WATER RESTRICTIONS REMAIN

The spreading basins are full as show above, and yet despite more than 31.9" of rain since late February, Sierra Madre's conservation measures are still Photo courtesy City of Sierra Madre needed.

Water, water everywhere but......it isn't enough to lift the Mandatory Water Conservation measures taken by the city of Sierra Madre to protect our natural water resources.

Sierra Madre's groundwater historically comes primarily from wells in the East Raymond Basin and from surface water that is transported via tunnels reaching into the San Gabriel Mountains. However, in 2013, drought conditions limited the city's ability to draw groundwater, and Sierra Madre was forced to switch to imported water to serve its residents. Currently, the City's water supply consists of a mix of both imported and local groundwater.

In 2019 the San Gabriel Valley Municipal Water District and the City of Sierra Madre worked together to identify a long-term solution to the challenges facing the City and the District. That led to a water wheeling agreement between Sierra Madre and Arcadia that also called for construction of a joint well to be located within the City of Arcadia. The water would then be transmitted through Arcadia's existing pipelines to Sierra Madre's water distribution system. It also lead to the extension of the city's Mandatory Water Conservation Measures that remains in place today.

According to City Manager Jose Reynoso Sierra Madre has still not reached sufficient levels of groundwater to meet residents' demands and allow for reserves. As of this writing, the city is well below acceptable water levels to raise its ground water production to meet demands.

Despite the rain, the following uses of water are prohibited for all Sierra Madre Water Department customers, whether or not a conservation phase has been declared:

A. There shall be no washing of sidewalks, walkways, patios, driveways, or parking areas by a water hose;

B. No water shall be used to clean, fill or maintain levels in decorative fountains unless such water is part of a recycling system;

C. No restaurant, café, deli, or other public place where food is sold, served or offered for sale, shall serve drinking water to any customer unless expressly requested by the customer;

D. All customers of the water department shall repair leaks in a timely manner

E. No lawn, landscaping, or other turf area shall be watered or irrigated between the hours of six a.m. and six p.m. When a conservation phase has not been declared, the city will maintain two outdoor irrigation schedules. During Pacific Daylight Time (PDT) following the first Sunday of March through the first Sunday in November no lawn, landscaping, or other turf area shall be watered or irrigated between the hours of six a.m. and six p.m. During Pacific Standard Time following the first Sunday of November through the first Sunday in March no lawn, landscaping, or other turf area shall be watered or irrigated between the hours of eight a.m. and four

F. No lawn, landscape or turf area shall be watered in a wasteful manner. Nor shall any water be wasted if the existing conditions may be corrected or reasonably modified;

G. The use of a hose to wash an automobile, except where the hose is fitted with a shut-off nozzle or device attached to it that causes it to cease dispensing water immediately when not in use;

H. Watering lawns in a manner that causes runoff, or within forty-eight hours after measurable precipitation; and

I. Irrigating ornamental turf on public street medians.

Additional information is available on the City's website, or by calling the City of Sierra Madre at (626) 355-7135. Please look for water conservation information in your future water bills, in the Mountain Views News, on the City's website, and through the City Newsletter, The Village View. MVNews

Albert Reyes' 1931 DIVCO Helms Bakery Truck was a standout during this year's Sierra Madre Wistaria Festival Classic Car Show –with many people stopping to take pictures, tell stories, or ask questions.

"DIVCO stands for Detroit Industrial Vehicles Company, from 1931 to the 1960s they [Helms] used these trucks on their fleet," Reyes said. "They introduced white bread at the Olympics, Mr. Helms was friends with an Olympian."

Reyes, who lives in Duarte, said mechanically he has done a lot to the truck including swapping out the smaller motor for a V8. The front and back suspension have also been replaced, "a Mustang II front-end, they call it, with disk brakes and power steering." he said. "The rear-end is out of a later model." car."

As for the body, he said said it is completely original. "This is tuck number 8, of the Helms Bakery Trucks, Reyes said."

REGINA ALDEN ANDREWS BURHENN

Regina Alden Andrews Burhenn born on December 15, 1931 in Pasadena California died peacefully in her sleep on March 7, 2023 in Arroyo Grande, California.

She was a third generation Californian who grew up in Sierra Madre. Her grandfather arrived from Connecticut in 1881, established a lemon packing house and one of the first general stores. Her parents were among the organizers and served on the Boards of the Friends of the Sierra Made Library and the Sierra Madre Historical Society.

Regina attended Sierra Madre elementary school, Wilson Junior High School, and Pasadena City College, lower division-- from which she received her high school diploma. In 1950, she entered the University of California, Berkeley where she was a member of Pi Beta Phi and the swim team. Regina received her Bachelor of Arts degree in Zoology from Cal in 1954. After graduation she taught elementary school for several years in Little Rock, California—where she was never far from the sounds of thousands of turkeys being raised on local ranches. When she married, she moved to Arcadia and raised a family. Regina was active in the Hugo Reid PTA and eventually became an Honorary Lifetime Member of the Arcadia Schools PTA. As her children grew older, she returned to school and received her Juris Doctorate in 1976. She practiced law as a member of several Los Angeles area law firms for more than 30 years specializing in medical malpractice defense. She served on local State Bar committees and was a referee for the State Bar Court.

In retirement Regina was a devoted volunteer at the Huntington Library and Botanical Gardens, where she loved working in the greenhouse with the other volunteers. She was also active member of Women affiliate group.

WALKING SIERRA MADRE - The Social Side

"Spring is the time of plans and projects." Leo Tolstoy

"Blossom by blossom the Spring begins." Algernon Ćharles Swinburne

"If we had no winter, the Spring would not be so pleasant…if we did not sometimes taste of adversity, prosperity would not be so welcome." Anne Bradstreet

"In the Spring, I have counted 136 different kinds of weather inside of 24 hours." Mark Twain

The first day of Spring arrived a few days ago, but she didn't bring much springiness with her. Rain, clouds, gloom. Enough already! The picture today is the absolute essence of Spring...Dutch Iris blooming in the sun and more to come. Actually, though, walking around, I'm seeing little hints of Spring. Fresh green on trees, buds on all sorts of plants, my lemon and orange trees are covered with blossoms which smell delicious. I think Spring will show up in a few days and be spectacular. Sunshine will make everything burst into bloom and we will all be surrounded by beauty. At least that's my hope. Probably yours, too.

"When spring came, even the false spring, there were no problems except where to be happiest." Ernest Hemingway

St. Patrick's Day was also just a few days ago. To celebrate, my sister made corned beef and cabbage, which was our Dad's favorite dish. We celebrated by going to the movies to see Shazam! Fury of the Gods which is a 2023 American Superhero film based on the DC Comics character Shazam. We enjoyed it immensely. It was loud, funny and an absolute triumph of graphic artists. Great monsters, hundreds of cars flung about, buildings crushed and flattened. Helen Mirren and Lucy Liu were the bad sisters and Zachary Levi was Shazam. Spoiler alert: It all comes out all right in the end. How could it not, we're talking superheroes here!

I don't know if you saw this Dear Abby column on St. Patrick's Day, but it was so filled with hope and joy I wanted to pass it along to you.

"May there always be work for your hands to do.

May your purse always hold a coin or two.

May the sun always shine on your windowpane.

May a rainbow be certain to follow each rain. May the hand of a friend always be near you.

May God fill your heart with gladness to cheer you."

In spite of the weather, which was less than glorious last Sunday, the Wistaria Festival was a success. The vine has been more blossom-filled, but all the rain and gloom and lack of sunshine probably had a hand in that. However, weather didn't stop a whole lot of folks from coming to take a look. Interestingly, instead of taking the shuttles, many people just trudged up Baldwin to visit the vine. Friends Tom and Mary Ann O'Hara, and several other great people, volunteers from the ham radio groups of the Sierra Madre Emergency Communications Team, Foothill Flyers Radio Club and the Sierra Madre Community Emergency Response Team directed traffic, helped keep lines of people moving and, in general, made the flow up by the vine move more smoothly. These guys are also involved in the Mt. Wilson Trail Race and Alegria Halloween activities. Thanks so much for all you do. We appreciate you guys!

More sun and less drizzle would have been nice, but, all in all, it was a memorable day. We are so proud of our extraordinary wistaria.

The Lenten Season has flown by so quickly. Next Sunday, April 2nd, is Palm Sunday and Easter is April 9th. Thinking about Lent made me want to review the suggestions we passed along at the beginning:

This Lenten season maybe we could:

Give up complaining... focus on Gratitude Give up pessimism... become an Optimist Give up worry... trust Divine Providence Give up bitterness... turn to Forgiveness Give up hatred... return Good for evil

Give up negativism... be Positive Give up anger... be more Patient Give up pettiness... again, be more Patient

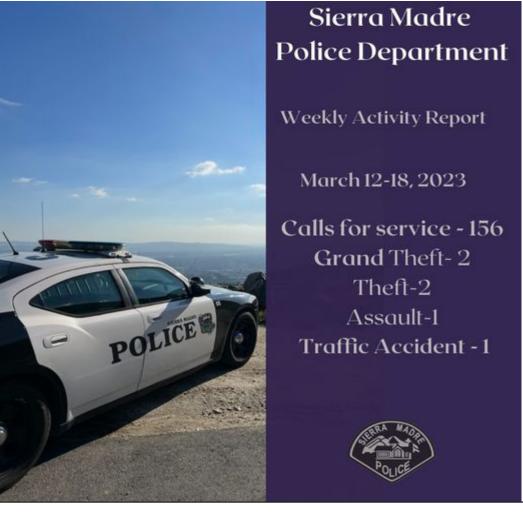

Give up gloom... enjoy the Beauty all around Give up jealousy... pray for Trust Give up gossiping... think before you Give up giving up... Hang in There!

I've worked on being grateful and less critical.

In a world where you can be anything you want to be...Be KIND!

One last thought from Ruth Bader Ginsburg: "Whatever you choose to do, leave tracks...Leave the world a little better for your having lived."

My book page: Amazon.com: Deanne Davis
Look there for "The Crown," a paperback book that's practically free!
This is a beautiful story of what might have happened to that infamous crown of thorns. With Easter on its way, this little book is the perfect read for yourself or a friend.

Protect Sierra Madre VOTE NO on Measure M

LET'S SEE WHAT WE AGREE ON

It looks like for the next few weeks we'll have side-by-side arguments on this page with opposing views on Measure M, whether to allow those 42 McMansions in Bailey Canyon, with a vote on May 9. But for a change, I'd like to note points we agree on – in particular, those expressed by former Mayor Rachelle Arizmendi in her article last week.

She decries those who "don't seem to care about the financial burden to the City" by incurring the $400K cost of this special election. I and others urging a "No" vote agree, which is why we're dismayed our City Council chose to do so. I agree we're "at a point where we only have 2 options", one being a "Yes" to allow the 42 McMansions, the other a "No" on Measure M to stop that development. I agree that now "there's no third option". None of us know what may be brought up for consideration in the future and how it might be dealt with. But at this point there's only one proposal on the table – for the 42 McMansions – and only two options, whether to allow that development or not.

Ms. Arizmendi notes the "property is privately owned", an important point we can all agree on. But I disagree with her suggestion that it's up to voters to determine "How many homes will be on the Meadows with what benefit to the community". That's up to the property own-er. It's up to the voters, however, to insist that any development conforms to our general plan and restrictions in place to protect and preserve our community; restrictions that apply to the rest of us (who actually live here).

Yes, "opponents (of the McMansions) have refused to budge and will not withdraw from the fight." She's right - Sierra Madre means too much to us that we'd acquiesce to any developer's demand they be granted special privileges to inflict this on our town.

I agree "The choice is simple" – whether or not to allow those 42 McMansions crammed into 17 acres in Bailey Canyon. But it goes beyond that. With the potential availability of scarce open space from East Grand View to the remaining Monastery property to portions of the Alverno site, it's a choice whether to make clear we'll stand firm to protect our town, or that the floodgates are open to whatever might bring the highest return for a developer. ("Game Over") "This is OUR Village of the Foothills." And with our "No" vote on Measure M, we'll be making clear nobody will "take that away from us." Rachelle – I couldn't agree with you more.

THE LIE OF "PROTECTING" SIERRA MADRE

Protect/Preserve Sierra Madre - Stop Housing Project (PPSM) has been working feverishly to undermine the city's council's approval of the Meadows project. Approval took place after two years of negotiations and almost 20 public meetings where we won $7 million in concessions from the developer, New Urban West.

What is PPSM's main objective? In recent campaign material they have a picture of people carrying signs that say, "Stop the Housing," "Stop the Development," and "Save the Meadow." Is that really their goal?

With measure HR they tried to rezone the Passionists' property to the Hillside Residential zone. Contrary to "saving the meadow," HR would have allowed at least sixty-four 6,500 sq ft Arcadiastyle mansions across the entire property with no public open space. HR was a lost cause from day one.

Now PPSM is forcing another vote on us with Measure M, at a cost of $400,000, where they want to overturn the Meadows project.

Will Measure M "save the meadow?" Nope. The developer has submitted two projects to the city. If Measure M loses, this alternate project will replace the 3-acre park with eight additional houses, including very-low-income housing, built under the State's relaxed fast-tracking SB 330 standards. This SB 330 project was only made possible by PPSM's referendum. PPSM used Huntington Beach as an example of how cities can snub these state housing laws. Well, their case was just tossed out of court before it even started.

It is fair to ask what PPSM is trying to accomplish. Either they knew what they were doing with HR and wanted Arcadia-style mansions, and now since they lost that battle, they purposefully filed a referendum that would allow replacing the park with eight additional houses, or they are just incompetent and don't know what they are doing. In either case, it is not good.

Why are these people working so hard to allow larger and more homes, decreasing public open space, while at the same time collecting money and signatures by telling people they will "save the meadow"? That is the sort of lie we expect from a greedy developer, not a supposed "protector" of Sierra Madre. Their true agenda may remain unknown, but it is evident that the majority of people are not being deceived by it.

We are intent on limiting the number of homes and holding the developer accountable to providing the $7 million in promised concessions, including the 3-acre park and $250,000 for public safety infrastructure.

VOTE YES ON M! Supported by our city's leaders, Fire and Police Associations, and Sierra Madre Little League – Sierra Madre for Parks and Public Safety

YES Just launched... https://www.voteyesonm.com/

CRAZY?

Someone famously said "Taking crazy things seriously is a serious waste of time". I disagree. Sierra Madre, you need to take this crazy election thing seriously.

If Measure M is defeated, the Meadows project will be stopped But guess what? It will then be replaced by a "by right" development whereby MORE homes will be built (50 vs. 42), Sierra Madre will NOT get a three acre park, will NOT get $250,000 for public safety, will NOT get a $900,000 water offset, will NOT get improvements to Carter ave, and 40 acres of hillside land will NOT be put into a conservancy.

If that's not bad enough, Sierra Madre will have very little to say regarding the design of the fifty houses in the replacement project, because of state law constraints on local municipal oversight.

John Capoccia

Opposing Measure M is crazy, and there's no other way to describe it.

Worse yet, opponents have forced the city council to budget $400,000 to pay for the May 9th special election. The council, acting in Sierra Madre's best interest, did this to keep the alternative project from moving ahead, thereby preserving the above-mentioned benefits, and preventing the construction of the additional houses on the three acres that would otherwise be city parkland. (Thank you, City Council, for acting in the best interest of those that have elected you!).

Again, opposing Measure M is crazy, and is also very stupid. Opponents are fantasizing that state law can be ignored. The substitute project has already been submitted, it conforms to our general plan and state law, and the only thing that can stop it is to re-affirm the Meadows project by Voting YES on Measure M.

There have been at least a dozen public meetings over the past two years on the Meadows project. The project has been fully and carefully vetted. The process culminated with the city council's approval, citizen support evidenced by the landslide defeat of Measure HR, and the election and re-election of council members that enthusiastically supported the Meadows project.

Sierra Madre, take the lead from your City Council, Planning Commission, and respected community leaders and volunteers that work tirelessly to keep Sierra Madre the charming, safe "Vil lage of the Foothills" that we know and love.

The individuals opposed to Measure M have selfish and/or irrational motives, and they certainly don't have Sierra Madre's best interest in mind.

When opponents of Measure M call you or knock on your door, just ask them what they expedt to happen if they prevail. If they tell you anything other than fifty houses will be built instead of forty two, they're either crazy, or lying, or both.

Don't let CRAZY prevail. On May 9, Vote Yes on Measure M.

Former Mayor John Capoccia served on Sierra Madre's City Council from 2012 to 2020.

Outreach Response Team Receives Federal Grant

Officials announced Tuesday that The Pasadena Outreach Response Team (PORT) is receiving $900,000 through the Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration (SAMHSA), a division of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, via Directive Congressional Spending allocated Congressmember Judy Chu.

PORT is a collaboration between the Pasadena Public Health and Fire Departments, as well as Union Station Homeless Services and Huntington Health, that provides links to housing opportunities for those experiencing chronic homelessness, severe mental illness, substance use disorders, physical disabilities, health chronic complex conditions.

"PORT has been instrumental in reducing barriers to care for our unhoused population," said Mayor Victor M. Gordo.
"On behalf of the City of Pasadena, I would like to thank Congressmember Chu for her commitment to supporting underserved populations in Pasadena."

Funding will support operations, field-based and outreach, resources that connect participants to housing, medical care, and mental health and substance abuse services.

Bridge Temporary Closed

South Pasadena city announced Teusday that The Oaklawn Bridge and Waiting Station between Fair Oaks Avenue Oaklawn Avenue remains temporarily closed, and access is currently restricted.

"This closure was implemented out of an abundance of caution, after some cracking along the bridge walls was observed," they said. "At this time, our staff think it is prudent to review the structural integrity of the bridge and to see what options are available to address the observed cracking.'

Public Works has engaged one of their oncall professional service technical advisors, and a structural engineer is scheduled to perform an initial site visit. After this initial review, Public Works will discuss the observations with their vendor, and establish the level of assessment needed for the bridge.

"Once work is completed, our team will be able to provide more information on the state of the bridge and any recommended improvements costs for City Council consideration," city staff said. As a related effort, staff will begin the assessment of the historic Waiting Station to evaluate the costs to repair the damaged roof, and restore the other elements of the structure.

California Mandela Act Passed Safety Committee

Last week, Assemblymember Chris Holden's bill, The California Mandela Act on Solitary Confinement, AB 280 has passed the Committee on Public Safety and is headed to the Committee on Appropriations.

Torture is torture no matter what facility it takes place in," said Assemblymember Chris Holden. "The community support for this bill has only grown because people are still suffering. # FIRST Robotics Competition Leaves Students Energized

Supported by volunteers from JPL and the aerospace industry, the annual regional FIRST Robotics event makes an impact on young competitors and adult mentors alike.

After two days of fast-paced competition complete with team uniforms, cheerleaders, pounding music, and blaring horns, multiple teams of high schoolers came out victorious at the 23rd annual FIRST Robotics Competition Los Angeles Regional over the weekend. Next, they'll be headed to an international championship tournament their 125-pound where inventions will compete for robotics glory.
NASA's Jet Propulsion

Laboratory sponsored several of the 44 competing teams and supported the event, held at the Da Vinci Schools campus in El Segundo, by coordinating about 100 volunteers. "It's always gratifying to see these manages JPL's Public Services will also head to Houston. and Office volunteers at the competition. Energy and Community place across the country under the umbrella of FIRST (For Inspiration and Recognition of Science and Technology). The nonprofit organization pairs students with STEM professionals for hands-on engineering experience and practice with problem-solving, team building, fundraising, and promotion, among other skills. Teams in the FIRST Robotics Competition receive technical specifications and game rules in January and have just weeks to design, build, and test their wheeled robots.

This year's game, dubbed "Charged Up," is themed around the future of sustainable energy. Two alliances of three teams compete on a "playing field" that's about 26 by 54 feet. In each 2 ½-minute round, the teams' robots must retrieve rubber cones and inflatable cubes that represent electrical power from "substations" and place them into a "grid." Robots also race to roll up onto a wobbling "charge station" for extra points.

Students put in long hours preparing their robots. It all paid off in the case of Brianna Adewinmbi, a junior at the California Academy of Mathematics and Science in Carson. Her Team 687 (aka the "Nerd Herd") came out on top, and she was one of two students selected as a finalist for the nationwide FIRST Dean's List Award (inventor Dean Kamen founded FIRST) recognizing student leadership and dedication. Wearing a colorful propeller hat and fielding high-fives from fellow students, she said the team had been working after school till 10 p.m. for many days.

"It's insane. I just keep losangeles.

thinking, It was all worth it, all the time that we spent," Adewinmbi said.

Adewinmbi's team will be joined at the FIRST Championship in Houston next month by the two other California teams from the winning alliance: Team 5199 ("Robot Dolphins From Outer Space") from Dana Point and and Team 702 ("Bagel Bytes") from Culver City. Team 6833 ("Phoenix Robotics") from Arizona, which had subbed in for the Culver City team to play in the winning alliance, always gratifying to see these is on the priority waitlist to kids compete with such attend. Two award-winners, determination and passion, but Team 5089 ("Robo-Nerds") it's also wonderful to witness from Benjamin Franklin Senior the joy they bring to the adults High School in Los Angeles who come together for this and Team 4201 ("Vitruvian event," said Kim Lievense, who Bots") from Da Vinci Schools, coordinated Volunteering Brings Rewards

For about two decades, NASA's Robotics Alliance The event is one of many taking Project has supported youth robotics teams through agency centers across the country and at JPL, aiming to inspire students to pursue careers in aerospace while helping them build the skills they'll need to succeed.

"We all do it for the same reason: It's really to help get kids inspired in science, engineering, and technology," said JPL's Dave Brinza, assistant mission assurance manager for NASA's Europa Clipper mission. Brinza started mentoring Team 980 ("ThunderBots"), now at Burbank High School, in 2003. "We often say the real trophies aren't the blue banners and the things you put on a shelf, it's the kids who go on and have successful careers."

For Julie Townsend, a robotics systems engineer who is JPL's point of contact for the NASA Robotics Alliance Project, it's been a way to draw young women into a field in which they're underrepresented. For nearly 20 years, she has coached Southern California Girl Scout teams in FIRST Tech Challenge, which is like a smaller-scale version of FIRST Robotics Competition. At the Los Angeles Regional event, she volunteered as a judge.

"I have had parents coming up to me in tears, thanking me for what I had done for their daughters, who had changed the course of their lives," Townsend said. "It's so unusual to have such a safe environment to learn these technical skills and develop your own power with no judgment and no social strings attached."

TIPPING NOW THAT WE ARE FREE AND CLEAR!

Remember when Facebook was full of puppy dogs and pictures of our kids graduating school? I actually reconnected with dozens of past friends, how great is that !! Now the left and the right are pulling and if we disagree, we are threatened with an end of a friendship, be it a facebook friendship. I read a posting just this week from a General Manager of a very popular and expensive eatery, simply stated "If you can't afford a good tip, stay at home".

At first reading we all raised our fists and said YES !!! I have to disagree with this though, you see the dollars spent when you go out to eat and support your favorite restaurant have a trickledown effect.

This term originated as a joke from/by humorist Will Rogers, by going out to eat and spending $100 you are providing work for the cooks, hostess, dishwasher, purveyors, vendors and yes the owner of the restaurant. So, with all that being said, I can't support the boycott but I do agree please tip your servers. I also leave a tip for the barista and a few dollars when I pick up a to-go order.

- Here is my breakdown for tipping
   18% to 22 % For great service
- $2 to $4 for a to go order
- $1 a drink at bar (when they're open) $2 for a mixed drink 10% to 12 % for a bottle of wine as long as they come by and pour

ASSEMBLYMEMBER HOLDEN RECOGNIZES UNIVERSITY OF LA VERNE'S, DR. DEVORAH LIEBERMAN AS WOMAN OF THE YEAR FOR 41ST ASSEMBLY DISTRICT

Sacramento, CA – As part of an annual recognition of Women's History Month in the State Capitol, Assemblymember Chris Holden announces the University of La Verne President, and first woman president, Dr. Devorah Lieberman as the 41st Assembly District's Woman of the Year.

"I am thrilled to have Dr. Devorah Lieberman as Woman of the Year for the 41st Assembly District," said Assemblymember Holden. "She has contributed to the well-being of the university's students, the scholarly activity of the faculty, and the vitality of the surrounding community while also advocating for engagement, inclusivity, and respect among all."

Dr. Devorah Lieberman, the University of La Verne's 18th and first female president, brings more than three decades of higher education experience, scholarship, and leadership to the institution. Among Ms. Lieberman's accomplishments are raising $128 million in the largest comprehensive campaign in the university's history; significantly increasing funding for student scholarships; expanding the international student population; increasing the number of named colleges, endowed deans, and endowed faculty positions; and, significantly increasing the institutional endowment from $36 million to $151 million. Under Lieberman's leadership, the university launched the La Verne Experience, a curriculum where students connect deeply with each other, with faculty, with staff, and with the greater community. Through the La Verne Experience, students "major in a mission". Currently, she is leading the university's establishment of a College Health and Community Well Being to help address the region's critical need for healthcare professionals.

ALL THINGS By Jeff Brown

William Falk, Editor-in-chief "The Week'

Did you know that Silicon Valley Bank imploded because it was "woke"? Or that masks provide absolutely no protection against Covid? Or that SARS-CoV-2 was created in a Chinese lab by a sinister "bat lady" in cahoots with Dr. Anthony Fauci?

Millions of Americans believe all these statements to be proven fact, despite being unsupported by actual evidence, because that's what they've been told by Tucker Carlson and the far-right infotainment system-which knowingly lies to it's audience for profit and power. Whether it's pedaling stolen elections or mass deaths from vaccines, the recipe is the same: Start with a tiny sliver of information, separate out 99.8% of the evidence, inflate with hot air and repetition, and voila! You have The Real Story.

Since the audience wants to believe the lie, it will happily add a big dollop of confirmation bias, transforming misinformation into blind certainty. Take masking. People who equate masks with tyranny recently seized on a meta-analysis of 78 studies as proof that masks are of no value whatsoever. In reality, 76 of the studies where not about Covid masking at all; the 2 that were showed that masking did substantially reduce infections.

Other studies have provided strong evidence that good masks block viral particles. As for the lab leak theory, there is zero known evidence that SARS-CoV-2 was created in a lab or escape from one. Scientists have tracked the original Covid cases to people who worked, shopped, or lived near the Wuhan wet market- where SARS-C0V-2 was found on surfaces.

And the "woke" SVB? Its board had 11 members. 10 were white. 1 was black, 1 was gay, and 5 were woman. In the Wall Street Journal, Andy Kessler wondered if "12 white men would have avoided this mess," and suggested that "diversity" was at fault.

No financial institution run exclusively by white men has ever acted stupidly...Right?

ASSISTED LIVING OR NURSING HOME?

Nursing Homes. This is not true at all. Nursing facilities are for those with chronic health issues who require care around the clock from modified. There are many myths about Assisted Living being like around the clock from medical professionals.

HOW TO CHOOSE AN ASSISTED LIVING FACILITY

Dear Savvy Senior:

What's the best way to go about choosing an assisted living facility for my 86-year-old father? Since mom died last year, his health has declined to the point that he can't live at home anymore but isn't ready for a nursing home either. Searching Susan

Dear Susan:

If your dad needs help with things like bathing, dressing, preparing meals, managing his medications or just getting around, an assisted living facility is definitely a good option to consider.

Assisted living facilities are residential communities that offer different levels of health or personal care services for seniors who want or need help with daily living.

There are nearly 29,000 assisted living communities (also called board and care, supportive-care or residential-care facilities) in the U.S. today, some of which are part of a retirement community or nursing home. Most facilities have anywhere between 10 and 100 suites, varying in size from a single room to a full apartment. And some even offer special memory care units for residents with dementia.

To help you choose a good assisted living facility for your dad, here are some steps to follow.

Make a list: There are several sources you can turn to for referrals to top assisted living communities in your area including your dad's doctor or nearby hospital discharge planner; friends or neighbors who've had a loved one in assisted living; or you can do an online search at Caring.com.

Do some research: To research the communities on your list, put a call into your long-term care ombudsman. This is a government official who investigates long-term care facility complaints and advocates for residents and their families. This person can help you find the latest health inspection reports on specific assisted living facilities and can tell you which ones have had complaints or other problems in the past. To find your local ombudsman visit LTCombudsman.org.

Call the facilities: Once you've identified a few good assisted living facilities, call them to see if they have any vacancies, what they charge and if they provide the types of services your father needs.

Tour your top choices: During your visit, notice the cleanliness and smell of the facility. Is it homey and inviting? Does the staff seem responsive and kind to its residents? Also be sure to taste the food, and talk to the residents and their family members, if available. It's also a good idea to visit several times at different times of the day and different days of the week to get a broader perspective.

On your facility visit, get a copy of the admissions contract and the residence rules that outline the fees (and any extra charges), services and residents' rights, and explanations for when a resident might be asked to leave because their condition has worsened, and they require more care than the facility

Also, find out their staff turnover rate, COVID infection-control procedures and if and when medical professionals are on site. To help you rate your visit, Caring.com offers a checklist of questions that you can download and print at Caring.com/static/ checklist-AL-tour.pdf.

How to pay: Monthly costs for assisted living ranges anywhere from $2,500 to $6,000 or more, depending on where you live, the facility you choose, and the services provided. Since Medicare does not cover assisted living, most residents pay out-of-pocket from their own personal funds, and some have longterm care insurance policies.

If your dad has limited financial resources and can't afford this, most states now have Medicaid waiver programs that help pay for assisted living. Or, if he's a veteran, he may be able to get funds through the VA's Aid and Attendance benefit. To find out about these programs, ask the assisted living facility director, or contact his local Medicaid office (see Medicaid.gov) or the regional VA benefit office (800-827-1000).

Send your senior questions to: Savvy Senior, P.O. Box 5443, Norman, OK 73070, or visit SavvySenior. org. Jim Miller is a contributor to the NBC Today show and author of "The Savvy Senior" book.

I'M SO POOR I CAN'T PAY ATTENTION!

Occasionally I go to my computer and search for the wealthiest preachers in America. I am curious to know who came up with this idea, but I check it out occasionally to see who they are.

As often as I have checked this information, I have never found my name on that list. I so much wanted to see my name on that list. Everybody knows that the Internet never lies. So, I need to accept that I am not one of the wealthiest preachers in America. Poor me!

That may explain many things in my life that I did not quite understand before. When traveling in the Sissy Van, The Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage is always behind the steering wheel. I make it a point not to drive that Sissy Van anymore than I have to.

As we drive, my wife will say, "Did you see that car? They're from Idaho." Of course, I did not see it because I was not paying attention. When The Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage drives, she focuses on everything within her focus. Even when driving my truck, and she is in the passenger seat, she sees everything around her. Do not let this get back to her, but she sees things that I do not think exist. I will never contest her on that subject.

Unlike my wife, I don't have that much focus to see everything that is happening around me. Once when she asked me if I saw something, I replied, "No, I'm just too poor to pay attention.

I laughed, of course, but she didn't think it was funny.

Driving across town to church one Sunday morning, she said, "Did you see that sign? What did it say?" I didn't see it, so I responded, "I'm sorry, but I'm too poor to pay attention." Then I chuckled. She just threw me one of her infamous grimaces. For some reason, she believes I should pay attention to everything around me. I don't know why because I'm not interested in many of the things around me. And, I am too poor to pay attention.

While driving to an appointment the other day, I asked, "Could I borrow a dollar from you?" She looked at me quizzically and said, "Why do you need a dollar from me?" "Oh," I said softly, "I just need some money to pay attention while you're driving." She did not respond to me; of course, she never gave me that dollar. So I tried to explain to her that it is very expensive to pay attention. I don't think she believed me. Several weeks later, we went to our Sunday morning church service, and I noticed a license plate and said, "Look at that license plate. They're from Montana." There was silence on the other side of the car, and finally, she looked at me and said, "Where did you get that dollar?"

I had no idea what she was talking about, so I just said, "What dollar are you talking about?"

She snickered like I had not heard her snicker in a long time and said, "You know, the dollar so that you can pay attention." The only thing I can say is that she has enough money to pay attention to everything, even some things I don't know.

Having enough money to pay attention to everything around you must be nice. I'm sure my life would change if I could afford to pay attention to everything.

The Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage can pay attention even when fast asleep. One time we were taking a trip to St. Augustine. She leaned back in her side and took a nap. At least, I thought she was asleep.

I was coming to where I needed to turn, but I wasn't sure if this was the right place. As I slowed down, I heard The Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage say, "No, you need to turn at the next light." Looking over, I saw her eyes were closed, and it looked like she was sound asleep. She is rich enough to pay attention even when she is sound asleep. I often wonder where she has all this money, probably in the Central Bank of Mind Your Own Business.

Watching television, suddenly, The Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage said, "Did you see that? I wonder who that is?" I begin to say, "No...." My wife jumped in and said, "I know, dear, you're too poor to have paid attention."

Boy, has she got me figured out? I'm going to have to open up some kind of a savings account, maybe a little piggy bank, and try to save up enough money to finance my poor attention. So far, The Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage has refused to loan me money for this cause.

During my Bible reading recently, I read 1 Timothy 6:9-10, "But they that will be rich fall into temptation and a snare, and into many foolish and hurtful lusts, which drown men in destruction and perdition. For the love of money is the root of all evil: which while some coveted after, they have erred from the faith, and pierced themselves through with many sorrows."

Being rich does have its challenge, which I will never face. The disturbing aspect of this passage is where Paul says, "the love of money is the root of all evil." That is my temptation.

AMILY MATTERS

PROBATE: WHAT IT IS AND HOW IT WORKS

proper estate plan, when you die many of your assets must first pass through the court pro-cess known as probate before those assets can be distributed to your heirs. Like most court proceedings, probate is time-consuming, costly, and open to the public, and because of this, avoiding probateand keeping your family out of court—is a central goal of most estate planning.

How Probate Works

How probate begins depends on whether you have a valid will in place at the time of death. A will allows you to appoint an executor for your estate, waive bond for that person, and name your beneficiaries and what they will receive. Without a will, or the will is deemed invalid, the Court determines those details. Otherwise, the probate process itself plays out similarly, regardless of a will or not.

1. Authenticating the Validity of Your Will: Following your death, your executor is responsible for filing your will and death certificate with the court, and this initiates the probate process. From there, the court must authenticate your will to ensure it was properly created and executed in accordance with state law, and this may involve a court hearing.

Notice of the hearing must be given to all the ben-eficiaries named in your will, along with all potential heirs who would stand to inherit under state law in the absence of a will. This hearing gives these individuals the opportunity to contest the validity of your will on the grounds that it was improperly executed (signed and witnessed) as required by state law, or that you were unduly influenced or coerced into signing the will. If such a contest is successful, the court declares your will invalid, which effectively means you died without a will.

2. Appointing the Executor or Administrator: If your will is validated, the court must formally appoint the person you named in your will as your executor before they can legally act on your behalf. If you died without a will, the court would appoint someone-typically your closest living relative-to serve in this role, known as your personal representative or administrator.

In some cases, the court might require your executor to post a bond before they can serve. The bond functions as an insurance policy to reimburse the estate in the event the executor makes a serious error during probate that financially damages the estate.

3. Locating & Valuing Your Assets: Once probate begins, the executor must identify, locate, and take possession of all your assets, so the value of your estate can be protected and maintained. Any assets the executor is unable to locate will end up in our State Controller's Office (SCO). In California, more than $8 billion (yes, that's billion with a 'b') of assets are unclaimed property held by the SCO. Fortunately, this is easy to prevent when you create - or work with an attorney who will help you create – a comprehen-

Unless you've created a sive asset inventory, and make sure this inventory stays updated throughout your lifetime.

> In the case of real estate, the executor is required to ensure that your mortgage, homeowners insurance, and property taxes are paid while probate is ongoing. These and all other debts can be paid from your estate. Once all your assets have been located, the executor must determine their value, which is typically done using financial statements and/or appraisals. From there, the combined value of all your assets is used to estimate the total value of your estate.

> 4. Notifying & Paying Your Creditors: To ensure all your outstanding debts are paid before your assets are distributed, the executor must notify all your creditors of your death. In California, any unknown creditors can be notified by publishing a death notice with your local newspaper.

> Creditors typically have four months after being notified to make claims against your estate. The executor can challenge any creditor claims he or she considers invalid, and in turn, the creditor can petition the court to rule on whether the claim must be paid. From there, valid creditor claims are then paid. The executor will use your estate funds to pay all your final bills, including any outstanding medical and funeral expenses.

> 5. Filing & Paying Your Taxes: In addition to paying all your outstanding private debts, the executor is also responsible for filing and paying any outstanding taxes you owe at the time of death. This includes personal income and capital-gains taxes, as well as any state and federal estate taxes due.

> That said, the federal estate tax exemption is currently set at $11.7 million for individuals and $23.4 million for married couples, so most families won't have to worry about estate taxes (and for those who do exceed that threshold, there are several strategies you can use to reduce the size of your estate to avoid these taxes). Any taxes due are paid from estate funds. In some cases, this may require liquidating assets to raise the needed cash.

> 6. Distribution Of Your Remaining Assets: Once the court confirms all of your debts and taxes have been paid—which typically requires the executor to file an accounting of all transactions he or she engaged in during the probate process—the executor can petition the court for authorization to distribute the remaining assets in your estate to the beneficiaries named in your will, or according to state intestate succession laws, if you didn't have a will.

> Once all assets have been distributed, the executor must file a petition with the court to close probate. If all creditors and taxes have been paid, your assets have been distributed, and there are no other outstanding issues to be addressed, the court will issue an order formally closing the estate and terminating executor's appointment.

EXPECTATIONS GREAT OR OTHERWISE

the hill I recall one of the first things I did was to hire some people, the neighbor who lived across the street and his friend, to build a deck in the back of my one story house.

After the deck was built I would sit alone at night and look at the stars in the night sky and imagine flying off into space. I was living well beyond my expectations. I had almost never lived in a house before, especially a house owned by me, and here I was living alone pretty free to dream of flying into the future. Somehow after the breakup of my marriage and living separately from my two children in what I had always thought was an uncivilized area, east of La Brea, I had arrived ready to live a new life.

What were my expectations? I didn't have too much time to think about it because in one year my son, six at the time, was living with me. In a couple of years my daughter, two years younger, was also living with me. I was now a "single parent" a term I frequently used to describe myself. Actually though, it was all a kind of personal joke as I no more parented my kids than they "parented" me. How did we do it? I remember our weekends. All three of us would drive down to the Santa Anita Mall and go to Don Ricardo's for breakfast. Can you believe breakfast at Don Ricardo's, at least for the kids, was only 99 cents?

Without any plans and very little money we would often drive downtown and ride the elevator up and down the high building with the revolving glass elevator. One Saturday I remember yielding to my daughter's wishes and taking her to see the musical Annie. I recall the presentation was a matinee which didn't begin until the afternoon; but my daughter demanded that we go to the theatre in Hollywood (I think it was the Shubert) first thing after breakfast. I left my son with my parents and off my daughter and I went to the theatre and waited three or four hours for the show to begin. What we did for the intervening hours I really don't recall. We probably played memory card games in a similar way that I used to play those kind of games with my grandmother.

I did not expect in my eighties to be living in a world increasingly devoid of long term family relationships. I hate that the houses around me, which once contained couples and their children, now are occupied by singe persons as the relationships have dissolved. I don't even talk to the neighbors as much anymore as the older neighbors have gone and people spend more time texting than willingly have personal contact. I am not an able or willing texter and this continuing rain makes meeting for lunch difficult. What did I expect? I loved the addition of air conditioning in my new reconstructed house which made living through heat waves pleasurable rather than insufferable. Well, so much for expectations; we always have them and they are always unexpected. I hope that the rain stops so that I can see my children and grandchild tomorrow. I plan to ask my daughter if she remembers what we did forty years ago while waiting for Annie to begin. I certainly expect her to remember; she remembers everything; but if she doesn't---well that that's the thing about expectations. You never know what to expect.

TOM PURCELL LET'S GET OUR KIDS BEHIND THE WHEEL

The sun is shining today and Spring is upon us.

Such days remind me still of the excitement I knew when I turned 16 in April and was finally able to get my driver's license — a wondrous rite of passage fewer and fewer teens choose to experience today.

According to a 2019 article in The Wall Street Journal, in the 1980s half of all 16-year-olds were driving. But by 2020 it was just 25 percent.

Driving tests began getting stricter and more challenging in many states in the mid-1990s — though passing my test in a 1976 "Starship-Enterprise sized" station wagon was no easy feat.

The cost of cars has risen and today's teens are able to get around easily enough using ride-sharing services.

But the biggest reason is simply that many teens have zero desire to drive on their own — because the hunger to get out of the house and socialize is no longer a big incentive.

A study by Common Sense Media finds that teens are spending an average of 8 hours a day on social media apps.

They may think their online habits are enabling them to socialize with "friends," but several studies, including a 2021 Journal of Adolescence study, see a clear correlation between the explosion in social media in 2012 and increasing isolation, depression and anxiety in teens.

A 2020 Netflix documentary, "The Social Dilemma," explains in detail how the nature of social media encourages teen isolation and depression.

When you're online, powerful artificial intelligence tools — algorithms monitor everything you do. Plus, the tools know your full name, marital status, gender, age, birthday, political views and several of your interests.

Every time you "like" an item, click on a news story or interact with other users, you help these AI tools determine precise personal details, such as who you are dating and whether you are lonely or sad.

The more these tools know about your private life, the more money advertisers will pay to custom-tailor precise ads that will appeal to you or shape your opinion on everything from what kind of socks are cool to the political candidate they want you to vote for.

The more they know about you, the more often items will appear in your newsfeed that are designed to give you dopamine spikes and keep you online as long as possible — so their advertisers have never-ending access to sell to

As you spend time online with social media apps, you are constantly being psychologically manipulated — constantly comparing your looks to famous people, constantly seeking praise and "likes" from strangers or suffering deeply if someone online in any way mocks or criticizes one of your posts.

It's pretty clear that young people, whose brains are still developing, are being profoundly impacted by social media in many important and trivial ways we don't fully understand yet.

Which brings us back to driving. Instead of becoming excited at age 16 that they can learn to drive a car and come and go freely, too many kids are content to sit alone in their rooms endlessly texting each other or consuming TikTok.

It's too bad. Kids today don't know how much fun, freedom and real social interaction they're missing without cars.

Cruising the park in a 1972 VW Beetle with my friends is one of the best memories I have of my teen years.

I know the social media challenge is complex, but here's a good start: Hey, kids, the weather is breaking. Get your license, turn off our phones and go for a cruise in the park!

RICH JOHNSON NOW THAT'S RICH

AHH, THE SIMPSONS (Disclaimer) "I almost never...okay I mostly never let the lack of knowledge or accuracy keep me from commenting on information I think you might enjoy. I it to be factual...or really funny."

I have not watched the Simpsons regularly for a number of years. In fact, I cannot remember the last time I watched an episode. That said, I was a Simpson addict for the first third of its 34 year run (Do the math at your own peril).

will never purport something to be true unless I know

The Simpsons, performing short sketches, debuted on The Tracey Ullman Show, April 19, 1987 where it stayed for three seasons. Considered by most to be the funniest part of The Tracey Ullman Show, it didn't take long for Fox Network and creator Matt Groening to start on the road to its own show.

The first episode, "Simpsons Roasting on an Open Fire", debuted December 17, 1989. How did it do that first year? Fox Network's first TV series to rank among a season's top 30 highest-rated shows. Recently Fox Network renewed The Simpsons through 2025.

Celebrity Appearances

The Simpsons is quite known for having guest celebrities appear in episodes. They earned a Guinness Book World Record for most guest stars in a TV Series in 2010. As of series year 21 the total celebs was at least 555. Add another 953 as of March 19, 2023 and we have 1604 total guest spots.

Let's review a few celebrity names shall we? Jackie Mason, Kelsey Grammar and Anne Hathaway each won the Primetime Emmy Award for Outstanding Voice-Over Performance for their guest roles on the show. Patrick Stewart said about his appearances on "The Simpsons", and "Sesame Street" "were perhaps the two most distinguishable bits of work that I've done in the US." Kelsey Grammar played Sideshow Bob. Sideshow Bob's brother was played by David Hyde Pierce, who played Kelsey's brother on Frasier.

Michelle Pfeiffer plays Mindy. Homer got a crush on Mindy because she, like he, loved donuts and beer...together.

Johnny Cash played a mysterious spirit guide coyote. Homer meets the "Spirit Guide" while hallucinating over Guatemalan insanity peppers...and of course, beer.

Glenn Close plays Homer's mother, Mona, who reunites with a shocked Homer who thought her dead.

Elton John played himself.

Meryl Streep plays Bart's mean girlfriend, Jessica Lovejoy.

Leonard Nimoy played himself.

On the other hand, William Shatner was the first person to reject the show. The producers have asked nearly all retired US Presidents to appear. None so far (Trump, give them a call. Really it couldn't hurt.)

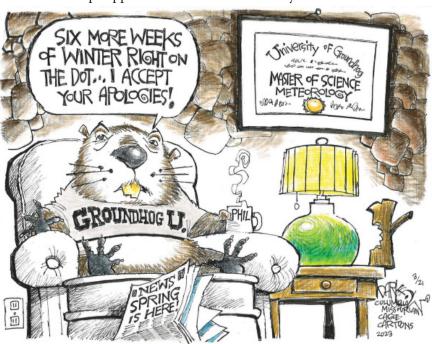

Other turn downs? Bruce Springsteen, Bob Dylan, Michael Caine, Tom Cruise, Clint Eastwood, Anthony Hopkins, Quentin Tarantino, Prince. Frank Zappa and Anthony Perkins agreed to but became too ill. Jim Carrey had to drop out due to time constraints and Faye Dunaway (just canceled lol). Christopher Walken wanted too much money to play Insane Clown Poppy.

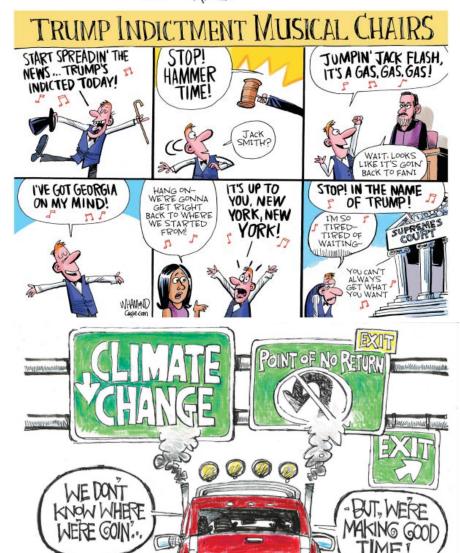

As of 2023, the Simpson's is 34 years old.

Speaking of brilliant creative masterpieces created 1988-1990, my son Alex, is also 34 years old (1988) and my daughter, Olivia is 32 years old (1990) making the birth of my best two masterpieces coincide with the birth of The Simpson's (Special thanks to Johnson co-creator Helen, who really shouldered the hard work).

Finally, thanks to Wikipedia for supplying much of the historical data pertaining to the Simpson's. I check more than one source of information and have always found Wikipedia to be highly accurate.

Use 'em and help support 'em! It will add color to your conversational life!
