WALKING SIERRA MADRE: The Social Side

by Deanne Davis

"There is beauty in every January sunrise – A new day, a new opportunity to grow."

"You can do anything, but not everything at the same time.

You don't have to figure everything out.

Restart as many times as needed.

Your inner peace is too expensive to be sacrificed.

Do more of what makes you forget about time.

The magic in New Beginnings is truly the most powerful."

Unbelievably, we're already halfway through January. The Christmas decorations are all put away, except that one thing that we come across that got left behind. I've got a metal pumpkin that's still sitting out on my patio table. I see it every day and think, "I've really got to put that away," then I walk away and totally forget it's out there.

The sunrises and sunsets are spectacular, it's warming up just a bit and I am delighted to report that on January 6th, my refrigerator, which had been out of commission all of December, was repaired. Yes, there was dancing in the streets, champagne was poured and every day I am thrilled that it's still working. I'm not confident enough yet to put all my frozen food back in it, a lot of that is still residing in the small chest freezer that I am fortunate enough to have. As we all know, rebuilding trust takes a while.

The next big project I am going to tackle is to clear up storage space in my Gmail account. Taking advice from the computer guy in the newspaper, I did the quick wins, i.e., empty my Spam and Trash folders. The next step is to "Hunt Down the Space Hogs." This means I really need to go through the millions, well, maybe not millions, but hundreds of pictures that are superfluous. How many sunsets and sunrises do I need? How many newspaper articles? As he says, years of full-resolution photos are eating the bulk of my space. This project won't be quite as arduous as putting away the Christmas decorations, but it will take time. Sigh... The picture this week is totally boastful. The packed-up Christmas decorations all put away.

After months spent reading all the books in the "Candy-Coated Mystery" series, which features a nice girl who inherits the historic McMurphy Hotel and Fudge Shop, and who encounters at least one murder in every book, and then solves them with the help of local residents, her dog, and best friend, an event planner. This all takes place on Mackinac Island. As the book promo says, "Welcome to the Historic McMurphy Hotel and Fudge Shop where life is sweet, revenge is sweeter, and murder is here to stay." The author, Nancy CoCo, not only writes a dandy mystery, but she includes incredible fudge recipes in every book. I've read all 15 of them and enjoyed every word.

After those came to an end, I moved on to John Grisham's newest, "The Widow." This book, like all of Grisham's, has a lot of lawyers in it and this one is a dandy. Greed takes over a small town lawyer and he gets himself into one heck of a mess. Loved every word and recommend it highly. After that, I moved into a really fun book by James Patterson and Tadd Safran, "The Twelve Topsy-Turvy, Very Messy Days of Christmas." This is fun, just suspend reality and enjoy it. My sister had a hip replacement, she's a hairdresser, barista, and bartender and has spent her entire life on her feet, which led to the hip replacement. She has done nothing but read all month and, as she never has time for that, has enjoyed it immensely. Time to read is wonderful, friends and neighbors. Maybe give yourself more of that this year. Our word for 2026 is KIND and you can start by being KIND to yourself and giving yourself time to read.

A few noteworthy days to celebrate in January:

- National Bath Safety Month
- National Blood Donor Month
- Braille Literacy Month
- National Hobby Month
- Hot Tea Month
- National Oatmeal Month

- National Soup Month

And if those aren't enough or just don't float your boat, here are a few more:

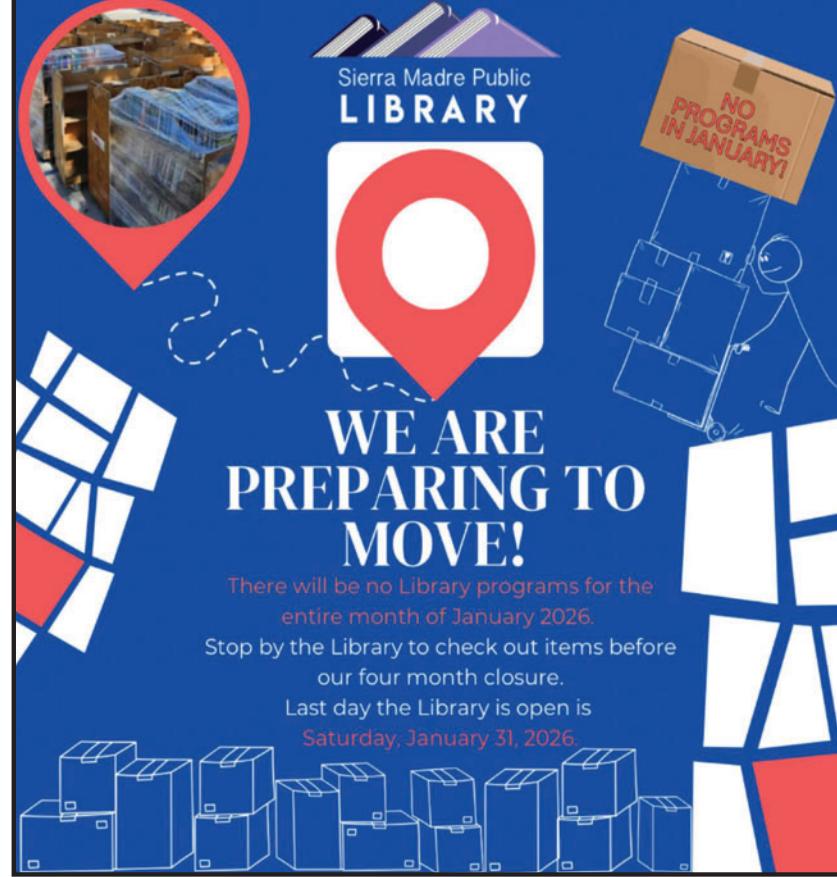

- Festival of Sleep Day
- Make Your Dream Come True Day
- Ditch New Year's Resolutions Day
- (Don't ditch ours, though, keep being KIND)
- National Hugging Day
- Beer Can Appreciation Day
- Chinese New Year

And Martin Luther King Jr. Birthday on January 19th this year, traditionally celebrated on the third Monday in January.

"Searching for ways to heal ourselves, kindness is the best way."

My book page: Amazon.com: Deanne Davis "Star of Wonder" a delightful Christmas Kindle story, where four lonely people find love following a strange new star on Christmas Eve, is there.

A nice love story is never a bad idea, even after Christmas!

TofR Announces 2027 theme 'Welcome'

The Pasadena Tournament of Roses Association's newly installed President Terry Madigan, announced Thursday night the 2027 theme, "Welcome."

The theme celebrates the simple joy of belonging—that feeling that you're always welcome, no matter who or where you are. It's the warmth of family—whether related or chosen, the love of good friends, and the welcoming embrace of community.

Madigan said the simple "Welcome" was the first time the Parade has had a one word theme.

According to officials, professionally, Madigan is a Certified Personal Chef and owner of Just No Thyme, a personal chef service serving Pasadena and the San Gabriel Valley. Before turning his passion for cooking into a full-time career, he had a career in marketing and communications.

A sixth-generation Californian, Madigan grew up in the San Gabriel Valley. While attending South Pasadena High School, he twice drove the City of South Pasadena's float in the Rose Parade, an experience that deepened his lifelong connection to the event. He earned a Bachelor of Arts degree in political science and journalism from the University of Southern California and later received a Diplôme in Le Cordon Bleu Culinary Arts from the California School of Culinary Arts.

Madigan and Sommerfield resides in South Pasadena.

CHEESEBURGER WEEK IS COMING — AND THE PASADENA HOOK STILL DELIVERS

By Peter Dills

As we approach Cheeseburger Week, it's worth reminding readers that Pasadena proudly lays claim to being the birthplace of the cheeseburger. With that in mind, I've been revisiting the local cheeseburger scene—some new, some under-the-radar, and some that have simply stood the test of time.

One place that clearly falls into that last category is The Hook.

I first wrote about The Hook nearly ten years ago, and here's the good news: not much has changed—and that's exactly why it still works. The burgers remain dependable, well-built, and most importantly, not sloppy. In a world of towering, overcomplicated burgers that require extra napkins and a strategy, The Hook keeps things refreshingly straightforward.

The Burgers

- The Classic Hook Burger – Juicy, balanced, and satisfying. The bun deserves special mention: soft, lightly toasted, and sturdy enough to hold everything together without stealing attention from the beef.
- The Aloha Burger – A fun variation that actually works. The sweetness plays nicely with the beef and cheese instead of overpowering them.

For the price, these burgers are right up there with the best of the best. You don't walk away thinking corners were cut—or that your wallet took a hit.

Sides, Service & Setting

The sweet potato fries were shared at the table, hot and satisfying. Yes, they're likely out of a bag—and that's perfectly fine. Not everything needs to be reinvented if it's done right.

We sat outside, which made for an easy, relaxed meal. I'm still doing Dry January, but my buddies hoisted a few beers, and it's worth noting that the beer prices are reasonable—no sticker shock here.

Service is friendly without being fawning, a balance that's harder to find than you'd think.

One More Thing

There's plenty—and I mean plenty—of parking, an underrated but crucial detail in Pasadena.

Final Take

Ten years later, The Hook remains exactly what you want in a neighborhood burger spot: consistent, fairly priced, comfortable, and reliable. As Cheeseburger Week approaches and the debates heat up, this is one local cheeseburger that still deserves a seat at the table.

This place is a keeper. 3453 E Foothill Blvd.

Backyard Composting Workshop

Director of Public Works, Greg de Vinck, announced that the department, in partnership with the Pasadena Public Library, will host a Backyard Composting Workshop Jan. 24 at the Hill Avenue Branch.

This introductory workshop, starting at 2 p.m. will guide participants through the basics of turning everyday kitchen scraps and yard trimmings into nutrient-rich compost that can be used in gardens and landscapes throughout the community. Attendees will learn how to set up a compost bin, what materials to include, and how to maintain a healthy balance that supports natural decomposition.

The workshop highlights how simple practices can make a big difference in reducing household waste while supporting Pasadena's sustainability goals. The workshop also offers residents the opportunity to speak with Public Works staff and gain confidence in starting their own backyard composting system.

As an added benefit, the first 20 registered participants will receive a free backyard compost bin if they attend the workshop. Limit one bin per household; participants must be Pasadena residents to receive a bin. The bin measures 33" x 33" when fully constructed and 33" x 18" when collapsed for transport.

Registration is required and may be completed at ly/46jxMj or by calling 626 744 7264. For accessibility information or to request an accommodation, contact CSC@CityofPasadena.net or 626 744 7311.

Barger Announces $10K Reward Following Vandalism at Pasadena Jewish Temple

Eaton Fire in January 2025, was further traumatized this past weekend by vandalism and antisemitic graffiti. The Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department is leading the investigation and has confirmed it is being treated as a potential hate crime.

Supervisor Barger has condemned the vandalism and pledged to closely monitor the investigation while standing ready to support both the affected community and law enforcement.

During today's Board of Supervisors meeting, Supervisor Barger read in a motion to establish the reward. The motion received unanimous approval, reflecting the Board's shared commitment to ensuring accountability for acts that threaten public safety and target faith communities.

"This was a deeply disturbing act targeting a Jewish community that is still working to heal and rebuild," Barger said. "By establishing this reward, we are sending a clear message that intimidation will not be tolerated in Los Angeles County. I urge anyone with information—no matter how small it may seem—to come forward so those responsible can be held accountable. This community deserves answers and justice."

SURPLUS IT EQUIPMENT AVAILABLE

The City has surplus IT equipment and is making it available to local organizations and non-profits.

The City purchased a large commercial building in Old Town (324 S. Myrtle Ave.), which will be used as a temporary facility for the Community Center Renovation Project, scheduled to begin later this year.

The City is making plans to relocate offices to the temporary location and as part of the City's purchase, the building came fully equipped with a large inventory of IT equipment that was never used by the City and has been declared as "surplus IT property." The property includes –

- 62 desktop PCs
- 1 HP Server
- 15 desktop laser printers
- 73 monitors with power supply. These range from 19"-25" wide

Go to the website: Surplus Equipment Inventory.pdf <https://www.monrovia-ca.gov/home/showdocument?id=39377&t=639041476891673854>

The City is offering this surplus property to local non-profits and service providers on a first-come, first-served basis. Please review the list and, if there is any equipment you would like, please email pio@monroviaca.gov as soon as possible. The City will arrange a time in late January for interested parties to stop by and view the surplus property.

SUPERVISOR BARGER ISSUES STATEMENT ON SOIL AND LEAD TESTING EFFORTS FOLLOWING EATON FIRE

In response to reporting published today by the Los Angeles Times regarding internal State deliberations on wildfire soil testing in the Eaton Fire Burn zone, Los Angeles County Supervisor Kathryn Barger issued the following statement: "The notion that the State could simply reimburse Los Angeles County for conducting soil testing and remediation in the Eaton fire area was never a feasible option.

While that approach may have been discussed internally, it fails to reflect the serious fiscal constraints our County is facing. Los Angeles County is managing ongoing wildfire recovery efforts, the loss of federal funding for core services, and extraordinary financial obligations stemming from AB 218—the Gonzalez bill—including billions of dollars in litigation and settlement costs.

At the same time, property tax losses have reduced County revenues. Under these conditions, asking our County to front the cost of soil testing with the promise of later reimbursement would have placed an unacceptable burden on taxpayers and threatened essential public services.

I am determined to not let Eaton Fire survivors navigate these concerns on their own. I am actively working with nonprofit partners, local researchers, and universities to deploy a pilot soil testing program that can help fill immediate gaps while longer-term solutions are pursued.

Also, Los Angeles County has made lead testing resources available to wildfire survivors, including household lead testing and blood lead testing through our public health system, to ensure families have access to timely information and care.

These efforts reflect my continued commitment to public health, transparency, and supporting communities as they recover."

JEWISH COMMUNITY AND THE CITY OF PASADENA TO HOLD EVERY PERSON HAS A NAME, A 25-HOUR HOLOCAUST COMMEMORATION AND VIGIL

Monrovia, CA – January 14, 2026 – On Saturday, January 24, at 7 p.m. through Sunday, January 25, at 8 p.m., the Jewish Federation of the Greater San Gabriel and Pomona Valleys, with support from the City of Pasadena, will be holding Every Person Has a Name, a 25-hour Holocaust commemoration and vigil on the steps of Pasadena City Hall.

"With the ongoing rise of antisemitic and hate incidents, we have seen as of late, including the recent vandalism that targeted Pasadena Jewish Temple & Center, an event like this is crucial to serving both as a reminder of what can happen when hate goes unchecked and also to remember the people who were murdered because of the same hatred... the hatred for the other," explains Jason Moss, Jewish Federation's Executive Director. "By bringing the community together, we remember that each person killed was someone who lived and whose life was cut short. They are not just part of the six million lives lost but had their own story and their own individual experience. While our readers and those who listen may not know the people they are reading the names for, they are remembered by saying their names aloud. With every passing day, survivors are dying, and with their eyewitness testimony about what they witnessed and experienced. My concern is that their memories will be dying as well."

This annual event has been held in commemoration of UN International Holocaust Remembrance Day (January 27). The event will begin with a commemoration ceremony featuring local elected officials and dignitaries. Immediately following the ceremony, we will start our 24-hour vigil of reading the names of those murdered during the Holocaust. Also featured is an exhibition, made available by Yad Vashem, Israel's National Holocaust

Museum, entitled Stars Without a Heaven: Children in the Holocaust. The exhibition tells some of the unique stories of Jewish children during the Holocaust, providing a moving and exhilarating glimpse at their lives through a selection of drawings, poems, letters, and more. In addition, the Jewish Federation is once again partnering with Pasadena's Armory for the Arts, which is coordinating an art project on Sunday morning while names are being read.

By participating in events like this, we help ensure that the lessons learned as a result of the Holocaust are not forgotten, no matter how many years pass, and serve as a reminder as memories are passed on to the next generation. We hope people will take this opportunity to help our community safeguard the memory of the Holocaust, promote tolerance, and protect the society in which we live.

The event is open to the public. A limited number of 30-minute name-reading blocks (both in-person and virtual) are still available by visiting the Jewish Federation's website (www.jewishsgpv.org) or by calling 626.445.0810.

Those who do not feel like reading can attend the commemoration ceremony, sit and listen as the names are read, walk through the exhibition, and help spread the word about the event. Being present and showing support is part of the power of this event. For more information about this event, please contact the Jewish Federation at 626.445.0810 or email federation@jewishsgpv.org.

MAJOR ROADWORK SET FOR SOUTH PASADENA

The City of South Pasadena is notifying residents of the Los Angeles County Sanitation District's upcoming sewer line rehabilitation project taking place near the Arroyo Vista Elementary School area. The project duration is estimated to be six to eight weeks, beginning January 19, and ending March 27.

These improvements are crucial to extending the life of critical infrastructure, preventing pollution and sewage overflows, and reducing the need for emergency repairs. The project, which will rehabilitate approximately 3600 feet of sewer line, will be performed by Spiniello Infrastructure West in collaboration with the Los Angeles County Sanitation District.

Work will involve installing temporary above-ground pipes as a bypass system to safely reroute sewer flow while repairs are completed. The bypass will run along the shoulder of Arroyo Drive, turn onto Mission Street through the center of the roadway, continue above ground through the center of the road along Pasadena Avenue, and then transition onto the shoulder of Hawthorne Street, ending at the intersection of Orange Grove Avenue.

What to expect during installation and operation of the bypass system:

- Temporary changes to traffic flow and parking near the school and surrounding streets • No parking will be permitted on the train-track side of Hawthorne Avenue.
- Right turns only for residents on Pasadena Avenue and Mission Street during the project.
- The intersection of El Centro Street & Pasadena Avenue will have construction, but access will remain for vehicles entering and exiting El Centro Street, and crosswalks will remain safely accessible.
- The intersection of Orange Grove Avenue & Hawthorne Street will be closed for approximately two weeks during working hours (7:00 a.m.–4:00 p.m.).

Spiniello Infrastructure West will make every effort to minimize disruptions and ensure the project is completed as efficiently as possible. For questions or concerns, the public is encouraged to contact the following: Project Contact – Spiniello: • Jeff Trujillo (Superintendent): (973) 651-1809 • Ghalib Abdulla (Project Engineer): (909) 910-1517

Chu Demands DHS Secretary Kristi Noem's Impeachment

Congresswoman Judy Chu has joined more than 70 of her House Democratic colleagues in cosponsoring articles of impeachment against Department of Homeland Security (DHS) Secretary Kristi Noem. Over the past year, Secretary Noem has executed Donald Trump's violent immigration enforcement agenda that has torn families apart, undermined due process, and violated the most basic constitutional and human rights of people across the country. Last week, one of Secretary Noem's ICE agents shot 37-year-old legal observer Renee Good in the face multiple times, killing her as she attempted to leave the scene.

"Under Secretary Noem's leadership, ICE has descended into a lawless, violent force with zero accountability. Since day one, Secretary Noem's ICE agents have terrorized our communities by driving around in unmarked vehicles, covering their faces, refusing to show ID, and recklessly detaining innocent people without due process. The cruelty we are witnessing is not normal, it is not justified, and it is not acceptable in a democracy," said Chu. "In Minneapolis, an ICE agent shot an American citizen in the face three times as she attempted to leave the scene. In California, ICE agents shot an innocent protestor with a non-lethal weapon, cracked his skull, and dragged him while he was bleeding, leaving him permanently blind in one eye. Secretary Noem is responsible for this violence. She must be held accountable for obstructing Congress, violating the public trust, and using her official position for personal gain. That is why I proudly join my Democratic colleagues in cosponsoring articles of impeachment against Secretary Noem, and I call for her immediate resignation."

Despite the Trump administration's cruel and harmful immigration policies, Chu has continued to use every tool at her disposal to fight back, demand accountability, and advocate for her constituents and immigrant communities in Southern California and across the country.

Last month, Chu intervened and successfully secured the release of Masuma Khan, who was detained during a routine immigration check despite nearly 30 years in the U.S. and no criminal record. In October, Chu helped prevent the deportation of Barbara Gomes Marques May, a Brazilian national with no criminal record, after a judge ruled in her favor. In September, Rep. Chu also successfully advocated for the release of Rami Othmane, a Pasadena resident from Tunisia suffering from a brain tumor.

Beyond individual cases, Chu has introduced and led major legislative and oversight efforts to hold ICE accountable and strengthen protections for immigrant communities, including:

H.R. 4667, Visible Identification Standards for Immigration-Based Law Enforcement (VISIBLE) Act of 2025

This legislation would increase transparency and accountability by requiring immigration enforcement officers to clearly display visible identification during public enforcement actions, prohibiting non-medical face coverings, and requiring accountability when officers violate the law.

Demanding Oversight and Protections at the Adelanto ICE Processing Center

Following the deaths of Ismael Ayala-Urib and Gabriel Garcia-Aviles at the Adelanto ICE Processing Center, both of whom died after being denied timely and adequate medical care, Chu and Dave Min led 43 Members of Congress in a letter to the Department of Homeland Security and ICE demanding accountability for ICE's failure to meet basic medical standards, citing the record-high number of deaths in ICE custody that have occurred since Trump took office. Chu has conducted multiple oversight visits to immigration detention facilities, even as federal officials have repeatedly and unlawfully attempted to block her access.

During visits where she was granted entry, she witnessed deeply disturbing conditions and clear evidence of inhumane and unacceptable treatment of detainees. She will continue to conduct oversight and demand transparency, accountability, and compliance with the law.

Chu has also attended more than a dozen rallies this past year to stand shoulder-to-shoulder with constituents calling for accountability from the Trump administration.

"No one in this country should have to live in fear of their own government, all Americans and immigrant communities deserve dignity, due process, and protection under the law, and I will continue to fight back against policies that terrorize families in Southern California and across this country while demanding accountability from Donald Trump and those who carry out his agenda," said Rep. Chu.

Seniors Embrace Exercise for Health and Longevity

As the global population ages, the importance of exercise for seniors has never been more evident. Research consistently shows that regular physical activity not only improves physical health but also enhances mental well-being, making it essential for older adults.

Local community centers have seen a surge in senior fitness programs, offering tailored classes such as yoga, tai chi, and water aerobics. These programs are designed to accommodate various fitness levels, promoting both strength and flexibility. "Exercise is crucial for maintaining mobility and independence," says Sarah Jenkins, a fitness instructor specializing in senior wellness. "It helps combat common issues like arthritis and balance problems."

The benefits of exercise extend beyond the physical. Studies indicate that engaging in regular activity can significantly reduce the risk of depression and anxiety in seniors. Many participants report improved mood and social connections through group classes. "I used to feel isolated after my husband passed away, but now I look forward to my weekly classes and the friends I've made," shares Mary Thompson, a 72-year-old participant.

Healthcare professionals emphasize that even moderate exercise, such as walking or gardening, can lead to substantial health improvements. The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) recommends at least 150 minutes of moderate-intensity aerobic activity per week for seniors, alongside muscle-strengthening activities on two or more days.

Communities are encouraged to support senior fitness initiatives, recognizing the profound impact of exercise on quality of life. Local governments are increasingly investing in accessible parks and recreational facilities to promote active lifestyles among older residents.

As more seniors prioritize their health through exercise, they are not only enhancing their longevity but also inspiring younger generations to adopt healthier habits. The message is clear: staying active is key to aging gracefully.

HOW TO TURN DOWN THE VOLUME ON TINNITUS

Dear Savvy Senior,

What treatments are recommended to help with tinnitus? I started noticing a subtle ringing in my ears about 10 years ago, but it's gotten much more bothersome since I turned 60.

Ringing Ronnie

Dear Ronnie,

Tinnitus is actually one of the most common health conditions in the country. According to the National Institute on Deafness and Other Communication Disorders around 10 percent of the U.S. adult population – over 25 million Americans – experience some form of tinnitus.

For most people tinnitus is merely annoying, but roughly 5 million people struggle with chronic tinnitus and 2 million find it debilitating.

While there's no cure, there are a range of different strategies you can employ to reduce the symptoms to make it less bothersome. Here's what you should know.

What is Tinnitus?

Tinnitus (pronounced TIN-a-tus or tin-NIGHT-us) is the sensation of hearing a ringing, buzzing, roaring, hissing or whistling sound in one or both ears when no external sound is present.

The sounds, which can vary in pitch and loudness, are usually worse when background noise is low, so you may be more aware of it at night when you're trying to fall asleep in a quiet room.

Tinnitus itself is not a disease, but rather a symptom of some other underlying health condition. The best way to find out what's causing your tinnitus is to see an audiologist, or an otolaryngologist – a doctor who specializes in ear, nose and throat diseases (commonly called an ENT). The various things that can cause tinnitus are:

Hearing loss, which is the most common cause.

Middle ear obstructions usually caused by a build-up of earwax deep in the ear canal. Side effects of many different prescription and over-the-counter medicines like aspirin, ibuprofen, certain blood pressure medicines and diuretics, some antidepressants, cancer medicines and antibiotics.

Various medical conditions such as high blood pressure, vascular disease, diabetes, allergies, thyroid problems, ear or sinus infections, Meniere's disease, Lyme disease, fibromyalgia, otosclerosis, temporomandibular joint (TMJ) disorder, a tumor, an injury to the head or neck, traumatic brain injury, depression, stress and more.

Treatment Strategies

There are many ways to treat tinnitus depending on the cause. For example, if your tinnitus is caused by a wax build-up in your ears or a medical condition like high blood pressure or a thyroid problem, treating the problem may reduce or eliminate the noise.

Or, if you're taking a medication that's causing the problem, switching to a different drug or lowering the dosage may provide some relief. If you have hearing loss, getting a hearing aid can help mask your tinnitus by improving your ability to hear actual sounds.

Another strategy that can help suppress or mask the sound so it's less bothersome is "sound therapy." This can be as simple as a fan or white noise machine, or you can use sound therapy apps like ReSound Tinnitus Relief, myNoise or NatureSpace.

Cognitive behavioral therapy and psychological counseling can also be helpful, as can tinnitus retraining therapy (TNT). This combines counseling and sound therapy to train your brain to ignore the sound in your ears. The new MindEar app offers TNT.

There are even new innovations like the FDA approved device Lenire (lenire.com) that uses electrical stimulation of the tongue to alleviate symptoms.

There are also certain medications that may help. While there's no FDA approved drugs specifically designed to treat tinnitus, some antianxiety drugs and antidepressants have been effective in relieving symptoms.

Your audiologist or ENT can help you figure out the best treatment options.

Other things you can do to help quiet the noise is to avoid things that can aggravate the problem like fatty foods, salt, artificial sweeteners, sugar, alcohol, tonic water, tobacco and caffeine. Also be sure to drink plenty of water as dehydration can worsen symptoms. And protect yourself from loud noises by wearing earplugs.

What It Was, Was a Coughing and Sneezing Contest

The New Year started rather nicely for us. After all the exciting holiday activities, it was nice to settle into a more relaxed frame of mind. We had a whole week before us with nothing really to do and no place to go. What could be better?

I like it when there's not much to do, but The Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage has a very opposite view. If she's not doing something in her craft room, she can't handle it.

However, some things have a way of changing.

Halfway through the first week of the New Year, The Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage came down with flu-like symptoms. She was coughing, sneezing, and all that's associated with the Flu.

She was sitting on the couch with her eyes closed, and as lunchtime approached, I said, "Would you like me to make lunch today?"

She always makes lunch, and I thought this was an opportunity to help her out with the lunch plan.

She opened her eyes, looked at me very strangely, and then said, "Heavens no. I'm sick enough as it is, I don't need any more." She then got up, went to the kitchen, and began making lunch. At least I tried to help.

By the time she finished lunch, I started coughing and sneezing. My nose was running so much that I couldn't handle it. It was then that it occurred to me that whatever she had, she gave to me.

It wasn't long before both of us were sick, and I couldn't help but laugh at how our 'Flu' had turned us into a couple of couch potatoes. We were coughing, sneezing, and feeling miserable, but somehow, it made our start of the New Year memorable in a funny way.

I often wonder why they call it "Flu" when it never flies away. I want to say, "Whatever I had, it Flu away. But this Flu has a very exaggerated fascination with me. And of course, The Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage.

This went on for at least a week. For six days, I never got out of my pajamas. It was like I never got out of bed in the morning. I didn't have the energy to put on my work clothes, so I just stayed in my pajamas.

The only work I was doing was walking into the living room, taking a cup of coffee, and sitting down in my easy chair. It took a lot of work to get here.

Not only did I not change out of my pajamas, but The Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage did the same. One thing was quite strange: she never left the house to go shopping. That was the real clue that she was sick.

We couldn't handle much activity, but then The Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage invented some game for us to play. She called it the "Cough and Sneeze Challenge." I never heard of that before, but I was in for it. I had nothing else to do, and there was no way I could stop from coughing or sneezing.

It was rather strange that I sneezed three times. I couldn't sneeze just once or even twice, but three times.

At the beginning, The Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage was far ahead of me in her coughing and sneezing. After all, she got this flulike thing way before I did. But it did not take long for me to catch up with her.

We were sitting together in the living room, coughing and sneezing in turn. I would let her go first, and then I would follow not long after. I tried to be a gentleman about it, but pretty soon I was no longer in control of my coughing and sneezing.

She had a couple of hours ahead of me, but it wasn't long before I caught up.

After my last coughing and sneezing fit, I looked at The Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage and said, "When will this game be over?"

She coughed and sneezed and then cleared her throat and said, "It will be over when one of us wins the contest."

I really didn't know what she was talking about or how to respond. It went on for five days, and each day seemed worse than the one before. We got up in the morning coughing and sneezing, and it continued throughout the day, and then we went to bed coughing and sneezing.

"I have an idea," I said to her, "if I surrender and let you win can we then call it quits?"

STUART TOLCHIN PUT THE LIGHTS ON

THE HIGH COST OF FREE SPEECH

"Her death is a tragedy, regardless of her partisan affiliations, ideological beliefs, or who pulled the trigger. A woman got shot in the face." – Tucker Carlson on the killing of Renee Good (Yes, Tucker Carlson)

On January 3, we had the capture of Nicolas Maduro in Venezuela to kick off the new year, with the expectation it would dominate headlines for at least several days. But just four days later, barely a week into the new year, we had the killing of Renee Good by ICE in Minneapolis.

And now headlines are focused not so much on the killing itself but on the administration's response to it. There wasn't the usual offering of condolences and urging calm pending results of an investigation. A commenter, identifying herself as having a background in domestic abuse, described it instead as sickeningly similar to attempts at blaming the victim as responsible for whatever led the abuser to hit her.

Within hours of the shooting, President Trump called victim Renee Good's widow Becca "obviously, a professional agitator". As for Good herself, she "violently, willfully and viciously ran over the ICE Officer". Nothing showed Good having run over anybody, nor any intent other than to leave. Her last words to the officer were, "That's fine, dude. I'm not mad at you." The first words of the officer after killing her were, "F*cking B*tch".

Officers prevented anyone from providing medical aid to Good – including a bystander who identified himself as a doctor. Before EMS arrived, ICE officers, including alleged shooter Jonathan Ross, had scampered into their SUV and fled – altering the crime scene in the process. And when the ambulance did get there, it was further delayed by abandoned ICE vehicles left behind.

For Vice President JD Vance, Renee Good was a "deranged leftist". Whatever lying there was, he blamed "you people in the media". With no evidence, he claimed "she was trying to ram this guy with her car". Vance characterized the actions not of the armed, masked thugs in our streets but rather those of Renee Good as "classic terrorism". And then, following the routine of abuser blaming the victim, he called it "a tragedy of her own making".

DHS Secretary Kristi Noem, barely a couple hours after the shooting, accused Renee Good of having "engaged in domestic terrorism". DHS spokeswoman Tricia McLaughlin, prior to any investigation, repeated that Good "weaponized her vehicle in an attempt to kill or cause bodily harm to federal law enforcement". (Illinois Gov. JB Pritzker has called McLaughlin a "pathological liar".)

On Wednesday, January 7th, we stopped to support our neighbors. We had whistles. They had guns. We were raising our son to believe that no matter where you come from or what you look like, all of us deserve compassion and kindness. Renee lived this belief every day.

HOWARD HAYS AS I SEE IT

A commenter, identifying herself as having a background in domestic abuse, described it instead as sickeningly similar to attempts at blaming the victim as responsible for whatever led the abuser to hit her.

Within hours of the shooting, President Trump called victim Renee Good's widow Becca "obviously, a professional agitator". As for Good herself, she "violently, willfully and viciously ran over the ICE Officer". Nothing showed Good having run over anybody, nor any intent other than to leave. Her last words to the officer were, "That's fine, dude. I'm not mad at you." The first words of the officer after killing her were, "F*cking B*tch".

Officers prevented anyone from providing medical aid to Good – including a bystander who identified himself as a doctor. Before EMS arrived, ICE officers, including alleged shooter Jonathan Ross, had scampered into their SUV and fled – altering the crime scene in the process. And when the ambulance did get there, it was further delayed by abandoned ICE vehicles left behind.

For Vice President JD Vance, Renee Good was a "deranged leftist". Whatever lying there was, he blamed "you people in the media". With no evidence, he claimed "she was trying to ram this guy with her car". Vance characterized the actions not of the armed, masked thugs in our streets but rather those of Renee Good as "classic terrorism". And then, following the routine of abuser blaming the victim, he called it "a tragedy of her own making".

DHS Secretary Kristi Noem, barely a couple hours after the shooting, accused Renee Good of having "engaged in domestic terrorism". DHS spokeswoman Tricia McLaughlin, prior to any investigation, repeated that Good "weaponized her vehicle in an attempt to kill or cause bodily harm to federal law enforcement". (Illinois Gov. JB Pritzker has called McLaughlin a "pathological liar".)

On Wednesday, January 7th, we stopped to support our neighbors. We had whistles. They had guns. We were raising our son to believe that no matter where you come from or what you look like, all of us deserve compassion and kindness. Renee lived this belief every day.

The day after the shooting, FBI Director Kash Patel announced his agency would have sole control over the investigation; banning local police from interviewing witnesses and any cooperation with state investigators. Secretary Noem claimed state authorities "don't have any jurisdiction". Fordham law professor John Pfaff called that "openly lying", contradicted by the FBI's own website. Former federal prosecutor Ken White says the Trump Administration's position is that their agents can "kill people and that state and city have no jurisdiction to inquire about it".

Vance lied again when he claimed ICE agents enjoy "absolute immunity", a claim repeated by Stephen Miller. It's a claim Minneapolis Mayor Jacob Frey calls "pretty bizarre... That's not true in any law school in America". Norman Ornstein warns, "The notion expressed by Trump, Vance and Noem that there is absolute immunity for a cold-blooded murder if it's carried out by one of their agents is the final straw. If we do not turn this around, we are done as a free society and a decent country".

Renee's widow Becca Good issued a statement; "On Wednesday, January 7th, we stopped to support our neighbors. We had whistles. They had guns. We were raising our son to believe that no matter where you come from or what you look like, all of us deserve compassion and kindness. Renee lived this belief every day."

Federal prosecutors in Minneapolis volunteered to work on the investigation into the killing of Renee Good on their own time. But the Justice Department told them there would be no charges pursued against ICE officers. Instead, they were to pursue charges against Becca Good. Four senior officials in the Justice Department's Civil Rights Division and six from the Minneapolis U.S. Attorney's office then resigned.

This story should dominate headlines through the midterms. But now, Trump tells CBS News anchor Tony Dokoupil, "you'll perhaps be very happy" with actions the U.S. will be taking in Iran. Stephen Miller assures, "Nobody's going to fight the United States militarily over Greenland". For whatever reason, ICE is detaining members of the Oglala Sioux. And still those Epstein files.

We're barely at mid-January. It's going to be a long year.

OP ED: SIERRA MADRE SIDEWALKS

Over the past few weeks, I have attempted to bring an increased awareness exposing the public safety hazards that plague our neglected and failing sidewalks and streets. The number of people that have contacted me explaining the injuries and broken bones from trip-and-falls was way greater than I imagined.

One accident even required surgery with metal implants placed in a man's leg that was broken due to a fall. Regarding the legal liability of sidewalk trip-and-fall injuries, it is important to realize that the City is responsible for injuries where the vertical displacement (vertical change in height) in sidewalk trip-hazards is 1/2" or greater. Both ADA and OSHA requirements consider a vertical change in level between 1/4" - 1/2" inch a tripping hazard.

The good news is that Sierra Madre is not a city filled with residents that keep ambulance-chasing lawyers on speed-dial. The liability payouts would be astronomical. If 1/2" or more is the legal threshold, Sierra Madre's sidewalks are potentially legal and financial landmines ripe for injuries and potential litigation.

What I find extremely concerning is that City Hall and our elected councilmembers continually fail to fund our public works department sufficiently to repair and maintain safe sidewalks.

Last March, 2025, I reached out to the then City Manager and the then Director of Public Works, (neither of which are currently employed in the City) expressing my concerns after learning of trip-and-fall accidents that resulted in broken bones.

Shortly after, on April 2, 2025, a discussion item was placed on the April 8, 2025's city council agenda titled, SUBJECT: CONTINUATION OF SIDEWALK PROGRAM-IMPLEMENTATION OF ZONES 1 & 3 (FY 2024-2025)Copies of the report can be obtained on the City's website at <https://www.sierramadreca.gov/common/pages/GetFile.ashx?key=XX-Q9AZ3q>.

After reading and rereading the staff report several times I was amazed at the level of gaslighting and, rather frankly, the dishonesty contained in that report.

Whether the report was designed to mislead the city councilmembers or the public at large is uncertain. Regardless, the staff report basically was patting staff on the back stating that they have done a stellar job and that the sidewalks are safe.

The abridged version of that staff report explains the four year $240,000 contract that was awarded to a contractor to eliminate sidewalk trip-and-fall hazards throughout the entire city. The actual work to be performed was to take place during the first three years and the fourth year was to provide an inspection and status update of the condition of the sidewalks.

The FY 2025-2026 concludes the fourth year but we have yet to be given that status report. As I have mentioned before in other posts, it would be a masterpiece of understatement to say that our sidewalks are dangerous with trip hazards throughout the entire city. But when one reads the staff report, it claims otherwise.

Actually, on Page 2 of the report it reads that this $240,000 contract was "ensuring that by the end of the cycle all parts of the City receive needed repairs or upgrades."

Considering all work cycles have been completed, ask yourself if all parts of the City received the needed repairs or upgrades. It would be suspiciously and blatantly dishonest to make that claim. Perhaps the biggest gaslit and dishonest claim in the staff report can be found on Page 4 and it reads that as of summer last year that there is a "...nearly 100% reduction in known tripping hazards on City sidewalks.) Take a stroll on almost any street in Sierra Madre and you realize that nothing could be further from the truth.

Page 4 proves itself to be the mother-load of governmental gaslighting. Claims that read, "...early indications from those completed zones [2 and 4] are very positive." However just look at the condition of North Baldwin in these zones and the truth reveals a much different story.

In those zones, the sidewalk in front of the Episcopal Church is nothing short of dangerous. Or diagonally across the street from St. Rita's Church on the northwest corner where a senior citizen with a walker would be at an extreme risk.

The gaslighting becomes even more outrageous on Page 4 when it makes the claim that this program "...will ensure that Sierra Madre's sidewalks remain safe and accessible for years to come" or even that "implementing Zone 1 and 3 repairs this year is the capstone of the City's four-year sidewalk safety initiative, reinforcing our commitment to public safety, fiscal prudence, and thoughtful infrastructure stewardship." I'm just surprised that the City Councilmembers bought into it.

Additionally, in that meeting, the City Manager made the comment that the contractor "...did an extraordinary job...", which in my opinion gave his approval of the gaslighting in the staff report. To the public at large, ask yourself, "Were these supposed sidewalk repairs satisfactory and was the staff report accurate and what you expected when you paid $240,000 of your tax money?"

Do you honestly believe that nearly 100% of the trip hazards were removed or were you duped into believing so? And there is a bit more to the story. At the meeting when this was staff report was presented, I approached the councilmembers and used my 3 minutes of allocated time to address the inaccuracies in the report.

In order to validate my point and concerns, I invited all five councilmembers to spend 15 minutes to meet me on Baldwin and walk one block from Laurel to Grandview and show them how poorly the contractor did, how there was no inspection of their work, how inaccurate the staff report was, and for them to actually see for themselves the hazardous trip hazards that still existed.

A time was set but none of them showed. Several months later, one of the councilmembers approached me and said he eventually went and looked at that section on North Baldwin. He agreed that the hazards still remained and that it would be repaired. As of today, months later, nothing has been done and the hazards still remain, neglected.

Until the council directs the city staff to provide them with a Public Works budget that sufficiently funds the necessary funding requirements to keep our sidewalks, streets, and other infrastructures safe, maintained, and repaired, injuries will continue to plague the City.

Our City budget needs to consider and realize that much of the work our Public Works' boots-on-the-ground crews perform is as critical to public safety as is the Fire Department's and the Police Department's.

It's time for our elected officials and City staff to take a more honest and responsible look at our failing infrastructures and report it honestly, openly, and accurately to the public and fund it appropriately. Sierra Madre deserves nothing less.
