urges you to vote YES on Measure S to keep sales tax in Sierra Madre.

The City of Sierra Madre is announcing the resignation of Council Member Denise Delmar.

At the October 8th Council meeting, Delmar announced her resignation for personal reasons related to the care of her family.

"It has been a privilege to serve the residents of Sierra Madre, work with the amazing City staff, and serve with my esteemed colleagues on the Council. Sierra Madre will always have a special place in my heart," Council Member Delmar said.

A reception will be held for Council Member Delmar on October 22, 2019 at 6:30PM during the City Council meeting.

"Denise has been a special part of the Sierra Madre community since she arrived 13 years ago, first as the Chair of the General Plan Committee and then as a Councilmember and Mayor," Mayor John Harabedian said. "We are sad to see her go, and will miss her perspective, but wish her and her family the best."

Delmar was first elected to the council in 2014 and re-elected in 2018. She served as Mayor from April 2018 until April, 2019. #### FATE OF SIERRA MADRE MIDDLE SCHOOL STILL UNDECIDED

PUSD Board of Education to Host Community Forum on Secondary School Consolidation Options

On Thursday, the chambers of the Pasadena School Board Room was filled with parents and students expressing their concerns over the potential closing of numerous Middle and High Schools in the district due to budget constraints.

The meeting was presided over by Board President Larry Torres, who represents Sierra Madre, and marked the return of PUSD Superintendent aBrian McDonald from a medical leave of absence after battling cancer.

The Board of Education is considering options to consolidate middle and high schools next year as the District adjusts to demographic changes and the resulting economic impact on public school funding. Although PUSD, like most other public school districts across the country is facing financial challenges, declining enrollment and competition with Charter Schools. The solutions recommended have caused a great deal of anxiety in communities around the district. PUSD covers the city and unincorporated areas of Pasadena, including Altadena and the city of Sierra Madre. The board recently choose to close three elementary schools.

Among those in attendance were supporters of all ages of Sierra Madre Middle School. Their presence supported the approximately 282 on a 'Save Our School' petition that had been submitted.

One brave student, nervously, but courageously told the Board how important the school was to her personally and to the community. Unfortunately, the P.A. system was not clear enough to hear her name. Supporter Pam Wood read a letter from Councilwoman and Former Mayor Rachelle Arizmendi that also articulated the community's concern and its support for keeping SMMS.

SMMS is the top performing Middle School in PUSD and excels in its academic curriculum and is a Dual Language Immersion School.

Similar responses were heard from parents and students from Wilson Middle School

As a result of the community outcry, PUSD Board of Education will hold a community forum to hear from stakeholders about middle and high school consolidations on Thursday, October 17, 2019.

Supporters of SMMS are encouraged to attend.

The community forum will be from 5:00 - 7:00 p.m. in the auditorium at Pasadena High School, located at 2925 E. Sierra Madre Blvd., Pasadena and will be moderated by the League of Women Voters - Pasadena Area. Spanish and American Sign Language translation services will be provided. try Registrar of Voters to explain how the new system will work. The county is modernizing the voting experience with the upcoming Statewide Presidential Primary election in March 2020.

Much of the current process — ballots, polling locations, vote tallying, and more — will change under a new L.A. County program called Voting Solutions for All People (VSAP). With changing from the traditional polling locations, Vote Centers will allow voters to cast their ballot at any Vote Center across the County, up to 10 days prior to election day.

The current voting system used in L.A. County dates back to 1968, and for the past ten years, the County Registrar and its contractors have been evaluating the way people vote to create the design for 31,000 new devices to cast ballots, known as the new Ballot Marking Device.

The program is free and will begin at 12:30. Lunch is available at noon. The cost of lunch is $10. For reservations please call: 626-688-2273.

Pasadena city officials are set to hold the second community outreach meeting October 29, this time to get input on the final concept for suicide mitigation enhancements to the Colorado Street Bridge —most likely full length vertical barriers.

WALKING SIERRA MADRE - The Social Side

by Deanne Davis

"The best things in life are unexpected because there were no expectations." Eli Khamarov

"A gift consists not in what is done or given, but in the intention of the giver or doer." Lucius Annaeus Seneca

"The key to a woman's heart is an unexpected gift at an unexpected time." Sean Connery

I received a small box in the mail earlier this week. This was an occasion for celebration as, probably just like you, what I mostly get in the mail is bills, catalogs – how is it possible for me to receive catalogs from all over the world from companies I've never heard of where I've never bought anything - political materials, guiltinducing letters from every charity known to man, frequently including a dime or a nickel that I must pry out, rather than just tossing it, which then exposes me to pathetic pleadings to save it, whatever it is. No, I'm not a heartless, selfish person who doesn't do anything to help the world be a better place. I'm just selective about where I send my checks. John, my best friend and husband of fifty years - who has been dancing with the angels for two years now as of October 9th – was an ardent supporter of clean water for people all over the world. He supported World Vision's clean water program and I have continued to walk in his footsteps to provide clean water. It mattered to him and it matters to me.

But I digress! I was talking about the small box I received. It was a totally unexpected gift from my friend, Darren Pollock, who is the father of two of the most adorable children, an Adjunct Professor at Fuller Seminary, a Pastor at Panorama Presbyterian Church, a theologian, and a great singer. What was the totally unexpected gift? The picture shows it all, well, almost all. Inside were six Cadbury caramel filled chocolate eggs. These things are a particular addiction of mine and I was whining about how I couldn't seem to find any of them at Easter time. Hence, Darren's generous gift. I am rationing them and not sharing with anyone, I don't care how closely related we are.

The best unexpected gifts, for me, would be a letter or a card which arrives at the exact moment one needs a word of encouragement. Texts are in that group also, especially texts with pictures attached. Also for me, every day God sends me an unexpected gift in a sunrise and a sunset which are beyond beautiful. They are different every day and I send them to friends and family as an unexpected gift and occasionally put a bunch of them up on Facebook. I'm not the world's greatest photographer, but it's hard to mess up a picture of a sunset that takes your breath away.

Christmas is coming when gifts are pretty much expected, but I thought I'd tell you about some of the most expensive and possibly unexpected gifts ever given:

1. Mike Tyson gave then-wife Robin Givens a 24-carat gold bathtub costing, at that time, a mere $2.3 million. (Seriously? A gold bathtub? What do you clean it with?)

2. David Beckham gave his wife, Victoria, a $100,000 diamond-encrusted handbag, a custom-built $500,000 Rolls-Royce Phantom, and a $2.4 million Boucheron ruby and diamond necklace.

3. As a Christmas present in 1968, Richard Burton made good on a promise he made to his then-wife, Liz Taylor, of a perfect ruby ring, an 8.24 karat Van Cleef & Arpels diamond and ruby ring, a bauble costing a mere $4.2 million. (Too much responsibility! I'd lose it, I'm afraid.)

Personally, those unexpected gifts aren't anything I'd ever want. A box of Cadbury caramel chocolate eggs, on the other hand, are a fabulous gift. God has given me so many gifts that I am grateful for: pretty good health, an amazing loving family, a beautiful home, friends, and a 50 year marriage to a wonderful man. What gifts have you received that were unexpected and absolutely delightful? Maybe think about surprising someone this week with an unexpected gift.

Watch for scarecrows! They're everywhere and so clever. They are where you least expect them to be! Have a great week, dear friends and neighbors and treat yourself to a Pumpkin Spice Latte, and maybe go wild and have a pumpkin muffin, too.

DAWN OF REX

Are you thoroughly immersed in fall yet? Mid-October sees us festooning our lawns with inflatable spiders while sipping pumpkin spice lattes. Heck, Trader Joe's is probably selling pumpkin spice toilet paper, for that matter. But my mom and I are still fooling ourselves that it's

You see, a big part of my mom's enjoyment of summer is the stone fruit. Peaches, in particular. But this year just wasn't a great year for peaches.

She'd stock up on them at Ralph's, Trader Joes, Smart & Final, and small local stores. She tried them all. And still, they either never got ripe, or were disappointingly mealy. So sad.

produce before you buy it. Told her I'd take her. Told her it'd be great. It was a good idea in theory. But in practice, I love sleeping in like a lazy dog on Saturdays, and my parents are committed to their extensive exercise routine which takes up the better part of the morning. By the time we'd be ready, the vendors would be down to a couple wilted spinach leaves and a picked

Long story shorter, the stars aligned one recent weekend, and we were able to go. It was glorious. We sampled yellow peaches and took several pounds home. "Luscious" is so overused, but that's precisely what these were. Mom also bought a dill plant.

A couple days later I was visiting and my parents told me to check out the visitor who'd hitched a ride on my mom's dill. A tiny striped caterpillar, maybe a couple centimeters long, was straddling one of the stalks. My mom named him Rex.

Rex was sedentary for the most part, but every now and then we'd catch him voraciously devouring leaf after leaf. I laughed out loud when I read an email from my mom that she'd gone to Ralph's to buy more dill for him. He decimated the plant he arrived on.

Over the next week Rex grew to the size of a small Cheeto. My dad had been researching caterpillar development, and determined he'd be starting to molt soon in preparation for spinning a cocoon. But all caterpillars are not created equal, and Rex defied our cocoon expectations.

He anchored himself to a twig we'd put in his box, spun a reclining "harness," and shed his skin. My dad and I happened to be there when he did that, and it was something to watch. Like an armless woman shimmying out of a tube dress.

But he was ugly after that. Underneath his cute caterpillar head was some evil-looking thing with horns. Warped apendadges like stunted wings went around to meet in front, and the bottom part of him was segmented like a wicked green sausage. A washed out, puky sort of green.

"Okay, next he's going to spin a cocoon," my dad commented.

"Uh, he looks pretty immobile," I said. "I don't think he's going anywhere or doing anything."

"But he doesn't look weather-proof."

"He doesn't look moveable, either."

We debated this for a few days until it became apparent that Rex, in deed, wasn't going anywhere or doing anything until he was ready to emerge as a butterfly.

A black Swallow Tail, we believe, based on our research and observations. However, since it's late in the season, Rex might just ride out the rest of fall and winter in his chrysalis and wait for spring to grace us with his presence again.

That'll mean a long time spent stuck to a twig in a box on my parents' kitchen counter. But that's alright. By now, we're committed.

*Speaking of growth, personal transformation, and spiritual metamorphosis, have you checked out my novel, "A Year at Apex?" Ha! Just kidding, it's not that deep. But it does have humor, romance, the human condition, and public education. Look for it in paperback and ebook on Amazon and Barnes & Noble.

ZELO PULLS OFF PIZZA WITH REAL ZEAL

If you have been around the Pasadena area long enough, you might remember

The Pasadena Pizza Cook-off, it was an event that I was involved with for many years. In the beginning, it was a contest to see who had the best pizza in the area. After a few years we softened the rules and tried to give everyone an award. Many restaurants wouldn't compete if they didn't win. (Unfortunately, many restaurants decided to not participate because not everyone was eligible to win an award; we softened the rules and decided everyone gets some type of award.) Imagine that, I got so caught up in Pizza that I dubbed by car the Pizazar and even subscribed to Pizza Today Magazine.

Yes, I love Pizza, and some of my local favorites are Tarnatinos, Domenicos and Avanti Café (Shoot me a letter if I failed to mention yours). However, there is this restaurant on Foothill Blouvard in the City of Arcadia that might just be a contender as well. The restaurant Zelo, meaning 'Zeal' is a definite go to. Owner, Mike Freeman hails from Northern California and has brought his recipe for the pizza pie down here to share with us Angelinos.

For those new to my style, I try to give you four or five dishes at each stop that I enjoyed and hopefully you'll try as well. (My favorite type of restaurant discovery is when you drive by a local establishment hundreds of times telling yourself "I need to try that place one of these days.") I love those restaurant discoveries that you and I drive by hundreds of times and you tell yourself I have to check that place out one of these days. Well, Zelo is that place!

What do you get when you cross one part cornmeal and four parts flour? I have the answer, it is the crust, the heart and soul of the Zelo Pizza. All of the pizza is deep dish meaning there is no way to not enjoy a bite of their heavenly crust. On any given day Mike will put together 12 different pizza specials. These specials include, a half a pizza (three slices for $13) or a whole pizza (six slices for $25). Try and compare that to a medium size that your kids order at...gulp...Dominos. That's right, $21 for a medium Pizza, but there is plenty of toppings and fillings to get you full real quick. (Is this the right price? Above says different)

On to my recommendations! First, on the menu, I love the four-cheese mozzarella, fontina, provolone and parmesan. One of my favorite rotating specials is had the Sicilian Pizza. This pizza is loaded with pepperoni, tomatoes, and three different cheeses; the Pizzas are truly unique here. Now, not to be overshadowed, are the salads. Two in particular are the beet salad ($7.50 and number one seller) and their asparagus salad ($7.50) with leaf lettuce topped with stalks of asparagus, balsamic vinaigerette, and asparagus creamy dressing. Personally, I would return just for the salads because of how tasty they really are. The menu at Zelo is just a guide, try out a special or even go for a pasta option! A few of my favorite pastas at Zelo are calzone, and plenty of vegetarian dishes highlighted by a Lasagna ($11). Of course, to pair off the delicious meal a nice beer or wine is available or bring your own bottle with a small corkage fee ($8).

What you need to know: Zelo is very laid back with large appeal, patio seating, and is very busy on weekend nights. All pizzas are deep dish, parking can be limited (street parking only), and most interesting, you can order the pizza half baked to finish at home. They are open Tuesday through Sunday, and on the weekends (Friday and Saturdays) open till 10 PM. Zelo, 328 E. Foothill Blvd. Arcadia (626) 358-8298

FAMILY MATTERS By Marc Garlett

A LESSON FOR ALL PARENTS: WHO WILL BE EMANI'S LEGAL GUARDIAN?

murder this March, his family and ex-girlfriend

h a v e been locked in a bitter battle for custody of one of his young children. And as this ugly drama plays out in the courtroom and tabloids, it highlights the single-most costly estate-planning mistake a parent can make.

Hussle, 34, was gunned down outside his South Los Angeles clothing store in March. The young rapper's death was tragic on many levels. But perhaps most tragic is what's happening to Hussle's kids. Because Hussle never named legal guardians, the decision of who will raise his two children—daughter Emani, 10, and son Kross, 2—is now up to the courts. And this mistake is already having unfortunate consequences.

In addition to not naming guardians for his kids, Hussle also failed to create a will, which makes their guardianship even more contentious. Hussle's estate is estimated to be worth $2 million, and under California law, in the absence of a will, that money is to be split equally between his two kids.

Given that both children are minors, however, they're ineligible to access their inheritance until they reach the age of majority. This means that whomever ultimately wins guardianship of the children will likely gain control over their money as well.

Caught in the middle

Guardianship of Hussle's son Kross, while still undecided, is currently not a source of conflict. Who will be awarded guardianship of Hussle's daughter Emani, however, is very much in contention.

Since the day of the shooting, Hussle's sister, Samantha Smith, has been caring for Emani. Following Hussle's shooting, Smith petitioned the court to obtain Emani's guardianship. But Emani's mother, Tanisha Foster, an old girlfriend of Hussle's, is also seeking guardianship.

The competing parties have filed court documents alleging criminal conduct and making other terrible accusations against each other. This war is taking its toll on the whole family with poor Emani caught in the middle.

Don't leave your child's life in a judge's hands As Hussle's case so dramatically demonstrates, if you're the parent of minor children, it's imperative that you select and legally document long-term guardians for your kids. In fact, as a parent, naming guardians for your children should be your number-one planning priority.

The fact that Hussle didn't create a will is obviously another terrible mistake. But when it comes to your children's well-being, all the money in the world is meaningless in comparison. For this reason, I'm going to focus solely on the consequences resulting from Hussle's failure rapper As we're seeing with Hussle, leaving it up to N i p s e, y the court to name guardians for your kids can lead to conflict, as meaning family members fight one another over custody. This process is not only costly, but it can be terribly traumatizing for everyone involved, especially your kids.

> Hussle's case also shows how agonizingly slow this process often is. There have already been numerous court hearings related to Émani's custody since her father's death in March, and the saga remains ongoing. Indeed, these custody battles often drag on for years, making the lawyers wealthy, while your kids are stuck in the middle.

> But the most tragic consequence of Hussle's failure to name legal guardians is that a judge will be the one who decides who's best suited to care

> Though we can't be sure exactly who Hussle would have wanted to raise Emani, it's almost certain he wouldn't have wanted a total stranger to make that decision for him. Yet, because he didn't take the time to document legal guardians, that's exactly what's going to happen.

Child Protection Planning $^{\text{\tiny TM}}$  A Child Protection Plan $^{\text{\tiny TM}}$  is a comprehensive methodology to guide you step-by step through the process of legally documenting guardians for your kids for the short-term, long-term, and so much more. If you are a parent, you absolutely must put in place a Child Protection Plan™ for your minor children and/or children with special

Because naming legal guardians for your kids is so critical, you can't afford to wait to get the process

You must name long-term guardians and grant the people you choose (along with backups) the legal authority to temporarily care for your children, until the long-term guardians can be located and granted custody by the court. And vou should also confidentially exclude any person you know you'd never want to raise your kids.

A Child Protection Plan™ provides for the wellbeing and care of your kids no matter what happens to ensure your family never falls victim to the same tragic circumstances as Hussle's.

PLANTS OF THE WEEK: THE GARLIC AND ONION FAMILY

[Nyerges is the author of "Guide to Wild Foods and Useful Plants." He has been leading outdoor plant walks since 1974. For more information, go to www.SchoolofSelf-Reliance.

If you already enjoy garlic, onions, and other members of this family, you should also know that garlic is good for your health too.

The consumption of garlic and onions is believed to be a contributory factor in helping hypertension. In a variety of tests, garlics and onions (and members of that family) have been shown to reduce cholesterol, reduce high blood pressure, and reduce the incidence of flu.

For example, Dr. Alan Tsai, PhD with the Michigan School of Health, has tested rats and humans for the effects of garlic on cholesterol levels. He fed test groups high cholesterol diets, with one group receiving garlic. Those who included garlic had cholesterol levels that rose about four percent, as opposed to those without garlic whose cholesterol levels rose 23%. Dr. Tsai noted that the incidence of cardiovascular and other diseases is lower in countries whose populations consume large amounts of garlic, though he was reluctant to attribute this effect solely to garlic.

Various studies reported in the Indian Journal of Nutrition and Dietetics concluded that both onions and garlic in the diet lowered blood cholesterol levels. Studies in Germany and in the U.S. have produced similar results.

Cholesterol builds up in fatty plaques on the artery walls, and so it is believed to be a major factor in the onset of heart disease. Anything that reduces high cholesterol levels helps to keep the heart healthy.

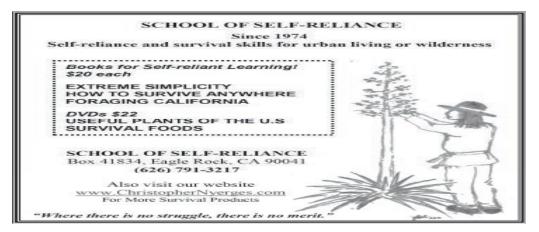

Dr. Truswell, professor at the Queen Elizabeth College of London University conducted research by feeding human subjects high fat meals with and without onions. He found that blood platelets stuck together faster after the high fat, no onion meal, whereas the effect was neutralized when onions were included. Platelets are a compound in the blood which are an important aid in coagulation, but when they "malfunction," they form clots which can lead to thromboses in the arteries to the heart and brain, which can result in strokes and heart attacks. Dr. Truswell believes that by simply including onions in the diet, the chances of having a stroke or heart attack are reduced.

Though there are countless studies pertaining to the effects of garlic and onions on the human body, it may still be sometime before doctors make conclusive statements such as eating garlic will prevent high blood pressure. Again, this is due to the complexity of "high blood pressure," its various causes, and the fact that no two people are alike.

Still, we eat garlic just about every day, and we also put it in our pets' food. Russian folk healers and herbalists the world over have been suggesting that garlic be used to reduce high blood pressure, and a host of ailments, for centuries.

We do know that garlic contains small amounts of selenium and germanium. Selenium is believed to prevent abnormal blood clotting, to normalize blood pressure, and to prevent infections. Germanium is being investigated for its reputed ability to retard or prevent the growth of some cancers. Garlic also contains a number of biochemical compounds, such as allicin (considered to have antifungal and antibiotic properties), alliinase, allyls, allithiamine (this makes vitamin B1 more effective), and alliin (this makes proteins easier to digest). Allicin, left alone, turns into a substance that some researchers have called "ajoene," believed to be responsible for garlic's ability to inhibit blood clotting effectively as aspirin.

Enough books and research papers have been written about garlic, onions, shallots, leeks, and that entire Allium genus to fill a small library.

Even though you need help each day, we agree that you're still in charge

any seniors fear that moving out of their home into an assisted living residence means forfeiting control of their lives. At The Kensington, nothing could be further from the truth. We believe it is our role to support our residents, not to assume complete decision-making authority. Of course, as specialists in caring for older adults, we monitor routines, behavior and mood every day. If we see changes that concern us, then we talk with residents and their families immediately. Together, we all decide about making adjustments to care and services to preserve comfort, wellness and morale.

We regard ourselves as our residents' champion, not their boss. Call or visit soon to learn about our collaborative approach to assisted living.

HOW SENIORS CAN GET HELP WITH CREDIT CARD AND MORTGAGE DEBT

Dear Savvy Senior:

My husband and I, who are both 66 years old, have fallen behind on our mortgage payments and have accumulated quite a bit of credit card debt over the past few years. Where can we get help? Drowning in Debt

Dear Drowning:

Unfortunately, credit card and mortgage debt have become a growing problem for many older Americans who often face medical-related expenses on top of their mortgage and other growing costs. Here are some tips and services that can help.

To help you get a handle on your credit card debt, a good place to turn is an accredited credit counseling agency. These are nonprofit agencies that offer free financial information and advice on how to handle financial problems.

Depending on the significance of your credit card debt, they can help you sort out your finances and set you up in a debt management plan (DMP), which allows a counselor to negotiate with your creditors to lower your interest rates and eliminate any late fees and other penalties.

The agency will then act as a consolidator, grouping your debts together into one payment that you would make, and distributes those funds to your creditors. Typically, the first counseling session is free, but a DMP comes with monthly fees of roughly $20 to $75 a month, depending on the state.

To locate a credible agency in your area, use the National Foundation for Credit Counseling website at NFCC.org (800-388-2227), or the or the Financial Counseling Association of America FCAA.org (800-450-1794).

But make sure that you don't use a debt settlement company that claims to settle all your debt or cut it in half for a fee without counseling. Most of these companies use deceptive practices and will only leave you more in debt then you already are.

Mortgage Counseling

If you have fallen behind on your mortgage payments, or if you have already received a letter or phone call about missed payments, you should contact your lender immediately to explain your situation and see if you can work out a payment plan. Be prepared to provide your financial information, such as your monthly income and expenses.

You can also get help from a foreclosure prevention counselor. These are HUD-approved, trained counselors that will work with you, examine your financial situation, and offer guidance on how best to avoid default or foreclosure. They can also represent you in negotiations with your lender if you need them to.

To find a government-approved housing counseling agency in your area, use the National Foundation for Credit Counseling or Financial Counseling Association of America websites or phone numbers previously listed. Or, for a larger selection of housing counseling options see the Department of Housing and Urban Development website at HUD.gov - click on "Resources" at the top of the page, then on "Foreclosure Avoidance Counseling," or call 800-569-4287.

Financial Assistance

You also need to make sure you're not missing out on any financial assistance programs. The National Council on Aging's website (BenefitsCheckUp.org) contains a database of more than 2,500 federal, state and local programs that can help seniors with prescription drug costs, health care, food, utilities, and other basic needs. The site will help you locate programs that you may be eligible for and will show you how to apply.

A Weekly Religion Column by Rev. James Snyder

I DIDN'T KNOW HOW YOUNG I REALLY WAS

to take that a step further and say confession is good for the body as well.

I don't often think about how old I am, I'm too busy with other thoughts. Occasionally, something happens that reminds me I am not quite as old as I think I am. Do not get me wrong, it is a good experience for soul and body.

When I get up in the morning, I feel achy, not to mention grouchy because the Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage mentions that. I get up feeling old and dreary. I wallow in despair, thinking how old I really am and not knowing what to do with it.

Oh poor me, woe is me.

Something happened this past week that gave me a completely different view of how old I really am.

I had an appointment to go to the doctor to have my annual blood work done. Every year this doctor wants a sample of my blood for who knows why. He is obsessed with my blood and tries to get it every time he can. Being the good patient I am, I concede to his request.

I had an appointment across town to get the blood work done and got there well before my appointment. Therefore, I had to sit in the waiting room until my appointment time.

I usually take a book with me to read because I know that doctors, as educated as they are, do not seem to know how to tell time. So, instead of wasting that time, I take a book and get caught up on some reading I have to do. You cannot read too many books.

While I was quietly reading my book, all of a sudden, I heard a bang and the door flew open and in came a woman on a walker. I will not say she was an old woman, but youth was in her past as far back as you possibly could go.

When she came in, the whole atmosphere of that room changed and not in the positive. As soon as her head got through the door, you could see a grimace on her face to beat all grimaces. It scared me at first. I have never seen such a mean looking face.

Then she begins snarling. "Get out of my way. Where's my doctor? I want to see him now."

I was not in her way, but I certainly got further from her way as I possibly could. I am not sure how old she was but she had grouchy down to a fine-tuned art. I think all of us in the room were praying that the doctor would take her in right

I have heard it said that confes- Thankfully, our prayers were answered. She was sion is good for the soul. I want escorted out and you could hear a deep sigh in that room. I do not think I would have wanted to be her doctor that day, at least.

> I was finally settling down and back to my book when the door opened again. In walked an older gentleman, and I use the word gentleman very carefully, with a cane.

> He rumbled up to the window to sign in and the lady politely asked who he was.

Looking at her with eyes that would have scared a tiger he said, "Who do you think I am?"

That is not all he said, but some words I would not want to repeat even in the dark. Obviously, he was old enough to know all the curse words in the dictionary. He mentioned some words that I had never heard before and I am quite sure they are not in the English dictionary.

He signed his name and then hobbled over to take a seat and then glanced at me and said, "What are you staring at?" Again, I cannot use all the words Believe me, when I say I was tempted to tell him what I was looking at. Then I noticed the cane in his right hand and decided to look the other way.

Until the nurse came to take him in to see the doctor, he was muttering under his breath and I did not want to hear what he was muttering. The meanness on his face gave me pause to think a little bit.

Casually, I looked around the room and saw most of the people were old and nobody looked very happy. When they walked up to sign in, they limped. When the nurse got him to take them back to see their doctor, they staggered and limped.

At the time, I did not know what to do. Then a smile began creeping across my face. I had to be careful that I did not laugh aloud. A wonderful thought danced in my mind.

Looking around very carefully I noticed one stunning fact. That fact was, I am not as old as I thought I was. When I got up that morning, I felt old and decrepit. Now I was around people that were really old. Compared to them, I was a babe in swaddling clothes.

I then remembered what David said. "They shall still bring forth fruit in old age; they shall be fat and flourishing" (Psalm 92:14).

I am at the place now where I can begin to enjoy the fruit of my old age.

We hold in high regard the values of the exceptional quality of life in our community, including magnificence of our natural resources. Integrity will be our guide.

STUART TOLCHIN SURE WE CAN ADAPT BUT THERE ARE SOME LIMITS

Perhaps, just like me, you live in a pretty safe bubble. We Sierra Madreans live in a beautiful area, especially in the canyon. I happen to have a wonderful wife (who possibly will type this for me) and my car is almost paid off and we can make our house payments and still take an occasional vacation even though I plan on retiring at the end of the year.

Well, as I am sure you are aware, times are changing. When my wife and I came back from our Alaska Cruise about two weeks ago I stopped as usual at Coco's Restaurant for breakfast before work. Coco's serves (or did serve) fresh fruit topped blintzes that reminded me of the ones I wished my mother had made. I confidently walked to the front door of Coco's, mildly aware that there were few cars in the parking lot and the big sign had disappeared. The sign at the locked front door read CLOSED. How could that be? I had been going there for years? I survived and got a quick coffee and a pastry at Starbucks. While savoring the pastry, I looked up Cocos on the internet and learned that Cocos, Carrows, and Marie Calendar (all places basically in my price range) were closing or had closed!

All right, much as I hate change, I adapted. A few days later I ordered a coffee latte and after finishing, asked the server to refill my cup with regular coffee just as I had been doing for years. The server, someone who had been serving me for years, apologetically informed that I would have to pay an additional charge as if I was ordering another cup of coffee. I was incensed; I asked to speak to the manager who, after a brief but brittle conversation, allowed me "just this one time" to have the refill without paying an additional charge.

Yes, I survived but I wondered what was going on in the world to cause such drastic changes. Eventually it was explained to me that the closings and changes in policy were the result of the new minimum wage law that required all employees to be paid at the rate of fifteen dollars an hour. I responded to this information in typical fashion by saying "What's that got to do with me. I haven't worked in a restaurant since my first job at Bob's Big Boy for which I was paid ninety cents an hour and glad to receive it". Of course I understand, but speaking of Bob's I remember that first day of work when I was fifteen and a half. A customer threw up all over the floor and I was delegated to clean it up. This was a mere sixty years ago and I still remember it clearly. It was probably the first time I had to clean up someone else's vomit. Yes I have had a pretty charmed live and I adapted and ten years later became a lawyer cleaning up other kinds of vomit. Bob's was probably beneficial experience.

As I looked at the ridiculously inflated gas prices of today I wondered how we all would survive these additional costs. Somehow it reminded me of my year in Law School when I had little money to afford rent. I somehow worked out a schedule where I would couch surf at friends or sneak into an office that was associated with a work-study job that I had. That year I had a girl friend who lived in the Dorm and worked late as a switchboard operator. After work we would head to a friend's house or to my office. The point is that I had little to do until her shift was over so I spent the time, generally in the library, studying. Yes for that year I was kind of homeless but never really thought of it that way. In fact, largely because of the extra time to kill, and as I recall did quite well getting the high grade in a couple of classes.

My point, of course, is that hat having to adapt to changing conditions can bring about unforeseen benefits. The unique characteristic of human beings is our ability to adapt and thrive in seemingly unthinkable conditions. Of course there are conditions and there are conditions. The need for Americans to adapt to the behavior of a President who openly disobeys the law and dares the rest of us to do something about it is something neither I, nor almost anyone else, ever contemplated. Well maybe James Madison thought about it and believed the system of checks and balances he and Alexander Hamilton devised would be strong enough to survive most anything. Of course, neither Madison nor Hamilton probably ever conceived that Hamilton would be shot dead by the sitting Vice-President of the United States. Still, the system survived, and we will adapt and do what is necessary to adapt to the unimaginable conduct of our current President. Really though, I hope he doesn't test us further by shooting someone in broad daylight as he has already threatened.

impeachment gels were burned beyond recognition. again this week, and probably for countless weeks to come. But I think we all could use a diversion, what with the 24/7 news coverage, analysis, and editorializing that passes for news coverage. It makes you wonder if the earth is still turning on

So, I thought it a public service to highlight some news stories you might have missed because they were barely covered or buried somewhere within the depths of your favorite online news outlet. Here they are, in no particular

- The Nobel Prize for medicine was awarded to three men who have spent years studying oxygen, specifically how 'cells sense and adapt to oxygen availability." The research could lead to new strategies in fighting cancer and other diseases. If you're looking for further explanation, I've gone about as far as my "C+" in chemistry will take me.
- Scientists claim they've seen pigs using tools to dig. The pigs were observed in a French zoo using sticks. I watched a video on YouTube and was unimpressed. It looks to me like the pig is just moving the stick around with his snout. When a pig walks into a café and orders a croissant, I'll pay attention.
- President Trump's new bestest buddy, Kanye West, is stumping for the president. West, a Trump supporter, told a crowd Sunday that political loyalties and decisions based on race are 'mental slavery." He went on. "And we got the right, right? We got a right to our opinions, right?" Not according to some of the emails I receive.
- Russian President Vladimir Putin turned 67 (I forgot to send a card). Putin did what most of us do on our birthday - he posed for a bunch of weird photos in the Siberian mountains. In a surprising turn of events, he kept his shirt on.
- Miley Cyrus says she can date other people. The singer split from her husband, actor Liam Hemsworth, in August. She now says she's "all grown up" and can do what she wants. What do I know but it seems as if "doing what she wants" hasn't been an issue for Cyrus, before or since she became an adult.
- A truck carrying 38,000 pounds of frozen bagels caught on fire in Indiana could write about Sunday. No one was injured but the ba-

Acting Homeland Security Secretary Kevin McAleenan showed up to speak at Georgetown Law School Monday, but was shouted down by protesters who take issue with the Trump administration's immigration policies. McAleenan walked of stage before he got started. So much for constructive Democratic presidential candidate Kamala Harris detailed her plan to give workers up to six months of paid family and medical leave - twice the length of time included in any family leave bill to date and way more generous than any other proposal by a presidential candidate. No word on what it will cost. Who's going to pay for it? If your answer is "other people," well done.

- I've said it before and I'll say it again, most of Alexandria Ocasio-Cortez's ideas are terrible, but she is prolific. The New York Democrat unsheathed another gem this week – abolishing prisons in the U.S. "We need to have a real conversation about decarceration & prison abolition in this country," she tweeted. Like I said, awful and unrealistic but she never fails to disappoint.

- Rising fuel prices in Ecuador triggered angry protests. The Ecuadorian government had an interesting response - it left. The short story is the country is broke and had to end subsidies that had been keeping fuel prices down. The government, such as it is, is now operating in a remote location, away from the capital of Quito.
- As long as we're talking about the consequences of irresponsible government, a gallon of gas in California is now approaching $5. Part of the reason is that the state's environmental regulations have reduced oil production. Some refineries have even closed. California's gas prices are the highest in the country. Rising fuel prices, crippling taxes, an out-of-control homeless problem and a median home price of more than $600,000. No wonder people are leaving.

OK, I promised different, not good. And if you still want to hear more about impeachment, you won't have long to wait.

RAISING OUR KIDS TO HATE

A Jeb Bush tweet this week got me think- Democrat Speaking about some of the ways our nasty par- er of the House, tisan politics has been hurting our kids.

Paraphrasing Jeb, he asked, "How can Not as well-parents teach their children that using known was the bad language is wrong when we have a president and members of Congress who constantly use profanity to talk about each other?"

Jeb's tweet also reminded me of somemine said once: "There are more things 'caught' than 'taught.' "

I often quote that line when I'm invited to speak to parents, and I thought about it again on Wednesday when I took some kids on a tour of my dad's library in Simi

It was nice to go to the Reagan Library and be reminded of the positive attitude my father had about politics, his political opponents and people in general.

On my father's tomb, for example, is the message, "I know in my heart that man is good, that what is right will always eventually triumph and there is purpose and worth to each and every life.

I don't know how many of the kids I was with the other day were equipped to catch that optimistic message.

It's really sad that they're growing up in such a hateful political and cultural environment that has so little room for tolerance or civil debate.

What happened to DeGeneres is a sign of how stupid and low our nasty partisan politics are.

Liberal or conservative, Democrat or Republican, you can't be seen in public with someone from the other political tribe without catching hell or hate from your

Those kids I was with at the library were too young to know it, but there was a time before Twitter, Facebook and 1,000 cable TV channels when the most powerful people in politics could disagree vehemently yet still be civil to each other.

One of the most famous examples of that political civility and mutual respect was the relationship my father had with the known was the time my father was asked in 1985 to give a fundraising speech for

thing a wise Sunday school teacher of In 1960 my father had campaigned hard against JFK. But when he was President and he was asked by John and Caroline Kennedy to help them kick off an endowment drive for the JFK Library, he did it graciously and enthusiastically.

> Praising JFK for being, among many other things, "a patriot" who had "a good hard, un-illusioned understanding of man and his political choices," my father admitted he ĥad not supported Kennedy for president.

> 'But you know," he said, "it's true: when the battle's over and the ground is cooled, well, it's then that you see the opposing general's valor."

That kind of civility being shown to a political opponent could never happen today in Washington, where Democrats and Republicans hate each other, call each other bad names and refuse to cooperate or compromise.

As for our kids today, they're being taught by the bad example of adults to hate the political tribe they don't belong to. It's reinforced 24/7 on TV, in social media and college campuses.

If we're not careful we're going to end up like Israel, where the Palestinian kids and the Israeli kids don't play with each other and are raised from infancy to hate each

Maybe there's still time for our children to turn to their parents and tell them it's time for them to grow up and stop hating.
