WHERE CAN YOU SEE THE SIERRA MADRE ROSE FLOAT???

On December 31st, we are planning our Float Departure Ceremony to commence at approximately 6:40 p.m., then we'll leave the barn at approximately 7:00 p.m., heading towards Kersting Court, arriving approximately 7:15 p.m. We will remain there about 30 minutes, then continue on to Walnut and then to our line-up spot on Orange Grove, where it will sleep overnight before the parade. If it's inclement weather, we'll wave as we sail by without stopping.

After the Rose Parade, the float will be in the post parade viewing area, in the Showcase Lot, near the Pasadena High School Auditorium, the remainder of January 1st and all day January 2nd. On the evening of January 2nd we will move the float back to Sierra Madre when we're allowed to leave post parade.

If there is rain, a prediction of rain or unexpected issues, we will take the float straight to the Float Barn at 587 E. Sierra Madre Blvd., Sierra Madre. On the morning of January 3rd, approximately 9:30 a.m., we will open the barn for viewing and may have excess flowers available.

If all goes well, the float will be in Kersting Court overnight and available for viewing the evening of January 2nd. On Jan. 3rd we'll be there with any excess flowers from about 9:30 a.m. until approximately 4:00 p.m.

Your donations of time, skills and funds have made this float possible. Come and see the wonderful float we've created with your help.

WHY IS THERE NO CHARGE FOR SEARCH AND RESCUE?

The Sierra Madre Search and Rescue Team (SMSR) wants you to know that if you are ever lost or injured in our local mountains, you will not be charged for the help that the Team provides. Our unpaid professional rescuers are ready and willing to drop whatever they are doing, 24 hours a day, 7 days a week, and come to your aid. Whether you twist an ankle while hiking to Sturtevant Falls or get lost and caught in the dark while hiking to Mount Wilson, you do not have to pay for the assistance we provide.

SMSR does not want anyone to hesitate to call for help because of fear about paying for their rescue. If you are lost, trying to get yourself "unlost" may make it harder for searchers to find you. If you are injured, delaying a call for help may worsen your injuries. If you get injured, call 911 or send a fellow hiker for help. As a backup, you should tell a responsible friend at home that if they don't hear from you by a certain time, they should call for help. Don't worry about the cost, because there is no charge for search and rescue.

How is search and rescue funded?

You will not pay for your rescue but that doesn't mean there aren't costs. Every year SMSR responds to approximately 100 calls for help. To maintain an organization that is ready to respond to every call, the Team maintains a station, five vehicles, ropes, radios, medical equipment, maps, avalanche beacons, and so much more. These costs, however, are covered mainly by voluntary donations to the Team.

Team members also cover many costs themselves. To date in 2019, members of the all volunteer Team spent over 4,000 hours on search and rescue missions. They are not paid for this time, nor for the over 15,000 hours they've spent in training. New members spend over $3,000 in their first years purchasing personal equipment, and periodic expenses continue for as long as members are on the team as they maintain, replace and buy new equipment.

Who Does Pay for a Rescue? Across the country, thousands of search and rescue operations are executed every year with (continued on pg. 2)

HAPPY HOLIDAYS!

Mountain View News Saturday, December 28, 2019

SEARCH AND RESCUE

Park Service, and fire departments accrue millions of dollars of expenses. Different states and counties are pursuing different ways of covering these expenses. For example, individuals in New Hampshire, Maine, Vermont, and Colorado can be charged for rescue, but these states also offer annual cards that in most circumstances protect the cardholder from being charged. Proceeds from the sale of these cards generally go to the local search and rescue teams. In Europe, most outdoor enthusiasts carry specialized insurance because individuals will be charged for rescue.

In our local mountains, though, individuals are not charged for rescue, and SMSR gets no money from any government organizations. All of the Team's funding comes from charitable donations. The Team depends on the community, and SMSR is thankful that for 68 years the community has provided the financial support that enables us to function.

Recently, the Rotary Club of Sierra Madre provided a grant to SMSR that enables the Team to purchase new medical backpacks. While a portion of the Team's budget is fulfilled by grants like these, most of the budgetary needs are met by individuals who give to the team. When you donate to SMSR, you help ensure that no one who is lost or injured in our local mountains needs to worry about how they will pay for help. You can contribute through the Team's website at smsr.org or via mail at Sierra Madre Search and Rescue Team, PO Box 24, Sierra Madre, CA 91025.

Since 1951, the all-volunteer Sierra Madre Search and Rescue Team has responded to calls for help in the local mountains and beyond. SMSR also provides a range of free wilderness safety education programs. For more information on the Team, to donate, or to arrange a wilderness safety demonstration for your school or group, visit www.smsr.org.

Use this list to prepare your home for winter

- Check your home's heating and
- air conditioning system. Most heating and air systems typically last 12 to 15 years.
- Paint, caulk and seal exterior wood
- Seal your masonry and hard surfaces
- Check your drainage. Make sure the soil around your foundation hasn't settled, creating areas for water to pool at your foundation.
- Clean your gutters. Once the leaves are pretty much off the trees, it's time to clean those gutters.
- Clean your chimney and order firewood Test your smoke and carbon monoxide
- detectors Shut down the pool and the sprinkler system and drain outside faucets
- Prepare your lawn for winter and set it up for a great spring
- Make sure your attic doesn't become a critter hotel. It's going to get cold out and your attic is
- the perfect winter home for squirrels and birds. • Get your patio furniture protected, but make
- sure you wait until a clear, warm day to cover it so you don't trap moisture on it.

KATIE Tse....This and That

MEMORY ISSUES

Wish I could say the title is about my computer, but unfortunately it's all about me. So my mom and I were running some Christmas Eve errands. She had a list of things to do, and I was trying to kill the maximum birds with the minimum stones. ("Hey, you need to go to Home Depot? Awesome! I'll pick up a last minute item for so-and-so there. etc.).
By late afternoon we were almost finished and feeling quite accomplished.

I've recently discovered McDonald's cappuccinos, and since it was cold and we still had a final stop to make, I suggested we get one. The caffeine should've perked up my mental functioning, but apparently it didn't.

Our last stop was my mom's friend's place in Altadena. We'll call her Joanie. One word about Joanie and Christmas. Joanie makes the world's most amazing fruitcake.

I know, I know, fruitcake gets a bad rap. And most often it's well-deserved. Usually that stuff is nasty. But Joanie's is different. It's not fruitcake in the regular sense of the word. Hers is more like pound cake with walnuts, a touch of citron, and a pleasant hint of lemon. Divine. She delivers them a few days before Christmas, and my dad reverently slices off a thin piece for himself each day. He's the only one of us with will power. That, and he exercises religiously, so he can afford the literal pound of butter packed into each of her cakes.

So we were on our way to Joanie's with her gift. They're doing road work in Altadena, and we spent much of the drive merging into narrowed lanes and avoiding open ditches. And it was getting darker. "Oh, look! There's that pretty Eiffle Tower those people on New York Drive always put out," I noted. As if the whole thing was just a jolly joy ride instead of a mission.

Yes, it's lovely. Wish they'd leave it up all year," Mom replied.

"True. But would we appreciate it then?"
That's the kind of thing we discussed as we drove right by Joanie's street, completely oblivious.

But what's worse is that I doubt it would've even dawned on me that we neglected to take Joanie her gift unless my mom mentioned it later that night. I bet even if the thing was resting on my lap in the car I wouldn't have noticed.

We got all the way to my parents' place, unloaded the car, and were visiting for a bit when my mom recounted our day to my dad.

"And last we went to Joanie's... Oh wait. We didn't." Turning to me, "How'd that happen?" I would say I'm upset with myself for forgetting. But it's more like embarrassment and creeping dread that it'll only get worse from here. I can't get over the fact that I'm closer to 40 now than 30. Just one big slip on the proverbial banana peel at this point.

At least Joanie got her present in the end. My parents drove over that night and brought it to her. At least I think I remember them telling me that.

SIERRA MADRE HOLIDAY TRASH SCHEDULE AND CHRISTMAS TREE RECYCLING

There will be a one-day delay in collection of residential and commercial refuse, green waste, and recyclables after both Christmas Day and New Year's Day.

Also, please note that Christmas trees are 100% recyclable! Athens Services will collect Christmas trees at the curb from 12/30/2019 to 1/10/2020 this on your normal pickup day. Trees are delivered to various landfills to be used as mulch or cover material, or to Athens' American Organics compost facility in Victorville.

Tips to ensure your tree is properly collected:

- Remove stands, ornaments, lights and tinsel.
- Place holiday trees next to your regular trash containers.
- Trees over 6 feet in length must be cut in half.
- Trees with flocking or fire retardants ARE acceptable.
- If you miss the date for recycling, please cut up your tree and place it in your yard waste container(s).

Please help keep our parks clean and safe during the holidays. If you see anyone illegally dumping holiday trees, please call Sierra Madre Police Department at (626) 355 - 1414.

Christmas is behind us. We can all sit down, take a breath and give ourselves a minute to recuperate before we start planning for the New Year. 2019 passed with what felt like

I came across a beautiful piece I had hidden away at the bottom of the Christmas card basket, "Directions For Planting," taken from the writings of Margaret Hooper Ineson, a precious saint of God and beloved member of our family. Born on November 22, 1904, she entered the gates of heaven on November 11, 2000...just a few days short of her 96th birthday. She lived her life according to her "Directions For Planting" and I thought this was a perfect way to end a year, which has had its ups and downs for all of us, and look forward to a New Year bright with promise and hope.

FAMILY MATTERS By Marc Garlett

age each year, our country is undergoing an unprecedented demographic transformation that's been dubbed "The Greying of America." This population shift stands to affect many aspects of life, especially your relationships with aging parents and other senior family members.

2060, the number of Americans aged 65 and older is projected to nearly double from 52 million in 2018 to 95 million, which will account for 24% of the total population. And as early as 2030, the number of those 65 and older is expected to surpass the number of children (those under age 18) for the first time in history.

Coinciding with the boom in the elderly population, the number of Americans suffering from Alzheimer's and other forms of dementia is expected to increase substantially as well. The Centers for Disease Control (CDC) estimates that the number of Americans with Alzheimer's disease will double by 2060, when it's expected to reach 14 million—more than 3% of the total population.

A decline in financial capacity Although Alzheimer's is the most common cause of dementia in older adults, it's not the only one. In fact, the National Institute on Aging estimates that nearly half of all Americans will develop some form of dementia in their lifetime. And while the cognitive decline brought on by dementia affects a broad array of mental functions, many people aren't aware that one of the first abilities to go is one's "financial capacity."

Financial capacity refers to the ability to manage money and

With more and more Baby make wise financial decisions. Yet cognitive decline brought on by a check. financial capacity frequently goes unnoticed—often until it's too written math computations, such as making change.

> "Financial capacity is one of the first abilities to decline as cognitive impairment encroaches," notes the AARP's Public Policy Institute, "yet older people, their families, and others are frequently unaware that these deficits are developing."

> Ironically, studies have also shown that the elderly's confidence in their money management skills can actually increase as they get older, which puts them in a perilous position. As seniors begin to experience difficulty managing their money, they don't realize they're making poor choices, which makes them easy targets for financial exploitation, fraud, and abuse.

Watch for red flags over the holidays

Now that we're in the peak of the holiday season, you're likely spending more time with your aging parents and other senior relatives. This provides an ideal opportunity to be on the lookout for signs that your loved ones might be experiencing a decline in their financial capacity. The University of Alabama study "The Warning Signs of Diminished Financial Capacity in Older Adults" identified six red flags to watch for:

1. Memory lapses: Examples include missing appointments, failing to make a payment—or making multiples of the same payment forgetting to bring documents or where documents are located, repeatedly giving the same orders, repeatedly asking the same

2. Disorganization: Mismanaging financial documents, and losing or misplacing bills, statements, or other records.

3. Declining checkbook management skills: Forgetting to record transactions in the register, incorrectly or incompletely filling out register entries, and incorrectly filling out the payee or amount on Confusion: Difficulty understanding basic financial concepts like mortgages, loans, or interest payments, which were previously well-understood.

6. Poor financial judgment: A new-found interest in get-rich-quick schemes or radical changes in investment strategy.

Managing diminished financial capacity

If you notice your parents or other senior family members displaying any of these behaviors, you should take steps to protect them from their own poor judgment. It's vital to address their cognitive decline as early as possible, not only to prevent financial mismanagement and exploitation, but also to ensure their overall health and safety.

There are several estate planning tools that can be put in place to help your aging parents and other senior family members protect themselves and their assets from the debilitating effects of dementia and other forms of incapacity. In part two of this series, we'll discuss the specific planning tools available for this purpose, and provide some guidance on how to address this sensitive subject with your elderly loved ones.

NEW DECADE, NEW CAREER

By Dr. Edward C. Ortell, Citrus College Governing Board Member

Employment in the U.S. is expected to grow by 8.4 million jobs in the next decade, according to a recent report by the Bureau of Labor Statistics

The BLS's list of the 20 fastest growing occupations sounds a bit like futuristic fiction. Solar photo-voltaic installers lead the list at 63 percent job growth, followed by wind turbine service technicians at 57 percent. Other high-tech jobs in top 20 list include information security analysts, genetic counselors and operations research analysts. These are all high paying jobs, and most require at least some college.

projected changes in workforce demographics. That population also will result the need for more healthcare workers. It's interesting to note that while there will be an exodus of retiring older Americans in the next 10 years, the share of baby boomers and those over 55 remaining in the workforce longer is expected to increase from 23.1 percent to 25.2 percent.

For those searching for a new, profitable, in-demand career, here are a few options to consider:

Wind Turbine Technician - Wind turbine service technicians install, maintain, and repair wind turbines. These jobs typically require a postsecondary non-degree award (i.e. some college) and pay a median annual wage of $54,370.

Information Security Analyst - These workers plan and carry out security measures to protect an organization's computer networks and systems. Most positions require a bachelor's degree in a computer-related field. The median wage for these jobs is $98,350.

Physical The rap is tAssistant-Physical the rap is tassistants entering the profession need an associate's degree and the rap is tassistant and thfrom an accredited program. The median annual wage for physical the rapist assistants is more than $58,000.

Medical Assistants - Medical assistants complete administrative and clinical tasks in hospitals, offices of physicians, and other healthcare facilities. These jobs typically require a postsecondary non-degree award. Employment of medical assistants is projected to grow 23 percent in the next decade, much faster than the average for all occupations. The median wage is about $33,610.

Community colleges throughout California provide low cost, high quality academic and career training to prepare students for the jobs of the future. Whether it's an associate degree, a vocational certificate or the first two years of a Bachelor's Degree that's required, a community college is a great place to start. About the Author:

It was Friday afternoon, and I was sitting around a redwood table in the shade under tall eucalyptus trees. Five of us were about to continue on a porch renovation of one of Highland Park's century-plus-old houses. We were taking a break, enjoying the cool breeze of the afternoon while reviewing the plan.

All five of us there had known each other for at least 30 years, so we were almost like married people who no longer care for the other's jokes, and barely care what the others look like. We were there united for a common cause only, and were about to begin.

Timothy said, "Well, let's have a toast before we continue," though we had only water.

"Wait," I said, "Let's have a little kombucha for our toast."

Everyone smiled agreeingly at the prospect, and I pulled out a beautiful bottle of a golden liquid and carefully poured a little into each cup. We were quiet as I poured and everyone examined the unique col-or of our beverage. We could hear the slight breeze in the background, and insects buzzing, and the mu-sic from the neighbor's house of monks slowly singing some Middle Ages chant.

I explained that the kombucha was home-made, and made locally. "Ah," said Cody.

We held our cups as Timothy made a toast to our enduring friendship, and to the porch which we wanted to be made acceptable to greet visitors for decades to come.

We each sipped. I sipped slowly, savoring the subtle flavor and odor. There was none of the harshness, or astringency, that I'd come to associate with kombucha, commercial kombucha. I knew that kombucha was good for you, and I'd made it for a long time when I lived in Highland Park, but I never real-ly liked it. Even the commercial kombucha at Whole Foods and elsewhere, flavored as it was with rasp-berry and other additives, was never something I enjoyed.

But this was like a soft nectar. Everyone was quiet as we sipped, and Timothy broke the silence by blurting, "That's good!"

My body felt good from the home-made drink, and I felt light, and lightened.

There was enough for everyone to get a second serving, and so we quietly sat and sipped while sitting in the breeze, the monastic chanting in the background making me feel transported to another place and time. I felt that this was the first time I'd ever consumed a kombucha that I actually liked.

We were all about ready to get back to work, but no one quite wanted to get up yet.

"Was it made with chi," Cody asked.

"I don't know, but I suspect it was," I responded.

"Is this alcoholic?" asked another.

"I don't know," I said. "It's wonderfully effervescent, and maybe there's a bit of alcohol, but probably not much."

Everyone was nodding, enjoying the final drops.

"Is this available for purchase?" asked another.

"This is a local home-made batch. It was a gift from a good friend. It's not something that she makes as a business. So, it's probably not available for purchase. Just enjoy it," I said. "You can buy the next-best thing at the health food store." My body and mind and heart felt good, and everyone got up to go back to work with a smile on their faces.

any seniors fear that moving out of their home into an assisted living residence means forfeiting control of their lives. At The Kensington, nothing could be further from the truth. We believe it is our role to support our residents, not to assume complete decision-making authority. Of course, as specialists in caring for older adults, we monitor routines, behavior and mood every day. If we see changes that concern us, then we talk with residents and their families immediately. Together, we all decide about making adjustments to care and services to preserve comfort, wellness and morale.

DOES MEDICARE COVERS COUNSELING SERVICES?

Dear Savvy Senior:

Does Medicare cover outpatient counseling services for its beneficiaries? Since the death of my sister last year, I've struggled with depression and anxiety and would like to get some help. Sad Senior

I'm sorry for your loss. Yes, Medicare covers both outpatient and inpatient mental health services to help beneficiaries with depression, anxiety and many other needs. Here's what you should know. Outpatient Coverage

If you have original Medicare, your Part B coverage will pay 80 percent (after you've met your $198 Part B deductible) for a variety of counseling and mental health care services that are provided outside a hospital, like individual or group therapy, family counseling and more. They also cover services for treatment of beneficiaries who struggle with alcohol and drug abuse.

You, or your supplemental insurance is responsible for the remaining 20 percent coinsurance.

Medicare also gives you the option of getting treatment through a variety of mental health professionals such as psychiatrists, psychologists, clinical social workers and clinical nurse specialists. To get this coverage, you'll need to choose a "participating provider" that accepts Medicare assignment, which means they accept Medicare's approved amount as full payment for a service.

If you choose a "nonparticipating provider" who accepts Medicare but does not agree to Medicare's payment rate, you may have to pay more. And if you choose an "opt-out provider" that does not accept Medicare payments at all, you will be responsible for the entire cost.

To locate a mental health care professional in your area that accepts Medicare assignment, use Medicare's online Physician Compare tool. Go to Medicare.gov/PhysicianCompare and type in your ZIP code, or city and state, then type in the type of profession you want to locate, like "psychiatry" or "clinical psychologist" in the search box. You can also get this information by calling Medicare at 800-633-4227.

Inpatient Coverage

If you need mental health services in either a general or psychiatric hospital, original Medicare Part A covers this too (after you've met your $1,408 Part A deductible). Your doctor should determine which hospital setting you need. If you receive care in a psychiatric hospital, Medicare covers up to 190 days of inpatient care for your lifetime. And if you use your lifetime days but need additional care, Medicare may cover additional inpatient care at a general hospital.

Additional Coverage

In addition to the outpatient and inpatient mental health services, Medicare also covers yearly depression screenings that must be done in a primary care doctor's office or clinic. Annual depression screenings are covered 100 percent.

And if you have a Medicare prescription drug plan, most medications used to treat mental health conditions are covered too.

Medicare Advantage

If you happen to get your Medicare benefits through a private Medicare Advantage plan, they must provide the same coverage as original Medicare does, but they may impose different rules and will likely require you to see an in-network provider. You'll need to contact your plan directly

And for more information, call Medicare at 800-633-4227 and request a copy of publication #10184 "Medicare & Your Mental Health Benefits," or you can read it online at Medicare.gov.

before Christmas, New Year begins. As is usual, this is a time of great confusion for me. In order to gain some clarity for myself and tell you some of the reasons for my confusion. Perhaps you are feeling some of the same things. This Christmas I am the proud new grandfather of my daughter's five month old daughter Justice Josephine. This relationship is inter-wound with my recovery from a double hernia surgery one week ago which prohibits me for the next month or so from carrying or lifting anything that weighs over 10 pounds. "JJ" .although weighing below 5 pounds at birth, has admirably already reached 15 pounds. Do you understand the problem?

On Sunday I, my wife, JJ's parents, my son and his girlfriend met for what has become our traditional Sunday family breakfast. Everyone, pretty much has their assigned role with the baby's parents doing a lot of the cooking, my wife keeping everything in order, and my son, his girlfriend and I staying out of the way and cooing with This Sunday I felt a particular need to talk about myself and my own parents to this next generation who really knew little about them. On top of a cabinet in the dining room there is a memory box, constructed by my wife with pictures of my Dad. I had to reach high to bring it down so that I could explain things about him to the rest of the family. Truthfully, at that time no one except me, was interested in hearing any description but everyone united in yelling at me to stop standing on my toes and reaching for the box as this would surely pop the stitches from the recent surgery. Still I persisted.

In my defense I had been isolated in my bedroom for the past week unable to get out of bed and taking prescribed opiates to deal with the overwhelming and unexpected intense pain. Finally, when I was able to get out of bed, I went immediately to the mirror, dropped my pants and was horrified by what I saw. I will not describe what I saw any further, but imagine the worst thing you can think of and cause it to be swollen and purple. I have not returned to the mirror since. I saw a doctor yesterday and have been told that, although this is hardly normal, there is some likelihood that in a month or so everything will be in its proper place.

This shock, combined with the effect of multiple days of regularly scheduled opioids undoubtedly has left me feeling more than a little crazy. I

TRADITION

I am writing this am retiring from law practice, really as article on the day of now, and it has all combined to make me fear the complete disappearance of a week before the my whole heritage from my children and grandchildren's lives. I pulled the box down and displayed the items. "I remember that grandpa was blind and couldn't see me except for one time, for about five seconds, he could see my face.(This had actually happened when once my father, who had been sightless for years, suddenly said he had seen my son's face in glaring sunlight.) What's with all these pictures my son and daughter wondered? There they were: pictures of my father as the foreman of a CC in the 1930's (gee, I hope you know what the CC camps were) pictures of my father in a stylish hat next to columns describing FDR's efforts to combat the great depression by hiring unemployed young men, "starving and sweltering" in the heat of a Chicago summer and transporting them to rural upstate Wisconsin where they built roads, and fought fires and grew fit and strong. A final picture was the most surprising! There was my father's name spelled differently from ours; TOLSCHIN. I explained that his name was really spelled exactly the same as ours and that his first name was Abraham but that he went by the name of Al. Why? It's of course easy to understand if you are old like me but somehow in School we are never taught that long prior to Hitler and the 1930's and 1940's there was pervasive raging anti-Semitic and anti-Russian feelings viciously expressed in the United States. My father was both Russian and Jewish and I guess a small name change helped him avoid a few fights. We never talked about that or much else about his life-experience before walking across Poland, ending up in Liverpool, and a year or so later coming to America. In fact this lack of knowledge goes a long way in explaining my planned celebration of Christmas Eve tonight. Fifty years or so I ago I saw the movie Fiddler on the Roof, which at the time my college-graduated mind took to be a shallow, superficial, mainly inconsequential presentation inaccurately portraying historical religious conflict and ethnic differences which would soon be forgotten (the movie not the differences). Tonight I will go, accompanied by wife to the Laemmle Theatre's annual Christmas Eve Sing-Along to Fiddler on the Tradition!! Well, not exactly, Roof. my wife's Hispanic, but it's all I have left. I do not want my own life and presence to disappear from my children and grandchildren's memories like so much of my father's life has already disappeared. Can I be blamed for wanting my family to retain more of me and my dad's no matter how he had to spell his name? TRADITION -you just have to make the most of what is out sister Patti came over and spent part of the day with us.

We're in the middle of what amounts to a national Christmas ceasefire in our never-ending, 24/7 political civil war.

Political bombshells, childish name-calling, stupid tweet battles, partisan posturing, congressional hearings, Democrat primary debates, FBI leaks, trade wars, Brexit, Jeffrey Epstein's "suicide" ... all are almost totally absent from the news

The best present I received this year was that no one talked politics at my house all Christmas day.

The "Trump" word was never spoken. Neither was the "Pelosi" word or the "Impeachment" word.

We actually wished each other Merry Christmas, opened gifts and watched our grandkids go bonkers opening their toys.

That's what Christmas Day in the U.S. is supposed to be all about – and used to be. The nicest and most important present of all for me this year, however, was that my

She and I share little common ground when it comes to politics, to put it mild-ly, and she had never even been to my house in Los Angeles before.

Actually, until this year, I hadn't spoken to her since 2004, when my father's will was read.

But when Patti was recently asked to do a TV program about our family for a cable station, she asked me for my help.

The project was going to be about what life was like for us Reagans before my father ran for governor of California and politics took over his life and changed ours forever.

The program idea didn't work out for Patti in the end, but it brought the two of us together this year for first time since 2004.

I met her for lunch a couple of times, but we had not been with each other at Christmas since 1992 or 1993, when the family got together at my dad's house when he was in the early stages of Alzheimer's.

On Wednesday Patti came over for several hours and saw my kids Cameron and Ashley. She met her grand-nieces Marilyn, who will be 4, and Penelope, who will Patti and I sat down and talked about the family, what we we've been up to lately and lots of other things – but not a word about politics.

We had no good reason to discuss or argue politics.

I know how she feels about conservatives and President Trump. She knows what I think. Why bring it up?

The two of us Reagans were able to enjoy Christmas Day without getting mad at each other because, as our father used to do when his politically divided family was together, we completely avoided politics.

If Patti and I can exchange gifts and have a wonderful time without letting it be ruined by politics, I don't see why everyone could not do the same. In fact, keeping partisan politics out of Christmas - and all our family holiday gatherings — is the best resolution I can think of in 2020.

Happy New Year.
