Some Tips for Living a Greener Lifestyle at Home

Plant Native Species

Native plants can adapt to your local climate and use less water.

Buy Local or Plant a Garden

Supermarkets, even organic farmer's markets often transport produce from great distances creating large carbon emissions. Try planting your own garden or buying local produce.

Eat Less Meat

Livestock accounts for nearly 15% of human-induced greenhouse gas emissions. Going meat-free just one day a week will make a huge difference.

Buy Resuable Water Bottles

80% of plastic water bottles we buy end up in landfills, and account for more than 2 million tons of waste.

Use Reusable Shopping Bags

Your Story. Your Home. Your Team.

BIG BELLY CONTAINERS

Residents and visitors of the Downtown Kersting Court area will notice new trash receptacles have been installed during the week of October 14th. The new receptacles are manufactured by a com-pany named Big Belly and include the latest solar-powered compacting feature. The receptacles also are designed to alert the Public Works Department when they are nearing capacity, or if there are other issues that need to be addressed.

The Big Belly's accept both standard trash and recyclable items, which will be sorted at a material recovery center maintained by Athens Services. The compaction feature reduces refuse from spill-ing over between collections, improving both the environmental and aesthetic quality of the down-town area. For

by Deanne Davis

"Shadows of a thousand years rise again unseen, voices whisper in the trees.

"Tonight is Halloween!"

"When witches go riding and black cats are seen, the moon laughs and whispers, 'tis near Halloween."

"Silent phantoms of the night in their robes of ghostly white, they are always to be seen on the night of Halloween."

All Hallows Eve...Be Afraid...Be Very Afraid!

All Hallows Eve.... is coming, A deadly.... dreadly night.... When ghouls and ghosts and creepies, And other awful blights, Are free to roam and wander, Anywhere they might.

Creating scary terror everywhere they can, And scream inducing, faint-producing, hair-raising, bone-melting, What's that right there behind me... Quivery, shivery...Fright!!

They creep out of their crypts and graves, These creatures of the night.

They haunt the roads and byways, Run rampant through the park. They hide between the bushes, And everywhere it's dark.

All Hallows Eve.... is coming, A deadly.... dreadly night..... When ghouls and ghosts and creepies, And other awful blights, Are free to roam and wander, Anywhere they might.

Up and down the streets of town, They race in search of plunder, These ghouls and ghosts and monsters, About three feet tall or under! They shriek for treats and threaten tricks, But are satisfied with candy. These creatures rule the darkness, As long as Mom and Dad are handy.

All Hallows Eve.... is coming, A deadly.....dreadly night.... With ghouls and ghosts and monsters, And other awful sights, Dancing through the shadows, Into circles of street lights.

Beware...take care, Who knows what's waiting, Just around the bend. Could be Jack the Ripper, come to call again, Or Dracula or Frankenstein, the undead walk tonight. Maybe just stay safe inside...and turn off that porch light.

A fun Halloween fact for you as you're stocking up on candy: Costco says Americans spend approximately $6 billion annually on Halloween, making it the second largest commercial holiday in the ., after Christmas, of course. Go ahead, buy the good stuff. You know you want a few of those little Milky Ways and Snickers for yourself!

Another scarecrow this week, and another pumpkin latte. I really want a piece of pumpkin cheesecake! Have a great week and if you haven't bought your little ghoul a costume, don't wait too long

KATIE Tse....This and That

I LEFT MY HEART IN SAN FRANCISCO AND MY KIDS IN KANSAS

ME

Alas, it's been one of those weeks. One of those weeks I'm guilty of recycling articles. But I barely remember it, which means you won't, either. This one's about my mom's friend Florence. Aside from being an all-around lovely person, Florence is an endless source of anecdotes that are either hilarious, stranger than fiction, or, more often, both. Needless to say, I shamelessly pilfer her stories whenever I get the chance. And this latest one does not disappoint, at least in the "stranger than fiction" category.

During the Great Depression, two of Florence's spinster aunts ran a bed and breakfast on some of the family's sprawling property in Kansas. On one occasion, a couple with twelve children stayed for several nights and then skipped out of town without paying their bill. But that's not the only thing they skipped out on --they also left behind one of their children!

there?" I asked Mom incredulously after she returned from her dinner with Florence. I've heard of people depositing unwanted newborns at fire stations. But how exactly do you leave your flesh and blood in the uncertain custody of total strangers. Strangers to whom, I might add, you are already indebted.

Since this all took place during the Depression, I assume that the parents' decision was purely financial. However, how did they choose which child they would leave behind? Apparently he or she wasn't the oldest or the youngest of the twelve. I can imagine a line of reasoning that would either say the oldest should go because they are the most independent or the youngest should be left because they are the most dependent. But how do you randomly pick one from the middle? Child psychology says that middle children are more well adjusted, so maybe this couple were ahead of their time in that regard. Or maybe they just chose the kid who annoyed them the most. That's what I would've done anyway.

Luckily for the child, Florence's aunts welcomed him or her into the family and possibly even went through the legalities of formal adoption. This brings up all sorts of fascinating hypothetical situations. If this child became the legal heir to Florence's family's estate, did the biological family try to horn in on the inheritance? I can totally imagine a group of greedy relatives pounding on the door for handouts. Wait, I think I did see this story before. Yes, it was "Secondhand Lions" with Robert Duvall and Michael Caine. However, I'm sure if we really analyzed the story against Florence's account, Florence's version would be even more outrageous. Like I said, with Florence you know the real story will be stranger than fiction!

*Speaking of fiction, check out my novel, "A Year at Apex!" It's got humor, romance, the human condition, and public education. Look for paperback and ebook on Amazon and Barnes & Noble.

TABLE FOR TWO by Peter Dills thechefknows@yahoo.com

YOU SAY ORGANIC I SAY YUM

In my quest to keep you, my loyal reader educated, we will discuss Organic and Natural Wines. Last week I visited the Urban Plates Restaurant on South Lake and the lunch crowd was dense and there was a buzz in the air. The line for your food is similar to Chipotle or a cafeteria setting, but that's all you can compare. The task I had while visiting Urban Plates was to taste the food and see what kind of wines pair perfectly with their "protein" focused menu. Some of the food I tasted was the free-range chicken, California line caught albacore, and a turkey meatloaf that my grandmother would have been proud of. I scouted the menu and have a few other entrees I would like to try on my next visit; some of them are the sautéed brussels sprouts and organic potatoes. I don't know about you, but I cannot seem to tell a difference between organic non-organic potatoes. However, our generation is keen on natural, fresh, farm-to-table food where everyone seems to be a "foodie" and knows what is good or not. The menu at Urban Plates has many different healthy options, there is also the not so healthier option to choose from as well. One of the not so healthy options that caught my eye was the pork ribs and macaroni and cheese, which pairs great with a Stone Pale Ale or the pride of San Diego, the Mission Blonde Ale. Each entrée comes with a delicious, perfectly char-grilled focaccia bread!

As if the food doesn't sound good enough... the price is just as good. All entrées are in the ten to sixteen-dollar range and wine ranges from eight dollars and up per glass. The wine list is quite small, about eleven or so wines by the glass that are offered but the management informed me that when they receive a request for additional wines, they will expand. I spend a lot of time in Santa Barbara and feel I am very familiar with the brand, Seaglass Unoaked Chardonnay. It is offered at Urban Plates ($7.50) and will pair great with the chicken or albacore. The Pork Ribs will pair nicely with the Predator Cabernet ($10). All in all, great food and a nice wine list!

What exactly is an Organic Wine? Well, the word "organic" has the same meaning as when applied to other products of our everyday consumption (i.e. organic poultry or organic produce). Organic wine makers use only natural fertilizers and never use pesticides on their vineyards. It is simply a pure and natural method of growing grapes and making wine! Personally, I find that there is no difference in taste when comparing organic and non-organic wine. However, there is a difference in prices, so if you feel up for spending a few extra pennies, give it a taste yourself. Lastly, if you are really into the health craze, I stop at my local grocery store each morning for a nice bottle of kombucha; Urban Plates has kombucha on tap! Swing by next time you have a chance and try Urban Plates out yourself!

THE BODY: A GUIDE FOR OCCUPANTS

by Bill Bryson

From the author of the science classic A Short History of Nearly Everything, and one of the bestselling and most beloved nonfiction writers in the English language, a tour de force excursion in and around the human body -- how it works in all of its glorious complexity and how it inevitably fails to do so.Bill Bryson once again proves himself to be an incomparable companion as he guides us through the hu-man body--how it functions, its remarkable ability to heal itself, and (unfortunate-ly) the ways it can fail. Full of extraordinary facts (your body made a million red blood cells since you started reading this) and irresistible Bryson-esque anecdotes, The Body will lead you to a deeper understanding of the miracle that is life in gen-eral and you in particular. As Bill Bryson writes, "We pass our existence within this wobble of flesh and yet take it almost entirely for granted." The Body will cure that indifference with generous doses of wondrous, compulsively readable facts and information.

JON AND SABINE SHERMAN: ENVIRONMENTAL MUSICIANS PLAY LOCALLY

[NYERGES IS AN ETHNOBOTANIST AND NATURALIST WHO'S WRITTEN 19 BOOKS, INCLUDING "FORAGING CALI-FORNIA." HE HAS LED FIELD TRIPS SINCE 1974. HE CAN BE REACHED ATWWW.SCHOOLOFSELF-RELIANCE.COM.]

The performance is a light-hearted teaching between the enchanting tree spirit and the comically confused human, yet it touches on some very serious subjects, including the climate crisis, endangered species, and factory farming. The dialogue between the two is masterfully woven between nine songs in the hour-long performance, consisting of two- part vocal harmony between the dryad (Sabine) and the man (Jon), with gui-

The flutes that Sabine plays in the show were tar and branch flute accompaniment.

Pasadena's first Earth Day Festival held in the Arroyo Seco in 1991 was billed as "the First Ever Solar Powered Concert."

In part, this was due to the presence of Jon Sherman, whose unique sound filled the air that day, powered by his solar panel array. His "earth music" consisted of his own compositions, played on his double keyboard, along with some recorded loops, so that his one-man show could perform anywhere from the solar-powered batteries.

It was enchanting, uplifting, and singable. My family wore out many of the cassettes back in those days of cassettes. Sherman has come a long way from those days.

A self-proclaimed "climate activist" since 1987, he was Descanso Gardens' (of La Canada) resident musicians from 1987 through 2001, performing on the round outdoor stage that he built on-site. He sang about endangered species, climate change, and the beauty of the natural sites around Southern California. In 2014, Sabine Kurz, met Sherman at a flute flute lessons from Jon, studying flutes and music. Their relationship blossomed and they married in November of 2015. Today they work together as the musical per-forming team of "Dryad."

In their recent performance at the Eaton Canyon Nature Center, the musical duo of Jon and Sabine Sherman presented an original theatrical show titled "Dryad - An Eco Folk Musical In One Magical Act! It was an educational musical dialogue, where Jon meets the spirit of the oak tree (Sabine). Jon is the ordinary man, on the quest to know how to live lightly on the land, how to do the right thing in a world with so many ecospirit of the oak, who gives him sage advice.

circle. Kurz, who holds a phD in biology, took actually made by Jon, who's been making flutes from tree branches for over 13 years. The show begins with "January's June" - a song about climate change, and then continues. Each song is interspersed with the dryad and the ordinary man having a conversation for our benefit. Their show had something for everyone, with the children captured by the performance and the adults listening to each nuance of the environmental lesson.

Jon and Sabine Sherman are working on their first CD, entitled "Dryad" which should be available in time for the 2019 Winter Solstice. Their musical performances occur at many venues; for logical challenges. He talks to the Dryad, the more information, and to learn where they are performing, go to Dryad ~ We sing for the trees!

any seniors fear that moving out of their home into an assisted living residence means forfeiting control of their lives. At The Kensington, nothing could be further from the truth. We believe it is our role to support our residents, not to assume complete decision-making authority. Of course, as specialists in caring for older adults, we monitor routines, behavior and mood every day. If we see changes that concern us, then we talk with residents and their families immediately. Together, we all decide about making adjustments to care and services to preserve comfort, wellness and morale.

We regard ourselves as our residents' champion, not their boss. Call or visit soon to learn about our collaborative approach to assisted living.

GETTING AROUND WHEN YOU NO LONGER DRIVE

Dear Savvy Senior: Where can I find out about alternative transportation services for my 80-year-old mother? It's time that she gives up driving, but before she does, we need to figure out how she'll get around. Inquiring Son

Dear Inquiring:

Alternative transportation options for seniors who no longer drive vary widely by community, so what's available to your mom will depend on where she lives. Here's what you should know.

While most urban areas offer seniors a variety of alternative transportation ser-vices, the options may be few to none for those living in the suburbs, small towns and rural areas. Depending on where your mom lives, here's a rundown of possible solutions that can help her get around, along with some resources to help you lo-cate them

Family and friends: This is the most often used and favorite option among sen-iors. So, make a list of all possible candidates your mom can call on, along with their availability and contact information.

Volunteer transportation programs: These are usually run by local nonprofits or religious organizations and provide elderly seniors transportation to doctor's ap-pointments, shopping, and more. These services may charge a small fee or accept donations and often operate with a network of volunteer drivers.

Some examples of local transportation programs include Envoy America (EnvoyAmerica.com) that provides senior transportation in 78 cities in Arizona, Texas, Washington, Illinois, New Mexico, Georgia and Pennsylvania. The Inde-pendent Transportation Network (ITNAmerica.org) that serves 14 communities across 12 states. And SilverRide (SilverRide.com), which serves the San Francisco bay area and Kansas City. To search for volunteer driving programs in your area visit National Volunteer Transportation Center.org - click on "Map of Volunteer Driver Programs."

Demand response services: Often referred to as "dial-a-ride" or "elderly and disa-bled transportation service," these are usually government-funded programs that provide door-to-door transportation services by appointment and usually charge a small fee or donation on a per ride basis. Many use vans and offer accessible ser-vices for riders with special needs.

Taxis and rideshare services: While taxis are a viable transportation option in many communities, rideshare services like Uber (Uber.com) and Lyft (Lyft.com), which are widely available, have become more popular among seniors who don't drive.

To get a ride, your mom could simply use the Uber or Lyft smartphone app, a computer, or she can call a ride-hailing service like Go Go Grandparent (GoGoGrandparent.com). Or, you can make arrangements for her on your smartphone.

Cost will vary depending on your mom's location, distance traveled and peak travel time, but rideshare services are usually cheaper than taxis. Uber and Lyft also offer carpooling services that would allow your mom to save money by splitting the tab with other consumers riding the same route. And for seniors with mobility prob-lems, both Uber and Lyft have accessible vehicles that you can request in certain locations.

Hire someone: Consider hiring someone to drive your mom like a neighbor, retir-ee, high school or college student that has a flexible schedule and wouldn't mind making a few extra bucks. You can also hire a senior driving companion through nonmedical home-care agencies, or you can find someone on your own at websites like Care.com or CareLinx.com.

Private business transportation services: Some hospitals, health clinics, senior centers, adult day centers, malls or other businesses may offer transportation for program participants or customers.

Mass transit: Public transportation (buses, trains, subways, etc.) where available, can also be an affordable option and may offer senior reduced rates.

Where to Look

To find out what transportation services are available in your mom's area contact Rides in Sight (RidesInSight.org, 855-607-4337), and the Eldercare Locator (800-677-1116), which will direct you to her area agency on aging for assistance. You should also contact local senior centers, places of worship and retirement commu-nities for other possible options.

Send your senior questions to: Savvy Senior, P.O. Box 5443, Norman, OK 73070, or visitSavvySenior.org. Jim Miller is a contributor to the NBC Today show and author of "The Savvy Senior" book.

A Weekly Religion Column by Rev. James Snyder

IT WAS ONE OF THOSE WEEKS!

perienced a gazillion weeks. I thought about actually counting how many weeks I have lived, but I don't have that many fingers or toes. It doesn't matter how many weeks it is. I have lived enough weeks to know, when you think you have experienced everything there is to experience, then another week shows itself. No matter how bad a week can be another week can always be worse.

On the other side, no matter how good a week can be, another week can be better.

I do have one complaint this week. Who was that knucklehead that invented the telephone? I would like to call him and give him a piece of my mind if I have any pieces left.

(Does anybody write letters anymore?)

Imagine how quiet my life would be if nobody could call me? The telephone was one thing, now we have these sophisticated gadgets called cell phones. I know why they're called "cell" phones. Simply, because they are contemporary prisons and we are imprisoned for life. Don't let this get around, there are days that I "forget" my cell phone and leave it at home. I must confess they are wonderful days of quietness and serenity. To have a whole day when nobody can get a hold of you has to be a day in paradise. This week has been one of those weeks that certainly qualifies for the prize for being the most aggravating week in my life. There may not be cell phones in heaven, but I'm pretty certain there are cell phones in that "other place." It all started on Monday morning. That's when the week starts and my week took off this Monday morning. I start every week with a positive expectation. It doesn't last long but at least I start that I was going out the door to go to the office when the Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage said, "Do you have your phone with you?"

One of the things I have learned during my matrimonial adventure is not to lie, especially to my wife. I don't know what it is about wives, but they can smell a lie five hours before you tell it. At least that's what happens at my house.

"Oh no," I said. Then I went, got my cell phone and left for the office.

I didn't turn the phone on until I got to my office and was getting situated to begin my week's work. As soon as I set down the phone started ringing. That may be why they call it a smartphone. It was one of those telemarketing calls that I get all the time. My memory isn't what it used to be, net. The church website is www.whatafellowship. I know, but I cannot remember one call that I answered that had anything good about it. I think if I

At my stage in life, I have ex- had a good call, I would remember it.

Two times a day this past week I received that call that somebody in our house had a hearing problem. To be honest, my problem is not hearing, but rather listening.

I can hear everything the Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage says, but most of the time I'm not listening. I wonder if they have some kind of a solution for that.

Obviously, the company calling has a hearing problem or is it a listening problem, because they have been calling every day.

A similar call has been concerning the fact that someone in our house has a pain problem.

If only there was a real person talking that I could talk back to and say the only real pain problem I have is with somebody like you calling me. But it's a recorded call and I can't respond to it.

Just when I was getting deep into a project, the phone would ring. When that phone rings, I am ra-ther frustrated. I don't mind people calling me who want to talk about some things. I just don't want these Robocalls, calling me with stuff I don't need.

As the week developed, I got more frustrated and more frustrated. What's a person to do when there's not anything you can do about these phone

Of course, by Thursday I did get an actual person that was calling me live. I was so frustrated that I didn't know exactly how to deal with this person. Do I pour all my frustration on that person?

Then I had a thought tiptoe through the little gray cells in my cranium. That thought was, why don't I respond to this person in gibberish. If anybody is good at gibberish, it's a pastor. I've been a pas-tor for so long that I should have some kind of a PhD in gibberish.

A few moments talking gibberish to this person on the phone released me of all my frustration for the week. Now the person on the other end of the phone was getting frustrated.

Please speak English," the person kept saying. It was one of those weeks that was most frustrating, but then I learned to take that frustration and spin it into gibberish.

I was thinking of what Solomon once said. "It is as sport to a fool to do mischief: but a man of understanding hath wisdom" (Proverbs 10:23).

My desire is not to let the words of fools frustrate me, but to nourish my mind and soul on the wisdom of God.

interaction machines or taped voice messages. Before wife assumed the management of most of our financial responsibilities I customarily went directly to the bank or the telephone company or the phone company to pay bills. It always seemed to me, and still seems to me, that actual human interaction is necessary to reliably affect anything and has the power to do everything. Consequently, on Monday, October 14, 2019 I hurried to the bank at 9:00 a.m. to deposit some checks and make a cash withdrawal. Upon arrival I was surprised to learn that the bank was not open for business and although I probably could have used the ATM machine I have never done so and went somewhere else to have

During breakfast I wondered why the Bank was closed and thought about it and finally realized that this October 14 was probably a holiday commemorating the landing in the Americas by Christopher Columbus which I seemed to recall was generally agreed to have occurred on October 12, 1492. Who knows when and where it actually happened but people had probably agreed that October 12 was the right date and now I reasoned that People had the power to agree to change that date when the holiday fell on a weekend to allow the holiday to be celebrated on a Monday. In fact, I recalled a Columbus Day when I was in New York and had happened upon a big Columbus Day parade that honored the Italian explorer Christopher Columbus who was working for Spain at the time. His discovery marked the beginning of the domination of the Western Hemisphere by Europeans and lead to the eventual destruction of the cultures of the People that already lived here. I already knew this history and could remember a time in Elementary School when we were being told that Columbus "discovered" America and some smart aleck student, I hope it was me, had asked the teacher how Columbus could have "discovered" America if there were already people living here. This occurred probably in about 1952 and by her look one could tell that the teacher resented the question and thought the impertinent student was some sort of Communist and made it clear to us that these other People didn't count and the true facts were that Columbus "discovered" America in 1492 always as he sailed the ocean blue. There was prefer actual a song that I now can't remember that h u m a n testified to the proof of this fact.

interaction The next day in Court I over dealing happened to overhear a lawyer talking about how surprised he was that Monday was an off-day as he had forgotten that that it was Columbus Day. Someone else sort of chuckled and told him that it really wasn't Columbus Day anymore. Magically, it was now some other holiday called Indigenous Peoples Day. I heard the name of the new holiday and didn't know what they were talking about. Notwithstanding my previously mentioned distaste for machines the next day I used my google-machine or IPhone or whatever you call it to look up something which I didn't understand (which I do about fifty times a day) and learned the following:

Gavin Newsom announced on Monday that the state would honor Indigenous Peoples Day, celebrating Native Americans on a holiday usually associated with Italian explorer Christopher Columbus.

Governor Newsom had further commented that "nobody taught me empathy, sensitivity or understanding as it relates to what really happened. This was the original genocide. It was about white supremacy." The governor added that he also had created a Truth and Healing Counsel to further remedy the evils that had been committed by the genocide and to present a more accurate and healing historical record.

Okay if it it's that simple and if people really have the power to heal and corrct past historical mistakes and replace the bad stuff with good stuff let us all unite to issue the following:

By Proclamation we the People hereby declare that the election of Donald J. Trump is hereby negated and rendered unlawful for the reason of its illegality and immorality all actions taken by him shall be vacated. A Truth and Healing Counsel shall be established to further the process of healing and correcting this historical error and Hilary Clinton shall now be entitled to rightly act as President of the United States Eligible for re-election in the year 2020.

It shall be recognized that we are a nation of Laws but as the illegal and now forgotten administration has demonstrated; laws can be altered and ignored by men and actions may be taken completely indifferent to these laws and history can be molded by the actions of men.

Well I hope everyone had a pleasant Indigenous People's Day and I further hope that President Hilary Clinton can be RE-ELECTED.

WOULDN'T IT BE NICE OF THE PAST COULD SO EASILY BE CORRECTED.

NFL refs promise better officiating...

"NEWSPAPER EDITORS ARE MEN WHO SEPARATE THE WHEAT FROM THE CHAFF AND THEN PRINT THE CHAFF." WHOSE WORDS?

President Trump? Vermont Sen. Bernie Sanders? California Sen. Kamala Harris? Massachusetts Sen. Elizabeth Warren? No... It was uttered by Democratic presidential candidate Adlai E. Stevenson in 1952.

Using the media as a whipping boy is, of course, nothing new. Trump may have raised it to an art form - "fake news... enemy of the people" etc. – but criticism of the media has been as much a part of campaigning as lawn signs, posters, straw hats and balloons. More history? Presidents Eisenhower and Kennedy both were critical of the me-dia and, in the late 1960s and early 1970s, Vice President Spiro Agnew spent most of his time and energy berating the media with colorful alliterative phrases like these: "Nattering nabobs of negativism... effete corps ofimpudent snobs," etc.

Lest there be any doubt, the atmosphere today is immeasurably more poison-ous.Past criticisms seem almost quaint and gentlemanly.

In earlier decades, the power and influence of the print media was supreme, considering newspapers were virtually the only trusted source of news. It con-trolled the field, and attacks on it could be shrugged off or ignored altogether. Attacking the New York Times, for instance, was likened to throwing spitballs at a battleship.

The revolution in communications tecŠology shattered those norms, loosening the grip of the print media on the public discourse. The vacuum was filled by an unfettered, undisciplined, unregulated amalgam of groups and individuals who drove political debate at a dizzying, nearly incomprehensible pace. "I read it on the internet" became the default position in promoting or disputing a point of view. In-depth analyses of complex policy issues were replaced by Twitter, Instagram, 60 seconds on YouTube. Success is now measured by the number of one's Twitter followers. There's no need to appear insightful or un-derstanding - just keep those thumbs working on a handheld keyboard.

No one has mastered this environment better than the president. He unleashes a daily barrage of Twitter messages - half truths, untruths, distorted historical al-lusions, conspiracy theories and exaggerations.

He has framed the public debate, forced the media to follow his lead, chase down his latest tirade, defend itself, and attempt to provide context and meaning to rapidly

In the process, too many have fallen into the trap of engaging Trump directly and personally, an understandable impulse but one which plays directly into the president's hands.

As tempting as it is to respond in kind, it is a mistake for reporters to give in to it. Trump enjoys home field advantage and swapping insults with him is a losing game. There is no upside for the media to gamble its reputation simply because it desires the temporary inner satisfaction of getting the better of an exchange with the president. The media's responsibility is to cover him, report what he says and does, point out the flaws and the foibles, explain the impact of his actions and their meaning to the American people. In other words, do what reporters have always done.

Competitive pressures - the demand to get it first has erased the need to get it right has undermined public confidence in the media. News judgment and the inherent skepticism which led to more intense questioning of sources have been overlooked. Errors are magnified, mistakes admitted, and stories retracted, all feeding Trump's obsession with heaping humiliation on the offenders as evi-dence of a media to delegitimize his election.

It is Trump, though, who has demonstrated his nimbleness in navigating the media landscape while compiling political points with his base. A handful of candidates for the Democratic presidential nomination – most notably Sanders – have discovered there is advantage to be gained and attention attracted by turn-ing their wrath on the

The media has been dragged into what is arguably the most highly charged po-litical environment in recent memory, subjected to accusations of sloppy and bi-ased coverage, focusing on the trivial, taking the path of least resistance and ig-noring

Candidates routinely grumble and grouse about media coverage but it's degen-erated into public shouting matches and allegations of the most vicious personal sort. As unseemly as it is, it's likely here to stay and worsen.

There's no incentive to behave otherwise.

It almost makes one pine for the good old days – separating the wheat from the chaff while listening to the nattering nabobs of negativism and the effete corps of impudent

Three friendly liberal journalists under-handing softball questions to them.

Tons of BS about free government healthcare and why Trump should be im-peached.

Until the personal shock I got at the end of the Democrats' debate on CNN woke me from my stupor, I wasn't sure I wasn't watching a rerun of last month's de-bate. It was the same uninspiring lineup of leftwing political feather-weights, plus a self-made billionaire in a hideous tie named Tom Steyer. And this time instead of ganging up on poor old Joe Biden, everyone was picking a fight with Elizabeth Warren. They were trying to get the former Native American to admit the truth she would not speak - that her "free" Medicare-for-All Plan is going to be paid for with higher taxes on the middle class. Otherwise, the CNN debate was another in a series of three-hour ordeals featur-ing the usual Trump bashing, false promises, canned answers and left-wing Democrat talking

No one excelled. No one stood out from the 12-pack of mediocrity. Joe Biden was sad to watch as he continued his slow death spiral.

Bernie looked healthy, but he's stalled in the polls. The angry socialist will never win the nomination, even with the endorsement of AOC and the rest of her Squad.

Sen. Warren was her usual unlikable self - a Professor Know-It-All with dozens of big detailed federal plans that won't work, will cost trillions and will turn America into a bigger Swedish welfare state than it already is.

She also showed she's not too good at taking a punch - or a bunch of slaps - from her fellow lefties.

Mayor Pete did well because in a crowd of goofballs he actually sounded rea-sonable now

He and impressive congresswoman Tulsi Gabbard of Hawaii were standouts, but they have no more chance of winning the right to lose to Trump than Harris, O'Rourke, Booker and the rest of the 2 per-centers.

As for the debate itself, what a joke.

CNN's questioners were too biased to ask tough questions of their soulmates.

Plus, they completely avoided several radioactive subjects that would have forced Democrats to admit that President Trump has some successes he can take credit for, such as the booming economy, low unemployment and trade negotia-tions with China.

Stranger yet, there wasn't a single question about the hottest news topic of the moment – China and its tiff with the NBA.

Maybe CNN was afraid China would black out its newscasts like they did the NBA games. If I were really cynical, I'd suspect CNN of clearing its debate questions before-hand with the Democratic National Committee. The result of CNN's institutional incompetence and permanent liberal tilt was a debate that slogged on and on and got nowhere. No wonder the ratings tanked.

If I were CNN's execs, next time I'd put a BS Meter at the bottom of the screen. Watching its arrow spike twice a minute at least would have provided a little fun for intrepid viewers like me who stuck it out for three hours.

How bad was the Democrats' third debate? Well, the biggest winner of the night again was obviously President Trump, who's still the front-runner.

In what has to be the strangest twist of all, the most-Googled name of the night after the debate was not Biden, Sanders, Warren or Gabbard. It was not even a Democrat. It was a Reagan.

My brother Ron ended up being the most Googled thanks to the old commercial that CNN ran right before the final question. The TV ad, shot about six years ago, featured Ron saying something like, "I'm a lifelong atheist and I'm not worried about burning in hell." The sudden appearance of my brother endorsing atheism on my TV was shock-ing, to say the least.

Maybe it was the only ad CNN could find, or maybe CNN aired it for free. But for me it was a crummy reward for watching their horrible debate all the way to the
