Laura or Ms. Palmer (above) known by her students and former student alike, is a lifelong resident of Sierra Madre who has always chosen to better her community in many ways. She is an exemplary 4th grade teacher at Sierra Madre Elementary School (2016 Pasadena Teacher of the Year and LA County Teacher of the Year)! Her passion toward education and her students is outstanding! Her commitment to the young citizens of Sierra Madre is reflected in not only their love of being in her class, but how many continue to keep in touch after leaving SMES. She always brought that local "355" vibe to her classroom. Laura's deep commitment and love of her town is also shown in her volunteer activities. She is a member of the Sierra Madre Library Board of Trustees and serves on the Sierra Madre Community Foundation Board of Directors as its Recording Secretary. The Sierra Madre 4th of July festivities have always been Laura's favorite holiday. The Committee couldn't think of a more special and appropriate way to honor her commitment to Sierra Madre and being an AWESOME local teacher, by being this year's 4th of July Parade's Grand

Additionally, the Committee is proud and honored to announce that Mike Amerio and

the Doug & Heather Parker (above) have been selected as "Hometown Heroes", aka Mr. and Mrs. Sierra Madre in their own right.

For the past 23 years, Doug & his wife Heather Parker (pictured below) hav been planting and growing Atlantic Giant and Big Max pumpkins in their backyard on East Alegria Avenue, all for Halloween Week, during which he carves and builds unique beautiful pumpkin structures for the community to come enjoy on Halloween night. Each year, thousands of visitors come to Sierra Madre just to visit this street and admire the creations. They even welcome visitor onto their property to watch as he carves and builds during the week, and the pumpkins are always lit for visitors the night after Halloween as well. Over the years, the Pasadena Star News and the Mountain Views News have featured articles on his work, and KCAL/KCBS carried segments on Parker and his Pumpkins in 2010 and 2014. It's been a long, wonderful, happy adventure with Parker's Pumpkins and this beloved hometown, and this is why we are honored to thank them for their extra special piece of local joy as the 2023 Hometown Hero.

Did you know the City has an elected City Treasurer and that the position is strictly volunteer? Yep that's right and his name is Mike Amerio. He has gone above and beyond looking out for the community and City of Sierra Madre. Mike's immense dedication over the greater part of ten years as City treasurer is remarkable as he watches over the finances of the City. But his volunteering didn't start there, Mike who has always supported local businesses also spent many years on the field of Heasley and Dapper volunteering with Little League and Pony as his boys grew up in town. Mike and his wife Cynthia have raised 3 boys in Sierra Madre over the course of their 20 years here. They have also been very active at St. Rita's School & Parish. Mike's dedication to public service volunteering certainly make him a Sierra Madre treasure and we are happy to thank him for his service recognizing him as a Sierra Madre Hometown Hero 2023!

WALKING SIERRA MADRE - The Social Side

by Deanne Davis

"Be with someone who will take care of you. Not materialistically, but take care of your soul, your well-being, your heart and every-thing that's you."

"Life is too short to worry about stupid things. Have fun. Fall in love. Regret nothing and don't let people bring you down."

"Don't limit yourself. Many people limit themselves to what they think they can do. You can go as far as your mind lets you. What you believe, you can achieve." Mary Kay Ash

Happy middle of May, dear friends and neighbors! It's time for another Good News Week. There are so many good things going on around me that I want to share with you.

The picture today is of granddaughter, Emily Brown, holding her certificate showing she has just been inducted into the National Junior Honor Society where membership is based on Scholarship, Leadership, Service, Citizenship and Character. The ceremony was yesterday evening and we are bursting with pride. I believe only 23 members of her seventh grade were inducted into this National Society. Next year, these young people will be doing so many useful things in the community, including mentoring younger children, working at our local food bank, and so much more. The National Honor Society then extends from Middle School, right into high school. NHS is in all 50 states, Canada, and pretty much all over the place. There's a little good news right there.

Interestingly, Emily recently requested black Converse high-top sneakers. We, of course, got them for her. We now know why: Every single girl we saw at the induction ceremony was wearing high-top Converse sneakers.

'You can never take too much care over the choice of your shoes. Too many women think that they are unimportant, but the real proof of an elegant woman is what is on her feet." Christian Dior

Next good news: The entire world is in bloom Never have I seen so many beautiful flowers and trees bursting with exquisite blossoms. You probably haven't either. Right outside my window a dark pink Oleander is covered in flowers. Everywhere we look is something absolutely fabulous to see. Roses abound! Yes, you've heard it before...take time to smell

Good news number 3: My granddaughter, Amber Davis, is graduating from college this week. Again, the family is so proud of her.

Good news number 4: Many members of my family are on a Princess Cruise to Alaska and pictures have been posted on Facebook that were astonishing. A video of a waterfall coming off a glacier, complete with sound. Everyone holding small perfectly clear pieces of glacier that were in the water. Tiny starfish on everyone's hands. Bears teetering back hold them. Brave people clutching the handrails of a suspension bridge that swayed back and forth over a water-filled gorge far below.

John and I flew to Alaska many years ago as he was to scout out an area for a possible radio station. We flew into Anchorage and drove to Valdez, a community that was still recovering from the catastrophic Exxon oil spill. Driving from Anchorage to Valdez in August showed us a landscape that was just sort of bleak. It was cold even then and every business in Valdez was for sale. It wasn't what you'd call a fabulous time. The radio station did not happen there and we were so very happy to get back to Anchorage and board a plane for Hawaii. We arrived in Honolulu about 5:00 a.m., dumped our luggage at the hotel, changed into cooler clothes and walked along Waikiki Beach. The tropical breeze was warm and smelled strongly of coconut oil as so much of it had been spilled on the beach. There was no one out there but us and it was the first time we had ever been to Hawaii. We ate breakfast at the Royal Hawaiian Hotel overlooking the beach and we both had papaya for the first time in our lives. A love affair with the Hawaiian Islands was born that morning and we returned many times.

But back to Alaska...the pictures on Facebook showed us the real beauty of this State. Mountains covered with snow, water gushing down so many places. My family has had the experience of a lifetime. Sarah and Jay, my next-door neighbors, are currently there in Alaska, enjoying their second Alaska glacier cruise which involved fishing for salmon and cod. Yes, catch and release but these fish are huge! Something to think about saving for! Your good news could be that you're all booked to go in the next year or so.

Good news number 5: Birds! Early in the morning, the birds are so numerous, so filled with song, so happy about all the flowers. It has occurred to me that the world would truly be a sad and silent place without birds and their music. Hummingbirds are everywhere and so are the bees. The world is a joyful place just now. Look around and enjoy all you see. The Creator has put masterpieces everywhere.

'No bird soars too high if he soars with his own wings." William Blake

"A bird does not sing because it has an answer, it sings because it has a song."

Maya Angelou

"The robin flew from his swinging spray of ivy on to the top of the wall and he opened his beak and sang a loud, lovely trill, merely to show off!" Frances Hodgson Burnett "The Secret Garden"

Good news number 6: The Trail Race is next

Local Man Sentenced for Shooting at Planned Parenthood

A San Bernardino County man was sentenced Monday to 30 months in federal prison for firing BB guns at a Planned Parenthood facility in Pasadena nearly a dozen times and for illegally possessing a firearm and ammunition.

Richard Royden Chamberlin, 53, lived previously Altadena, was sentenced by United States District Judge Michael Fitzgerald. Chamberlin was also ordered to pay $42,663 in restitution.

At the sentencing hearing, described Fitzgerald Chamberlin's year-long string of BB gun attacks as a "reign of terror" and that Chamberlin had acted "in a calculated and cruel against Planned way" Parenthood, its staff, and patients.

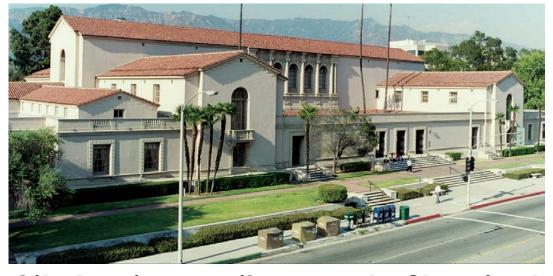

Chamberlin pleaded guilty in December 2022 to one count of violating the federal Freedom of Access to Clinic Entrances (FACE) Act and one count of being a felon in possession of a firearm and ammunition.

Chamberlin admitted in his plea agreement to driving past the Planned Parenthood facility in Pasadena and firing his BB gun at the clinic on at least 11 occasions between June 2020 and May 2021. Chamberlin admitted that he intentionally conducted the attacks to intimidate and interfere with the clinic, its doctors, staff, and patients specifically because the clinic was providing reproductive health services, including services related to the termination of pregnancies.

Beginning on June 27, 2020, Chamberlin's attacks involved him firing BB pellets through the window of his car. On May 7, 2021, the Pasadena Police stopped Chamberlin while he was driving away from the clinic following another attack. At the time, Chamberlin possessed eight BB guns, including BB guns designed to look like assault rifles. On the front passenger seat of his vehicle, police found a backpack containing a .22-caliber pistol, which was loaded with 10 rounds of ammunition. In his plea agreement, Chamberlin admitted that he possessed this firearm and ammunition after being previously convicted in Arizona in 2012 of a felony offense of attempted transportation of a narcotic drug for sale.

"These victims have all been deeply impacted by [Chamberlin's] conduct," prosecutors argued in a sentencing memorandum. "The clinic's employees still experience daily anxiety and fear, and they have an overwhelming sense of being unsafe in their work environment."

PAUL RAZO, FORMER LAPD AND SM PARAMEDIC ARRESTED AND CHARGED WITH MULTIPLE COUNTS OF LEWD ACTS WITH A CHILD

Los Angeles County District Attorney George Gascón announced earlier this week that Paul Razo has been charged with sexually assaulting four boys at his Covina home while he was employed as an officer with the Los Angeles Police Department.

"The allegations of sexual abuse against vulnerable children in this case are deeply disturbing and it's particularly troubling that the defendant was a law enforcement officer at the time," District Attorney Gascón

Childhood sexual abuse causes immeasurable harm and our hearts go out to the victims who were victimized by someone they trusted. We will do everything in our power to ensure that they have access to the support and resources they need to heal. Sexual abuse of any kind is a heinous crime and we will not tolerate it in our community."

Razo, 46, is accused of sexually assaulting two of his young male relatives. One of the victims was about 11 or 12 years old when Razo allegedly began the abuse, while the other victim was about 13.

The other two victims were sons of a woman Razo had been dating and they often reportedly spent the night at his home. One of the boys was 9 or 10 years old when Razo is accused of sexually assaulting him, while the victim's brother was 12 years old.

The alleged crimes occurred during various times between 2006 and 2017. Razo departed LAPD in April 2023.

Razo also served as a part-time paramedic with the Sierra Madre Fire Department from 2007 - 2019.

Anyone with information about this incident or other incidents is encouraged to contact the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department, Special Victims Bureau toll-free tip line at (877) 710-5273 or at specialvictimsbureau@lasd.org.

What do the stock market and Parkway Grill have in common? Well, one is consistent and the other is a rollercoaster.

Friend Jim Cascone and I had plans to taste wine at the local bottle shop Thursday Night, are plans got interrupted so I decided to revisit one of the most popular and well-respected restaurants in Pasadena. The Parkway Grill has been awardeded-congragulated -praised for over thirty years. For good reason is it has proven to be very consistent, which has always been a formula for

Would Thursday's night adventure pass the Peter Dills' test? Sure, with flying Colors. Why is The Parkway Grill so successful, I believe owners Gregg and Bob Smith will settle for nothing less. Am I giving you a "homer" review? Nope!!! Paid for my own meal. Gregg was present at the restaurant, a good sign.

Forget about it! I'm stuffed.

But let's stick to the task at hand. On my Thursday visit,Seems that I have been here a hundred times, I decided to sit in the bar for dinner I wanted to keep an eye on the local talent in hopes that my luck on stocks wouldn't interfere with a great meal and people watching. My server/bartender was Naz and he gleefully handed me the dinner menu. After he rattled off a few weekly specials, I opted to stick with the regular dinner menu. I started with Parkway's Caesar salad ahhh perfect, Caesar Cardina would be very proud!!! The Romaine was prefect and the croutons were mixed correctly with the dressing. We are off to a very good start. Second up, the Tiger Shrimp Corn Dogs, think hotdogs but a better stuffing! My final choice the main course was the Chilean Sea Bass cooked perfectly and was a big enough portion to share with my table (bar) mates. All in all two thumbs way up!!! Parkway Grill always is a great choice and today's lunch was no different. Dessert?

CHRISTOPHER Nyerges [www.SchoolofSelf-Reliance.com]

THE GREATEST BOTANIST THAT NOBODY

KNOWS: DR. LEONID ENARI

Nyerges is a teacher and author in ethnobotany, who was a student of Dr. Leonid Enari. He is working on a book about the life and teachings of Dr. Enari. More informa-tion about Nyerges at www. SchoolofSelf-Reliance.com]

By January of 1974, I'd developed enough basic knowledge in ethno-botany to be able to lead my first formal and professional plant walk. One hundred people showed up that day, each paying one dollar cash for the privilege of walking along and learning about the uses of the plants along

To get to that point where I was able to lead such a walk, I had attended botany classes in high school and college, joined the L.A. Mycological Association, attended countless local plant lectures, and made friends and associates with several local botanists, biologist, and native Americans (such as Dorothy Poole, "chaparral Granny"). But I'd not yet met Dr. Enari.

In January of 1975, my mentor R.E. White showed me a news clipping from the local paper about an upcoming class called "Edible, Medicinal, and Poisonous Plants," to be held at the L.A. County Arboretum in Arcadia.

I do remember thinking, "Well, I already know a lot about wild foods and native uses of plants. I do hope this will be worth my time." How foolish I was to think that!

On our first night of the class, we were shocked at the large number of students - perhaps as many as 50 - seated around tables that had been arranged in a large square, upon which were arrayed the many plants which would be our lesson. I was very impressed, especially since I did not recognize many of the plants.

Once everyone was seated, we met our instructor, Dr.Leonid Enari. This soft-spoken native Estonian introduced the class for the semester, and explained the details. Every night began with a discussion of each of the plants he brought to the class, often with a particular theme. We came to regard the unique Dr. Enari as the greatest botanist that nobody knows! He would say that with the knowledge of wild plants, no one need ever go hungry!

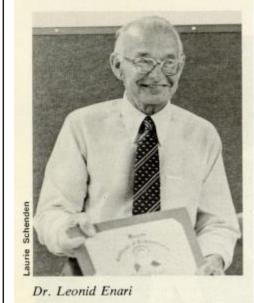

Dr. Enari would hold up a plant and talk about it. He'd tell us the common name, and the Latin name. He would tell us of its uses for food, or medicine, or other uses such as soap or dyes. He always seemed to have several interesting stories about every plant.

After Class One with Dr. Enari, I realized | more than 20 or 30 minutes. He'd tell me that my botanical "knowledge" was rudimentary at best, and my serious study had begun.

Week after week, Dr. Enari followed the same routine, showing us maybe 30 news plants. Of course, Dr.Enari had the 127 acres of the world-class Arboretum at his disposal where he could pick the plants for

Dr. Enari was the quintessential scientist, totally focused on his craft, where no nuance was too insignificant. He nearly always wore khaki pants and a light blue long-sleeved shirt. He was always serious, almost somber, and his in-depth knowledge was beyond question or reproach.

We later learned that while still living in | ing of February 20, 2004.

his native Estonia, he earned his masters degree in 1941, and his doctorate in 1944, in botany/biology, and in chemistry.

Though I never found a single biography of Dr. Enari, I was able to piece together the following:

He was born on March 31, 1914 in Estonia, and experienced light Nazi occupation in his country during WWII. He saw people who were hungry and starved because of the effects of war, and this influenced his choice of study and career choices. After earning his higher degrees, he was placed in charge of a Displaced Persons camp in Germany while serving his country's military.

He moved to Portland, Oregon in 1944, where he taught chemistry at Lewis and Clark College. While there, he wrote "Plants of the Pacific Northwest." He then moved to Pasadena, California, and joined the botanical staff of the L.A. County Arboretum in Arcadia where he taught, wrote, and led botanical tours. His second book was "Ornamental Shrubs of California."

We recall that he was always very serious, very focused, intent. Perhaps this demeanor was partly due to the fact that his only son had recently been killed in the Vietnam war.

Over the next few years, I completed and earned certificates in two of his semester courses: "Poisonous, Edible, and Medicinal Plants," and "Plant Taxonomy," each the equivalent of a 3-unit college course.

Dr. Enari allowed and welcomed me to come to his office at the Arboretum and bring plants that I wanted identified. These were short sessions, rarely lasting the common and Latin names of the plants I'd brought. In no case did I bring him a plant that he didn't identify, and usually he also knew an interesting story about each

Dr. Enari also agreed to proofread the manuscript for my first book, "Guide to Wild Foods," for botanical accuracy. He seemed very happy to be involved, and he also wrote a foreword for the book. When I presented him with a copy of the finisĥed book in 1978 – with all its flaws – he seemed delighted at the finished product. At that time, there was no other book of that sort that had been created.

I still think of him as the "greatest botanist that nobody knows." I mourned his pass-

BEST DATING APP FOR RETIREES

Dear Savvy Senior:

Can you recommend some good online dating apps or sites for retirees? I'm a 66-year-old widow and would like to find a new friend to spend time with, but don't know where to turn. Cautious Carol

Dear Carol:

Whether you're interested in dating again or just looking for a friend to spend time with, online dating sites and apps have become an easy and convenient way for older adults to meet new single people without ever having to leave home.

And to make things even easier, most sites today use matchmaking algorithms that factor in your interests and preferences so they can steer you to matches that are best suited for you. Here are some other tips to help you get started.

Choose a site: There are dozens of different matchmaking websites and apps available today, so choosing can be a bit confusing. While many sites offer free trials or watered-down free content, finding out the price can be difficult until you register and provide some information. In general, viewing com-

Some top mainstream sites/apps that are popular and OKCupid.com. If, however, you're interested in more age specific sites, some great options are Our-Time.com or SilverSingles.com.

teSingles.com for educated professionals; ChristianMingle.com for Christian singles; BLK-app. com for black singles; JSwipeApp.com for Jewish singles; and Facebook.com/dating for people who love Facebook.

Create a profile: When you join a matchmaking site,

you'll need crepersonality profile that reflects who you are, including recent photos, hobbies, interests, favorite activities and more. If you need some help, sites like ProfileHelper.com can write one for you for a fee.

Practice caution: When you register with a site you remain anonymous. No one gets access to your personal contact information until you decide to give it out, so be prudent to whom you give it. Before meeting, you should chat on the phone or video chat a few times, and when you do meet in person for the first time, meet in a public place or bring a friend along. And if someone asks for money or your financial information, don't give it out. Online dating/sweetheart scams are rampant so be very cautious.

Be skeptical: In an effort to get more responses, many people will exaggerate or flat out lie in their profiles, or post pictures that are 10 years old or 20 pounds lighter. So, don't believe everything you see

Make an effort: A lot of times, people - especially women - sit back and let others come to them. Don't be afraid to make the first move. When you find someone you like, send a short note that says, "I really enjoyed your profile. I think we have some things in common." Keep it simple.

Don't get discouraged: If you don't get a response from someone, don't let it bother you. Just move on. There are many others that will be interested in you and it only takes one person to make online dating worthwhile.

THESE OLD BONES OF MINE

I had a frightening experience the other day. I know I must be getting old because things that never frightened me before frighten me. I also see things I never saw before.

Going into the bathroom one morning, I looked in the mirror, and my grandfather looked back at me. I almost passed out. With great haste, I left the bathroom, rushed to the living room, and sat down to think a little bit. What just happened?

I hadn't thought of my grandfather for a long time, and now here I am, looking at myself in the mirror and seeing my grandfather. Oh boy. How did he get in my mirror?

I knew my grandfather was old, at least from my perspective when I knew him. One thing I remember about him was how much he complained about his bones. You could hear his knees crack whenever he would get up from a chair. I never could understand that.

At the time, I thought he was putting on a show. I never had my bones crack, nor did they ever hurt. So, I thought my dear old grandfather was trying to get pity from us, so I lavished it on as much as possible. I tried to come to the end of his joke, but he died before it ended. The last two years that I knew him, he walked around with a cane. I thought he was just doing that for dressing. I thought he was acting like Bat Masterson; "He wore a cane and derby hat." Several times, I asked him where his "derby hat" was. He just looked at me as though he had no idea what I was saying. So, being the grandson that I was, I went on with his ploy. Not until recently did I discover that this was not a ploy; rather, he had aching and creaking bones. It seems that I have inherited his creaking bones. Now I know what he was going through

It seems every day, I find a new bone to creak. I will never know how my grandfather handled those creaking bones at his age, but I'm starting to find out. I guess I should've taken him more seriously back then.

I have no idea how many bones I have in my body, but I am discovering new bones that are starting to creak daily. I didn't know I had so many bones.

After thinking about my grandfather and his creaking bones, I went back into the bathroom to chat with him, but instead of him being in the mirror, there I was. I am my grandfather!

My grandfather was 69 years old when he passed, and I am, let's say, a little past that age.

Instead of inheriting creaking bones from my grandfather, I would rather have inherited $1 million. But life is as it is. I don't know how long I have yet before my old bag of bones exhausts itself. Till then, I will creak and crack my bones every day, just like my grandfather.

That may be why people have rather short memories when they get older. Boy, would I like to forget these creaking bones of mine. When I think I have it all worked out, another bone pops and then starts creaking.

I don't know how close I am to getting a cane, but it just might be in the near future.

Of course, having a cane would be more helpful when walking down the street to protect me from some idiot who wants to rob me. So I've been thinking about that. If it were just creaking bones, I wouldn't be too concerned. But looking in the mirror this morning caused me to see that old age is really ugly. I have more wrinkles than I can count on my face. Where do those wrinkles come from? What are they there, and how do I get rid of them? I should start counting my wrinkles every morning to ensure I have the same amount from the day before. Of course, there must be some good to these wrinkles, or I wouldn't have so

I think I have become the standard for old age with my musical bones and flourishing wrinkles. I sure could use some advice from my grandfather about this situation. With that in mind, I went to The Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage and told her I thought I needed to go to a body shop to see if I could get a new body. "Do you have any

She looked at me up and down and then said, "Just remember, it'll cost you an arm and a leg." And then she laughed as though it was funny.

I wasn't laughing on the inside.

back then, and it wasn't a ploy.

Later that day, I checked my Bible for verses dealing with bones, but I had never thought of these verses before.

Psalms 51:8, "Make me to hear joy and gladness; that the bones which thou hast broken may

Psalms 34:20, "He keepeth all his bones: not one of them is broken."

I am a proponent of joy, but I never thought of bones being associated with joy. As I get older, I am discovering just how important my bones are. From now on, whenever one of my bones creaks, I will rejoice to know that God keeps all my bones.

FAMILY MATTERS

WANT TO GROW WEALTH? WARREN BUFFET'S BEST INVESTMENT ADVICE

top of the list. As one of the most successful investors in history, his track record speaks for itself. However, his wisdom goes beyond picking stocks and making money. At this year's Berkshire Hathaway annual shareholder meeting, Buffett shared several pieces of financial advice but also provided insights on the importance of personal growth and estate planning when seeking to grow wealth. While many of us may feel overwhelmed by the thought of estate planning or building our wealth, Buffett's advice reminds us of two key but simple steps we can take to create generational, financial wealth.

Focus on Your Human Assets to Build Your Wealth and Your Legacy

In almost every interview Buffett provides, he stresses the importance of investing in yourself. "The best thing you can do is to be exceptionally good at something," said Buffett. "Whatever abilities you have can't be taken away from you. They can't actually be inflated away from you. So the best investment by far is anything that develops yourself, and it's not taxed at all."

Your earning power is the greatest determiner of your financial well-being, and the one thing you can count on no matter what's happening in the external economic environment. If you have a highly valuable skill, and you know how to get paid well for that skill, market your services, and sell your services to those who need them, you'll never have to worry about money. That doesn't mean you won't worry about money; but it does mean you don't have to worry about money.

If you don't have a highly valuable skill or if you have a skill that will soon be replaced by AI, that's the first place for you to invest. You may need to get retrained, or uplevel your skills to be more human or relational so you can use AI, but not compete with it, and all that may take investment. Don't shy away from investing in additional training to get even better at your service, or even get additional support to learn to market and sell your services. Those investments will always pay off whereas the stock market is out of your control.

Investing in yourself not only leads to financial success but also personal fulfillment and a clear sense of purpose that will organically become your legacy. At the end of the day, you likely won't be remembered for your financial success (though it's a nice bonus if you are!). Even Warren Buffett, who is renowned for his wealth and investment skill, is even more often acclaimed for his wisdom, humility, and generosity than for his money.

Raising Kids Well is Key in Effective Wealth Planning

During a Q&A session with an estate planning attorney, Buffett stressed the importance of talking to your children about your estate planning well before your death. Buffett stated, "If the children are grown when the will is read to them and it's the first they've heard about what the deceased thought about things, the parents have made a terrible mistake."

If you are going to take Leaving your family in the dark about your per-investment and estate sonal and financial wishes until you die or become planning advice from incapacitated due to an accident or illness can lead anyone, Warren Buffett | to large amounts of confusion and conflict among don't wait to talk to the people you love. Buffett recommends – and I agree on - involving your heirs in the planning process. By doing so, you can ensure that everyone is on the same page and that your wishes are understood and respected far in advance. Additionally, this provides an opportunity to discuss your values and beliefs with your heirs, which can have a lasting impact on their lives. Buffett expressed that if you really want your heirs to act responsibly with their inheritance, you must live out your values and instill them in

How to Start the Conversation About Estate Planning with Your Heirs

So how do you start the conversation about estate planning with your heirs? We recommend you do it directly and maybe even with an invitation to meet with you and your lawyer together. This is something I love to do with clients, and I know many other lawyers do, too. You might say something like: "I want to make sure that we're all taken care of, both now and in the future. That's why I'd like to talk to you about my wishes for our family resources, and how we can ensure that everything is handled smoothly when I can't be here."

If your loved ones aren't immediately open to having a conversation about estate planning with you or are resistant to how you want your assets managed after your death, don't worry. Talking about estate planning can be uncomfortable at first, but as you normalize the topic, the conversation will become easier and more open.

When you talk money and inheritance with your heirs during your lifetime, you have the opportunity to truly pass on not just the money, but your values too. If you wait until you are incapacitated or have died, it's simply too late.

Finally, if you are the future heir of a parent who has not yet talked with you about estate planning, you can jumpstart the conversation by getting your own planning done, and then talking with your parents about the choices you made, why you made them, and letting them know you'd like to help them feel comfortable talking to you about the choices they are making.

Thoughtful Guidance to Build Your Personal and Financial Life and Legacy

Warren Buffett's advice on building and preserving wealth is timeless and valuable no matter the size of your family or your estate. By involving your heirs in your estate planning and investing in yourself, you can set yourself and your loved ones up for long-term financial success and create a legacy that spans not only through your own life but through the generations that follow you.

To your health, wealth, and family legacy,

PUT THE LIGHTS ON STU'S DREAM

I awaken each morning with the hope of making a contribution to the betterment of the world around me including myself---but, of course I don't know what to do. My first thought is to feed my dog. He sleeps in my (actually our) bed and reminds me when it is time to get up. We go downstairs and I open the front door to let him do his business and I look to the East to see the rising sun and to feel the temperature. There was a time, probably decades ago, when after going outside I walked the circle around our house and reached a point where I could watch the sun rise. As it rose I would do some sort of simple calisthenics like "jumping jacks" and experience a kind of bonding with the universe as we began the new day together. Now my jumping jack days are pretty much over. I content myself with leaving the front door open until my dog leads me back into the house. I walk across our entry room to the West side of the house and pull back the curtains which my wife has closed sometime during the night. I look across at the Mount Wilson trail to see if there are already people climbing the trail and there generally are.

I feel a connection to these people and I continue that feeling by bringing my dog fresh water and spreading his food on his dish. There came a day when my son and I, contrary to the wishes of my wife, went to a dog shelter in Pomona with the intent to bring home a dog. We saw the little dog which had been found abandoned the day before and were allowed to buy it. As a part of the purchase I was asked to name the dog. I thought for just a moment and said "Dreamy" and presto- our dog Dr e a my" was a reality. Only days later, or perhaps after even a week, did I realize that the letters D R E A M were the very same letters contained in the name of our city, Sierra MADRE, which for me is a kind of mystical discovery.

Our ability and willingness to dream is our connection to the future. It is the realization that somehow we fit in to the ever-changing, unexpected dynamic miracle of existence. One day I realized that my own name STUart is the manifestation of another almost unrecognized connection. Those letter S T U are, as far as I know, the only 3 consecutive letters in the English Alphabet that combine to form a proper name, my name. When asked to spell my name my 3 and a half year-old granddaughter will recite the whole alphabet beginning with the letter A and continuing to the letter R. She then pauses and recites S T U and looks at me and says "that's you Grandpa!" Somehow this is the realization of a dream I did not know I had. Names are important!

Life is a mystery, a continuing mystery, and the more we through the efforts of our most brilliant scientists try to understand and explain the more the deeper the mystery remains unsolved. The term 'random autonomous movement" is bandied about. To me this implies that any attempt at explanation is limited but the point is that it all keeps moving and we and everything else are parts of that movement.

Perhaps, that is a roundabout way of talking about God and understanding that God is in all of us which to me means that we are all a part of the Big Dream? Referring back to my earlier paragraphs, the sun may well rise without us but we can help it along by being aware of it as much as we can and beyond dreaming, doing what we know must be done like pulling the curtains, putting on the lights, and feeding the dog. There is a kind of connection; a kind of autonomous universal Justice operating our creation and existence. By the way, can you guess or dream my granddaughter's name?

DINAH CHONG WATKINS CLOSE ENCOUNTERS

Burgers night out.

OF THE WRONG KIND SERVING THOSE WE PROTECT

The late afternoon sun blazed down as only a SoCal springtime can. As I walked by the front door, I noticed - almost imperceptibly, a white SUV outside in the driveway. It must be Brett I thought, he and my husband were having a Buds, Beer and

When I returned a few minutes later, a Sierra Madre Police Officer was standing alongside the SUV, the driveway exit blocked by the police cruiser. I went outside, Officer Yokoyama asked me if I knew the driver.

"I've never seen him before." I replied.

The SUV had nowhere to go. The officer circled the vehicle, flashlight in hand, the bright beams breaking through the vehicle's dark tinted windows. Officer Yokoyama called for

It was a tense moment. Alone, by himself, I didn't know if my being out there was helpful or a distraction to the officer, I went back inside, with my muscles of jelly, this was the safest move for both of us. Soon after, additional SMPD units arrived at the house. Calmly and professionally they fanned out, taking up spots around the driveway and the SUV.

The officers closest to the vehicle drew their weapons. I moved away from the front door in case something went sideways. I had the luxury of that, the officers didn't. The driver, a burley man who had a serious set of biceps was ordered out, he complied and was searched, handcuffed and taken down to the curb. Relived, I thought it was over but the officers remained in position, to my surprise another even burlier man was ordered to step out, his bulging biceps probably trained the driver's biceps. Again, he was searched, handcuffed and taken to the curbside. My nerves jingled jangled, it was definitely time for a shot of Hershey's chocolate syrup, but no - a third man was ordered to come out and he then joined the others.

The officers searched the vehicle and found sturdy masks, gloves and the type of tools often used in burglaries. Days earlier, my neighbor a few houses away had their home broken into. Fortunately, no one was home except their feisty dogs and the security alarm that deterred the thieves.

As we found out later, with the recent break-in mind, Officer Yokoyama spotted the white SUV trolling the area, his instincts and experience of 30+ years of service in the LA Sheriff's Department and the SMPD, gave him pause. After checking with his sources about the residents of the neighborhood, Officer Yokoyama followed the SUV, which ended up in our driveway.

It was the moment when the officers drew their weapons and I moved to safer ground that for me, crystallized the courage, bravery and dedication these men and women of the police force embody day after day to serve the public. This was not a cozy hour of watching "The Rookie" while simultaneously chowing on a bag of Flamin' Hot Cheetos, I was honestly scared when the incident was going down and thought about what might had happened if not for the SMPD.

"Heroes" is an overworked term these days, we applaud imaginary characters onscreen, sandwiches, even showing up for work on time as worthy of the title but amongst us there are real heroes; who go forward when we fall back, who turn to face the unexpected even while prepared for the worst, who hold out their hand at the time we enjoy the advantages and camaraderie of small town life with the small town police departments that provide us safety and security in our homes and on the streets. They are the bona fide heroes, let's give them a fully deserved measure of our gratitude and thanks.

In the Foothill communities, we are fortunate and blessed to

RICH JOHNSON

NOW THAT'S RICH SONG TITLES & ALL THAT JAZZ

Song Titles and All That Jazz In addition to being a member of a very, very good rock and roll band...he said humbly, I have also written a number of songs over the years. And a question that, on occasion, comes up, "Rich, which came first, the song, the music, or the title of the song".

Good question. The simple fact of the matter is sometimes the music comes first, sometimes the lyrics come first and sometimes the title comes first. If you asked me if I have a preference, I like to write the song, lyrics and music first, as the title might not fit the song when finished.

That got me wondering if there were famous songs out there that originally had different song titles. So, Ĭ consulted the cosmic oracle and this is what I came up:

"Yesterday" by the Beatles. Paul McCartney came up with the first three notes equaled 3 syllables. As he was crafting the song, he didn't know it would ultimately become "Yesterday". His working title was...are you ready... "Scrambled Eggs".

The other half of the famous songwriting duo "Lennon & McCartney" was working on a song titled "Keep Your Hands Off My Babe". Ultimately we grew to know the song as "Help"

You all remember "Fly Me to the Moon" Frank Sinatra (and many others) recorded it. Original title was "In Other Words".

Scottish rock and roller, Sheena Easton, had a hit in 1981, with a great tune called "Morning Train". Original title of Sheena's song was "9 to 5" but Dolly Parton had a hit song (and a movie) in 1980 with the movie (and song) title "9 to 5".

Sting, bass player and lead singer with "The Police" wrote a song originally titled "I'll Be Watching You". We all know and love it as "Every Breath You Take". Interesting side note on this song. Sting chuckles when he thinks about how this song has become a favorite wedding song. According to him, and he should know, it was not written as a love song. It was a song about a stalker lol. Barry Manilow's first hit was the song "Mandy". The song was originally titled "Brandy" but a group called the "Looking Glass" beat Barry to the punch and had a hit with a song you may remember, "Brandy (You're a Fine Girl)". Oops, new name needed Barry.

If you're old enough to remember the 1963 song "If You Wanna Be Happy" recorded by Jimmy Soul, you may be surprised to learn it was written by a Trinidadian calypsonian named "Roaring Lion" and recorded in 1934. The title of the song back then was "Ugly Woman". Hence the first verse of the song is: "If you want to be happy for the rest of your life Don't a make a pretty woman your wife So, for my personal point of view Get an ugly girl to marry you!"

Want to know what the longest title of any commercially published song is? Written in 1947 by American Composer Hoagy Carmichael, here goes:

"I'm a Cranky Old Yank, in a Clanky Old Tank, on the Streets of Yokohama, with my Honolulu Mama, Doin' Those Beat-o, Beat-o, Flat-On-My-Seat-o, Hirohito Blues".

Speaking of rock and roll, my band, JJ Jukebox is playing Saturday night, June 10th at Nano Café. 6:30-9:30pm. Come have dinner, adult beverages and dancing to vintage rock and roll. Call (626) 325-3334 to make reservations. No cover. Just good food, friends and music.

DEAR "YES ON MEASURE M VOTERS"

Dear "Yes on Measure M" Voters,

You did it and Sierra Madre is the winner! Congratulations and thank you for your commitment to civic duty and your "yes vote" for the Measure M Special Election on 5/9/23.

This was a community collaborative effort. Some of you authored articles/letters published in the "Mountain Views News" and "Colorado Boulevard" and endorsed our "Yes on M Sierra Madre" campaign to get the word out, as well as attended the Measure M Debate. Others wrote on blogs and posted on Facebook with researched and accurate facts to answer the "No on M" misinformation posted on Facebook, mail ads, and elsewhere. You posted the Yes on M Sierra Madre yard signs to show your support. You donated funds, delivered signs, flyers, and door hangers, spoke with your neighbors and friends, and made phone calls.

Your support has upheld the integrity of the Planning Commissioners' careful deliberations and the Sierra Madre City Council Members' approval process. You endorsed the Mater Dolorosa Passionists' property rights to submit a plan and have it evaluated, discussed, shared with the community, and approved.

More importantly, you voted!

You showed the true character of the people of Sierra Madre to come together to do what is right for our beloved City. The Yes on M Sierra Madre campaign was one that we can all be proud of.

Now I hope that we can all put our differences behind us and work together for the good of Sierra Madre.

Thank you, thank you, thank you,

Pat Alcorn, Chairperson, Yes on M Sierra Madre Committee

P.S. No thank you would be complete unless we acknowledge the Editor of the Mountain Views News, Susan Henderson. Susan not only published the official voting information, including voting sites and ballot arguments but also allowed both sides of the question to present their views about the project and the referendum itself. Her "conversation" pages appeared weekly throughout the campaign and the articles/letters were printed without editing. Thank you Susan for giving us all a voice in this important discussion. P
