SIERRA MADRE PLAYHOUSE ANNOUNCES SHOWS FOR 2020 SEASON

Sierra Madre Playhouse plans four mainstage productions for its 2020 season. Two plays are return engagements of audience favorites. The other two are productions of works that are new to the Playhouse. The schedule is as follows:

March 30- May 1, 2020: Charlotte's Web. Adapted for the stage by Joseph Robinette. Based on the story by E.B. White. Charlotte's Web is the famed story of a spider who engages in web-weaving miracles to rescue her friend, Wilbur the pig, from a horrible death at a butcher's knife. Instead, Wilbur goes on to become admired and famous in his surrounding com-munity. Wilbur, in return, acts to ensure the survival of Charlotte's children. It's a sweet, simple but powerful tale of the value and importance of friend-ship. Though it will obviously resonate with young audiences, it is intelli-gent enough to hold the interest of adult theater-goers as well. gent enough to hold the interest of adult theater-goers as well.

June 20- August 2: King of the Yees. By Lauren Yee. Take any Chinese last name, and there exists a corresponding family association with branches in each major American city, Chinese American men's clubs formed over a hundred years ago. For nearly twenty years, playwright Lauren Yee's father Larry has been a driving force in the Yee Family Association. Until now. Amid a backdrop of crumbling Chinatowns and all-too-lifelike mu-seums, Lauren races through history, space, and the fourth wall to find her father in this joyride through San Francisco's disappearing past.

September 5- October 11: Silent Sky by Lauren Gunderson. When Henrietta Leavitt begins work at the Harvard Observatory in the early 1900s, she isn't allowed to touch a telescope or express an original idea. Instead, she joins a group of women computers, charting the stars for a renowned astronomer who calculates projects in girl hours and has no time for the women's probing theories. As Henrietta, in her free time, attempts to measure the light and distance of stars, she must also take measure of her life on Earth, trying to balance her dedication to science with family obligations and the possibility of love. The true story of 19th-century astronomer Henrietta Leavitt explores a woman's place in society during a time of immense scientific discoveries, when women's ideas were dismissed until men claimed credit for them. Social progress, like scientific progress, can be hard to see when one is trapped among earthly complications; Henrietta Leavitt and her female peers believe in both, and their dedication changed the way we understand both the heavens and Earth.

November 28- December 27: A Christmas Story. Adapted for the stage by Philip Grecian. Based on the screenplay by Jean Shepherd, Leigh Brown and Bob Clark and on the book In God We Trust, All Others Pay Cash by Jean Shepherd. Directed by Christian Lebano. In this Christmas adventure like no other, a boy's ardent campaign for a Red Ryder BB gun against all odds ("You'll shoot your eye out!") unfolds amid seasonal she-nanigans involving a leg lamp, a bunny suit and a tongue stuck on a frozen flagpole. Relive a family tradition or start one anew by joining Ralphie and his family for this stage adaption of the beloved film inspired by Jean Shepherd's classic American story of Christmas-and growing up-in the Midwest.

THROUGHOUT THE YEAR: The last Monday of every month except November and December, the Playhouse presents Off the Page, a series of staged readings of plays of interest that may be considered for future production. (Silent Sky was originally presented as a reading in this series.)

Also, our Off the Screen series presents midweek presentations of films including screen classics and a few silent films, most of them related to themes presented in our live stage productions. A film historian is present at each screening to provide fascinating facts and contexts for each film.

Tickets for most live stage presentations range from $25 to $45. Admission for most film screenings is $10.

Sierra Madre Playhouse is located at 87 W. Sierra Madre Blvd., Sierra Madre, CA 91024. This is just east of Pasadena. KATIE Tse....This and That

You don't know how guilty I feel recycling articles two weeks in a row. Such blatant failure to live up to my 2019 New 🥾 Years resolution of not doing that. But I'm only human.

I considered recycling the one I wrote about regifting etiquette, but then you'd expect something like that around around Christmas. So why not read about a great sci fi cinematic gem from 1977 starring Joan Collins versus giant, mutant ants!

"Empire of the Ants" begins with anonymous "government agents" dumping barrels of radioactive waste, conveniently labeled "Radioactive Waste: Danger! Hazardous! [Skull & Crossbones]" into the ocean. They wash ashore and ooze mercury-colored liquid that's quickly consumed by the resident ants.

Cut to Joan Collins as a crooked realtor trying to sell worthless property in the Florida everglades under the premise that the adjacent land will soon be developed as a resort town. The majority of her potential buyer-victims are equally shady. We get snapshots of their character flaws during the boat ride and bus tour around the properties.

One philandering man abandons his wife to hit on another female passenger. A women broke up with the man who was cheating on his wife with her, and now she's using his hush money to buy real estate. An older couple shamelessly admit to having no intention whatsoever of buying anything, and are just here for the free food and boat ride. Lovely.

What's most striking during all of this is the gratuitous sexual references and overly raunchy language. "This is 1977!" I thought. My parents got married that year! People back then weren't the crude animals they are today. Or at least the movies weren't as crass, or so I thought. But after about 15 minutes the language improved and the innuendo stopped. I guess the director figured he had the audience hooked by then.

So while the humans are busy trying to rip each other off and commit other nefarious acts, the ants, now grown to gargantuan size after their radioactive cocktail, have been tirelessly working away at the everglades, creating barriers among the forests, and dams in the river.

Eventually the humans happen upon the ants, and start getting picked off, one or two at a time. Like all great cheesy sci-fi horror flicks, the victim either trips and unexplainably can't get up, or gets cornered somewhere while their oversized, slow-moving predator runs them at a snail's pace amid much screaming.

Predictably, their group gets split up, making self defense all the more difficult. While they're separated, the creep who tried to pick up the girl lets his wife get eaten. When he rejoins the group he launches into a rant about how the others are blaming him for the death of his wife, whom he claims he tried to save. Next time their boat is attacked by ants, they go for him. The ants know which ones are jerks.

Meanwhile, the old couple hide in an abandoned shack. They think they've waited out the danger, only to open the door and discover that they're surrounded. Of all the bad acting in this movie I think this scene takes the cake! The couple stand next to each other ("clutch" is too strong a word) and lethargically scan from side to side at the oversized ants with unfocused stares, their expressions something between dazed confusion and heart burn. Needless to say, the ants make quick work out of them.

The little band of survivors reach civilization, only to realize that something's "off" about the locals' behavior. They get captured and taken to an ominous-looking sugar processing plant. There, they're forced into a queue with other zombie-like individuals, helplessly making their way toward an air tight chamber housing the queen ant, who emits a cloud of pheromones to each victim in turn.

WALKING SIERRA MADRE - The Social Side

by Deanne Davis

This week, before I start remembering Christmases past, I want to talk about another dear friend who has left us. Kevin Switzer succumbed to a heart in Alabama this past week. As you all know, Kevin and his dad, Bud, started the Halloween extravaganza on Alegria many years ago by carving pumpkins by the hundred and lining their driveway and yard with them. Kevin was one of our son, John's, friends, and he was frequently at our house when they were both little boys, in fact, I vividly remember them running through the house and slamming a door on baby Crissy's fingers, trying to get away from the little pest who wanted to play with them. The Switzer pumpkins haven't happened for quite a few years now, but the party they started goes on. We hold Bud and the rest of the family in our thoughts and prayers.

"That First Noel's come 'round again,

Just like it does each year,

To tell us it's Christmas, finally it's Christmas,

Joyfully it's Christmas,

The best time of the year, the best time of the year..."

This particular song goes on to tell us that the tree is in the window, the wreath is on the door, and about a million ornaments are scattered on the floor! Most probably you're way past that stage, the tree is up and gorgeous. You finally untangled the lights and put the angel up on top. But here's the question you'll be facing in a few days when the presents are all unwrapped and everything you got everybody was exactly what they wanted: Why is it that putting up Christmas decorations is so much more fun than taking them down? Also, why is it that the Christmas decorations that seem so few and so light as you take them out of the plastic crates have doubled (like wire hangers) in size and tripled in weight and you can't remember when on earth you carried all those to the living room.

Playing Christmas music and rediscovering each cute little Christmas item is such fun and then deciding where to ut then declang where to put each one is a pleasure. I'm especially partial to all my little lighted houses. My mother started collecting them many years ago and gave her collection to me. I have added to it over the years and now think I have about twenty of them. They look fantastic on top of the bookcases, and the tall cabinet. The most interesting part of putting these things up is, of course, not falling off the small ladder. The second most interesting thing is figuring out how to get them all plugged in somewhere. The ones on top of the bookcase in my office even turn on and off with the wall switch, which is fabulous.

"EMPIRE OF THE ANTS!"

The pheromones to each result in tann. The pheromones alter one's state of mind, causing them to bend their will to serve the ants, namely, supplying them with an endless amount of sugar from the factory. Joan Collins is the first to go, but even her fellow prisoners don't care. No one liked her anyway. Meanwhile, the hero (if you can call him that) breaks free, starts dousing the place with gasoline, then sets it ablaze. He rescues the others and they sail away on a dingy through the winding rivers of the everglades. Dampening their victory is the nagging suspicion that the next town, and perhaps the whole country is under the sway of the Empire of the Ants.

Great stuff! You've gotta' check it out, if only to laugh at some bad acting, bad special effects, and bad fashion from the 70's. And while you're at it, check out my novel, "A Year at Apex!" Humor, romance, and the human condition rolled into a bite sized package. Look for it in paperback and ebook on Amazon and Barnes & Noble.

Every Christmas I am reminded of Santa's Band, which was John's favorite Christmas decoration. Many years ago he went to Costco and came home with his eyes alight and excitement spilling out of his every word as he described this wonderful band of little musicians attached to bells and electrically driven so every time you turned it on, it played a Christmas carol. They had quite a repertoire and the band was led, of course, by Santa. John went to Costco several times and came home each time with more stories of the glories of Santa's Band. I finally took his hand, looked deep into his eyes and said, "You know, honey, you can buy Santa's Band yourself, with your own money!" He had never thought of that. Back he went and Santa's Band decorated the top of one of our bookcases every year from then on. Yes, it got up there after I spent an hour untangling all the wires, bells and little people, but he loved it. Apparently, all the children loved it, too, and there was lively discussion over who should have Santa's Band. Our daughter, Patti, ended up with it and I was happy to hand it over and let her untangle all those wires and bells.

We all have special nostalgic goodies that fill our hearts with memories and happy thoughts. Pictures of our children taken in Sunday School, our grandchildren's little hands and feet on ceramic tiles, tiny felt Christmas stockings with everyone's name on them in glued on glitter. I even have some little glass ornaments which were my Aunt Helen's, dating from the 1930s.

When we were first married, we rented a lovely house with a high beamed ceiling up on Canon Drive, right behind where Christian author, Fay Angus, lived, and when our first Christmas together arrived, I was about hysterical with excitement. We went down to the railroad yards where trains were coming in from wherever they loaded on those trees, I have a feeling it was the Pacific Northwest. Railroad workers pitched them off the cars and anyone who was standing there could pick out whatever tied-up tree they wanted. I don't remember it costing very much. We selected an enormous Noble fir and tied it to the top of our little blue Ford Falcon. Got it home and it had to have been ten feet tall or taller and was the most gorgeous thing we'd ever seen. We had just a few things to put on it, but it was our tree and our home and our children opened presents under it and I will remember always what a wonderful time that was.

My Christmas tree now is an artificial one from Michael's, prelit, which is another genius idea. Not having to put lights on the tree makes my Christmas way merrier. It looks great and the picture is this tree.

The song up at the beginning goes on to say:

"But that's not the reason we celebrate the season .... Oh, it's that baby in the manger, Christ child in the manger, Mary kneeling by his side, Joseph beaming down with pride. Peace on earth, good will to men, We celebrate that night again." (Deanne Davis/David Wheatley)

I'm hoping all your Christmas memories are merry and bright! To quote Tiny Tim from Dickens' A Christmas Carol, "God Bless us every one!" My book page: Amazon.com: Deanne Davis Blog: www.authordeanne.com Christmas is just a few short weeks away and my book: Sunrises and Sunflowers Speak Hope" Would be a really nice gift for everyone you know. News From Your Community For Your Community

City Issues Christmas Safety Tips

Although Christmas tree fires are rare, they are very serious when they do occur. According to the U.S. Fire Administration, one-third of home Christmas tree fires are caused by electrical problems and one-quarter start when the tree is placed too close to a heat source, such as a fireplace, woodstove, radiator or space heater.

It's important to place your tree at least three feet away from heat sources, and make sure you don't block room exits in case of emergency. Consider using a timer so you don't forget to turn off the lights at night.

Selecting a Tree: Natural trees should be given a fresh cut at the base and placed immediately in water. When purchasing a tree, buy one that is as fresh as possible. Tap the butt of the tree on the ground a couple of times, grab a branch near the top, and pull your hand along it slowly. Needles should not fall off. If you bend a needle and it breaks before bending in half, it's too dry! If you use an artificial tree, select one with a flame retardant label.

Caring for the Tree: Make a fresh cut an inch or two off the bottom before placing it in the stand. This will help with absorption. Water a live tree every day. When the tree becomes dry, discard it promptly.

Placing the Tree: Place your tree in a non-tip style holder with wide feet, using extra wires if needed to keep it steady. Keep doorways and exits clear. Place your tree and decorations away from heaters, fireplaces, candles, and other sources of heat.

Decorating the Tree: Consider switching to new LED lights that are cooler and use less electricity. Before bringing out the older lights, inspect for frayed wires or other defects. Make sure the bulbs themselves are not touching the tree, curtains, wrapped gifts, and tree skirts. Never use lighted candles

The Pasadena city council will be briefed Monday night, for the first time, regarding a new large 3.3-acre, eight-story, development plan for five lots, 491 to 577, South Arroyo Parkway and incorporate part of Whole Foods Market.

According to a city staff report, the proposed project, by Arroyo Parkway, LLC, "consists of the retention of three existing buildings, partial demolition of existing buildings, and the establishment of a new Planned Development (PO) zoning district and a new PO Plan. The PO Plan would facilitate the construction of a 150,000 seven-story, square-foot, medical office building and a 180,000 square-foot, eight-story, assisted living facility. The PO Plan would incorporate an existing 91,145 square-foot Food Sales use (Whole Foods) as part of the project. 604 new parking spaces would be provided. The project site is within the CD-6 (Central District, Arroyo Corridor/ Fair Oaks subdistrict) zoning district. Historic Preservation Section has determined that these structures are eligible for landmark designation. It has been indicated to staff that a Variance for Historic Resources will be requested by the applicant, as part of the entitlement, to allow a greater height than the established 50' maximum for the site. a. The Variance for Historic Resource is necessary to facilitate the appropriate use of an existing designated historic structure; b. The Variance for Historic Resource would not adversely impact property within the neighborhood or historic district; and c. Granting the Variance for Historic Resource application would be in conformance with the goals, as decorations. Turn off the lights when leaving the house or going to bed for the night. Outdoor Decorations

The State Fire Marshal offers these tips for safe use of outdoor lights:

Use lights rated for outdoor use only.

Check and make sure wires are not frayed to allow water to seep inside.

Consider replacing older outdoor lights with newer LED lights that are 'greener' and cooler.

Securely anchor outdoor lights and decorations against the wind and storms with insulated holders or hooks. Use electrical connection protectors to keep water out. All outdoor elect decorations should electrical be plugged into a ground-fault circuit interrupter (GFCI). You can buy portable units for outdoor use, or you can have them permanently installed by an electrician.

Don't overload circuits. 15 amp circuits support 1,800 watts and 20 amp circuits support 2,400 watts.

Do not drive nails, staples tacks through wiring or insulation; this can cause a fire.

Bring outdoor electrical lights inside after the holidays to prevent hazards and extend their life.

Be sure that your smoke and carbon monoxide alarms are in good working order.

WHY THE RISK OF HEART ATTACK RISES IN WINTER

Dear Savvy Senior:

I've read that people with heart problems need to be extra careful during the winter months because heart attacks are much more common. Why is this? Cautions Senior

Dear Cautious:

Everyone knows winter is cold and flu season, but many don't know that it's also the prime season for heart attacks too, especially if you already have heart disease or have suffered a previous heart attack. Here's what you should know, along with some tips to help you protect yourself.

In the U.S., the risk of having a heart attack during the winter months is twice as high as it is during the summertime. Why? There are a number of factors, and they're not all linked to cold weather. Even people who live in warm climates have an increased risk. Here are the areas you need to pay extra attention to this winter

Cold temperatures: When a person gets cold, the body responds by constricting the blood vessels to help the body maintain heat. This causes blood pressure to go up and makes the heart work harder. Cold temperatures can also increase levels of certain proteins that can thicken the blood and increase the risk for blood clots. So, stay warm this winter, and when you do have to go outside, make sure you bundle up in layers with gloves and a hat, and place a scarf over your mouth and nose to warm up the air before you breathe it in.

Snow shoveling: Studies have shown that heart attack rates jump dramatically in the first few days after a major snowstorm, usually a result of snow shoveling. Shoveling snow is a very strenuous activity that raises blood pressure and stresses the heart. Combine those factors with the cold temperatures and the risks for heart attack surges. If your sidewalk or driveway needs shoveling this winter, hire a kid from the neighborhood to do it for you, or use a snow blower. Or, if you must shovel, push rather than lift the snow as much as possible, stay warm, and take frequent breaks.

New Year's resolutions: Every Jan. 1, millions of people join gyms or start exercise programs as part of their New Year's resolution to get in shape, and many overexert themselves too soon. If you're starting a new exercise program this winter, take the time to talk to your doctor about what types and how much exercise may be appropriate for you.

Winter weight gain: People tend to eat and drink more and gain more weight during the holiday season and winter months, all of which are hard on the heart and risky for someone with heart disease. So, keep a watchful eye on your diet this winter and avoid binging on fatty foods and alcohol.

Shorter days: Less daylight in the winter months can cause many people to develop "seasonal affective disorder" or SAD, a wintertime depression that can stress the heart. Studies have also looked at heart attack patients and found they usually have lower levels of vitamin D (which comes from sunlight) than people with healthy hearts. To boost your vitamin D this winter, consider taking a supplement that contains between 1,000 and 2,000 international units (IU) per day.

Flu season: Studies show that people who get flu shots have a lower heart attack risk. It's known that the inflammatory reaction set off by a flu infection can increase blood clotting which can lead to heart attacks in vulnerable people. So, if you haven't already done so this year, get a flu shot for protection. And, if you've never been vaccinated for pneumococcal pneumonia, you should consider getting these two shots (given 12 months apart) too.

> OUT TO PASTOR A Weekly Religion Column by Rev. James Snyder

As far as I am concerned, life is full of questions, but coming from her, I need to be very careful. I have found out that a question with her is not merely a question. It can be a whole lot more than that with multiple layers. I am still trying to figure out the dimensions of her questions.

If I do not understand her question, my answer is going to get me into trouble. Believe me; I know what trouble is all about.

I have several cats in the neighborhood that I feed. I am not sure where they come from, but they show up at the back porch for the free treats I put out for them. This has also attracted possums, raccoons, and foxes that come for the treats I have there for them.

Most of them are somewhat antsy and try to stay out of trouble as much as possible. I can certainly relate to that.

Last week my wife purchased a brand-new rug for the back porch. It was red and looked very nice. Showing it to me, she said, "Make sure you don't spill anything on this new rug.

I must not have been the only one who heard that. Ever since then, none of my "critters" coming to my back porch has walked on that rug. They all walk around it and stare at it as though it is something very special.

I understood their dilemma since I have faced that dilemma many times myself.

However, the question posed to me by the Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage was, "Are you on Santa's naughty or nice list this year?

Hearing that question caused me some trepidation. If anybody knows the difference between naughty and nice, it has to be my wife. I assume that Good Old Santa gets advice on this from my wife. If I am on his naughty list, then I know who put me there.

I am not sure I can remember any time that I was on his nice list. There must be a story behind that, I am sure.

Precisely, what does it mean to be naughty from Santa's point of view?

For a moment, the temptation danced in my mind to ask my wife about this, but I was sure if I did, she would tell me and tell me more than I actually wanted to know.

I tried reflecting over the year to see if there was any indication that I crossed the line somewhere into the naughty area. I could not think of any, but I am sure I

This week the Gracious Mistress of was overlooking something. the Parsonage approached me with

WHERE DOES SANTA GET HIS NAUGHTY OR NICE LIST?

The thing I try to figure out is, how do I get on his nice list? Is there something I can do to get off the naughty list? I am open to all kinds of suggestions here.

It is not that I am worried about being on Santa's naughty list. I can handle that. I simply do not want to be on my wife's naughty list. That certainly is my goal in life. I will do anything within reason (if I had any reason) to not only get on her nice list but to stay there.

I must confess there are times when I lean toward the naughty. I hope Santa never sees me in that stage of my life. More importantly, I hope my wife never sees me at that stage.

Naughty, for me, is doing something behind my wife's back. For instance: eating an Apple Fritter is best done behind my wife's back. If she sees me eating an Apple Fritter, she will remind me that it is not on my diet.

When she says, "my diet," she is referring to her diet imposed upon me. If you look at my diet, it includes Apple Fritters and a whole lot more not on hers.

Personally, I do not consider it naughty to eat according to my diet. I do not know of anything nicer than sitting down with a nice hot cup of coffee and a fresh Apple Fritter. Then, it is a lot nicer when I am not caught.

As to the question, am I on Santa's naughty or nice list, I am not quite sure. All year long, I tried to stay out of the naughty and focus on the nice. I must confess it is difficult trying to focus on being nice when naughty comes so much easier.

Another consideration is, why should somebody who only visits once a year know anything about whether I'm naughty or nice? How can their judgment be correct if they do not keep tabs on me all year long?

So, to answer my wife's question, I simply said, "I believe I'm on his nice list this year."

She simply looked at me with one of "those looks" and I knew that her belief and my belief were on different pages.

I thought about what I read in the Bible a couple of days ago. Something King Solomon said. "That thou mayest walk in the way of good men, and keep the paths of the righteous" (Proverbs 2:20).

The important thing is not if I'm naughty or nice or if I'm on Santa's list. The important thing is to surround myself with "good men." The companions I keep are the ones that will help me walk in the path of righteousness.

WHAT WE'RE ALL THINKING

By Christopher Nyerges

publicans who are die-hard defenders of the party are having to defend that which they should not have to defend, but they are digging in their heels and pretending that the Democrats are just making a big deal out of nothing. I am certain that these very Republicans inwardly hate that they must contort their values and beliefs in order to defend the class clown and class bully who became the President.

The "perfect phone call" to the President of the Ukraine was legally impeachable, and yet, represents only the tip of an iceberg, only the final straw. Mr. Trump might have his ardent supporters, those who are willing to twist Truth in their own minds to defend him, but the simple reality is that he is not fit to stand in the office of the Presidency. There are many reasons for this.

As background, I enjoyed Trump's Apprentice show where the winner earned the most money after a few weeks of trying some new business. I realized that simply a short-term competition doesn't really tell you what business is best for the local or national economy. But the Apprentice was a glorified game show. I learned that the Trump University is a fraud, where everything you learn there can be learned at a junior college for a fraction of the cost, but the "business model" of TU is simply the old highpowered carrot on a stick. Others have copied the TU model, which is a clever way to separate you from your money.

Before his election, we all learned a lot about the personal life and business dealings of the Trump organization. I won't comment about whether he's a womanizer, or a racist, as these things have been thoroughly aired in the media, with plenty of attackers and defenders on both sides.

One part that really bothers me is the way he dealt with contractors who built his resorts and hotels. Though they entered into legally-binding contracts for a set amount to be paid to do the work, Trump's lawyers would tell the contractors (when the work was done or nearly done), effectively, "We know we agreed to pay you a set amount, but we don't want to. We want to pay you this lesser amount, and if you don't agree to this, we will just fight you in court." My stomach turned every time I heard these many examples of the quintessential rich person turning the screws on the worker who didn't have the means to pay lawyers for a long fight. It's just one of many examples of Trump's lack of ethics and character, a lack that is displayed all throughout his actions.

In the looming impeachment trial, Re- Then there are the tweets. If I were an inside advisor to Trump, I would insist that he surgically remove his tweeter. Trumps impulsive tweets have demonstrated that he is petty, that he feels slighted if he gets even the most minor criticism, and that he simply cannot control his impulses to fire back. Is that the kind of loose canon we want with our nuclear capabilities? And furthermore, am I the only one who's wondered why he has so much time for idle tweets? Doesn't the president of the United States have more important tasks before him?

> I respect the Office of the Presidency, but I find it very hard to respect a man who so casually disrespects others, vainfully presuming that he always knows best. Though this is speculation on my part, I doubt that Mr. Trump would pass the basic citizenship quiz given to people who are applying for citizenship. Trump does not demonstrate that he knows how the U.S. system works, and that there are checks and balances. He seems not to know that he is not a king.

> It is time to let Trump know that he sits in the office at the pleasure of the people. He's had plenty of time to learn on the job, but there's no indication that he's trying to learn.

> Colin Powell recently chimed in on the Trump situation. "Republicans need to get a grip on itself," and stand up to President Trump. He said that that Republican leaders are "terrified of what will happen to any one of them if they speak out."

> Do you all recall how Trump childishly tried to insist that he was right that a hurricane was going to hit Alabama? Trump even drew a line on a map, pre-tending as if the weather service drew the line, to bolster his claim. Colin Powell stated that when he was serving in the White House, someone would have told the commander-in-chief that he had "screwed up." Has Trump surrounded himself with frightened yes-men that they can no longer speak straight to him? For the record, I am neither Republican nor Democrat. Both sides have theoretical good postures, and both sides have deceitful crooks who are in office only to line their own pockets, so I content myself as an "independent."

> Republicans who care about their own party are the ones who should be stepping forward, to clean their own house, to cut their losses, and to let the country find a more suitable leader for the highest office, one who is not constantly obsessed with himself and how great he believes he is.

traditions of The community newspapers and the concerns of our readers are this newspaper's priorities. top We support a prosperous wellcommunity of informed citizens. We hold in high regard the values of the exceptional quality of life in our including community, the magnificence of our natural resources. Integrity will be our guide.

If you hear somebody say something about something factual do you believe it or think the person is lying. This is an irritatingly frequently asked question today as our political parties are seemingly in the business of presenting the public with completely different versions of what they each claim to be the truth. Who are we to believe? Certainly, one would think that evolution, over many millions of years, should have favored people with the ability to pick up subtle signs of deception that would aid their ability to survive; but according to Malcolm Gladwell writing in his book Never Talk To Strangers it doesn't work that way. He cites multiple scientific studies supporting his position and it is very difficult to disbelieve him.

On NPR this morning I heard a discussion describing the ill effects to the public when they are not able to believe what they are hearing. Consequences of prolonged confusion, drug use and depression were described as predictable consequences, I don't know if I believe that because it is a prediction rather than a statement of fact; but the prediction does fall right in line with what Gladwell describes as the Social-Scientist Ted Levine's Truth-Default -Theory or TDT. Basically Levine's theory boils down to the fact that it is a lot easier to believe than to disbelieve. To believe a person is simple. You hear what they say and accept it as truth. To disbelieve is stressfulwhy is the person not telling the truth? Are they trying to manipulate me in some way? Are they trying to hurt me and convince me to do something I don't want to do?

If you think about any and all advertising or marketing, that is what is being done to you. The friendly smiling spokesmen on TV are not presenting factual information to you for their health—they are trying to sell you something. It is trade, commerce and easily managed consumers that is the backbone of our particular system. Even though we know we are always being lied to there is not much we can do about it other than endure the stress of continual disbelief and determine that everyone is lying all the time. The consequences of that kind of permanent disbelief may be the behind the scenes cause of our chaotic political system today where untold millions of dollars are spent disseminating obvious untruths in the belief (probably a correct one) that if lies are repeated frequently enough they will be believed.

Nothing I have said so far is probably new to you but today I have a personal reason for talking about our attitude toward truth. Many of you know that I have been a practicing lawyer for over fifty years and undoubtedly, some of you are familiar with the Shakespearean quote "The first thing we do, let's kill all the lawyers". You might think I am offended by that quote but I am not because I believe I understand its intent and, in fact, mentioned the quote when I used to lecture on ethics. I use the quote to illustrate the function of lawyers; to be at war with the expressed truth of their enemy. You probably are unaware that the overarching obligation of the lawyer is not adherence to "truth" or "justice" or the Constitution but instead to zealously represent the interests of his client. The lawyer is prohibited from lying himself or putting his client on the witness stand to knowingly lie. This obligation, however, does not prevent the lawyer from making it appear that a person testifying is lying even if the lawyer has no actual doubt of the witness' truthfulness. Remember the lawyer is not the judge nor the jury. His function is to ask questions of witnesses and to present his observations to the finder of fact. These observations are not required to be consistent with his own beliefs but must conform to his responsibility to represent the interests of his client. Am I telling you it is the responsibility of the lawyer to lie-no, not quite, but it is certainly his responsibility to pose questions in such a manner so as to make it appear that others are lying. It is a strange profession; a difficult one for non-lawyers to understand. Lawyers are trained to suggest and attempt to actually convince others of positions they often know not to be true-that is their training. The problem with our political system of today is that many highly trained lawyers have been placed in responsible positions where it is not intended that they act as lawyers. They are elected or appointed officials who presently have responsibilities to the public at large and foremost among those responsibilities is to be truthful and to act with integrity to perform their duties in accord with their Constitutional Responsibilities. Today as we watch lawyers in action (or non-action) it is clearly apparent that lawyers acting in non-lawyerly capacities are attempting to manipulate and hide the truth from the public. That is not their present job and as they continue to foment confusion and disbelief and the resultant chaos it is perhaps appropriate to remember the Shakespearean warning about the evils associated with this unique profession.

Stuart Tolchin, Esq.

Forget the malarkey about the president committing high crimes and misdemeanors.

We all know the real reasons Democrats are hell-bent on impeaching Donald Trump.

It's because they hate him beyond reason and because they still believe their own hoax that he stole the presidency from Hillary Clinton.

But Nancy Pelosi, Adam Schiff, Jerry Nadler and the Democrats in the House are going to be very sorry someday for lowering the bar for impeaching a president to almost nothing.

Blinded for three years by Trump Derangement Syndrome, slobbered over and cheered on by the liberal media, thinking only in the political short-term, House Democrats have seriously hurt the country.

From now on, because of Pelosi and her motley crew, every future president will face the constant risk of being impeached for their executive decisions by a congressional body controlled by a different political party.

That means the next time a Barack Obama launches a foolish secret experiment like "Fast and Furious" that puts guns into the hands of Mexican drug cartels and then refuses to give Congress whatever information it demands, Republicans in the House could file an article of impeachment against him.

Likewise, the next time a president decides to please Russia by pulling U.S. anti-missile defense systems out of Poland and Czechoslovakia, as Obama did, Republicans could claim it's a threat to national security that's worthy of impeachment.

It's been clear for a while that Pelosi and the Democrats have totally lost their minds over impeaching Trump.

They've known from the get-go that two-thirds of the Republican Senate will never vote to remove Trump, yet they have continued to pursue their impossible dream.

But let's get real.

Even if by some miracle Trump is removed by the Senate, who do they think is going to replace him? Hillary Clinton?

House Democrats don't seem to have thought very hard about how lowering the bar on impeachment might someday backfire on themselves.

They are fixated on damaging Trump's chances for 2020 with whatever fake personal or weak constitutional crime they can invent - quid pro quo, bribery, cheating at golf, whatever.

If it takes Democrats two months of laughably unfair impeachment hearings and gridlock in Congress, so what?

If it takes lionizing a bunch of whining state department bureaucrats who disagreed with Trump's Ukraine policies, so what?

If it takes making excuses for the shocking behavior of a rogue FBI, so what?

This week the Democrats and their Trump-hating allies in the liberal media fully betrayed what unprincipled hypocrites they are.

They showed they don't give a hoot about the over-reach of a powerful government intelligence agency as long as the targets of its illegal surveillance and spying are Trump or his administration.

They Dems hardly blinked at the long list of lies, dirty tricks and abuses of power that Inspector General Michael Horowitz said the FBI's bosses, agents and lawyers used to get federal judges to approve four surveillance warrants and ruin an innocent Trump supporter's life, finances and reputation.

THE FBI HAS BEEN CAUGHT RED-HANDED SPYING ON AMERICANS, ENTRAPPING INNOCENT PEOPLE AND LYING ABOUT EVIDENCE - AND MANY MORE FBI WRONGDOINGS WILL be exposed.

This whole impeachment process has been very sad for America. The whole world is laughing at us for wasting so much time on it when there's much work to be done.

Unfortunately, thanks to Democrats' new low-low standards for obstruction of Congress and abuse of power by a president, we might soonbe holding impeachment hearings year-round.
