SIERRA MADRE CITY COUNCIL APPROVES $3 MILLION PREPAYMENT TO CALPERS

During the City Council meeting on November 12, 2019, the Sierra Madre City Council approved an additional discretionary payment to CalPERS in the amount of $3 Million and established a pension funding policy that sets the City's pension funding goal at 100%.

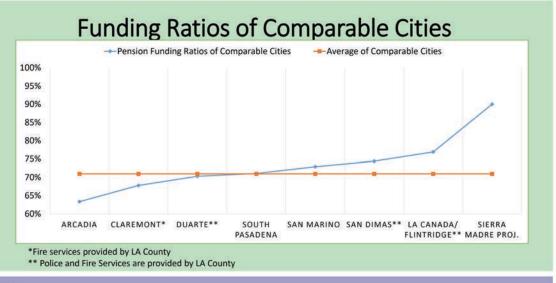

"Sierra Madre is already one of the most financially secure cities in California, increasing the pension funding level, and adopting a pension funding policy, will ensure the City doesn't have to reduce services or consider a fiscal emergency like many of our neighbors did recently.

The new pension funding policy will ensure that the City does not return to an underfunded pension position or have to reduce services or increase revenues as many local cities have done," said City Manager

The additional discretionary payment will bring the pension funding level of Sierra Madre to more than 90%. In contrast, many California cities are funded at 70%, while Sierra Madre's peer cities have an average

The City's Pension Funding Policy will ensure the funded ratio does not fall below 85%. "This is a critical step that all cities and agencies should be taking to ensure the viability of their employees' retirements and their own financial standing," Mayor John Harabedian said. "We will continue to actively manage our pension liabilities for the good of the taxpayers, current employees, and retirees."

LOONEY TUNES & SPEECH PATHOLOGY

(Let me just say that I'm sure this title has grabbed the attention of any speech pathologists reading this paper. Or at least their close relatives. Speech pathologists are like that...)

I'm in a prayer group with my parents and their neighbors. This last time toward the end my dad and one of the neighbors (we'll call him Stephen), got to talking about speech pathology, my field. Stephen and I are somewhat kindred spirits, since we're both in special education.

It came up that all the characters in Looney Tunes have a speech

Hey, you should write about that for the paper!" my dad exclaimed.

"Yeah!" Stephen laughed, "You know that'd actually be funny!"

What? You mean all my articles aren't scintillatingly hilarious? I restrained myself from asking. "I'll see," I said.

Admittedly, my heart wasn't in diagnosing the speech disorders of vintage cartoon characters. Not because I don't think it'd be a good article. It's just that speech pathology is my job. Therefore, I don't think it makes for interesting leisure reading, and part of me doesn't expect others to find it intrinsically fascinating, either.

It'd kind of be like asking a cop to analyze a TV crime drama. Sure, the rest of us may think that sort of thing is intriguing. But to someone else, it's just their job. And they might want to forget about it while they're not on the clock.

But then I didn't have any other ideas kicking around, so here goes nuttin'. One small, and need I say, obvious disclaimer -- I'm not the first person to write this!

Yes, it's true, everything you've suspected about the speech of your favorite Looney Tunes characters. Porky Pig stutters (sound repetition in "Th-th-th-that's all, folks!"). Daffy Duck has a frontal lisp (/s/ is produced as /th/, "dethpicable" for despicable).

Tweety Bird has the phonological process of stopping (producing a continuous sound, what we in the trade call a "fricative," as a noncontinuous sound, or a "stop.") Examples include "I tought I taw a puddy cat." However, if we consider that Tweety Bird may actually be a juvenile, his speech patterns could simply be developmental. Just for kicks, try to figure out what the following is [answer at end of article]: "Dough pis"

But the character we're all most familiar with is Elmer Fudd, who's forever chasing "wabbits." He's got the bane of all speech pathologist's existence --the dreaded gliding of liquids (/w/ replaces /l, r/, "wike" for like and "wain" for rain, etc.). Interestingly enough, unlike many of the kids us SLPs deal with, Elmer is able to pronounce some /r/-colored vowels, such as the -er in "ever" and the -or in "door." So there's hope for him.

Another reason I wasn't too hot about this topic was that it doesn't take too long to write. See? I've done it in three paragraphs. But what about the characters we've come to know and love who suffer from challenges outside the realm of speech pathology?

Look at the Seven Dwarfs or Winnie the Pooh's gang. For most of them, their problems are obvious. Grumpy has anger issues. Sleepy has insomnia or some other sleep disturbance. Actually, he's a bit rotund. Perhaps sleep apnea's to blame. And what's behind Bashful's shyness? Some deep seated insecurity rooted in childhood trauma? And I'm not even going to touch Dopey, for obvious reasons.

Eeyore is clearly depressed, and Tigger has Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder. I'm not sure if Rabbit's got anything going on. In most episodes his short fuse escalates quickly. But he's got anything on Grumpy.

But rather than poking fun at people with speech impairments or social problems, I think one reason these cartoons are so popular is because their creators knew that by making them less than pertect, they'd be more relatable.

Reminds me of a meme I saw: "As children, we love heroes. As adults, we understand villains." We've all missed the mark in some way. That's why sometimes the off-beat characters resonate with us more than the heroes. If we're honest with ourselves, we'd admit we're all a little broken in places. And the moral of the story is that that's okay.

* Speaking of stories with relatable characters, check out my novel, "A Year at Apex!" If you can't relate to the guilt-ridden one-handed plumber, I've got a jaded veteran teacher for you. Makes the perfect stocking stuffer. Look for it in paperback and ebook on Amazon and Barnes & Noble. [answer to "dough pis": "Go fish."]

Joining my mailing list is easy! just go to my website diningwithdills.com and contact me. Don't forget that on Tuesday we have our podcast

Here way go again!! Last week we spoke of social harmony and restaurants . This week I tackle why we apologize to the restaurant when they did something wrong. Hear me out, I order a steak and I ask for it medium rare and it comes back well done or my margarita on the rocks and its blended I think you see where this is going... I got this idea from listener Chelsea, she says that half the time she is apologizing for them not getting her order right. Let me interject here, my pet peeve is when the server says don't blame me I didn't cook your food!! Didn't say you did just please get it right. Just last week I stayed in a nice hotel off the Santa Barbara coast, my room was right next to the elevator shaft, I strolled down to the front desk and explained the situation and said I am sorry I can't sleep in that room, the hotel said, yea we get a lot of complaints on the room. My mom used to say killem with kindness, MOM I am trying!!! An apology is admitting you are wrong. My opinion? Let's be civil, keep your cool, be gracious, mistakes happen. I look at going to restaurants as a pro for them, you just don't have to return if you are not satisfied. Next week is the customer, always right? You'll be surprised at my answer

"The gift of fantasy has meant more to me than my talent for absorbing positive knowledge." Albert Einstein

"We don't create a fantasy world to escape reality, we create it to be able to stay."

Lynda Barry

"Fantasy is a necessary ingredient in living. It's a way of looking at life through the wrong end of a telescope." Dr. Seuss

My dear friends and neighbors, I entered into a world of pure, exquisite fantasy Friday night a week ago when I was privileged to attend the preview of Moonlight Forest at the Los Angeles County Arboretum and Botanic Garden. Here's how the Arboretum folks describe it:

"A fantasy of light transforms the Arboretum into an evening wonderland. Magnificent lantern art depicting exotic shimmering animals, flowers, whimsical pandas, soaring dragons other themes create the mesmerizing experience of Moonlight Forest."

I was in a world totally of fantasy, mesmerized, from the moment I stepped through the Peacock Welcome Gate and my sense of awe and wonder continued throughout the evening as delight upon beautiful delight was revealed. Pandas, peacocks, dragons, flamingoes, antelopes, cheetahs, walruses, seahorses, mushrooms, fairies, and butterflies. Butterflies of every size and color imaginable. Well, you just simply have to go see for yourself. Pure light everywhere.

This is the second year of the Moonlight Forest Magical Lantern Art Festival and the Arboretum folks have been working to create this world of fantasy since last year. They have succeeded in giving all who come to visit an unforgettable evening. There is a row of gloriously illuminated canons firing colored flames into the air. A giant peacock with tail feathers spread covers an entire lawn. A dragon 160' long slithers along the lake. There are cranes, signifying longevity. A desert garden with giant lizards and snakes coiled around cactus. Sacred baobab trees. A giant crocodile, a team of Siberian Huskies pulling a sled, enormous macaws. So much wonder to absorb!

These "lanterns" are made of a very thin polyester fabric stretched over metal frames, lit from within with LED lights in every color imaginable. Over 300 hours have been spent setting up the lantern displays, of which there are over 50!

We were treated to a Chinese Face Changer - which defies description. Seriously! A pass of a fan and he was transformed from an evil villain to an innocent maiden and so many other characters. When you go, you will have an opportunity to see the Face Changer and an assortment of other Chinese acrobats including High Chair, Hand Stands, Land Circle, Opposing Power, Bar Balance and, so you can plan your time there, the shows are nightly at 6:00, 7:30 and 8:30 with an added show at 9:15 on Saturday and Sunday evenings.

The Moonlight Forest Magical Lantern Art Festival will run through January 12, 2020 and is open for your amazement Wednesday through Sunday from 5:30 to 10:00 p.m. You will see Aluminum Braiding, Stone Carving and Straw Painting at the Market Place and there are even several Interactive Lanterns like the Polychrome Elephant and the Moonlight Swings. All I can say is you just simply have to go and see this for yourself. You will take a million pictures, like we did, because you won't believe all that you will see. And, yes, there is food!

Tickets Wednesday-Thursday are: Adults - $25.00, Seniors/Students - $23.00, Children (3-17) $20.00. Friday-Sunday: Adults - $28.00, Seniors/Students - $25.00, Children (3-17) $23.00 and the parking is free!! You can purchase tickets on Arboretum.org. Or call 626-566-3711.

If you don't give yourself this magnificent Magical Lantern experience, you're going to be kicking yourself all year! Trust me on this. Fantasy doesn't happen around every corner, but you will find it for sure at the Arboretum Moonlight Forest. Photos by Chuck Seitz

Three Children Shot by Boy with BB Gun

Although no one required medical attention, Pasadena Thursday 9-year-old police on questioned a Washington Elementary School student after he brought a BB gun to school and fired it on the playground.

Three students were struck by the small metal balls at about 7:30 a.m. police said. The students contacted school staff.

Pasadena Unified Office of Communications Hilda Ramirez Horvath said the school district takes the safety of students and schools "very seriously.

She said they are investigating the incident. Police said they are also investigating the shooting along with talking to the students parents.

The incident in Pasadena occurred around the same time as the deadly shooting at Saugus High School in Santa Clarita, killing two students and injuring four. The injured included the suspect from a self-inflicted gunshot wound.

Police Arrest Man after Body Found on Highway 2

HONORING OUR VETERANS By Joan Schmidt

Beautiful Veterans Day Observances were held in Monrovia and Duarte. At Library Park, Monrovia was the Allied Veterans Council annual event. Attendees included Mayor Pro Tem Larry Spicer, Council Members Becky Shevlin, Gloria Crudgington (who brought a beautiful photo of her late father, a Veteran war hero), Alex Blackburn, Police Chief Alan and Lisa Sanvictores, Arcadia Mayor April Verlatto, and Kristi Lopez, representing Senator Portantino. Scott Sinclair, President Allied Veterans Council was Master of Ceremonies. Colors were posted by VFW 2070, who also did the Flag Folding Ritual as Janine Coyne explained their significance. Their Chaplain, Ferrell Heydorf, composed a beautiful Invocation and Benediction. Inspirational Guest Speaker was Retired Colonel Paul Raggio, U.S. Army. The Monrovia HS Band, directed by Daniel Magallanes, performed a Salute to Veterans, and beautiful renditions of our Patriot songs. Robert Edmonds, Royal Canadian Legion read Flanders Field, and placed the Wreath with Lt. Charles West, Civil Air Patrol.

The Observance was beautiful, but afterwards was an awesome dedication of a new Viet Nam Memorial representing ALL Veterans of the War. It is so unique and is embedded in stone. Chuck Keen, American Legion Post 44 worked hard to see this happen. There already was a specific Viet Nam Memorial honoring those who made the ultimate sacrifice. But he felt ALL who served needed recognition. Of the six

Monuments at Library Park, three exist because of American Legion Post 44. (There is also one to Veterans of the Korean War)

Earlier in Duarte, there also was an outstanding event for Veterans. Council Member Margaret Finlay spoke of her courageous father-in-law, Robert Finlay, who had fought in the Battle of the Bulge. (He had passed away a few days earlier and my sincere condolences to his family.)

God Bless America, our brave Veterans who fought for our freedoms and the sacrifices they and their families made.

FIREWORKS CRACKDOWN FOR MAD TOWN AREA By Michele Silence

Anyone living in the county areas of Monrovia, Arcadia and Duarte (MAD) know that illegal fireworks use has escalated over the years especially on July Fourth. Many won't leave home fearing fire will breakout or their pets will injure themselves. Others have medical issues or PTSD and find it unbearable to be at home. The Fourth of July is not a happy time for many residents.

This year a group of concerned citizens decided to do something about it. Through public records it was discovered that the county area has been largely ignored when it comes to issuing tickets for firework infractions. Cities like S. El Monte and Rosemead record citation numbers as high as 37 for the week of July Fourth. But, only 2 tickets have been issued over the past 3 years in the MAD town area. According to Sergeant Lewis from Temple Sheriff's Station, the county doesn't have resources and funds to cite people in the unincorporated areas.

Supervisor Kathryn Barger's office has offered to help. At the last citizen meeting on Nov. 6, Elisa Arcidiacono committed to provide more funding for enforcement within the MAD town region. There will be educational denonstrations to make sure everyone knows the dangers and penalties for fireworks discharge (fines up to $1000). A free community event will also be planned to give families safe, fun entertainment.

Other changes to look for next year include city wide signage posted in both English and Spanish. A hotline will be available so that complaints for illegal use won't get lost among other calls. And, more patrol cars will be in place, ready to catch offenders

MAD town councilmembers also attended the Nov. 6 meeting. Even though consumer fireworks have been illegal throughout Los Angeles county for more than 30 years, councilmembers Hall and Williams both voiced concern over how difficult it will be to change personal behavior.

Regardless, things will be changing next year. Citizens and Supervisor Barger's office are hopeful the project will decrease usage and serve as a successful model for other county areas. If you have ideas for the educational and community events or can help with planning, please email move_it@sbcglobal.net.

2020 CENSUS: FACT V FICTION

by Colleen Tressler, Consumer Education Specialist, FTC

The Federal Trade Commission is partnering with the U.S. Census Bureau to help you guard against potential census scams. Knowing how the 2020 Census process works, what information you will and won't — be asked for, and some red flags will help you spot and report scams.

In mid-March 2020, the Census Bureau will start mailing out (and, in some areas, hand delivering) invitations to participate in the 2020 Census. You should get yours by April 1. You can respond online, by phone, or by mail.

The Census Bureau has an important job: to count every person living in the United States. Starting in May 2020, census takers will start visiting homes that haven't responded to make sure everyone is counted. If you aren't home or can't come to the door, the census taker will come back up to six times. Each time, they'll leave a door hanger with a phone number so you can call to schedule a visit.

The Questions

The census questionnaire asks how many people are in the home at the time you complete the form; their sex, age, race, ethnicity; their relationships to one another; phone number; and whether you own or rent the home. For the full list of questions on the 2020 Census, visit Questions Asked.

Signs of a Scam

Scammers may pose as census takers to get your personal information — and then use it to commit identity theft and other frauds. But there are ways you can identify official census takers.

Census takers must show a photo ID with the U.S. Department of Commerce seal and an expiration date. If you ask, the census taker will give you a supervisor's contact information and/or the census regional office phone number for verification.

The Census Bureau will never ask for your full Social Security number, bank account or credit card numbers, money or donations, or anything on behalf of a political party. The 2020 Census will not ask citizenship status.

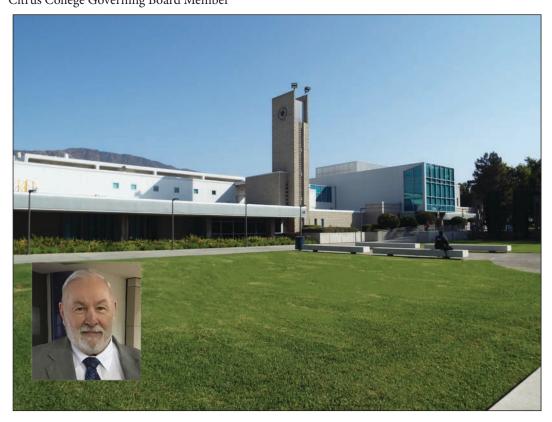

The Census Bureau may call you as part of their follow-up and quality control efforts. They also might call if you're not home when a census taker stops by or when a personal visit is not convenient. Calls will come from one of the Census Bureau's contact centers or from a field representative. Since we all know you can't trust caller ID, visit How to identify a phone call from the Census Bureau for the phone numbers you can use to check out any calls you might get.

Make sure you have the latest and most accurate information about the 2020 Census. Visit 2020 Census Rumors to fact-check and ask questions.

If you suspect fraud, call 800-923-8282 to speak with a local Census Bureau representative. You also can file a report with the FTC at FTC.gov/Complaint. Your reports may help law enforcement agencies launch investigations that could stop imposters and other fraudsters in their tracks.

SOME COLLEGE, NO DEGREE? 2020 COULD BE YOUR YEAR

By Dr. Edward C. Ortell Citrus College Governing Board Member

In just five years—from 2014 to 2019—nearly one million U.S. students who had previously dropped out of college returned and earned their first undergraduate credential. An additional 1.1 million students who returned to college in that same timeframe are still enrolled and working toward their

These findings are part of a new report, "Some College, No Degree: A 2019 Snapshot for the Nation and 50 States," published by the National Student Clearinghouse (NSC) Research Center. The report is an important indicator for the U.S. economy, with its increasing demands for more workers with education and training beyond high school.

California ranks number one nationally in the number of students who started and then stopped attending college. This is hardly surprising, given the massive number of students who enroll in college in our state, as compared to other states. Fortunately, the NSC findings suggest that the pathways to degrees for returning students are reflective of community colleges' broad-access missions, and that California's community colleges are one of the best places for returning students to achieve success.

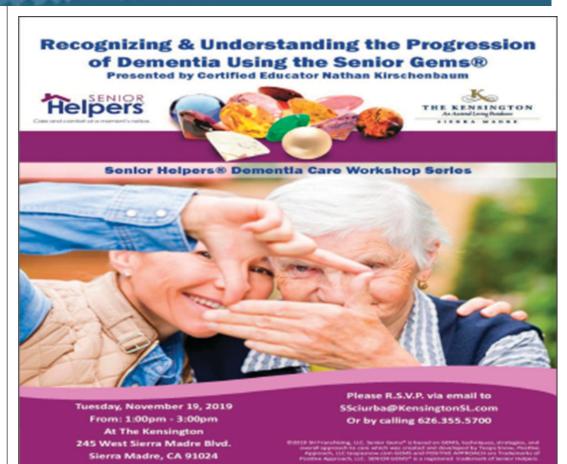

The NSC report also states, "Not only are community colleges indispensable to the process of broadening postsecondary access to diverse students, but they also could have a significant effect on reaching a state's postsecondary attainment goal."

One of the things that make community colleges such a great resource for returning students is their commitment to eliminating barriers to student success. Local community colleges—like the ones in your community—have well-established student support services that keep returning students on track and successful. These include counseling, assessment, convenient class schedules, a variety of tutoring options, financial aid and many others.

Does Some College, No Degree sound like you? The degree or certificate you put on hold when the demands of family and work made life far too difficult could be just around the corner. Picture that diploma with your name on it and the increased income, improved quality of life and personal satisfaction that comes with it. Then head online or in person to your local community college and kick off a great new year!

BUYER BEWARE: THE HIDDEN DANGERS OF DIY ESTATE PLANNING—PART 1

Do a Google search for "online estate planning documents," and you'll find dozens of different websites. These sites let you complete and print out just about any kind of planning document you can think of—wills, trusts, healthcare directives, and/or power of attorneys-in just a matter of minutes. And the documents are typically quite inexpensive.

At first glance, such DIY planning documents might appear to be a quick and cheap way to finally cross estate planning off your bucket list. These forms may not be perfect, many consumers reason, but at least they're better than having no plan at all. However, relying on DIY planning documents can actually be worse than having no plan at all—and here's why:

An inconvenient truth

Creating a plan using online documents, can give you a false sense of security—you think you've got planning covered, when you most probably do not. Relying on DIY planning documents is one of the most dangerous choices you can make. In the end, such generic forms could end up costing your family even more money and heartache than if you'd never gotten around to doing any planning at all.

At least with no plan at all, planning would likely remain at the front of your mind, where it rightfully belongs until it's handled properly.

Planning to fail

Many people don't realize that estate planning entails much more than just filling out template driven legal forms. These websites offer a one-size-fits-all solution to your unique situation, needs, and goals. Even worse, they provide no real guidance or counsel, which leads to a plan that misses the mark often—and the loved ones you were trying to protect will be the very ones forced to clean up the mess.

The whole purpose of estate planning is to keep your family out of court and out of conflict in the event of your death or incapacity. Yet, as cheap online estate planning services become more and more popular, millions of people are learning that taking the DIY route can not only fail to achieve this purpose, it can make the court cases and family conflicts far worse and more costly.

One size does not fit all

Online planning documents may appear to save you time and money, but keep in mind, just because you created "legal" documents doesn't mean they will actually work when you need them. Indeed, if you read the fine print of most DIY planning websites, you'll find numerous disclaimers pointing out that their documents are "no substitute" for the advice of a lawyer.

Some disclaimers warn that these documents are not even guaranteed to be "correct, complete, or up to date." These facts should be a huge red flag, but it's just one part of the problem.

Even if the forms are 100% correct and up-to-date, there are still many potential pitfalls which can cause the documents to not work as intended—or fail all together. And without an attorney to advise you, you won't have any idea of what you should watch out for.

Estate planning is not a one-size-fits-all kind of deal. Even if you think your particular situation is simple, that turns out to almost never be the case. To demonstrate just how complicated the planning process can be, here are 4 common complications you're likely to encounter with DIY plans.

1. Improper execution To be considered legally valid, some planning documents must be executed (i.e. signed and witnessed or notarized) following very strict legal procedures. For example, California requires that you and every witness to your will must sign it in the presence of one another. If your DIY will doesn't mention that (or you don't read the fine print) and you fail to follow this procedure, the document can be worthless.

2. Not adhering to state lawState laws are also very specific about who can serve in certain roles like trustee, executor, financial power of attorney, and witnesses. Having an invalid person serving in an important role can cause your entire plan to fail.

3. Unforeseen conflictFamily dynamics are—to put it lightly—complex. This is particularly true for blended families, where spouses have children from previous relationships. A DIY service cannot help you consider all the potential areas where conflict might arise among your family members and help you plan to avoid it. When done right, the estate planning process is a huge opportunity to build new connections within your family.

4. Thinking a will is enough

Lots of people believe that creating a will is enough to handle all their planning needs. But this is rarely the case. A will, for example, does nothing in the event of your incapacity, for which you would also need a healthcare directive and/or a living will, plus a durable financial power of attorney. Furthermore, because a will requires probate, it does nothing to keep your loved ones out of court upon your death. And if you have minor children, relying on a will alone could leave your kids vulnerable to being taken out of your home and into the care of strangers.

Given all these potential dangers, DIY estate plans are a disaster waiting to happen. And as we'll see next week, perhaps the worst consequence of trying to handle estate planning on your own is the potentially tragic impact it can have on the people you love most of all—your children.

EMPIRE OF THE SUMMER MOON: QUANAH PARKER AND THE RISE AND FALL OF THE COMAN-CHES THE MOST POWERFUL INDIAN TRIBE IN AMERICAN HISTORY

by S. C. Gwynne

Empire of the Summer Moon spans two astonishing stories. The first traces the rise and fall of the Comanches, the most powerful Indian tribe in American histo-ry. The second entails one of the most remarkable narratives ever to come out of the Old West: the epic saga of the pioneer woman Cynthia Ann Parker and her mixed-blood son, Quanah, who became the last and greatest chief of the Coman-ches. Although listeners may be more familiar with the names Apache and Sioux, it was in fact the legendary fighting ability of the Comanches that determined just how and when the American West opened up. They were so masterful at war and so skillful with their arrows and lances that they stopped the northern drive of co-lonial Spain from Mexico and halted the French expansion westward from Louisi-ana. White settlers arriving in Texas from the Eastern United States were surprised to find the frontier being rolled backward by Comanches incensed by the invasion of their tribal lands. So effective were the Comanches that they forced the creation of the Texas Rangers and account for the advent of the new weapon specifically designed to fight them: the six-gun. The war with the Comanches lasted four dec-ades, in effect holding up the development of the new American nation. Gwynne's exhilarating account delivers a sweeping narrative that encompasses Spanish colo-nialism, the Civil War, the destruction of the buffalo herds, and the arrival of the railroads - a historical feast for anyone interested in how the United States came into being.

Once I began attending John Muir High School, I was no longer getting the Catholic religious instruction that I got from classes at St. Elizabeth's in grades 1 through 8, and at St. Francis high school in the ninth grade.

Our local parish church, St. Elizabeth, offered Monday night classes for Catholics who were at-tending public school, and my mother encouraged me to go, just like my older brothers had done. Did I say "encouraged"? Let's just say I had no other choice. The classes were called CCD, which I believe meant Confraternity of Christian Doctrine. For me, this meant I could get out of the house on Monday nights and maybe meet girls. I would usually go up to St. Eliza-beth's school with my brother Richard and friend George, and sometimes with others.

We'd go to the 7th grade classroom and a priest or lay teacher would engage us in discussions of issues of honesty, relationships, politics, etc., all with the intent to get us to think in terms of how problems and issues can be seen, and resolved, in the context of Catholic dogma and theology. In the beginning, I spoke very little, afraid of my own shadow. But when I began to answer simple questions when no one else spoke up, and the priest seemed delighted and surprised at my answers, I continued to override my feelings of stupidness and self-consciousness and would en-gage the priest in discussions and lively questions that everyone else at least found entertaining. I don't recall all of the specific topics we discussed, but one time, the priest asked us what was the most important single factor in a relationship. No one said a word. I finally said, "being honest," and the priest said "You hit the nail on the head." He then spoke for the rest of the night about being honest.

Often, I would share some fact, or have some query, which would objectively contradict what the priest had previously told us. I do recall that some of the subjects generally dealt with bio-logical evolution, abortion, the possibility of reincarnation, the possibility that the English transla-tions of the Bible could have some errors, and other topics. The priest encouraged us to ask ques-tions, and I began to look forward to these "lively discussions." Though the priest always tried to bring it back to Catholic dogma and belief - which was the stated purpose of the classes – he did so in a very dynamic way so that we were never being dryly taught "church doctrine" but were guided to see some of these issues in the light of traditional church beliefs.

Word got around to my mother that I was "debating with the priest." I don't know who would have reported that to my mother, or what they actually said. I presume it was a second or third hand report by another student who told their parent about the discussions, who told another parent, who knew my mother and told her, most likely in a very distorted way.

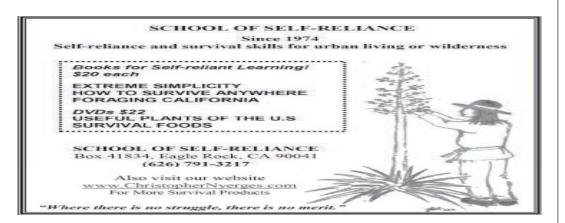

"How dare you talk back to the priest?" she said one day, without even asking me for an explanation or asking me my side.

"What? When did I do that?" I replied.

"I heard that you were telling off the priest. What makes you think you know more than the priest?" she yelled.

I attempted an explanation, but all she knew is that I didn't sit there in the classroom meekly and say "yes, father" to the priest. It was near-heresy to question anything that the priest said. She never accepted my explanation, and would bring it up for years later, pointing out my arrogance to think that I could actually "talk back" to the priest, as if that's what I was really doing, which

I never forgot this incident, realizing that when it came to the Church, my mother had some very strong viewpoints. In this case, she would not let facts get in the way of what she determined had actually happened.

HOW TO KNOW WHEN AN OLDER PARENT HAS A GAMBLING PROBLEM

Dear Savvy Senior:

I'm worried that my 76-year-old father has become addicted to gambling. He spends at least two days a week at an Indian casino about a half-hour's drive from his house playing slot machines. What can I do? Worried Daughter

Dear Worried:

Problem gambling among older adults is unfortunately on the rise. Studies suggest that more than 4 million Americans, age 65 and older, could have a gambling problem. The reasons behind this growing problem are because seniors have time and money on their hands and the influx of casinos that have cropped up around the country have made access to gambling much more convenient. Here's what you should know, along with some tips and resources that can help your dad if he does indeed have a problem.

Problem Gambling

For most older adults, gambling is simply a fun recreational activity, but for those who become addicted to it, it can be a devastating disease that can financially wipe them out.

There are a number of reasons why seniors can be vulnerable to gambling problems. For starters, seniors are often catered to by casinos with free bus transportation, free drinks, discounted meals, special rewards and other prizes as a way to entice them.

In addition, many seniors use gambling as a way to distract or escape feelings of loneliness, depression or even a chronic health condition. Some may have financial problems they are seeking to overcome. And some may have cognitive impairment that interferes with their ability to make

Adding to the problem is that many seniors may not understand addiction, making them less likely to identify a gambling problem. Or they may be confused or embarrassed that they can't control their urges to gamble and reluctant to seek help because they think that at their age, they should know better. And even if they recognize that they have a problem, they may not know that help is available or where to get it.

You should also know that while there are many gambling options for people to get hooked on today, casino slot machines are far and away the most popular among seniors. Slot machines are much more addictive then the old machines of yesteryear with spinning lemons, cherries and melons. Many of today's slot machines offer intense sensory stimulation with large video screens, music and vibrating, ergonomic chairs.

Get Help

How can you know if your dad has a gambling problem? Gamblers Anonymous offers a 20-question online test at Gamblers Anonymous.org that he can take to help determine if he has a problem. In the meantime, here are some questions you can ask to help evaluate his situation.

Is he preoccupied with gambling, constantly talking about it, or planning to gamble versus doing his normal activities?

Is he gambling more and more money to get the same level of excitement?

Is he using his retirement funds or other savings to gamble, or is he pawning or selling personal items to get money to gamble with?

Has he lost control to the point that he can't set a limit of time and money to spend in the casino, and stick to it?

Does he become uncomfortable, angry or lie when you ask him about his gambling activities?

If your dad answers yes to any of these questions, he may have a problem. To find help contact the National Council on Problem Gambling (NCPgambling.org), a non-profit organization that operates a 24-hour national hotline at 800-522-4700. They can direct you to resources in your area, including counselors who have been trained through the National Certified Gambler Counseling Program.

Send your senior questions to: Savvy Senior, P.O. Box 5443, Norman, OK 73070, or visit SavvySenior. org. Jim Miller is a contributor to the NBC Today show and author of "The Savvy Senior" book.

WHAT'S IN A NAME ANYWAY?

coupon for a free donut. Normally, I am not overly excited about "free."

All I had to do was fill out a little survey online and they would send me a code that would guaran-tee me a free donut. In my "daily diary diet," I have a whole section devoted to the subject that when a forbidden food is free it cancels out all calories.

When I first told the Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage, she looked at me rather strangely and said, 'Who said that?'

I know we are both getting old but we are not that I got close to her, waved my hand so she could see me and said, "It's me. I just said it. Can you hear me now?"

"That is not funny. You know exactly what I meant." My grin drained from my face and I said to her, "Well, I said it."

"Did," she said inquisitively, "anybody ever say that before you said it?'

My wife has many talents, skills and gifts. It would be difficult for me to say which is her best gift but at the moment, her greatest skill is backing me into a corner. And in a corner, I was thus backed. I then had to explain to her, in detail, how this was an observation I worked through with much research. This is an original with me and I am quite proud to be the author.

All she said was, "Huh, that is exactly what I thought."

I will go to my grave believing when a donut is free it means it is free of calories. Call it what you will but free by any other name is still free in my personal dictionary.

Getting back to my free donut. I was anxious to get to the donut shop, cash in the coupon and en-joy a donut. I do not know when the best time to eat a donut is, so I just started at my convenience.

I got at the donut shop and walked in and the smell was overpowering. Nothing like the smell of donuts baking in the oven with a hint of coffee brewing in the background. I just stood there for a few seconds absorbing the luxury of this marvelous atmosphere. It is not often I can enjoy such luxuries, especially if my wife knows where I am.

When I became adjusted to the ambiance, I walked up to the counter and presented my coupon for a free donut. It was at that moment I saw them.

I know I am not the most observant person at the circus. Many things get by me without noticing them. Sometimes I am just in deep thought and not aware of my surroundings. I can relate to Walter Mitty in many ways.

I cannot express how ecstatic I There they were, freshly baked Apple Fritters. I was was when someone gave me a stunned. It just never crossed my mind that a donut shop would have this kind of delicious tidbit. But there they were. Freshly baked and staring at me with alluring eyes of desire.

> I do not know how much better a day can get than this. When I got up this morning, I did not realize this would be a wonderful day. There they were staring at me and I stared back and immediately there was a connection. Standing in line I could hardly wait for my turn > to order. I presented my coupon for a free donut and the young woman behind the counter said, 'Which donut can I get for you, sir?'

I savored the moment, licked my drying lips and said, "I'll have an Apple Fritter." With that said, I sighed a deep sigh of true contentment.

"I'm sorry, sir," the young woman said.

"There is no need to be sorry, young lady," I said as cheerfully as I possibly could.

"No, sir, I'm sorry but an Apple Fritter is not a

I can take a joke as well as anybody else. In fact, I have put forth my share of jokes. However, an Apple Fritter is no joking matter.

"Excuse me," I said almost breathlessly.

"An Apple Fritter is not a donut, so what donut would you like me to get for you?"

The thought began unfolding in my mind at this point that she was not joking. She sincerely believed an Apple Fritter was not a donut. I know an Apple Fritter is among the Cadillac of donuts but in my mind, it is still a donut.

I did not have much opportunity to set this young woman straight with one of the great fundamentals of life. I had to take one of her "free" donuts along with my coffee, go to a corner and think about these things. What good is "free" if it is not really what you want?

Sometimes people use the word "free" as a device to get you to a place where they can sell you some-

The Bible is the only place I will accept a "free" offer. One particular verse sets this forth quite nicely. "And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free" (John 8:32 KJV).

This is often used out of context. The truth that makes us free indeed is none other than the truth about Jesus Christ. He is the only One capable of delivering something absolutely free.

STUART TOLCHIN THE FELLOW TRAVELER

As I approached the window specifically set aside for inquiries by Attorneys I thought about my approaching retirement at the end of the year. I have been practicing for over fifty years and active on this referral panel for almost half that period and this is one of the very few times I have inquired about a payment irregularity. I was appointed on a case in which I did not prevail. I was appointed because the Defendant's father had written a letter directly to the Court requesting assistance for his son who had unquestionable emotional and mental difficulties. I had attempted to set aside a ruling which resulted in a lifetime requirement that the son register as a sexual offender.

After being referred to the Mental Health Court for examination and evaluation examination the Defendant eventually was found to be competent and to have the capacity to understand the charges against him and to assist in his own defense. Returning to the Criminal Court he plead guilty contrary to the advice of the Public Defender representing him. As a result of his plea the Defendant was placed on probation and informed that for the rest of his life he would be required to register as a sex offender which imposed various conditions upon him. In addition sex offender which imposed various conditions upon him. In addition to restricting the area where he could live, the Defendant would be ineligible to participate in certain rehabilitative and diversion programs.

I attempted to speak with the Defendant but was unable to generate much of a conversation with him. I did learn the facts of the offense which were that the Defendant had approached a young girl on the streets while saying "you're cute" and grabbed her buttocks. The young girl became frightened, ran across the street and told some friends what had happened. The friends crossed the street and a fight between the Defendant and the friends ensued. For this reason the prosecutors felt it was a very serious matter and were adament that the prosecutors felt it was a very serious matter and were adamant that the requirement of Sexual Registration remain.

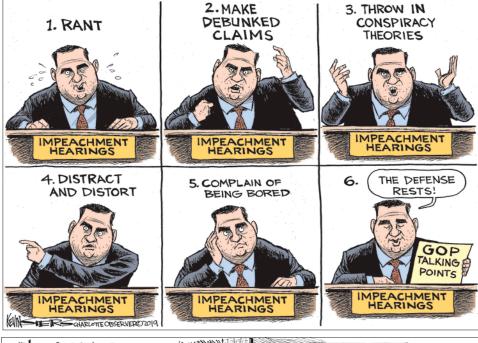

Why I include the history of this matter is not to review the legal circumstances but rather to describe the relationship between myself and my client and his father. After being released the son was refusing to live at home, was once more on the streets, and not taking his medication. The father, who was a single father of this disabled young man was having a difficult time holding on to his job and was continually worried about the welfare of his son. The father and I met to speak about the matter and I explained that I too was a single father who had raised a son with mental and emotional disabilities. As his son was on Probation on another matter I encouraged and accompanied the father to meet with a previously-assigned probation officer and eventually the father managed to have the son meet with the officer. eventually the father managed to have the son meet with the officer. The son has returned home and no longer speaks of himself as a bad person who did wrong but sees himself as a person who needs help and is willing to accept that help. Once that decision was made we all exchanged hugs and have stayed in touch. There have been no further incidents of inappropriate touching and I was very relieved to hear that.

Hopefully I will eventually get paid for the time I spent with the parties. That is not the point.

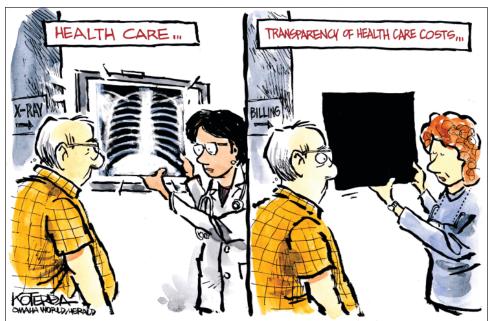

I have been fortunate to have done (not accomplished) just done, the kind of Law I have practiced for over fifty years. It has allowed me to act almost as a fellow-traveler.

for over fifty years. It has allowed me to act almost as a fellow-traveler with my clients. Not acting as a doctor who just prescribed remedies but as someone who occasionally, not always or even very frequently but sometimes, shared emotions and helped people make what I hoped were positive changes in their lives and would as well be a public benefit. I will miss this in retirement but at least I won't have the expectation of being paid which gets in the way sometimes.

It is my hope that, subsequent to retirement, I will do the best I can to act in accord with my best self and do whatever good I can do. Writing, and more importantly, thinking about these articles I believe will assist me to stay on the right path.

TRUMP'S TWEET SETS A DANGEROUS PRECEDENT

We interrupt this impeachment hearing to bring you a message from Donald Trump: "Everywhere Marie Yovanovitch went turned bad."

That tweet, read on live television by House Intelligence Chairman Adam Schiff, was shocking because it sought to affect the testimony of a key witness in an impeachment hearing as she spoke. Moreover, it marked what may be a first - and potentially devastating turn - in American history. As described by Schiff, it was: "Witness intimidation in real time by the president of the United States."

Yovanovitch, whose testimony was calm, considered and effective, was ex-plaining how Trump and his facilitators sought to smear her as she served as the U.S. ambassador to Ukraine. She said she was "shocked" when she learned that Trump called her "bad news" in his controversial phone call last July with Ukraine's president. As she spoke Friday morning, Trump took to Twitter and his reelection campaign sent out an email.

With the subject line, "Impeachment Hearing BS," Trump emailed his support-ers that the hearings were "fake" and a "witch hunt trial."

As is often the case in matters regarding Trump's malfeasance, the most use-ful insight comes from those courageous journalists at Fox News who are will-ing to criticize the president. Bret Baier stated that Trump's tweet raised the real possibility of an additional impeachment charge against Trump for "wit-ness tampering or intimidation."

Baier's colleague Chris Wallace added: "If you were not moved by the testi-mony of Marie Yovanovich, you don't have a pulse."

Clearly, Trump was moved, so much so that he tweeted about Yovanovitch during her live testimony. Apparently he couldn't help himself – after telling re-porters earlier in the week that he wasn't even watching the impeachment hearings.

As fascinating as the first two days of hearings have been - with even more critically important testimony scheduled for next week - Trump has shifted the focus to the crime of witness tampering. By blasting Yovanovitch in real time was the president hoping to silence her? Or, more likely, was he sending a thinly-veiled message to future witnesses that if they testify they risk public humiliation?

This behavior, made possible by digital access to tens of millions of Ameri-cans with a single click, never existed during the impeachment hearings in-volving Nixon and Clinton. Trump is acting in uncharted territory. His tweets reach roughly 20 percent of all Americans with

Speaking of developments in real time, less than an hour after Trump's at-tempt to intimidate those who would testify against him in a Congressional hearing, his associate, Roger Stone, was convicted of lying to Congress to protect Donald Trump.

What drama. Trump signals witnesses that they should fear testifying against him. And a court underscores the fact that lying to Congress can lead to a lengthy prison sentence.

When digital malfeasance by the Russians came up in the 2016 election, then-candidate Trump said, "It also could be somebody sitting on their bed that weighs 400 pounds, okay?"

Friday, there was digital interference that was equally troubling. It was by somebody sitting, possibly on their bed at the White House, that weighs 240 pounds. Clearly, not okay.

OUR HEALTH CARE SYSTEM IS GREAT. THERE'S JUST ONE

Sonji Wilkes learned the hard way that and Human Serlife can still throw you a curve, even vices, Labor, and when you play by the rules. She had Treasury to draft health insurance and the hospital she a regulation that picked to bring her son into the world would take care of was "in-network."

She's not alone. Insured patients are being sent, with increasing frequency, from facilities that accept their insurance to those that don't without being made of "let the buyer beware" but America case here.

Surprise billing, as President Donald Trump and others call it, is a black mark Something needs to be done, but there's a right way to handle it and a wrong way.

The usually reliable Lamar Alexander, chairman of the Senate Health, Education, Labor, and Pensions Committee, is backing the wrong one. His Lower Health Care Costs bill, which has already been passed favorably out of his committee, would cap what insurers need to pay to protect their patients by setting a "median in-network rate" for services.

Rather than ensuring a patient's surprise bills are covered, Alexander's legis-lation empowers insurance companies to cut costs over years by kicking pa-tients' doctors with the most experience out of their networks.

The health insurance lobby is one of Washington's most powerful, so it's no shock this approach is making its way through the Senate. Luckily, the Alexander bill looks dead in the U.S. House — which may explain why Richard Neal, chairman of the powerful Committee on Ways and Means, is trying an end-run.

Neal recently sent a letter to his fellow Democrats proposing the creation of a committee of stakeholders and representatives from the departments of Health

Lawmakers should be looking for ways, like Cassidy/Hassan, to empower patients and reduce prices across the board. That outcome would be a pleasant surprise for all of us.
