SIERRA MADRE PASSES RESOLUTION PROTECTING TENANTS FROM COVID-19 RELATED EVICTIONS

By Kevin McGuire

In an effort to heed the call from Governor Newsom to stay at home and practice social distancing in the wake of the spread of COVID-19, Sierra Madre City Council Members broadcast from their homes during their regular scheduled meeting Tuesday night. City Hall will remain closed indefinitely.

Council Members took public comment phone calls and e-mails during the meeting and despite no video transmission and a somewhat audio-challenged effort, City Council did manage to unanimously adopt Resolution 20-14 protecting residential and commercial tenants from eviction during a time when people have lost their jobs and businesses have come to a halt. This would apply to those evictions directly connected to the COVID-19 virus. Scenarios for protection include:

If an individual is sick with COVID-19 and has to stay home and, as a result, incurred a negative financial impact and can't pay

- If a person is laid-off as a result of no business because of the impact of COVID-19.
- Individuals having financial burden because they have to provide childcare as a result of schools being closed.
- If they have to assist family members who are sick.
- 5. If they have to pay out-of-pocket expenses to medical services, or

If they are forced to stay home as a result of a government

In addition, the Resolution automatically extends the terms of entitlements, which are set to expire, by six months and also provided guidelines for both religious and private gatherings. In just a matter of a few weeks, the state adjusted the recommended guideline for gatherings from 10 persons or less to zero persons in their "Safer at Home" plan. Sierra Madre will follow these new guidelines and also recommend no religious or private gatherings at this time.

As for businesses, those providing non-essential services should remain closed, but delivery services of essential goods, such as food delivery, will be exempt. Restaurants are recommended to remain open for take-out only service. The hope is that all community churches will make streaming options available to parishioners.

Some hiking trails in the area have been fenced off after too many people were out and about going against recommended social distancing measures. In addition, all outdoor and indoor playgrounds should remain closed. City Manager Gabriel Engeland noted that if persons continue to park and hike in restricted areas, and restaurants and non-essential businesses refuse to follow recommended guidelines, police may distribute citations.

Sierra Madre residents are being asked to stay at home unless they are in need of essential items such as groceries and medication. If folks have to go out, they should follow the social distancing guidelines and remain six feet apart from other persons.

The meeting was led by Mayor John Capoccia, with Mayor Pro Tem Rachelle Arizmendi, and Council Members John Harabedian and Gene Goss in attendance. In addition to City Manager Engeland, Assistant City Attorney Aleks Giragosian and City Clerk Sue Spears were also in attendance.

SOCALGAS WARNS CUS-TOMERS ABOUT THE RISE OF UTILITY SCAMS DURING COVID-19

Southern California Gas Co. (SoCalGas) today reminded customers to be on alert for potential scams targeting utility customers during the COVID-19 outbreak.One common scam involves telling customers they must pay their gas bill immediate-ly or their natural gas service will be disconnected. SoCalGas does not call cus-tomers seeking payment and had suspended service disconnections for custom-ers until further notice. SoCalGas provides tips on how to recognize and respond to these scams:

Tips include--

• Spotting common scam tactics such as Caller ID spoofing, phishing emails and texts, and utility imposters.

Always ask to see SoCalGas photo ID badge before letting someone inside. All SoCalGas em-ployees on company business are required to carry a badge.

Customers are encouraged to verify the employee's uniform and identification. Most of our authorized employees will always be in a uniform with our company logo, carry an official em-ployee badge, and drive a company car. Take shorter showers to reduce your natural gas use.

Please see below for more information on how customers can spot scams and pro-tect themselves during the COVID-19 outbreak. Visit socalgas.com/scam-alertfor additional tips and information about scams.

You can also visit socalgas.com/newsroom and @SoCalGasNews on Twitter for updates.

any seniors fear that moving out of their home into an assisted living residence means forfeiting control of their lives. At The Kensington, nothing could be further from the truth. We believe it is our role to support our residents, not to assume complete decision-making authority. Of course, as specialists in caring for older adults, we monitor routines, behavior and mood every day. If we see changes that concern us, then we talk with residents and their families immediately. Together, we all decide about making adjustments to care and services to preserve comfort, wellness and morale.

We regard ourselves as our residents' champion, not their boss. Call or visit soon to learn about our collaborative approach to assisted living.

WALKING SIERRA MADRE - The Social Side

by Deanne Davis

"While in quarantine, Shakespeare wrote King

"While in quarantine, Newton developed calculus and discovered gravity." "While under house arrest, Paul wrote part of the New Testament."

"While in prison, John Bunyan wrote Pilgrim's Progress.

Spotted by Sierra Madre resident, Annika Stutin, on her walk... "It's a beautiful day in this neighborhood." In chalk on the sidewalk. "I don't think anyone expected when we changed the clocks earlier this month, we'd go from Standard time to The Twilight Zone." 'For the first time in history, we can save the human race by laying in front of the TV and doing nothing. Let's not screw this up!"

"Getting real tired of babysitting my mom's grandkids right now.

"Still haven't decided my trip for Easter, whether it's the living roomor the kitchen."

"Saw my neighbor out early this morning scraping the "My Kid Is A Terrific Student" off her minivan. Guess that first week of homeschooling didn't go so well."

"And the people stayed home. And read books and listened. And rested and exercised.

And made art and played games. And learned new ways of being. And were still. And listened more deeply. Some meditated. Some prayed. "Be still and know that I Am God!" Some danced. Some met their shadows and fears. And the people began to think differently.

And the people healed. And in the absence of people living in ignorant, dangerous, mindless and heartless ways, the earth began to heal.

And when the danger passed, and the people joined together again, They grieved their losses, and made new choices, and created new ways to live and heal their world as they had been healed." Francis Rah O'Hara

"Dear God, Thank you for another day. I might be uncertain about the week ahead, But I believe You will guide me safely through each day and protect my loved ones from this virus. I thank you for your ultimate protection and blessings. Amen"

"Each and every one of us is a prisoner of something, whether it be fear, loneliness, or despair. We cope, praying the world will be set right, the pain will lose its sting and those who labor to this end,

How, we wonder do we characterize this labor of love? We know it means being community with others, sharing wisdom, giving hugs (soon we'll be able to do that again), encouraging, giving opportunities to grow, taking care of details others will never know, being available to listen."

Excerpts from "Prisoner of Hope" written by Gina Jones

Most of this week's wisdom is from Facebook, dear friends and neighbors, where so many share their hearts, their thoughts, their fears and reassurances. Being on lockdown gives plenty of time to scroll through what others are experiencing. Much of it is funny, touching, honest, and – ignoring all political comments – some of it is even helpful.

Wash your hands, dear friends, drink lots of water, stay home and, hopefully, the world will return to normal and we'll find soup, spaghetti, bread, milk and TP on the shelves at our markets again. This week I've been leaning on Phil.4:6 "Don't worry about anything, instead, pray about everything.

Tell God what you need, and thank him for all he has done. Then you will experience God's peace, which exceeds anything we can understand. His peace will guard your hearts and minds as you live Flowers give me joy and peace. This cactus bloom is a vibrant pink. There is hope here, too, as there

THE SIERRA MADRE PUBLIC LIBRARY BEGINS NEW CHECK-OUT SYSTEM IN RESPONSE TO COVID-19 CLOSURE.

In an effort to continue supporting our patrons during this difficult time, the Sierra Madre Public Library will offer a single, over the phone check-out per patron. To the extent to which we can, a Library Staff Member will take patron requests for materials over the phone, and materials will be checked out to the member's card and prepared for pick up. Upon arriving at the Library, patrons will call from a designated waiting area outside of the building, and a staff member will check their identification and transfer materials to them, in keeping with social distancing standards.

We at the Sierra Madre Public Library believe that everyone has the right to access materials and information; however, this opportunity will be revoked out of a greater concern for the Sierra Madre Community and City Staff, should the need arise.

Thank you for your patience as we continue to work together in service of our community.

COVID-19 Cases Rise in Pasadena

The City of Pasadena Public Health Department, this week (PPHD) confirmed four additional cases of novel coronavirus disease (COVID-19) in Pasadena residents. These cases are likely due to community transmission. Only one case has been hospitalized. The total number of confirmed COVID-19 cases in Pasadena is 10. Due to patient confidentiality, no other information on confirmed cases will be provided.

PPHD is following up directly with those who have had close contact with these individuals and may be at risk for COVID-19 infection. Close contacts are monitored for signs and symptoms of illness and are quarantined.

Last week, the Safer at Home Order was issued to slow the spread of COVID-19 and protect the Pasadena community. Individuals can take everyday actions to protect the community and preserve local healthcare resources including:

LitFest Cancelled

Under the recommendation of the CDC, the upcoming LitFest Pasadena, scheduled for May 16-17, is cancelled.

"As we move forward, organizers are discussing future programming conditions subside."

LitFest Pasadena, the second largest literary festival in Southern California, was to hold its 9th annual free community event, featuring 200 authors and 50 panels, workshops, readings and performances.

The mission of LitFest Pasadena is to provide an opportunity for authors and community members to celebrate literature of all kinds, to instill a love of reading and writing, and to provide a public intersection of dialogue around the variety of topics and ideas that books inspire. LitFest Pasadena is produced by local nonprofit arts & education organization, Light Bringer Project.

Increasing COVID-19 Scams

Altadena residents are reminded of several fraud schemes designed to prey on the vulnerable in the midst of the COVID-19 public health crisis. Reports of malicious websites, email schemes, and suspicious links have come to the attention of law enforcement and public officials.

"Malicious actors can prey upon those that are distracted by the COVID-19 pandemic, and use it to their advantage," stated Los Angeles County Chief Information Officer William Kehoe. "The public needs to be mindful and careful, and avoid websites, phishing emails, and scams that engage people through false information about the health crisis, and steal personal user information and data."

Currently, there are several Coronavirus tracking and mapping sites that are actually malware websites. Online hackers may also send users emails from fraudulent accounts impersonating official websites and doctors, or offering medical supplies and

Health Officials Call for More Blood Donations

While we continue to combat the novel Coronavirus, officials are starting to see more major consequences of the outbreak come to light. The American Red Cross and health officials around the nation are calling on all healthy individuals to donate blood due to the threatening shortage they're currently facing.
Make an Appointment with the Red Cross at: redcross.org/give-

Local Huntington Hospital is also experiencing a severe blood shortage. They have created an offsite location for community blood donors at 800 S. Fairmount Avenue, Pasadena. The parking entrance is at 28 Bellefontaine Street, and parking will be validated. Blood donation hours are Monday - Thursday, 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. and Friday – 7:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.

NASA's "Send Your Name to Mars" campaign invited people around the world to submit their names to ride aboard the agency's next rover to the Red Planet. Some 10,932,295 people did just that. The names were stenciled by electron beam onto three fingernailsized silicon chips, along with the essays of the 155 finalists in NASA's "Name the Rover" contest. The chips then were attached to an aluminum plate on NASA's Perseverance Mars rover at Kennedy Space Center in Florida on March 16. Scheduled to launch this summer, Perseverance will land at Jezero Crater on Feb. 18, 2021.

The three chips share space on the anodized plate with a laser-etched graphic depicting Earth and Mars joined by the star that gives light to both. While commemorating the rover that connects the two worlds, the simple illustration also pays tribute to the elegant line art of the plaques aboard the Pioneer spacecraft and golden records carried by Voyagers 1 and 2. Affixed to the center of the rover's aft crossbeam, the plate will be visible to cameras on Perseverance's mast.

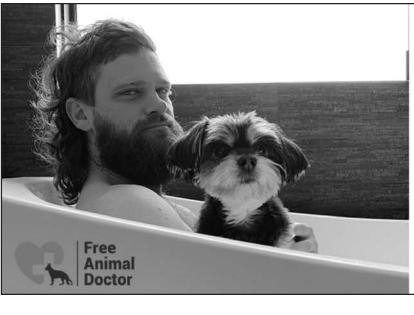

Currently, the coronavirus has not impacted the Mars

Perseverance rover launch schedule. The installation was one of numerous recent activities performed by the Perseverance assembly, test and launch operations team. On March 21, the team began reconfiguring the rover so it can ride atop the Atlas V rocket. Steps included stowing the robotic arm, lowering and locking in place the remote sensing mast and high-gain antenna, and retracting its legs and

The Perseverance rover is a robotic scientist weighing just under 2,300 pounds (1,043 kilograms). It will search for signs of past microbial life, characterize Mars' climate and geology, collect samples for future return to Earth, and help pave the way for human exploration of the Red

UNDERSTANDING ARCADIA'S EVICTION MORATORIUM

COVID-19 Relief Resources for Tenants and Small Businesses

March 25, 2020 - On March 17, 2020, the Arcadia City Council adopted a Declaration of Local Emergency allowing the City to enact emergency provisions including a moratorium on residential and commercial evictions for non-payment of rent due to a verified COVID-19 financial impact. The City Council order also makes price gouging unlawful, discontinues water shut-offs to residents and businesses, suspends penalties for delinquent water and sewer payments, and suspends parking restrictions and fees for parking violations. These community protection provisions will remain in effect for 60 days from the date of adoption. If you have questions regarding City services, please contact City Hall at (626) 574-5401 or visit our website at ArcadiaCA.gov for more information. As a reminder, City Hall is closed to the public but City services are fully available virtually. Are you a tenant in financial distress? Immediately contact your landlord and document inwriting how COVID-19 has injured you financially. Once the Local Emergency has been lifted, all unpaid rent is due to be repaid within six months or as agreed to by the parties. Landlords may not charge or collect late fees if the tenant has demonstrated financial hardship associated

The City of Arcadia is not an intermediary between the tenant and landlord, and cannot waive any rent that is owed. It is therefore up to the tenant and landlord to communicate clearly and in good faith. The City is encouraging landlords and tenants to work together during this challenging time to ensure public health and safety.

Here are some additional resources for residents and businesses:

Southern California Edison: Suspended power shut-offs due to non-payment. For more information please visit: sce.com/safety/coronavirus

SoCal Gas: Suspended gas shut-offs due to non-payment. For more information please visit: socalgas.com/coronavirus

Unemployment: For individuals who have experienced unemployment due to COVID-19, you can file a claim at the California Employment Development Department at: edd.ca.gov/ about_edd/coronavirus-2019.htm

Small Businesses: The U.S. Small Business Administration has made low-interest disaster loans available for COVID-19 impacts. You can find more information or apply at: sba.gov/disaster

ARCADIA CITY COUNCIL ELECTIONS TO CONTINUE

Ballots Were Mailed March 16, 2020

Call Los Angeles County at (800) 815-2666, Option 2 For a New Ballot

March 23, 2020 - The Arcadia City Council elections for District 1 and District 4 are still in progress. The all mail-in ballot election will continue without interruption through Election Day on Tuesday, April 14, 2020. Here is what voters need to know:

Ballots were mailed on March 16, 2020. If you did not receive a ballot, please contact the Los Ange-les County Registrar/Recorders Office at (800) 815-2666, Option 2. The last day to register to vote is March 30, 2020.

Beginning on Friday, April 10, 2020, the Los Angeles County Registrar/Recorder will have a mobile voter information unit stationed at the Arcadia City Hall parking lot, located at 240 W. Huntington Drive, from 8:00 am to 5:00 pm for voters to receive a new ballot if they did not receive one by mail.

You can mail your completed ballot or drop off your ballot at Arcadia City Hall by using the ballot drop box located near the Arcadia Transit stop in the City Hall parking lot. The ballot drop box is open 24 hours a day through Election Day. On Election Day, the drop box will be

NOTE: The Los Angeles County Registrar/Recorder's Office is closed to visitors. If you have not received a ballot, please contact the County at the number listed above as soon as possible so a new ballot can be mailed to you. You may also visit the mobile voter information unit at Arcadia City Hall beginning April 10, 2020, for a new ballot.

For more information regarding the City's election, please visit ArcadiCA.gov/elections or contact the City Clerk's Office at (626) 574-5455.

MONROVIA OUTDOOR RECREATION FACILITIES ARE CLOSED

As previously announced, City facilities remain closed to discourage gatherings of 10 or more. At this time, we ask the community to not use any outdoor recreation facilities where groups gather (i.e. tennis courts, skate park, basketball courts, etc). Please note that the parks are not closed, so you are still able to walk/bike on the trails. We understand everyone's desire to recreate but you must practice social distancing.

In addition, more discussions are taking place that cities may begin actively enforcing the Safer at Home Order Again, we respectfully ask everyone to follow the Order, refrain from leaving your home unless necessary, and help do your part in beating COVID-19.

DUARTE EVICTIONS

Duarte City Council Approves Temporary Prohibition on Evictions for Residential and Commercial Ten-ants Affected by COVID-19

Duarte, CA - At its March 24, 2020, Duarte City Council passed an Urgency Ordinance, offering tempo-rary protection from evictions of residential and commercials tenants for non-payment of rent for rea-sons associated with the coronavirus (COVID-19). The moratorium goes into effect immediately and will end after an initial thirty-day term, April 23, 2020, unless extended by action of the City Council.

The ordinance only applies to evictions of nonpayment of rent due to a substantial decrease in house-hold or business income that includes, but is not limited to workplace closure, loss of compensable hours of work or wages, layoffs, or extraordinary out-of-pocket medical expenses caused by the COVID-19 pandemic, or by any local, state, or federal government response to COVID-19.

The new ordinance aligns with Governor Newsom's Executive Order N-28-20, authorizing local jurisdic-tions to exercise such protections for residents and businesses who experience substantial decrease in income caused by the COVID-19 pandemic.

The Urgency Ordinance cites that Los Angeles County, including the City of Duarte, are experiencing a humanitarian crisis of homelessness. Displacement of renters and additional business relocations or closures by commercial evictions from income loss caused by COVID-19 would only further compound the rise in homelessness rates and potentially put the public at greater risk if individuals with COVID-19 are unable to quarantine themselves in their homes.

Tenants are still obligated to pay their rent and will have up to three months after the City of Duarte proclaims the termination of the Local Emergency to repay any unpaid rent. The City's Local Emergency proclamation went into effect on March 70, 2020 and was ratified by the Duarte City Council on March 24th.

"We are making every effort to protect our community's physical well-being, financial stability, and overall economic health as we weather this storm together," said Mayor Samuel Kang. "When this is all over, we want Duarte residents housed, children back in our schools, and businesses able to thrive. Hopefully these steps will ease the pain and provide some relief as California works to flatten to curve of spreading the coronavirus by following State and County mandates to stay at home."

As a result of the local emergency declaration, the City has also suspending street sweeping restrictions and no 3-6 AM parking enforcement, understanding that residents are spending more time at home and are encouraged to do so.

For more information, please visit the City of Duarte website at www.accessduarte.com or contact City Hall at (626) 357-7931.

REP. SCHIFF STATEMENT IN SUPPORT OF RELIEF PACKAGE FOR AMERI-CAN WORKERS, FAMILIES AND SMALL BUSINESSES

$2 Trillion Package Expanded Includes Unemployment Benefits for Freelance, Gig, and Contract Workers in Entertainment and Other Industries

(Update: On Friday, the House of Representatives passed this bill and President Trump signed it into law.)

Washington, DC – To-day, Rep. Adam Schiff (D-CA) released the following statement in support of the Coronavirus Aid, Relief, and Economic Security (CARES) Act.

"Our nation is facing a health and economic crisis unlike any we have faced in our history. We have the fastest growing rate of coronavirus cases in the world, affecting every state in the country, and a rapidly accelerating increase in fatalities. And today, we see clearly the full economic havoc wreaked by this virus, with new unemployment claims over 3 mil-lion in a single week nationwide and more than 1 million in California alone.

"As daunting as this pandemic is, I have full confidence that we will get through it, but do-ing so requires us to act boldly today to mitigate the economic damage, protect working families, massively invest in our public health infrastructure and much more. This bill is not perfect, but thanks to the advocacy of House and Senate Democrats, it is a bill that prioritizes American workers and families and is of the scale this crisis demands. We must pass it as soon as possible so we can begin to get Americans the help they need, while staying clear-eyed that more will be needed.

"This bill accomplishes a number of the goals we initially laid out: it provides direct relief for individuals and families hurting economically, help for healthcare workers and hospi-tals on the front lines, relief for small businesses, and assistance to the states most affect-ed.

"This bill includes a dramatic expansion of unemployment insurance to cover more Amer-icans, provides benefits that match the depth of the economic crisis, and will ensure that workers who have lost their jobs will receive critical income for at least the next four months. I'm particularly pleased that the bill covers the millions of Americans who work as contractors, freelancers, in the gig economy, and a variety of other employment struc-tures. This concern acutely affects many of my constituents who, for example, work in the entertainment industry and have non-traditional employment. I was proud to play a lead-ership role with House and Senate negotiators on this issue and I'm grateful that this bill covers them, and many others.

"Additionally, millions of families and individuals hardest hit by this economic crisis will receive a direct cash payment to help them pay the bills and keep food on the table.

"This bill also puts relief and assistance to small businesses front and center. Millions of small businesses are struggling to stay afloat and pay their employees. The legislation provides $350 billion in no-interest loans, and forgives payroll and other costs if the busi-ness retains its employees and their salary levels. This will put us in a stronger position once the virus is controlled because small businesses are the engine of our economy.

"I'm also pleased at the level of support – over $150 billion – for healthcare workers on the front lines of this pandemic, hospitals, and the healthcare system to ensure that we can provide needed treatment to patients.

"This bill also includes an additional $7 billion for federal affordable housing and home-lessness programs to provide rental assistance so affected low-income families can re-main in their homes, and to prevent evictions, provide rapid-rehousing, and operate emergency shelters for people experiencing or at risk of homelessness. It is likely more action on this front will be necessary.

"Finally, it's important to note that implementation of this legislation is going to require constant oversight, from ensuring that Americans are receiving the relief they need to making sure these funds are appropriately allocated to pay workers. Democrats demand-ed that the $500 billion set aside to help big businesses mitigate the economic effects of this crisis have important oversight and transparency protections, and that workers are put first. We were also able to secure language preventing the President and his family from receiving a bailout, and making sure that corporations don't use it for stock buy-backs, executive compensation or other abuses of the past.

"Once this bill passes, I will prioritize efforts to make sure my constituents can access the relief it provides. As we begin to work on the next package, we will need to do even more to help renters and students, states and cities, and to make treatment for the virus free, along with additional support for individuals and families. These are uncertain times, but I am confident that America is up to the challenge. We will prevail over this disease and we will do it together as a community, state, and country."

LOS ANGELES COUNTY ANNOUNCES NINE NEW DEATHS RELATED TO 2019 NOVEL CORONAVIRUS (COVID-19)

421 New Cases of Confirmed COVID-19 in Los Angeles County as of Thursday, March 26, 2020

LOS ANGELES - The Los Angeles | Public Health reminds LA County | Spanish County Department of Public Health (Public Health) has confirmed nine new deaths and 421 new cases of 2019 Novel Coronavirus (COVID-19). Additional information regarding some of the new cases is pending further investigation. Over the last 48 hours there have been 559 new cases.

To date, Public Health has identified 1216 cases across all areas of LA County, including 21 deaths. Upon further investigation, one death and four cases reported earlier were not LA County residents. As of today, 253 positive cases (21% of positive cases) have been hospitalized.

Yesterday, Health Officer Orders were issued to ensure that individuals who test positive for COVID-19, and those who are told by a clinician they are presumed to be positive for COVÍD-19 are required to self-isolate for a period of 7 days and 3 days of being symptom free. Additionally, those who have been in close contact with someone who is positive or presumed positive must quarantine themselves for 14 days from their last exposure to that person. It is critically important that everyone adheres to all the social distancing measures and practice good public health hygiene, including washing hands as frequently as possible.

"We are sad to report these nine additional deaths today - it is the highest daily number we've re-leased to date," said Barbara Ferrer, PhD, MPH, MEd, Los Angeles County Public Health Director. "Un-fortunately, we have been expecting this. To the families and loved ones, we are deeply sorry for your loss. This dramatic increase in cases is due in part to increased testing capacity in LA County which is allowing us to identify more positive cases. In order to slow the spread and save lives, all of us must do our part by staying home, adhering to all social distancing measures and caring for each other."

Public Health has issued the following guidance during this time of increased spread:

• If you are mildly sick, stay home for at least seven days or until 72 hours after being fever free, whichever is longer. Call your doctor if you are concerned and/or your symptoms wors-en. Individuals who are elderly, have underlying health conditions or pregnant should consid-er contacting their providers earlier when they are residents to do their part and adhere to the Order by always practic-ing social distancing.

Additional things you can do to protect yourself, your family and your community are on the Public Health website.

On March 25, Governor Gavin Newsom announced mortgage relief for Californians affected by COVID-19. Eligible homeowners would be able to deser mortgage payments for at least three months. The relief package included Wells Fargo, U.S. Bank, Citi Bank and J.P. Morgan Chase, as well as 200 state-chartered banks and credit unions.

SAN GABRIEL VALLEY MOSQUITO & VECTOR CONTROL DISTRICT PAUSES OPERATIONS TO HELP SLOW COVID-19 SPREAD

Inclement weather and public health effort to curb COVID-19 suspend District programs and services this week

SAN GABRIEL VALLEY, Calif. (March 23, 2020) – The San Gabriel Valley Mosquito & Vector Control District (SGVM-VCD) will suspend programs and services this week to help slow the spread of COVID-19.

This temporary closure will have minimal impact on the agency's core mission to suppress mosquito populations due to the forecasted days of rain and colder temperatures. Employees will continue to work remotely while the District facility is closed to the public.

'We care deeply about the health and safety of the public and our staff," said District Manager Jar-ed Dever. "And for this reason, our agency will close this week out of an abundance of caution."

SGVMVCD's automated online tip line will remain open for residents to report mosquito issues in the community. For the most up-to-date information, please visitwww.sgvmosquito.org.

We appreciate the patience and support from the public during this uncertain time," said Levy Sun, SGVMVCD public information officer. "In between the rain events, we encourage all residents who are Safer at Home to stop mosquitoes in their yards and patios."

To prevent mosquitoes from emerging when the weather warms, all residents should eliminate stagnant water weekly around the home. Mosquitoes can lay eggs in a container as small as a bot-tle cap and complete their life cycle in about SGVMVCD also urges residents to use CDC-recommended mosquito repellent when outdoors. Any repellent that contains active ingredient DEET, oil of lemon eucalyptus, Picaridin or IR3535 is effec-tive against mosquito bites.

About SGVMVCD

SGVMVCD is one of five vector control districts in Los Angeles County. Year-round, the agency monitors stagnant water sources, such as gutters, storm drains, channels and non-functional swimming pools. The agency also routinely monitors populations of adult mosquitoes using traps and tests groups of adult female mosquitoes for the presence of West Nile Virus (WNV) and other mosquito-borne diseases. In addition, submitting wild birds, such as crows, for testing can provide insight into the spread of WNV.

Please support all of our great neighbors in Sierra Madre and Hastings Ranch, Raffi's

Growing up and living in Athens Greece I have a strong fondness for Middle Eastern Food,

Doesn't matter if it's Lebanese, Greek, Armenian or Turkish. If you can pronounce Kebab, feta or Babagadosh I salute you!! As you know by now I love neighborhood restaurants, heck you might say I am your neighbor!! guy, today I visit at Raffi's Grill in what is called the Hastings Ranch area of Pasadena. I'd say this out of the gate about Raffi's is that little neighborhood restaurant that you wish was just down the street from you, fortunately if you reading this in Sierra Madre it is. I offer this description of the restaurant

Unassuming, clean, friendly service but not fawning, You wont find belly dancers or anyone breaking a plate, just honest fresh and good food, as far as decorations you can see by the murals on the wall that this is bare bones, though if you ask for a description of the murals our server can describe each on to a T. Speaking of our server Salpi, she is 100% Lebanese and I fondly rember her from the now

The Kitchen is masterfully run by Ms. Sona Fournouzian, she is always in the kitchen and if she not here well, the restaurant just isn't opened, I was amazed how large the kitchen is considering the size of the dining room I am told they do a big catering business and well that makes sense. Many happy diners here and I am one of them, what to order? The feast of course, go with a party of at least four people and you will feel like you are in someones home. Tahini, hummus, babaganoush as starters, make sure you get the Greek Salad and ask for extra Feta Cheese, as far as the entrees go there are kebabs, including Lule and chicken. The real deal is the lamb chops every at my table agreed that they were the "best" of the best. So many good things to order check it out today!! Raffi's Pasadena a True Neighborhood discovery, no beer and wine. 3887 E Sierra Madre Blvd. Pasadena, closed on Mondays via the Internet, which may be a challenge for many older adults who have been accustomed to a paper count every 10 years.

Most households will receive an invitation to respond to the 2020 U.S. Census questionnaire online. Some households will still receive paper questionnaires. Every household in the U.S. - citizens and noncitizens – is required by law to complete the form. Households that do not respond after multiple reminders will receive personal visits at home from U.S. Census workers to help the households complete the forms. The U.S. Census Bureau does not contact households by email or phone.

that 56 percent of people in America who are 65 and older are not comfortable with the prospect of an online response due to concerns ranging from privacy and cybersecurity to lack of experience filling out forms on the Internet.

According to Akila Gibbs, executive concerns will have to be overcome through communication and education if the 2020 Census is to be a success.

"This will be a matter of ensuring that older adults can embrace this new digital system, and the stakes for success are very high," said Gibbs. "We are conducting outreach to make sure our members and other older adults in Pasadena know there will be Internet-based computers available at the Pasadena Senior numbers, and never, ever agree to send money Center where they can fill out the Census in any form," said Gibbs. "If anyone receives form in about 10 minutes as well as receive technology assistance if needed. This center is a vital community resource, now in the 60th year of providing programs and services to the Pasadena community."

Similar public computers will be available at other locations throughout Pasadena, including community centers and libraries. There also will be options for responding by phone and by mail, although the U.S. Census

For the first time in history, the primary way Bureau will strongly encourage primarily to respond to the U.S. Census count will be online responses to save hundreds of millions

> The data collected determines the number of seats each state has in the U.S. House of Representatives, fair boundaries for federal and state legislative districts based on where populations have increased or decreased, and the annual distribution of more than $675 billion in federal funds nationwide to support local community services ranging from health programs and housing assistance to education and infrastructure for the next decade. An incomplete count means fewer federal dollars to boost local resources.

In Pasadena, more than $400 million in funding was received after the 2010 A recent U.S. Census Bureau survey found count for local programs that help support this generation of children and adults, including senior citizens, and help shape the community's future.

Gibbs added that older adults should be especially cautious about potential scams from unscrupulous people who will claim to represent the U.S. Census Bureau and attempt director of the Pasadena Senior Center, these to prey on this vulnerable populace with the intent of stealing identities and money.

> "The most important message I have for any person who receives an uninvited email or phone call from someone claiming to be from the U.S. Census Bureau is this: It is 100 percent guaranteed that it is a scam, and you should not provide any information whatsoever, including your Social Security number, bank information or credit card such an email or phone call, do not engage the sender, and be sure to call the Pasadena Police Department to report the scam."

A WORD FROM THE PASADENA HUMANE SOCIETY

Dear Friends.

With the developing news regarding coronavirus COVID-19, I wanted to take a moment to share how Pasadena Humane Society & SPCA is addressing the concern at our shelter, as well as our community programming and events.

We are taking all the necessary steps to protect the health and well-being of the animals in our care, our staff and the community we serve by modifying our services. At this time, our Adoptions Center will be closed to the public - but if you are interested in adopting a pet you have seen on our website, we will be open by appointment only during our normal business hours.

We have also temporarily suspended the following activities:

Community outreach programs (including our mobile outreach events). If you are a current event registrant, we will communicate with you directly regarding any changes, so please watch your email. Updates will also be shared on our social media pages and website.

Humane Education activities which include our Kids Club, Animal Adventure Workshops, Scout Sundays, group tours, Sunday Morning Helpers, and Barks and Books program.

Public spay/neuter and vaccine clinics Dog training classes

Pet Boarding, except in case of emergency.

The following services will also be available by appointment only:

Reclaiming your lost pet AND Relinquishing your pet Please limit calls to our Field Services Department to emergencies only.

There have also been questions about whether pets can get sick from COVID-19 or if they can make us sick. According to the Centers for Disease Control and the World Health Organization, there is no evidence that companion ani-mals such as cats and dogs have been infected or could spread the virus that causes COVID-19.

While animals may not be at risk from this disease, we urge all pet owners to have plans for how to care for their animals in case of emergency. COVID-19 is no different, and serves as an excellent reminder to pull that plan together now if you don't already have one. Click here for more information.

Right now, more than ever, we need your help. We have a tremendous need for community fosters. As the virus spreads, the number of animals in shelters and rescues will continue to increase. At the same time, we anticipate de-creased interest and ability to adopt a new pet. So if you're able to foster a dog, cat, or rabbit for the next several weeks, you could help give animals a break from the shelter and make room for more animals who are in need. For more information about fostering, email foster@pasadenahumane.org.

CITY OF PASADENA & PASADENA UNIFIED PARTNER TO PROVIDE MEALS FOR STUDENTS 7 DAYS A WEEK

Pasadena, CA ---

"Grab and Go" breakfast and lunch service for children 18 and younger will extend to weekends starting March 28, thanks to the continuing partnership between the Pasadena Unified School District (PUSD) and the City of Pasadena. Pre-packed meals are available for pick up at seven PUSD schools from 9 - 11

Meal service will continue during PUSD's spring recess March 30-April 3, 2020.

PUSD began offering the weekday meal service to all children after schools closed to prevent the spread of the Coronavirus (COVID-19). Since the meal service started on March 17, PUSD has served more than 7,000 pre-packaged breakfast and lunches. "Grab and Go" Food Centers are staffed by PUSD Food Service workers and community volunteers.

Weekend meals are provided through special one-time funding by the Pasadena City Council to address unforeseen and unmet food needs for our PUSD students. The Rose Bowl Operating Company and Pasadena Convention Operating Company are instrumental in supporting with logistical and staff support.

Weekend meal service will be provided by the City of Pasadena at the same seven school sites until classes resume. Meals will follow the same nutritional guidelines as PUSD meals offered during the week.

"I am pleased to partner with the City of Pasadena to extend vital support to our students and families during this time when we are all staying home to protect our community." said Superintendent Brian McDonald. "We appreciate our continuing productive relationship with the city, and we are united in our commitment to serving students and their families."

"HIDING OUT IN A SMALL TOWN"

[Nyerges is the author of "Extreme Simplicity: Homesteading in the City," "Self-Sufficient Home," "How to Survive Anywhere," and other books. He can be reached at www.SchoolofSelf-Reliance.com]

During the days leading up to Y2K, when irrational panic overtook otherwise calm people, I received a phone call from a man who spoke to me in a choppy, breathy tone.

"Christopher, can you help me?" he asked. "I need someone to help me survive Y2K." I didn't know the man and had never met him. It was the first time we'd ever talked.

The man told me that he was afraid of the impending doom, civil unrest, and the loss of everything he's worked for. He wanted to know if I could help him dig a hole in the desert.

"Excuse me?" I asked, waiting for the punchline.

"Why would you dig a hole in the desert?"
"I'd live there," he told me, matter of factly. The man sincerely believed that digging a hole in the desert and hiding out in some remote desert locale would be his passport to survival.

I knew that I would not be digging a hole with him in the desert, and I asked him, "Have you ever camped out at night? Ever slept in the outdoors,

"No," he told me.
"So, what makes you think you would enjoy living

He told me that he wasn't sure he would enjoy it, but that he was certain he would survive better in a hole in the desert than he would in urban San Diego when western civilization began to collapse with Y2K. In our conversation, I learned he was affluent, ran a business, and felt that he had a lot to lose as society collapsed. He also told me that he didn't know any of his neighbors, and he regarded them more with fear than with friendship.

I suggested that the man get to know his neighbors. Join some social group, or start participating in Neighborhood Watches. Get to know his actual neighbors and begin to interact with them. But he told me that he didn't really have time for that.

"You want to dig a hole in the desert, but you don't have time to get to know your actual neighbors?" I asked, waiting for his response. He was quiet, thinking about it.

"Here's what I also suggest," I told him. "Take a trip. Go to the desert if you want, but drive through some of the rural towns in California, and maybe Arizona, and Nevada, and Utah. Get to know the world beyond your little world. Stop places and have lunch in little cafes. Talk to people. Go shop-

IS THIS Y2K ALL OVER AGAIN?

website: www.acslions.com

The man made a few comments and said, "Yeah, I like that idea. I might try that. I think it would be good to disappear into a small town."

It was clear that he believed he could live in a small town and no one would know him.

'Oh, that's not going to happen," I told him. "No one knows you now because you live in a big city. That's how it is in the big city. People don't know each other because they want it that way, or because it's just too big. But in a small town, everyone knows your business and who you are, eventually."

"Really?" he asked. I could tell that this man had never ventured far from the confines of his own home and business.

'Yes, really! No one hides out in a small town. All everyone does is talk, and they will know everything there is to know about you, sooner or later, whether it is true or not."

I told him the story of when I lived on my grandfather's farm after high school, in a town of about 3,000 population in northeast Ohio. My brother and I had painted the kitchen of the farmhouse with flat paint, not glossy, and one of my uncles felt that that proved we were urban idiots who didn't know the first thing about paint. Later, when we went to family gatherings, cousins would say, "Oh, you're the ones who painted the kitchen with flat paint." In one case, a woman in a store in the town center said the same thing, as if that's all there was to know about me!

During the next few conversations with the frightened man, he seemed increasingly calmer. I don't know what action he finally took because he stopped calling.

People who have never lived in a small town probably cannot fathom a place where everyone knows your business, which can be a very negative feature. But a small town is also like a large family, and evervone realizes that their fate is tied to their neighbor. In this sense, for the health of urban America, and the sustainability of our cities, it's necessary to become a part of the larger community, to take action, to get involved, and to get to know your neighbors for everyone's mutual benefit.

Sierra Madre is not what I call a "small town." A small town is typically rural, with a population of 3000 to 5000 people, spread out over a large area. But Sierra Madre is not a big city either. Sierra Madre is somewhat in-between those two extremes, where you can have the best of both worlds if you know how to navigate your life here.

HOW TO PROTECT YOUR ELDERLY PARENTS FROM CORONAVIRUS

Dear Savvy Senior:

I'm concerned about my 80-year-old mother who's at high risk for coronavirus. She lives on her own about 100 miles from me, and I've been keeping close tabs on her since this whole pandemic started. What tips can you offer long-distance family members? Concerned Daughter

Dear Concerned:

Because the elderly and people with chronic medical conditions are the most vulnerable to the new coronavirus, following the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) guideline of social distancing and staying home is critically important.

Here are some additional tips and recommendations from the CDC and public health specialists that can help keep your elderly mother safe and healthy while she's hunkering down at home until the pandemic passes.

Know and follow the other CDC recommendations: Make sure you and your mom know and practice the CDC recommendations for older adults and those with compromised health conditions. Some of their guidelines – like washing your hands and avoid touching your face – you're probably already familiar with, but there are many other recommendations and they're constantly changing. For the complete list visit Coronavirus.gov - click on "Older Adults & Medical Conditions."

Have supplies on hand: Start by contacting your mom's healthcare provider to ask about obtaining extra necessary medications to have on hand for a prolonged period of time. If she cannot get extra medications, consider using mail-order for medications so she can avoid going into a pharmacy. Also be sure you have over-the-counter medicines and medical supplies to treat fever and other symptoms.

She should also have enough groceries and household items on hand so that she can stay at home for an extended period of time. If she needs to restock supplies, there's online grocery delivery options like Amazon Fresh, Instacart, Peapod, Target and Walmart, and a growing number of stores including Walmart, Target, Whole Foods, Dollar General and many other that are offering early dedicated shopping times to vulnerable seniors to reduce their risk of being exposed to the virus.

There are also home delivery meal programs that can help home-bound seniors – see MealsOn-WheelsAmerica.org to locate one in your mom's area. Or, check out companies like Silver Cuisine (SilverCuisine.com) or Mom's Meals (MomsMeals.com) that deliver nutritious pre-cooked meals to seniors that can be heated up in the microwave.

Use technology: For many seniors, social distancing can also lead to social isolation and loneliness, which is a common problem in the older population. If your mom has a computer, tablet or smartphone, she can stay connected to friends and relatives via videocalls through Skype, Zoom or FaceTime, which is a safe alternative.

If your mom isn't familiar or comfortable with mainstream technology there are other solutions like the GrandPad (GrandPad.net), which is a simplified 4G tablet designed for seniors 75 and older that allows one-touch videocalls, email and much more.

And for peace of mind, there are also check-in services like Snug (SnugSafe.com) that send free daily check-ins to your mom's phone to confirm she's OK. And, will let you know if she doesn't respond.

Skip nonessential doctor's appointments: Most public health experts are also recommending that seniors at risk cancel nonessential doctor's appointments. If your mom has a condition that she feels should not be put off, see if a telemedicine session, which is now covered by Medicare would be an option.

Talk to caregivers: If your mom uses a home health or home care service, that means a number of different aides may be coming through her door.

Be sure you talk to the agency she uses or her aides about hygiene. They should all be reminded to wash their hands or use hand gel sanitizer frequently. And any equipment they bring into your mom's home should be wiped down with disinfectant.

Send your senior questions to: Savvy Senior, P.O. Box 5443, Norman, OK 73070, or visit SavvySenior. org. Jim Miller is a contributor to the NBC Today show and author of "The Savvy Senior" book.

FAMILY MATTERS By Marc Garlett

ARE YOU CLEAR ABOUT HOW YOUR PAR-ENTS ESTATE PLAN WILL IMPACT YOU?

Do your parents have an estate plan? Is it up to date? No matter how rich or poor you or your parents are, especially in the wake of the COVID-19 pandemic, you need to be asking these and several other questions. When your parents become incapacitated or die, their affairs will become your responsibility, and it will be impossible to ask them to clarify anything. So, if you do not know whether they have estate planning in place to help you best support them, read on. The Best-Case Scenario

In a best-case scenario, your parents have an updated estate plan, and they've walked you through it. They have provided an inventory of their assets that's easy for you to find listing out everything they own and how it's titled. Ideally, the plan also includes directions on how to handle their non-monetary assets, and a video, audio recording or written stories that pass on their values, insights and experience. On top of all that, it's best if they've introduced you to the lawyer who set it all up, so you know who to turn to when the time comes.

Less-Than-Ideal Scenarios

If that's not the case, you could have some holes to fill. If they've not done any planning at all, now is the time to encourage them to get it done and support them in any way you can. If they already have a completed plan, it's likely that it has been sitting on their shelf or in a drawer for years, not updated, with no inventory of their assets and no way to capture and pass on their intangible assets. Even worse, their lawyer could have been using outdated systems that are no longer recognized, which can lead to trouble down the road.

It's also possible that if they've never updated their estate plan, it no longer tracks with their current assets, and may even require complex actions that are no longer necessary upon their death. Worst of all, you may have no idea what your parents own or how to find their assets, and at their incapacity or death you'll be left with a mess, even though your parents had good intentions and thought their planning was handled.

The Worst-Case Scenario

In a worst-case scenario (which we see more frequently than we'd like), your parents may have worked with someone who exerted undue influence over their decisions. This person may have led them to write something into their plan that they either didn't really want to or wouldn't otherwise have chosen if they understood all their options.

Either way, it's critical for you to know who your parents have worked with to create their estate plan, and how and why they made the choices they did. If you aren't in the know, now is the time to find out.

If your parents are already discussing these matters but have not yet included you, you can ask them to schedule a family meeting with their existing attorney. On your parents' request, that attorney should look forward to walking you through your parents' planning, the choices they made, and how you will be impacted in the event of their incapacity or death.

You want to develop a relationship with their estate planning attorney now. This advisor can be one of the most important supporters of you and your parents during your time of need. It's a relationship you will want to establish before you need it, so you won't be scrambling during a time of crisis.

A Weekly Religion Column by Rev. James Snyder

TIME ALONE IS TIME INVESTED

During the past week, the Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage and Yours Truly have been spending quite a bit of time together. I cannot recall any time that we have spent this much time together.

The exception would be when we first got married. Even then, both of us worked during the day and were going to a Bible Institute at night. Occasionally our schedule collided, but rarely. Because we both had energy, we did not realize how much we were doing. Every day had its own blessing.

It was not long before the babies came knocking on our door, and we graciously invited them in. From then on, time alone was a thing of the past. It is amazing to me how much time a baby can take from you. But it was time well invested, I assure you. As a 21-year-old father, I thought I had lots of energy. It was not until the babies started coming that I realized my energy was long ago spent. Why does God give babies so much energy? I think He does it Life can sometimes get so busy we forget the important things. My wife and I were thinking about this, this past week. If I live until August, my wife and celebrates our 49th wedding anniversary. How quickly time flies! My only problem is, will I have enough energy to celebrate it then?

Why is it that the older you get, the faster time goes, and the less energy you have to keep up? By the time I get adjusted to Monday, it is already Friday. I always come up three days short and every week. I think when you get older, you should have a new time schedule that complements your energy,

This week the Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage and I had some time to spend together. Every-thing seemed to shut down, and we had no appointments that we had to get to.

Usually, our conversations revolve around church work and what needs to be done and how we are go-

My wife and I make a great team. She is a great planner, and I am a great listener; although, I do not always hear what I am listening to. But in the end, we work very nicely together.

Since nothing is going on, we had an excellent opportunity to spend time together talking about things not involving work. That is quite a rarity.

We were talking about things that happened years ago, things I had forgotten.

"Do you," my wife said, "remember..."

Then she tells a story about something that happened decades ago. To be honest, I did not remem-ber several of the stories she was talking about. I smiled and shook my head because she is proba-bly right, and I probably have forgotten something. If my wife remembers something, it must be true. At least, that is how I live my life. To contradict her story with my memory is a very losing proposition. When I tell a story, she is always correcting me because I always get it wrong. Her corrections never come within the scope of my recollections. But that is the fun of working together. This staying at home really does have some good benefits to it. I did not really figure it out until just the other day when we were having lunch together. Many times our schedule is so busy that we have to grab a bite here and a bite there. Now that we are at home all day, there are some benefits.

I won't say that the Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage is the best cook in town, she is, but I'm not going to say it. Saying something can get you into trouble, and trouble is the thing I try to stay away from. Some try to stay away from viruses, but I try to stay away from trouble. I was doing some reading leading up to lunchtime, not thinking about lunch at all. Then the table was set and lunch was prepared. I had forgotten what a marvelous cook she was.

Do not let this get around, but the only thing I do not like about her cooking are the vegetables that she always cooks. I am not a fan of vegetables. There are some I can take with a grain of salt and some with a teaspoon of salt, but for the most part, I do not like vegetables.

Then there it was on my plate several homemade meatballs surrounded by a pile of homemade Mac & Cheese. The meatballs were exactly the way I like them, and what can I say about the Mac & Cheese? Everything smelled so delicious and looked so wonderful, I almost forgot to pray for the meal.

When I finished my third serving, I leaned back in my chair and just smiled. 'You know, my dear," I said with the biggest smile I have ever had, "we should eat at home more often. You simply outdid yourself today."

I still do not like vegetables! However, vegetables may be the price of our good relationship.

I thought about what the apostle Paul said once, "Whether therefore ye eat, or drink, or whatsoever ye do, do all to the glory of God" (1 Corinthians 10:31).

The value of any relationship is determined by the amount I am willing to invest in it.

don't need to tell you that the coronavirus has affected all of our lives-except for the people on the beaches in Florida who seem to be enjoying a lovely spring day gathered together on the beach. I am sorry that I have wasted all the preceding words on them but I doubt that I am the only one who feels hostility toward such folk and kind of hope that they come down with something. Rarely do'I wish illness on anyone and, in fact, now I feel a kind of regret for bringing it up in the first

Now, a few words later, I honestly feel different about those happy beachgoers knowingly risking their lives in pursuit of pleasure. Are they any different from racecar (a surprising palindrome I just noticed) drivers, motorcyclists, high wire aerialists, skiers, and a million other categories of people that do things that I would never dream of doing. Well, perhaps I do dream of doing some of these things, but I was raised not to take unnecessary risks. My mother's constant message to me was don't rip your pants, don't touch anything in the refrigerator, don't let them hurt you, and don't hurt them. I was instructed I guess not to make judgments about other people's lives. Wait a minute! Those narcissistic, sun drenched Floridians jammed up against one another are potential germ carriers that could and probably will infect other innocent people. Now I don't like them

Consciously, I kind of know what I am attempting to illustrate in my first two paragraphs. By constructing an article it allows me to sometimes reevaluate and analyze my own thoughts and obtain greater clarity about my stance in the world. Being able to write in private allows me to make modifications and alterations and not be immediately faced with criticism or a bored look which is an experience that frequently confronts me. When I am ready I can send my articles out for publication and await the response of others. Unfortunately, or perhaps fortunately, I very seldom receive any response from actual readers of the paper but I do receive responses from the handful of friends to whom I email the articles. Why do I need to publish the articles if I only receive responses from my friends? This is an important question because earlier this week I received notice from the Editor of the paper that, as a consequence of the coronavirus, there may not be sufficient revenue to continue the publication of the paper. As you actual readers know approximately one-third of the paper is devoted to the publication of Legal Filings. Because of the virus no new Legal Filings are being permitted thus no publication of Notice of such filings to generate the revenue that greatly assists meeting the cost of publication. End result, maybe no more Paper. Admittedly my greatest hope is

CONVERSATIONS

This is a tough at that the Paper continues so that my articles day for all of us. I can continue. For me the creation of my articles, the submission for publication, the sending of the articles to my friends and the receipt of their responses complete a unique conversation that I do not believe can be replaced. I share my thoughts and opinions and questions and put them out into the world. Contrary to many writers I seldom am trying to convince anyone of anything other than continually recommend that people vote. Actually the recent primary results were so disappointing to me that I momentarily considered a non-voting Only momentarily, I still alternative. recommend that everyone take advantage of their main guaranteed right and get out there and vote. Okay, other than that what you do with your life is your business but I would suggest that you not hurt anyone.

Before closing I should explain why my other attempts at conversation are so frequently dissatisfying. Telephonic conversations invariably involve parties, including me, who are multi-tasking as they talk and not able to think very deeply about what is being said. Frequently one or the other party has the need to rush off or is distracted by something else or is needed elsewhere. My cellphone is such that transmission is frequently interrupted as I drive or go up hills or reach dead spots.

Face to face conversations for me at this age are frequently difficult. They begin generally with a question like "how are you" which invariably leads to a description of medical problems, recent deaths or operations of friends, and a recognition of how each of us is aging. Certainly, in the last month or so, an errant sneeze or cough begets worries about contagion and a desire to be somewhere else. I do not believe I am the only one who experiences these distractions which prevent the conversation from being anything but superficial. Being who I am, I try to talk about what I feel to be profound subjects and am confronted by the expression of boredom that immediately accompanies my attempt. I frequently discuss such subjects in my articles and can imagine that the other party is as interested as I am and will give the subject the thought

So the question remains. Why do I need the belief that the newspaper will publish my articles and that these articles will be read and considered by an interested public at large? Well this is a complex subject and in order to clarify my own thoughts and feelings I think it necessary that I construct an article about it and submit it for publication.

AMID PANDEMIC, CYBER SCAMS A GROWING THREAT

Before the start of 2020, I warned about the rapid increase in cyber attacks. The more we live our lives online, the more vulnerable we all are to email phishing attacks (fake emails), ransomware attacks (when bad guys gain illegal access to our computers and lock up our devices until we pay them a fee), scammers who pose as government representatives and many other schemes.

Last July, I warned about another worrisome cyber threat: attacks on the elderly. People 80 or older are especially at risk and reported a median loss of $2,700 per scam " and there are many regrettable stories about older people who have been taken for their life savings.

But in the midst of our current crisis " as millions are working from home " scammers are busier than ever.

First of all, the virtual private networks companies use for remote workers are not set up to handle the massive number of people now working from home. The systems run so slowly, employees are avoiding them "opening up security gaps for the scammers to exploit.

Second of all, anyone with ill intent can become a scammer now. Even 10 years ago, one had to be highly skilled to run cyber scams, but today, any fool can purchase and operate an off-the-shelf digital scam.

Digital Shadows, a cyber threat intelligence firm, identified a "for-sale" email scam that mimics an actual Johns Hopkins Center for Systems Science and Engineering distribution map of the coronavirus's outbreak. Click the link in the email and you will download malicious software.

The asking price for the sophisticated scam? A lousy 200 bucks.

Fear is the scammer s most potent weapon. Scammers are peddling fake coronavirus test kits and cures. Some pretend to be from government agencies offering information on the number of people afflicted with COVID-19 in your city. Others set up fake charitable organizations.

Their goal? To send emails with malicious attachments or links to fraudulent websites to trick victims into revealing sensitive information or donating to fraudulent charities or causes, says the Cybersecurity and Infrastructure Security Agency (CISA), which is part of the Department of Homeland Security.

It makes my blood boil to know that heartless cybercrooks are adding to the woes many are experiencing. We all need to understand that we must increase our ability to detect and thwart their scams to protect ourselves and our families in particular, our elderly family members and neighbors.

There are steps we can take right now to get started.

CISA s Stop.Think.Connect program offers basic cyber tips that we can begin using today; tip sheets on detecting threats and protecting our computers, smartphones and other devices; and tips for protecting older Americans.

And for helpful videos, look to StaySafeOnline.org s YouTube offerings.

It s regrettable that those of us who are staying at home to limit the spread of the coronavirus are at increasing risk as we conduct our daily business on our computers.

Let s make it harder for those dirty rotten online crooks to exploit us.

FORGET SOCIAL DISTANCING, WHAT'S HAPPENING IS CRIMINAL

I got an email from the ACLU the other day. I have absolutely no idea how I got on their mailing list, since I ve written column after column criticizing them for their positions on everything from representing accused terrorists to their problem with religion in the public square. I do not carry their card, I do not want their card and if someone offered me their card I would treat it like Abbie Hoffman treated his draft card back in the day.

The email was a request to sign on to a petition that would urge President Trump and our nation s governors to empty the prisons. They wanted communities that are the most vulnerable to COVID-19 to be protected. They wanted defendants released back onto the streets, or at the very least, out of custody.

There are a few problems with this proposal, the first being the suggestion that detained prisoners make up the most vulnerable communities for infection. Uh, no. That would be the elderly, the immune-deficient or immune-compromised, and those who have no health coverage. Just because someone has committed a crime, has been arrested and is awaiting trial (or has already been convicted) does not make him or her a high risk for the coronavirus.

So to the ACLU, I would say that being in prison does not make you a member of a vulnerable community. It makes you a member of a community that has to deal with the consequences of your actions, which in many cases involves preying upon actual vulnerable people. But even more off-putting than the suggestion that detainees are vulnerable is the idea we should give them a Get Out Of Jail Free card because of this public health crisis. It is almost laughable that we would respond to one crisis by creating another one: criminals released back into the streets.

If you think about it, it s laughable. Instead of looking to sanitize and maximize the safety of the detention centers by implementing protocols that will segregate certain populations that have reduced immune systems (drug users, for example), the ACLU decides to just flood communities that are already struggling to keep law-abiding citizens healthy with people who have either committed crimes or have been arrested on suspicion of committing crimes. That is a special kind of crazy.

And to be fair to the ACLU, it is not alone in having these delusional episodes. The Police Department of Philadelphia announced last week that it wasn t going to be arresting people for the vast majority of crimes that are committed in the city. Among the crimes included are narcotics offenses, burglary, vandalism, and prostitution.

If the police encounter someone who is in the process of committing one of those crimes, they will simply confirm the identity of the offender (and you can absolutely trust that the criminal will tell them the truth, all the truth and nothing but the truth because they re all Boy Scouts,) will prepare all relevant paperwork and then release the offender. At a later date, that paperwork will be submitted to a supervisor, and if the supervisor thinks an arrest warrant is appropriate, it will be issued. Then, if D.A. Larry Krasner thinks that there are grounds for a prosecution, he will prosecute.

Realizing that perhaps initiating the Philadelphia version of The Purge might trouble some people, they added this provision:

If an officer believes that releasing the offender would pose a threat to public safety, the officer will notify a supervisor who will review the totality of the circumstances and utilize discretion in the interest of public safety, in determining the appropriate course of action. Translation: What the public doesn t know won t hurt them, let him loose.

When I read that directive a few days ago, I really did think it was someone playing a prank on the city. It was so incredibly fantastical and the stuff of apocalyptic fiction that I thought not even Krasner and his social justice warrior band of merry men and women would come up with a blanket no arrest plan.

But it is legitimate, and taken together with the ACLU s demand that we release criminals because they are part of a vulnerable community, I have come to the conclusion that no amount of social distancing will save us.

We've already gone mad.

SUSAN HENDERSON Editor/Publisher

Please help us save your weekly newspaper! The National Emergency has had an immediate adverse impact on the future of the Mountain Views News. (www.mtnviewsnews.com)

Since 2006, I have been publishing a weekly newspaper in the San Gabriel Valley specifically covering the cities of Sierra Madre, Arcadia, Monrovia, Duarte, Pasadena, and also South Pasadena, Altadena and San Marino. This effort has been financially challenging primarily due to the nature of publishing and because of a 40% tariff on newsprint that was imposed in 2018 and is still in affect.

We have survived primarily on the paper's ability to publish legal notices and the support of our advertisers many of whom are also impacted by the COVID19 virus.

However, that has all changed. We were informed this morning that the County of Los Angeles is now closing all public access to buildings that process legal notices. Such action, while absolutely necessary means that the income generated from the publication of the notices has come to an abrupt halt. Without the ability to publish legal notices, continued publication of the Mountain Views News is not possible.

With your help, however, we can sustain the only paper where your community news comes first until such time as an alternative to the current legal notice processing is found or LA County Buildings allow public access again. It is not an easy thing to reach out to the public for support, however, this is truly an emergency. The Mountain Views News needs your support now to weather this storm.

Remember, print media is the only source of information that CANNOT BE HACKED! What you read in the Mountain Views News is accurate and as publisher, I stand behind every word.

Our sources are reliable and dependable. Our Opinions share both sides of the argument. Community events and local organization activities are also an integral part of what we provide each week. And, while we do have an online presence, each week thousands of print copies are distributed to all 8 cities. In fact, had it not been for the tariffs, in 2018 our plan was to double our distribution as the demand for more print copies is great.

So can you please help us keep the Mountain Views News in circulation? Below are 4 ways that you can help sustain your local paper. All support is greatly appreciated.

Thank you in advance.

F.Y.I.

We hope that you and your families are healthy. It is in times like these that demand that we practice self-care when it comes to our mental health, stress, and anxiety levels. Our habits of mind are so very important. We live in an age of "critical thinking," a centerpiece of reason which is vital to human progress and intellectual life.

However, through this almost-relentless consideration of what is 'wrong' and needs improvement, the constructive impulse this may marshal can easily fall over into complaint and despair. We do this to ourselves, perhaps, most frequently of all.

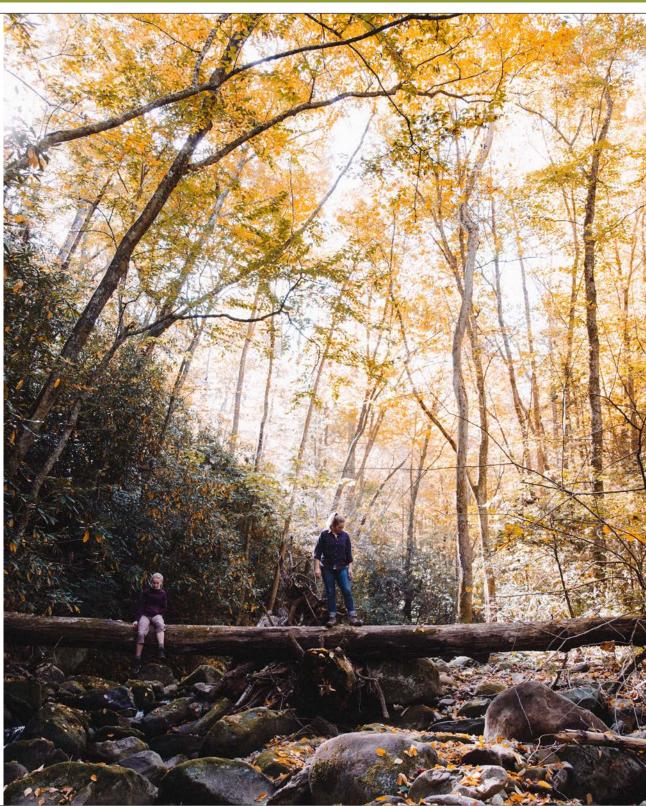

But if we can use this opportunity to see all that is wonderful in this life; like our relationships, our non-isolation, and our tremendous human resilience, we will come through this epidemic healthier and stronger than we entered it.

In the midst of the market uncertainty, please remember that we are here to guide you through your Real Estate needs.
