Sierra Madre Celebrates Halloween with a Full Day of Family-Friendly Festivities on October 31

Put on your costumes and get ready for a full day of Halloween fun! On Saturday, October 31, Sierra Madre will celebrate with the Hometown Halloween Festival, Downtown Trick-or-Treating, and the neighborhood's festive Alegria Avenue traditions.

10:00 AM – 2:00 PM | Hometown Halloween Festival • Memorial Park
Start the day with FREE family fun, including Trunk-or-Treat, a pumpkin patch, Kids' Spook Zone, face painting, food trucks, a photo booth, and live music by The Skinny Ties. Catch the Sierra Madre Dance Center at 10:30 AM!

2:00 PM – 5:00 PM | Downtown Trick-or-Treating Keep the costumes on and visit participating local businesses for treats! The Sierra Madre Chamber of Commerce is coordinating business participation, and the downtown street closure will give families more room to stroll.

5:00 PM – 10:00 PM | Alegria Avenue Halloween Activities Wrap up the day with decorated homes and neighborhood trick-or-treating. Sierra Madre Police will assist with traffic and pedestrian safety, and Jan's Towing is providing additional lighting.

Plan Ahead: Temporary Street Closures

Downtown/Memorial Park: Closures begin with setup at 8:30 AM and continue through the downtown event. Key closures include Sierra Madre Boulevard (City Hall crosswalk to Baldwin Avenue), Baldwin Avenue (Sierra Madre Boulevard to Montecito Avenue),

South Hermosa Avenue (Sierra Madre Boulevard to Mariposa Avenue), and adjoining access points. Streets will reopen in stages after 5 PM, with completion expected by approximately 7 PM.

Alegria Avenue: Closed between Baldwin Avenue and North Mountain Trail Avenue, approximately 4:30–10:30 PM. All reopening times are subject to public safety approval.

Please follow barricades and traffic directions, allow extra travel time, and help make Halloween safe and fun for everyone! For information, call Community Services at (626) 355-5278.

About Sierra Madre
Nestled against the scenic foothills of the San Gabriel Mountains and adjacent to the Angeles National Forest, Sierra Madre is a close-knit, village-like community with a population of just under 11,000. Located 15 miles northeast of downtown Los Angeles, Sierra Madre offers easy access to regional transportation corridors while maintaining the charm and tranquility of a small mountain town. The City is known for its historic downtown, iconic Wistaria vine, walkable neighborhoods, and vibrant community traditions, including its beloved Fourth of July and Mount Wilson Trail Race events. With its strong volunteer spirit, highly engaged residents, and a longstanding commitment to preserving its unique character, Sierra Madre continues to be recognized as one of the most desirable places to live in the San Gabriel Valley—offering a quality of life that truly feels like "Village Living in the Foothills."

CITY OF SIERRA MADRE INVITES COMMUNITY TO 2026 STATE OF THE CITY ADDRESS

"Protecting What We Love. Preparing for the Future."
Mayor Kristine Lowe to Highlight City Accomplishments and Priorities for the Future

The City of Sierra Madre invites residents, businesses, and community members to attend the 2026 State of the City Address on Thursday, November 12, at 5:30 p.m. at the Sierra Madre Fire Station, 242 W. Sierra Madre Boulevard.
Presented by Mayor Kristine Lowe, this year's address, themed "Protecting What We Love. Preparing for the Future," will celebrate Sierra Madre's accomplishments over the past year and share the City's priorities for the future.
The presentation will highlight progress in public safety, wildfire preparedness, infrastructure improvements, and responsible financial management.
Mayor Lowe will also recognize accomplishments such as the newly renovated Sierra Madre Public Library. As the City celebrates this significant investment in its future, attention must also turn to other aging infrastructure, particularly the City's fire and police facilities, water infrastructure and other important priorities as Sierra Madre plans for the future and works to ensure essential services remain safe, effective, and sustainable for generations to come.
The presentation will also celebrate the City's cherished community traditions and recognize the residents, volunteers, and City employees who contribute to Sierra Madre's exceptional quality of life.
"Sierra Madre is a special place, and protecting what we love means being thoughtful and proactive about our future," said Mayor Lowe. "This is an opportunity to celebrate what we've accomplished together, recognize the people who make it possible, and share how we're preparing our community for the years ahead."
The evening will include a special performance of the National Anthem by Daniel Rodriguez, retired NYPD officer, 9/11 survivor, and internationally recognized tenor, followed by Mayor Lowe's State of the City Address. Guests are invited to tour the Sierra Madre Fire Department and enjoy light refreshments following the presentation.

The Brown Act provides the public with an opportunity to make public comments at any public meeting. As an alternative, public comment may be submitted by e-mail to publiccomment@sierramadreca.gov by 3:00PM on the day of the meeting. Emails will be acknowledged at the City Council meeting and filed into public record.

A copy of the posted agenda and a live video stream of the meeting can be found on the City's website at sierramadreca.gov on Foothills Media website at foothillsmedia.org sierramadre, and broadcast on Government Access Channel 3 (Spectrum).

1630 AM EMERGENCY RADIO & Free on-air publicity for local events

Sierra Madre's EMERGENCY radio station is now accepting scripts for Public Service Announcements (PSAs) about community events. PSAs will be broadcast on the air at no charge. The station operates 24/7 and can be heard at 1630 on the AM dial.

Any local non-profit or non-commercial organization can have their event information broadcast to the public on Sierra Madre Community Information Radio. The station covers the city of Sierra Madre, plus surrounding areas of Pasadena, Arcadia, and Monrovia.

Your event must:

- Benefit a non-commercial or non-profit entity
- Be open to the public
- Be of general interest to local citizens

Just write a Public Service Announcement that describes your event and e-mail it to radio@cityofsierramadre.com.

WALKING SIERRA MADRE: The Social Side by Deanne Davis

Here they come, walking down the street,
They get the funniest looks from
Everyone they meet!
Hey! Hey! It's the zombies!
These guys really get around,
You just better keep a look out,
They might come to our town!

Yes, friends and neighbors, I've got Halloween fever and there will be so much going on around town to keep it going! The Scarecrow Festival is well underway and I'm sure you've already got yours planned and possibly even up in your neighborhood doing a good job frightening people.
The picture this week, obviously, another scarecrow!

Window painting takes place on October 23rd and 24th with awards at noon on the 24th in Kersting Court.

The Hometown Halloween Festival in Memorial Park with a pumpkin patch, trunk or treat, food, and a spook zone, all from 10 am to 2 pm will get your Halloween going…then, when night falls and something spooky is behind every tree, take a walk down Alegria and see what awesome sights will be on display. Pumpkins of every size, shape and grotesque carved face, guaranteed to scare you. So much fun!

With vampires, monsters and witches galore,
Lurking behind every closed door,
As you knock, beware the host,
Will they be friendly, or a ghoul or ghost?

Will they bear treats of candy and toys?
Or will they pounce on little girls and boys!
The pumpkins and lights show they're happy to play,
Or are they a trick to attract their prey?

Knock carefully, dear children, and be ready to run
Should a hobgoblin answer, looking for fun.
Just how fast can your little legs go?
Can they outrun a werewolf, should one open the door?

Beware the black cat, should he make himself known,
For near this house, he is ready to roam.
Happy Halloween to all who may knock,
From all the creatures watching 'round the clock.

Be out after midnight, only if you dare,
When monsters and vampires look for children to share!
Those pumpkins who all look so friendly and sweet,
Take on a new look when the clock's midnight's complete.

The pumpkins leering with devilish grins,

Hide all the horrors residing within.
Candles flicker, casting eerie glows,
On the magical night when the terror flows!

Most of these terrifying verses are anonymously written, I can't take all the credit. But here and there a verse is mine and it's so much fun to share. Have you gotten your candy yet? We will be hitting Costco next week to stagger out with ours so we are ready when the ghouls and goblins appear at our door.
So lock your doors and say a prayer,
For Halloween's a night of scare,
When the supernatural and the creepy unknown,
Come to life with a bone-chilling moan!

Pasadena Annual Veterans Day Celebration

Officials announced Wednesday that The City of Pasadena Parks, Recreation and Community Services Department (PRCS), in partnership with the Pasadena Veterans Day Planning Committee, is set to host its annual Veterans Day Celebration November 11, from 10 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. at Pasadena City Hall. The event will honor the service and sacrifice of the nation's veterans.

This year's celebration recognizes the 250th anniversary of American independence and the legacy of the U.S. Army, Navy and Marine Corps. The program will honor generations of service members and the women who supported them throughout the nation's history.

The program will be led by Veterans Day Planning Committee Chair Sarah Towne-di Cicco, Honorary Chapter Regent of the Martin Severance Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution.

The keynote speaker will be Sandra Rhoten, who served during the Vietnam War from 1969 to 1970 with the American Red Cross Supplemental Recreation Activities Overseas. She was one of 627 women selected to support service members in combat zones. Known as "Donut Dollies," these women traveled by helicopter to forward locations to boost troop morale by distributing sundry items, playing Victrola records and serving hot coffee and freshly made donuts. Rhoten later coordinated programs with the U.S. Army in Germany from 1972 to 1975.

A highlight of the celebration will be a Condor Squadron flyover at 11:11 a.m. The event will also feature free hot dogs, interactive exhibits and activities for all ages. Community members are invited to join Pasadena in honoring the nation's veterans and celebrating their enduring legacy.

Pasadena city hall is located, 100 N. Garfield Ave.

Pasadena Doo Dah Queen Tryouts

All are welcome to throw their hat in the ring as event organizers announced Pasadena Doo Dah Queen Tryouts this Sunday at the Old Towne Pub. On hand for the wild ride will be queen-hopefuls, former Queens, Everlasting King Clayton, Magistrate Vince, Czar Tom, Duke of Doo Dah, Rocket Man the emcee, veteran parade entrants, tryout supporters, and those too curious to stay away. Live music throughout the afternoon will be performed by Ma the Band. Doors open at 2 p.m., Competition starts at 3 p.m. the event is free.

The public is welcome to weigh influence on the Doo Dah glitterati. Contestants will have three minutes to strut their stuff. Dress extravagantly (whatever that means to you), come prepared, and be ready to demonstrate your gifts–whether it's song, dance, gags, recitation, impressions, looks, vibes, juggling, pantomime, ventriloquism, sword-swallowing, plate-spinning, glass blowing, whistling, or turning invisible, the hunt is on for someone who is the life of the party. Normal need not apply. This is a fast-paced variety show to match no other.

Doo Dah Queen Tryouts will take comers from all walks of life. The queen role is not exclusive to gender, sexuality, race, class, shape, or even species. Yes, lizards, birds, dogs, and critters of all kinds have tried out for the role of Queen! The new queen will be crowned by our reigning royal, Queen Bootleg Meg.

Past years have seen the crowning of many colorful, talented, and eccentric royals: Queens such as Sparrow Dena, Quing Robbie Ravenwood, Natalie "Mama Sunshine" Flores, "Sassy but Classy" Jennipha, Kavita of Peace and Love, Sabrina "Diva of Pasadena," Patrizzi Intergalactica, Red Rosie, Naughty Mickie, Tippi Headtrip and the Lost Language, Tequila Mockingbird, MeowMeowz, Susann of "Good Vibes, House Parties & Jabberwocky Jerk Sauce," and the 1978 original "Queen of the Stardust Ballroom" Dorothy Romani.

The Old Towne Pub, Enter at 34 Holly Street.

Pasadena Police Department Introduces First Tracking K-9

The Pasadena Police Department is introducing K-9 Seeka, its first tracking K-9, a specialized resource trained to follow a person's scent to help locate missing children and adults. Generously funded through community donations raised by the Pasadena Police Foundation, Seeka's acquisition required no public funds.

Seeka, a two-year-old female black Labrador Retriever, has completed specialized training to become a certified tracking K-9. Her name reflects her mission: to seek, search for and discover those in need of help.

Seeka's specialized tracking capabilities will enhance the Department's response to critical missing-person incidents and may be called upon to assist surrounding law enforcement agencies when needed. The department receives as many as half a dozen critical missing calls for service each year. Seeka's work will support efforts to locate vulnerable individuals and bring them safely home.

Seeka's training and certification come amid heightened public attention to the lifesaving role of tracking K-9s, following a widely shared story involving a bloodhound with the Prince George's County Police Department in Maryland. The bloodhound and its handler helped locate a young boy who had wandered away from home and was found after dark just feet from a busy highway. The story highlighted how a trained K-9's ability to follow a scent can make a critical difference in a missing-child search.

"Seeka represents an important addition to our department's ability to respond when someone goes missing," said Pasadena Police Chief Gene Harris. "We are grateful to the Pasadena Police Foundation and the community members whose generosity made this specialized resource possible. Their support helps us expand our capabilities and better serve Pasadena and our neighboring communities."

Seeka is partnered with Officer Daniel Velasquez, who has served with the Pasadena Police Department since 2016 and brings more than 18 years of law enforcement experience. Before joining Pasadena, Velasquez served with the Monrovia Police Department, where his assignments included patrol operations, field training, gang and narcotics investigations, traffic enforcement, and employment services.

Now that her certification is finalized, the team is available to assist with critical missing-person searches and investigations involving suspects who flee crime scenes.

The Pasadena Police Department thanks the Pasadena Police Foundation and the community for investing in this important public safety resource. Their generosity has helped bring a specialized capability to Pasadena that can benefit the community and neighboring jurisdictions when every minute matters.

Gabrieleno-Tongva Culture and Ecology

Learn about the cultural traditions of the Gabrieleno-Tongva people, including their traditional food systems, maritime culture and ecological practices, in a Cultural Thursday event onsite at the Pasadena Senior Center on Thursday, November 5 at 2 p.m.

Presented by Samantha M. Johnson Yang, who serves as a Tribal Ecologist with the Gabrieleno-Tongva Band of Mission Indians, this event will explore the intricate relationship between Indigenous peoples' relationship between people, land and ocean. Yang will share how Mother Earth provided the food, water, plants, animals and natural resources needed to sustain life in Southern California for countless generations prior to the arrival of European settlers.

The event is free for Pasadena Senior Center members and only $5 for non-members, and reservations are suggested. To register or for more information, visit pasadenaseniorcenter.org, then click on Lectures & Classes, then Cultural Thursdays.

Yang will also highlight how the Gabrieleno-Tongva people understood, cared for, and lived in relationship with the natural world, drawing upon generations of knowledge to thrive across the diverse landscapes and coastal waters of their ancestral homelands.

Samantha Morales Johnson Yang is an Afro-indigenous (Gabrielino/Tongva) multidisciplinary artist, environmental scientist, and ethnobotanist. She received her B.S. in marine biology before attending graduate school for her certificate in science illustration, she uses her experience to help connect Western Scientists with Indigenous Science philosophy. Samantha is the founder of the Gabrieleno-Tongva Stewardship Crew, which has been credited with helping save homes during the Eaton Canyon Fire of 2025 for their herbicide-free methods of invasive species removal.

Solar Power and Battery 101 PWP Virtual Workshop

Pasadena Water and Power (PWP) officials announced they are set to host a residential Solar Power and Battery 101 virtual workshop on November 5 at 6 p.m., giving customers a clear, simple introduction to going solar and what to expect from the process, including how residents can save an average of 20 percent to 30 percent on up-front costs.

In addition to sharing rebate information, PWP staff will cover the essential steps of solar power and battery storage installation including how to choose reputable vendors, the benefits of solar and battery storage, and navigating permits and electric code requirements.

"Choosing to install solar power and battery storage at home is a meaningful investment that pays off for both our customers and our city," said David Reyes, PWP General Manager. "It delivers clean energy, supports Pasadena's path toward 100% carbon-free electricity by the end of 2030, and gives homeowners greater control over their energy use and costs."

For accessibility information, or to request an accommodation, contact (626) 744-7311 or CSC@CityOfPasadena.net. Providing at least 72 hours advance notice will help ensure availability. For more information, and to register, visit PWPweb.com/Solar.

PPHD Recognizes Lead Poisoning Prevention Week

Director of Public Health, and the department ("PPHD") Manuel Carmona, recognize National Lead Poisoning Prevention Week from October 25 to 31 to raise awareness about lead exposure and help protect children. Most childhood lead poisoning is preventable through education, blood lead testing, and reducing environmental hazards.

There is no safe level of lead in a child's body. Children under age 6 are especially vulnerable to lead exposure, which can affect brain development, growth, learning, behavior, speech, and hearing. Because symptoms are not always visible, a blood test is the most reliable way to detect exposure. Families enrolled in Medi-Cal insurance are encouraged to ask their doctor about free blood lead level testing for children and individuals under 21 years of age.

Families can help prevent lead poisoning by asking their child's healthcare provider about blood lead testing, reducing lead hazards in homes and other places children spend time, and preventing lead dust from being brought home on work clothing and shoes.

Potential sources of lead exposure include the Eaton Fire, older buildings constructed before 1978, contaminated dust or soil, certain imported foods and spices, ceramics, cosmetics and traditional remedies, and activities such as soldering or stained-glass work.

Wildfires can release harmful substances into the environment, including lead from older buildings, ash, and debris. The Los Angeles County Department of Public Health launched a free blood lead testing initiative in areas impacted by the Eaton and Palisades fires. As of August 15, 2026, all but 11 individuals out of more than 2,100 (including 218 children) who were tested have been below the Centers for Disease Prevention and Control ("CDC") blood lead reference value of 3.5 micrograms per deciliter. All 11 individuals with slightly elevated blood lead levels were adults.

Parents and caregivers are encouraged to learn more about blood lead testing and prevention at: cdph.ca.gov.

SUPERVISOR KATHRYN BARGER CALLS FOR PAUSE ON ELECTED COUNTY EXECUTIVE PROPOSAL, PLEDGES NOT TO RUN FOR THE OFFICE

Los Angeles County Supervisor Kathryn Barger today urged the Board to slow a rushed governance reform process that leaves critical questions about cost, accountability, and constituent services unanswered, and pledged that she will not run for the newly proposed Elected County Executive position.

Supervisor Barger spotlighted the compensation proposed for the future Elected County Executive, which must be set at least $1 above any other County elected officer. Based on current figures from the Department of Human Resources and recent adjustments, she estimated the position could pay roughly $558,000 in total annual compensation, with pension eligibility. She noted that the Governor of California earns $245,000, roughly half that amount, and the County Executive will not be subject to term limits.

"With a $54 billion budget, more than 110,000 employees, no term limits, and no professional credentials required, the elected County Executive will be one of the most powerful and most highly paid politicians in the entire state of California and perhaps the nation," Supervisor Barger stated.

Citing the potential for conflicts of interest, since the current Board authored the measure that created the office, Supervisor Barger announced she will not run for Elected County Executive and called on her colleagues to make the same public pledge. She also asked County Counsel and the newly formed Ethics Commission to opine on conflicts that could arise when officials vote to create and empower a position they might later seek. "If we are approving these reforms, we should do so in a way that is not self-serving to any of us," she said.

On the proposed County Legislative Analyst, Supervisor Barger questioned why the Task Force is asking to accelerate the office's launch to October 2027–more than a year ahead of the timeline in Measure G –without a cost estimate. "The Board adopting the recommendations today is essentially signing a blank check," Supervisor Barger said. "That is neither a responsible nor transparent way to govern."

Supervisor Barger also noted that community input and involvement throughout this process has not been as robust as needed, with only a handful of individuals present in person and online during public meetings and comment periods. In addition, Measure G narrowly passed with only 51.6% voters in support.

Supervisor Barger cautioned that the proposed County governance structure could delay and weaken responsiveness to constituents, particularly in unincorporated communities. "We cannot compromise services and responsiveness to our unincorporated regions," she said, citing her office's work on North County road improvements, homeless outreach, and the rebuilding of Altadena after the Eaton Fire.

Hours before today's meeting, the Supervisors received a letter demanding, among other things, that the County immediately cease all spending to operationalize the Office of the County Executive. Supervisor Barger cited the letter in voicing her strong support for pausing the Governance Reform Task Force (GRTF) recommendations until January 2027.

Ultimately, this set of GRTF recommendations on the Elected County Executive, Office of Budget and Management, and County Legislative Analyst (Item 18 on today's Board agenda) was continued for 90 days by a majority of the Board 4-0-1, with one abstention.

HARABEDIAN'S FIRST ANNUAL PICKLEBALL TOURNAMENT RAISES FUNDS FOR ALTADENA'S LONG-TERM RECOVERY

All proceeds from the community tournament will benefit the Altadena Builds Back Foundation as residents continue rebuilding after the Eaton Fire.

Assemblymember John Harabedian (D-Pasadena) hosted his first annual district pickleball tournament with one goal in mind: raise money for Altadena's long-term recovery 21 months after the Eaton Fire.

All funds raised through the tournament will go to the Altadena Builds Back Foundation to support the community's ongoing recovery. Many Altadena residents continue to face the financial challenges of rebuilding their homes, navigation insurance claims, and finding a way to remain in the community they call home. Recovery takes years, and sustained support is critical to helping families rebuild and preventing longtime residents from being priced out of Altadena.

"Altadena still has a long road to recovery, and we can't lose sight of the families who are still trying to rebuild their homes and their lives. That's why we made raising money for Altadena the focus of this tournament. I'm grateful to everyone who came out to support the cause, and I look forward to bringing everyone back together next year to continue that support. Congratulations to Mayor Hobson and La Cañada Flintridge on taking home our first championship belt," said Assemblymember John Harabedian (D-Pasadena).

The tournament brought together local leaders, organizations, and community members for a day of friendly competition in support of a cause that continues to matter across the district.

20-YEAR-OLD MAN SUSPECTED OF FATALLY SHOOTING HIS 15-YEAR-OLD GIRLFRIEND AT HER HOME IN ARCADIA AND WHO LATER ATTEMPTED TO TAKEHIS OWN LIFE IN PASADENA REMAINS HOSPITALIZED

Paul Anthony Cruz was arrested after suffering a self-inflicted gunshot wound as police were preparing to contact him at about noon on Thursday at 845 S. Arroyo Parkway in Pasadena in connection with the shooting death of the teen, identified by the Los Angeles County medical examiner's office as Mina Kurdian.

Cruz is suspected of breaking into the Arcadia home of the girl, who he was dating, Thursday morning and fatally shooting her.

Arcadia police and Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department homicide detectives were summoned at about 11 a.m. to her residence on the 800 block of West Huntington Drive.

Cruz was taken to a hospital in critical condition, and had not been logged into Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department's online inmate information as of Friday morning.

The motive for the killing remains under investigation.

Several bystanders were in the area when Cruz shot himself. Workers from an auto shop across the street told ABC7 that they heard a shot, then ran outside to see police officers approach a person to handcuff him.

``We look out the window, there's this guy, he's laying face down on the floor," Michael Amini, manager at Alliance Auto Body Works, told the station. ``A couple seconds later, police officers show up and they close off the area." (CNS)

BRANDON KARMANN RETURNS TO ARCADIA AS CHIEF OF POLICE

(ARCADIA, CA) – The City of Arcadia is proud to announce Brandon Karmann has been selected to serve as Chief of Police. A 24-year law enforcement veteran, Chief Karmann returns to the Arcadia Police Department, where he first served in 2002.

"Returning to Arcadia as Chief of Police is deeply meaningful to me. This is where my law enforcement career began, and I'm honored to return and serve the department, the City, and the community," Chief Karmann said. "I believe our employees are our greatest asset. When people feel supported, respected, and empowered to do their jobs well, the entire organization grows stronger and the community benefits. I look forward to working alongside our dedicated employees, building strong relationships with our community, and continuing to make Arcadia a safe and welcoming place for everyone."

Chief Karmann most recently served as a police captain with the West Covina Police Department, where he spent more than two decades in leadership, investigative, and administrative roles. He oversaw major operations and led improvements in training, community engagement, and department technology, including upgrading the dispatch and records systems and expanding body-worn and in-car cameras.

Chief Karmann succeeds former Chief Roy Nakamura, who retired in July after 34 years of service. City Manager Dominic Lazaretto appointed Chief Karmann following a nationwide search.

"This is a full-circle moment for Chief Karmann, and I am excited to welcome him back to Arcadia to lead the Police Department," said City Manager Dominic Lazaretto. "His background reflects a strong commitment to collaborative leadership and community policing, and I look forward to seeing him build upon the Department's successes and longstanding partnerships. As we welcome this next chapter of leadership, I also want to recognize and thank Police Captains John Bonomo and Kollin Cieadlo, who each stepped up to serve as Interim Chief during this transition."

Chief Karmann holds a master's degree in criminal justice from Arizona State University and a bachelor's degree in criminology from the University of La Verne.

Karmann became Arcadia's 31st police chief on October 19, 2026.

DUARTE UNIFIED AND DUARTE KIWANIS PARTNER TO SUPPORT YOUTH

Daily attendance in local schools has continued to be a problem after COVID. Duarte Unified School District lost approximately $1,977,000 due to absences last year. To help focus on this problem, Fedelia Suleiman focuses on Child Welfare Attendance for the district. She partners with counselors at each school site. This year, every school site within the district has a counselor on site for the first time. She and Naelh Othman shared information with the Duarte Kiwanis Club at a recent meeting. This year, the number of Foster Children in the district has increased to 22. There are currently 164 children who are considered homeless. The Kiwanis Club helps support these children by providing donations to cover unmet needs - a bus pass for a child living in various motels, gas money for a mom to get her child to school, a gift card for food, a certificate for clothes at a local business. Truly, they help provide an investment in these children for the future - and for the future of the community. Pictured from left Duarte Kiwanis President, Cesar Garcia, Naelh Othman and Fedelia Suleiman.

If you are interested in joining the Duarte Kiwanis or presenting at a future meeting, please contact Tina Carey at tinac51@aol.com.

WHEN A LOVED ONE REFUSES ASSISTED LIVING: HOW TO START THE CONVERSATION

For many families, one of the most difficult challenges is convincing an aging loved one that it may be time to consider assisted living. Even when safety concerns are growing, the response is often the same: "I want to stay in my own home."

It is an understandable reaction. Home represents independence, familiar surroundings, cherished memories, and a sense of control. The thought of leaving it can be frightening. Rather than arguing or trying to force a decision, families can take steps to make the conversation more positive and productive.

Start by listening. Ask your loved one what matters most about staying home. Are they afraid of losing their independence, leaving friends behind, or giving up their familiar routines? Acknowledging these concerns helps build trust and shows that you respect their feelings.

Focus on safety and quality of life, not what they can no longer do. Instead of saying, "You can't live alone anymore," try explaining that you want them to remain safe, comfortable, and socially connected. Discuss concerns such as falls, medication management, difficulty preparing meals, loneliness, or the growing burden of household chores.

Introduce the idea gradually. Visiting an assisted living community for lunch, attending an activity, or taking a tour without making any commitments can help ease anxiety. Allow your loved one to participate in choosing a community and deciding which amenities are important to them.

It is also helpful to explain that assisted living does not mean giving up independence. Residents can often maintain their own schedules, enjoy activities, make new friends, and receive help with daily needs when necessary.

Sometimes, despite a family's best efforts, a loved one will continue to resist. Patience is essential. Involving a trusted physician, family friend, or senior care professional may help make the discussion less emotional and more objective.

The goal is not to win an argument. It is to help someone you love understand that accepting assistance can be a positive step toward maintaining dignity, security, and a better quality of life.

OUT TO PASTOR

A Weekly Religion Column by Rev. James Snyder

MAYBE WE SHOULD GO BACK TO THE HORSE AND BUGGY DAYS

Every Sunday morning, The Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage and I go across town for our ministry at an assisted living facility. We've been doing this for approximately four years now. It's a wonderful ministry we enjoy.

The Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage always drives her Sissy Van while I sit in the passenger seat. She prefers to drive because she really doesn't like riding in my pickup truck. I don't blame her, so I let her drive across town. I'm not too fond of riding in the Sissy Van, but I have no other choice. Getting in and out is quite the task.

Last week, as we were going across town, the traffic was horrible. I can't remember when traffic was this bad. It seemed like we were driving bumper-to-bumper all the way across town. Where do all of these cars come from? And why are they on the road on Sunday?

Of course, in this kind of environment, there are many accidents. During the last year, I had 4 friends killed in an automobile accident.

When I was young, people drove on Sunday to go to church. Now, that seems to be off the schedule for most people today. I have no idea where they are going. The important question for me is: why are they driving so crazy?

This week, as we were driving across town, I thought about something from back in the day. We had quite a few Amish people in our community. I even had an Amish friend.

My great-grandmother was Amish but was shunned because she dated an "English" guy, who became my great-grandfather.

As you might know, the Amish do not drive automobiles. They don't have electricity in their homes, or plumbing, or anything like that. They don't believe in that sort of thing. They live a very simple lifestyle.

The most significant thing about the Amish is that, instead of driving an automobile, they drive a Horse-And-Buggy. I remember riding with my friend in a Horse-And-Buggy, and I had a great time.

Thinking about the Horse-And-Buggy community, I realized there were very few accidents. In fact, I can't remember a single accident involving a Horse-And-Buggy.

Compared to automobiles, I'm not sure how many accidents happen each year. I'm sure it's pretty high, and I'm sure many people die as a result of automobile accidents.

But I have yet to hear of somebody dying because of a Horse-And-Buggy accident. I'm not saying it hasn't happened; I've just never heard of it.

What if we went back to those Horse-And-Buggy days? Back to the time when we weren't all caught up with the latest technology available.

Maintaining a Horse-And-Buggy is far cheaper than an automobile. Gas alone can bankrupt a person. Gas is a lot more expensive for a car than the oats and hay a horse eats.

As we were traveling across town, I looked at my wife and said, "Maybe we should get a Horse-And-Buggy instead of this Sissy Van."

She looked at me, then said, "Neeeeeigh."

I didn't mention that again because I understood exactly what she was saying. I'm not going to nag her about that.

It was rather warm that morning, and The Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage turned on the air conditioner and said, "I like air conditioning, don't you?"

As I enjoyed the air conditioning, I understood exactly what she meant. I've ridden in several Horse-And-Buggies, and not one of them had air conditioning. In fact, riding down the road, I was exposed to the weather all around me. Sometimes it was a sweating experience.

Horse-And-Buggy has some advantages, I suppose. But as I thought about it, I realized the advantages of The Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage's Sissy Van are far greater. Usually, when I rode in a Horse-And-Buggy, it was out in the country, with very little traffic. It just occurred to me what an advantage that is.

Even though the Sissy Van is not my favorite mode of travel, I must confess it has advantages I should learn to appreciate. I thought long and hard about that, then turned to The Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage and said, "I must confess that I really do enjoy your Sissy Van."

She looked at me, then chuckled and replied, "I don't know if you're telling me a joke or setting me up for one of your pranks." Then she laughed some more.

I remember one time going into an Amish store. They had a big book section that I liked to go through. Amish are really into books. The store had no electricity, no lights, and no air conditioning. They did have lanterns throughout the store.

When I found a book, I went up to pay for it, and you will not guess what I saw there.
On the counter was the latest cash register, with all the perks I have ever seen.

When it comes to money, people will contradict their beliefs.

Thinking along this line, I remembered a wonderful verse of scripture.
"Wherefore comfort yourselves together, and edify one another, even as also ye do" (1 Thessalonians 5:11).

One of the great things in life as a Christian is appreciating other people, not because you agree with everything they do. Finding something to appreciate in everyone's life is a great challenge sometimes. Then I focus on that one area I appreciate. Not everything matters.

THE SAVVY SENIOR — HOW TO SAVE ON MEDICARE IN 2027

Dear Savvy Senior,
I'm on Medicare. What changes are coming in 2027, and how can I make sure I'm not paying too much for my coverage? --Careful Shopper

Dear Careful,
If you have Medicare, now's a good time to make sure you're getting the best coverage for your money. Open enrollment runs through Dec. 7, giving you a chance to switch Medicare Advantage or prescription drug plans for 2027. Since costs, drug coverage and extra benefits can change from year to year, comparing plans now could save you money and headaches later.

Even if you're happy with your current plan, don't assume next year's coverage will be the same. Here's what to look for.

Prescription drug changes
Medicare Part D prescription drug plans are changing, and some enrollees could pay more. In 2027, the maximum annual deductible will rise from $615 to $700, while the annual out-of-pocket limit for covered Part D medications will increase from $2,100 to $2,400.

That limit helps protect people who take expensive medications. Average premiums for stand-alone Part D plans are projected to rise by less than $1 a month, but individual plans can differ considerably. A temporary federal program that helped stabilize premiums is also ending, making it especially important to compare your options.

Your insurer may change its list of covered drugs, called a formulary, or move your medication to a more expensive cost tier. Check that your prescriptions are still covered and what you'll pay for them.

Medicare Advantage changes
If you have Medicare Advantage, the private-insurance alternative to Original Medicare, review your plan carefully. Some insurers are dropping plans or leaving certain markets, while others may change costs or trim extra benefits, such as dental, vision and hearing coverage.

Doctor, specialist and hospital networks can change, too. If your plan is being discontinued, you'll need to choose new coverage. Even if it continues, compare next year's costs, benefits and provider networks before automatically renewing.

Help with weight-loss drugs
A new Medicare GLP-1 Bridge program offers eligible beneficiaries certain medications for weight management for $50 a month through Dec. 31, 2027. Covered drugs include Wegovy, Zepbound (KwikPen only) and Foundayo.

Eligibility is limited. For example, you generally need Medicare drug coverage and must meet specific body mass index and health requirements. The program operates separately from regular Part D coverage, so the $50 monthly payment doesn't count toward your Part D deductible or annual out-of-pocket limit.

Learn more and check eligibility at Medicare.gov/coverage/weight-loss-drugs.

How to shop smart
Here are four ways to find coverage that fits your needs without overpaying.

Read your plan notice: Your insurer should send an Annual Notice of Change explaining next year's premiums, deductibles, copayments and coverage changes. Medicare Advantage members should also check provider networks and extra benefits.

Compare total costs: Visit Medicare.gov/plan-compare. Enter your medications and preferred pharmacies to compare plans and estimate annual costs. Don't focus on premiums alone; include deductibles and what you'll pay for prescriptions.

Check your doctors: If you're considering Medicare Advantage, contact your doctors and hospitals directly to confirm they'll accept the specific plan in 2027. Online directories can be outdated.

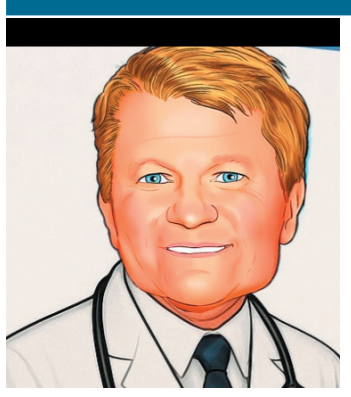

Get free help: Your State Health Insurance Assistance Program (SHIP) provides free, unbiased Medicare counseling. Find a local counselor at ShipHelp.org or call 877-839-2675.

One important caution: If you're thinking of switching from Medicare Advantage to Original Medicare, check your Medigap options first. In most states, insurers can deny you a Medigap policy or charge higher premiums based on your health history if you don't qualify for guaranteed-issue protections. Make sure you understand your options before dropping your current plan.

Take time to compare plans before Dec. 7. A little homework now could save you money and help you start 2027 with better coverage.

Send your questions or comments to questions@savvysenior.org, or to Savvy Senior, P.O. Box 5443, Norman, OK 73070.

90,000 VIEWS AND ONE CHINESE POP-UP: WHAT'S COOKING IN EAST PASADENA?

By Peter Dills

Just when I think I've seen everything in the restaurant business, something comes along that catches my attention. This time, it's a Chinese food pop-up on Colorado Boulevard in East Pasadena, just down the road from Sierra Madre.

Now, before anybody gets upset, let me make something perfectly clear. I love Chinese food. I love entrepreneurs. And I love watching someone take a chance on the American dream. My father, Elmer Dills, taught me that some of the best meals come from the most unexpected places. You don't need white tablecloths, expensive silverware or a fancy address to serve a great meal. But you do need customers, and apparently, this place has attracted plenty of attention!

Recently, I posted a photograph of the operation on my Facebook page. I figured a few hundred people might take a look. Ninety thousand views later, I realized I'd touched a nerve. Ninety thousand! Some people loved the idea. Others weren't so enthusiastic.
And naturally, a few Facebook experts knew absolutely everything about the operation without ever setting foot there. Welcome to social media!

I've been reviewing restaurants for more than 20 years, including writing for this newspaper since the days of The Mt. Wilson Observer. The names and publishers may have changed, but my appreciation for neighborhood restaurants hasn't. And neither has my curiosity.

Let's Talk About the Neighborhood
Sierra Madre, Arcadia and Pasadena have something special in common. We have wonderful independent restaurants, many operated by families who have invested their savings, their time and sometimes their entire lives into feeding us.

Think about your favorite neighborhood restaurant. The owner might arrive at seven in the morning and still be there at nine that evening. He's worried about food costs, labor, insurance, electricity, rent and whether enough customers will walk through the door tomorrow. And that's before he sells his first cheeseburger, taco or bowl of wonton soup.

Take Panda Inn, just a few blocks from the pop-up. The Cherng family opened the original Pasadena restaurant in 1973. That's more than half a century of serving the community. These businesses aren't just places to eat. They're the ones sponsoring Little League teams, donating gift certificates to school fundraisers and supporting neighborhood events when somebody comes knocking on the door asking for help.

I've seen it firsthand. When a local school needs a donation, who gets the call? The neighborhood restaurant. When a community organization needs food for an event, who gets the call? The neighborhood restaurant. When a family celebrates a birthday, anniversary or graduation, where do they go? You guessed it.

Now, About That Chinese Pop-Up
Here's where things get interesting. I've been in and around the restaurant business most of my life. I've seen restaurants open with great fanfare and close before the paint was dry. I've watched owners spend hundreds of thousands of dollars on kitchens, dining rooms, equipment and permits, only to discover that getting customers through the front door is the hardest part of the business.
And then along comes a Chinese food pop-up on Colorado Boulevard. No fancy dining room. No hostess asking if you have a reservation. No valet parking. Just food and customers. And apparently, plenty of opinions!

Now, I'm not suggesting that this particular business is doing anything wrong. I haven't inspected its permits, and frankly, I don't plan to. That's somebody else's job. But I do wonder about the little restaurant down the street. The one paying rent, utilities, insurance and payroll. The one that gets a visit from the health inspector and spends its Saturday afternoon donating food to the local Little League fundraiser. Doesn't that restaurant deserve a fair shake? I think so.
And that's really what this conversation is about. Not whether somebody can make a delicious plate of Chinese food on the sidewalk. It's whether we remember to support the neighborhood restaurants that have been supporting us for years.

What About the Food?
Interestingly, the comments on my Facebook post weren't all about permits and regulations. Some people said the food was terrific. Others weren't impressed. Welcome to the restaurant business! I've always said that if you put ten people around a dinner table, you'll probably get eleven opinions about the food.

I haven't personally sampled this particular pop-up, so I'm not going to pretend to give it a restaurant review. That wouldn't be fair to the operator or my readers. But the conversation surrounding it is worth having, and it's a conversation that extends well beyond Pasadena.

Whether you live in Sierra Madre, Arcadia, Monrovia or Hastings Ranch, you've probably noticed how the dining landscape is changing. Food trucks, sidewalk vendors, home-based food businesses and temporary pop-ups are becoming part of the equation. Some will succeed. Some won't. That's capitalism.

Here's Where I Stand
I don't want to see anybody's dream crushed. If someone makes wonderful dumplings, noodles or fried rice and wants to build a business, I say congratulations. But I also want to protect the restaurants that have supported our communities for decades. Those businesses have earned our respect, and they deserve a fair opportunity to compete.

My father had a saying: "Feed the masses and you'll eat with the classes." He believed that good food at a fair price was the foundation of a successful restaurant. I still believe that. But I also believe that when we talk about supporting local businesses, we need to remember the people who have been supporting us all these years.

That's one reason I've started my Eat Local campaign. Not to tell you where you must eat, but to remind you that the neighborhood restaurant you take for granted today might not be there tomorrow.

So, the next time you're deciding where to have lunch or dinner, consider the restaurant down the street. The one that sponsors your kid's baseball team, donates to your school's fundraiser and remembers your name.

As for that Chinese pop-up on Colorado Boulevard? I'm still scratching my head. And judging by those 90,000 Facebook views, apparently I'm not alone.

WINES FROM THE SIERRA MADRE WINE WALK ON SALE!

I'm Gustavo Lira, Tasting Room Manager and Wine Buyer at The Bottle Shop in Sierra Madre with another wine and spirits selection.

In my last article a couple of weeks ago, I told you that the Sierra Madre Wine Walk was back. It was a huge hit! Almost 400 people attended and were introduced to outstanding wines and introduced to all the great shops and businesses that we have here in Sierra Madre. A big shout out to the Wine Walk Committee who did a superb job putting the Wine Walk together.

If you made it to the Wine Walk and were interested in purchasing some of the wines, here's what is available at The Bottle Shop. If you missed out on the Wine Walk, here's your chance to buy some incredibly delicious wines that you won't see at your local grocery store.

Masia Bou Cava $17.99 – An outstanding sparkling wine from Spain. I'd drink this over Veuve Clicquot any time any day. Crisp, clean, zesty, mouthwatering and simply delicious!

Tablas Creek Patelin De Tablas Blanc 2025 $27.99 – Spectacular white blend of 40% Grenache Blanc, 23% Viognier, 13% Vermentino, 12% Roussanne, 6% Marsanne, and 6% Picpoul Blanc. Organically farmed. This wine will show you how white wines from Paso Robles are rocking!

Desire Lines Red Wine, Evangelho Vineyard Contra Costa County 2024 $29.99 – I heard that this wine was well received by the public. I couldn't agree more. This is one of the best blends you will ever taste, and the price is out of this world. From one of the oldest vineyards in California that is organically farmed, this is a blend of 90% Carignan and 10% Mourvèdre.

Akana Viognier, Spanish Springs Vineyard SLO Coast 2025 $39.99 – From one of my favorite winemakers in America – Aaron Jackson. This viognier has subdued aromatics of white floral notes. On the palate, it displays citrus, stone fruit, and grapefruit. Wonderful acidity and a long finish. This would be a superb Thanksgiving wine. Tired of Chardonnay and Sauvignon Blanc? Try this gorgeous wine instead!

Campo Hermoso Vino Tinto, Vino De Espana 2025 $14.99 - Mostly Mencía with Tempranillo and Garnacha blended in. It is sourced from Organically farmed vineyards in the La Manch region of Spain. It is fermented and aged in stainless steel to preserve freshness. Serve this at room temp or slightly chilled. Pair this with Jamon Iberico, pizza, pasta, and charcuterie. Juicy, bright, fruity but not sweet, and lips smacking good!

Until next time – Salud!

CONSIDER CREATING A BACKYARD "SURVIVAL CAMP"

These days, there are a lot of good reasons to increase your personal survival quotient.

And there are several distinct benefits to creating a "survival camp" right in your own backyard.

For example, once you create a backyard camp, you can use it to teach your children survival skills without having to take all the extra time of travel that actually going to a remote camp might require. And in the comfort of your own backyard, you can teach your children all the essential skills that will help them lifelong – and let them have a great time learning it all.

WHAT'S A BACKYARD SURVIVAL CAMP

First, what exactly should be in a backyard survival camp?
Think of it this way. Your home was just ravaged by an earthquake, and it's unlivable. There's no power, and the gas is out. There is no where to go, immediately, so you're now going to be living in the backyard camp that you had set up so long ago.

You're going to need everything that you'd have in camp in the woods, and it all needs to be self-sustaining.

You'll need a shelter, a toilet, a way to cook, a way to wash, and somewhere nearby, a supply of water, food, and basic hygiene gear and probably some tools.

If you're any sort of camper or prepper, you probably already have all the elements of this camp here and there in your garage, and closets, and storage areas. But now we're going to set it all up so you can "camp" in your backyard, alone, or with family and friends, for a short while, or overnight and longer.

Let's look at each part of the camp.

THE SHELTER

For most of you, this can just be a pop-up tent that you purchased at a backpacking store. Even if you don't plan to keep it up all the time, find a spot that is level, and maybe shaded.

COOKING

Cooking outdoors is easy on just a grill set on rocks, and you also need to have a supply of firewood to burn. Firewood is easy to come by, and it needn't be large. Small twigs start easier, and if you're just heating a small meal, a handful is usually enough to heat coffee or soup. Keep your firewood up off the ground somehow, and covered from the rain.

But cooking with an open fire can get old. You might consider having an old barbeque handy, as well as an hibachi. Both of these are easy to cook on, easy to store, and require minimal fuel for cooking.

Maybe you want something more like your kitchen stove. I'd suggest a Coleman camping stove, which typically has two burners and requires a can of fuel. These are durable, long-lasting, and easy to operate.

CLEANLINESS

Another necessity is a shower. In the past, we've heated water in a can, and then taken a "shower" with a half-gallon of hot water and a wash-rag. However, these days solar showers are sold everywhere, and they are highly recommended. I would not leave home for a camping trip without one, and I always keep one at home for possible backyard use. These are heavy-duty plastic bags which you fill with water, lay in the sun for a few hours til hot, and then hang up to take your shower. They come in various sizes, and I think the 2.5 gallon is the ideal size in terms of weight and time it takes to heat the water.

TOILET

There are several possibilities for a toilet in your survival camp.

The easiest, of course, is just a hole in the ground, that you cover with some soil after each use.

A bucket with a toilet seat cover is a bit better, and this allows you to move it about as needed, and then to bury the contents as needed.

These days, backpacking stores and camping stores sell a variety of camping and "emergency" toilets which are useful for car-camping, or camping in the backyard. These are worth considering. Don't forget to stock up on a little extra toilet paper.

OTHER

A backyard survival camp has a lot of benefits. It allows you the luxury of testing your gear and your skills, and you might actually have to use it in a real emergency.

You might make something very temporary, or more permanent, depending on your particular situation in terms of yard size, visibility to neighbors, and other factors.

Twice a year, most of us change our clocks by one hour. It doesn't sound like much. In fact, when daylight saving time ends in the fall, we get an extra hour. So why can that one little hour leave us feeling tired at the wrong time, hungry earlier than usual or suddenly less enthusiastic about taking that evening walk?

It turns out that changing the clock on the wall is easier than changing the clock inside your body. Our bodies operate on something called a circadian rhythm, basically an internal 24-hour clock. It helps regulate when we feel awake, when we get sleepy and even when we feel hungry. Light and darkness are two of the strongest signals that keep that internal clock on schedule. When we turn our clocks back, our schedules suddenly move by an hour, but our bodies don't necessarily adjust as quickly. According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, it can take about a week for our bodies to adjust to new times for sleeping, eating and activity.

One of the biggest changes we notice isn't really the clock at all. It's the sunlight. Suddenly, it gets dark an hour earlier, which can make a big difference if you normally walk after work, exercise outside after dinner or tend to be more active later in the day.

Researchers now have evidence that this actually changes when people move. A 2026 study published in Nature Health examined Fitbit activity data from participants in the National Institutes of Health's All of Us Research Program. After the fall time change, people didn't necessarily become less active overall, but they changed when they were active. Participants averaged about 202 more steps in the morning and about 180 fewer steps in the evening.

Our eating habits may change at this time of year too. One study of more than 300 adults who kept detailed food diaries found that people consumed more calories in the fall, particularly carbohydrates. They also ate larger meals and reported feeling hungrier even after those larger meals.

That doesn't mean darkness automatically makes us eat more, but there's another interesting piece to the puzzle. In a controlled study of our internal body clocks, researchers found that hunger was lowest in the biological morning and peaked in the biological evening. The desire for sweet, salty and starchy foods increased in the evening as well.

Put those findings together and fall can present an interesting challenge to staying fit. It becomes easier to skip that evening walk because it's dark outside at the same time our bodies may be telling us that sitting on the couch with something to snack on sounds pretty good.

There's also a simple reason to plan ahead. Once we change a familiar routine, it can be surprisingly easy for that change to become permanent. Missing an evening walk for a few days can turn into a few weeks. Finding a new time to exercise right away can help keep that from happening.

Knowing that gives us a chance to do something about it. If your normal workout feels harder for a few days after the time change, don't assume you're getting out of shape. Changes in sleep and our internal clock can affect how energetic we feel. If you're unusually tired, keep moving but back off a little. Walk instead of run, use lighter weights or shorten your workout. Maintaining the habit is more important than having one perfect workout.

We can also use the time change to our advantage. We lose an hour of daylight in the evening, but we gain earlier morning light. Morning light is a powerful signal for our internal clock, so try combining it with a little exercise. Take a 10- or 15-minute walk, walk the dog or simply find a reason to get outside and move.

If you're not a morning exerciser, adjust your routine another way. Take your walk at lunchtime, exercise right after work, walk indoors or break your activity into shorter periods throughout the day.

It may also be worth paying more attention to evening eating. If you tend to snack while sitting inside on a dark evening, ask yourself whether you're actually hungry or whether eating has simply become part of your evening routine. I know for myself, when I see darkness in the early evening, I go for comfort food whether I'm hungry or not.

So this year, when you turn back that clock, be prepared. Protect your sleep, get outside during daylight when you can, be aware of those evening snack cravings and keep moving.

PUT THE LIGHTS ON MENSCHKEIT

Have you ever seen these words in print? Frankly, I have not, but it has a specific meaning for me.A "mensch" a person who does the right thing even when no one is watching, guided by an internal moral compass rather than a desire for recognition. At least that is the definition of "mensch" provided ny Google. I am by my own definition a Jewish man with absolutely no religious training or belief. Nevertheless, I believe strongly in the obligations of a person to be a "mensch". First, being a "mensch" is not limited by gender or age. What it is not is a "mockery" of all one's other values in the pursuit of compensation, or acceptance, or self-satisfaction.

Hidden in the back pages of the paper for almost twenty years my articles are about one thing which I label as the Search for Truth. Let us contrast that search with Modern Day America which we have called Democracy. There is a need for all of us to be actively doing something and I think that is something more than voting or contributing to a cause or even just staying aware of the news.

For any of us to be living our presently comfortable, satisfactory lives just wondering about mid-term election results is inconsistent with "menschkeit" . Instead what should we be doing? Every day for the last couple of months my wife has driven me to Kaiser Baldwin Park Hospital where I sit at my son"s bedside and silently watch him suffer. As a result of an auto immune condition combined with medical procedures he has had no energy and cannot even sot up in bed or talk. A couple of nights ago he managed a few words to me. "I am terrified" he said.

What can I do to help? As I sit in the hospital I see other patients suffering being pulled across the floor on stretchers and taken to ambulances and going on as best as they can. On Sunday, sitting on a bench waiting to be picked up by my wife as I am finding it hardto walk, I realized I was just sitting there crying. How can I help my son, how can I help the world? What are my responsibilities connected to my being "human."HUMAN is the root European word for Mensch and according to me being a mensch should be the major continuous purpose of every Jewish person.

Let's talk about being Jewish for a moment. My father was born in the Ukraine, which was a part of Russia at the time. As a Jew, neither he or his siblings were allowed to go to school, but he told me that he sat beneath the windows of the schoolhouse listening to the lessons although they were being taught in Russian, a language he never learned. His family was threatened by a pogrom in 1919 and somehow they managed to escape eventually arriving in Chicago. My father was supposed to go to an American Junior High School but was so uncomfortable there he simply refused to go. Life was never easy for him, but eventually he and hos brothers started a business even while he was in the Army and the whole family was supported for awhile.

That was their "menschkeit" and even as my father went blind, he felt his major responsibility was to hode that fact from my mother and support the family for as long as he could. In a small way my life has been similar. Almost fifty years ago, I found myself as a single parent with two children to care for. My son was characterized as learning disabled but we pushed forward. Really, I think my son had an amazing life as he became part of an acting troop that performed at the Clinton Inauguration and later was married and became part of a wealthy family.

Well, that life has fallen apart and he has been hospitalized for two months. He is only in his early fifties and we still need to push forward and I must do more tjan sit on a bench snd cry. Yes, Americans we must all do more than sit on a bench and cru. Should we support a general strike that forces change? Can we afford not to go to work or lose our jons? Perhaps our solution is to keep joking and tasting and staying as aware and healthy as we can while we maintain our personal search for truth. I am off to the hospital again today and perhaps I can do more than cry. Pleading forward any ideas to stuarttolchin@gmail.com.

CRAZY BELIEFS THROUGH HISTORY

When was the last time your doctor brought a few leeches into the examination room and told you to roll up your sleeves? They called it bloodletting and the Egyptians came up with the idea, oh, about 3,000 years ago. The Greeks picked up on it, as did the Romans and it continued to be practiced into the 1800's…imagine that!

When it comes to crazy beliefs, we humans have no limit to our ability to exercise stupidity. (You might be exhibiting it right now reading my column!) Let's share some crazy misconceptions shall we?

For years there was a widespread belief that you had to worry about swallowing a watermelon or an apple seed. "Experts" told us they would sprout into a full vine inside your stomach. In a related topic people believed that you needed brown cows to produce chocolate milk. And yes, pink cows produced strawberry milk. (That's true isn't it?)

There was a misconception on the part of many that before the advent of color in photographs, tv and movies, color did not exist because it had not been invented yet. During the medieval era, what we call the Middle Ages from 500 to 1500 AD, it was generally held that the earth was flat. If you could go into space it would look like a giant frisbee to you. (You mean, that's not true?)

It may still be true that kids believe your belly button was the place where each of us were sewn together. "Play with your belly button and it might pop open warned concerned moms."

Speaking of children's misconceptions, kid psychologists tell us loads of kids believe their teachers actually live at the school. I suspect by college they don't hold onto that belief. But who knows?

Continuing with kid's misconceptions, I actually believed this. What? Well, I'll tell you. I and all young kids believed dogs were all male and cats were all female.

Are you left-handed? Left-handed people were viewed in history with suspicion, linked to the Devil or witchcraft. In the 1800's when train travel began, experts believed that high speed travel would cause your human body to melt. The trains hit maximum speeds of 28 miles per hour back then which I'm sure we will all agree will cause us to be blown apart lol. Or at least driven mad by the high speed.
In the mid 1500's with the introduction of tobacco into society, people thought it was a sacred herb, a cure for many ailments and medicinal properties. How do I say this delicately. In the 1700's doctors used tobacco smoke enemas believing they had healing properties. I guess that's where the term blowing smoke up …well, let's just move on shall we?

Going back to Roman times, the rock stars of society were gladiators. They were kept separate from the rest of society. And their constant training causing rippling bodies came to be admired by all. Gladiator bodily fluids, particularly their sweat became sought after commodities in Ancient Rome, particularly to wealthy Roman women.

I mean, where else do you get important stuff like this. It doesn't grow on trees…does it?

As I close in on my 75th revolution around the sun, I reminisce about the previous 74. Like all of us, our past is filled with highs, lows, and in betweens. Life is meant to be an adventure. And risk of failure is part of success. Michael Jordan was cut from his high school basketball team and had 9,000 missed shots over his career. Walt Disney was told he lacked imagination. And he also went bankrupt more than once. J.K. Rowling had her Harry Potter manuscript rejected by 12 publishers. Thomas Edison was described by his early teachers as "too stupid to learn". And Elvis Presley was fired from the Grand Ole Opry and told to stick to truck driving.

Life is meant to be an adventure. The "safe" path is a good place to spend most but not all of your time. That being said, adding adventure and risk to your existence can make your life a bit more interesting and colorful. Whatever your plane of existence is, have a great week!

HOWARD Hays As I See It

"We had nothing to do with that. The United States, nobody ordered that Starlink speed to be slowed down. It sort of happened." – Secretary of State Marco Rubio

"You can stipulate he's not an agent of Putin, but let me tell you something: He does every single thing that Putin wants." – former White House communications director Anthony Scaramucci

An "October Surprise" is a singular event that alters the trajectory of an election. This month, we've already had a boatload of these "surprises", any one of which would dominate headlines in "normal" times. But instead of reinforcing support for the party in power, they'll likely bring a blue wave that's even more a tsunami than what's been predicted.

History shows not only October Surprises, but actions taken to prevent them. In October 1968, the Paris Peace Talks seemed likely to bring a ceasefire in Vietnam before the election. Vice President Hubert Humphrey was running slightly ahead of Richard Nixon, so Nixon had an aide convince the South Vietnamese to hold off on any agreement – that they'd get a better deal under a Nixon presidency. The South Vietnamese went along; Nixon won the election and the war continued another four years – 22,000 more Americans killed.

Preparations against a potential 1980 October Surprise were made months earlier. If American hostages held by Iran were released before the election, Jimmy Carter would likely win a second term. Aides to Ronald Reagan – campaign chief William Casey, former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, banker David Rockefeller - were dispatched to Mideast capitals. They worked a deal - with hostages held until Reagan's inauguration the following January.

October 2016 brought the Access Hollywood tape – Donald Trump's "when you're a star, they let you do it. You can do anything . . ." A top story – until a couple days later, when Wikileaks released hacked info from Hillary Clinton campaign chairman John Podesta's computer. At the end of the month, FBI Director James Comey announced reopening the investigation into Clinton's email server. A week later, 3 million more voters chose Clinton over Trump – but she came up short in the electoral vote.

This year, we've been overloaded with October "Surprises" - barely halfway into the month:

The home of Rep. Ilhan Omar (D-MN) was raided by federal agents - Trump demanding she be investigated, stripped of citizenship and deported because her dad might have messed up immigration paperwork thirty years ago. The raid took place the day Trump endorsed her opponent.

The NY Times reports $20 million shifted from Customs and Border Protection after "Trump personally instructed his budget director to use taxpayer money for TV ads praising him and his presidency". Though courts barred further expenditures, through October 8 ads have cost taxpayers $15.4 million.

Defense Secretary Pete Hegseth announced live-streaming of an execution by firing squad. The Justice Department launched anti-trust investigations against CNN, ABC, NBC, CBS and Fox News for collectively not filling in after Trump banned CNN from the press pool. Our ambassador to Greece was caught in a $100,000 shakedown. A White House press secretary lasted barely five days in the job. The president posted footage of a young, mentally-disturbed man being mauled to death by a tiger at an English zoo.

And President Trump affirmed his subservience to Russian President Putin. For higher oil prices brought by our war with Iran, Trump blamed Ukraine's attacks on Russian refineries. Under a "ceasefire", Ukraine stopped attacking Russia while Russia continued attacking Ukraine. Trump suggested the problem is Ukrainian President Zelenskyy – his refusal to surrender to Putin. Trump waived sanctions on trade in Russian diesel fuel along with sanctions in the Lindsey O. Graham Sanctioning Russia Act, which he'd signed just the month before.

Zelenskyy noted that a slowdown in the Starlink system allowed Russian attacks to come undetected, with Ukrainian drones unable to defend against them. Initial reports blamed Elon Musk, who responded that the system was controlled by the U.S. military. "Sources" then said orders to slow down the system and leave Ukraine vulnerable had to have come from the White House.

It's now reported that the decision was in fact made by Elon Musk – while he says it was only after discussions with top officials, including President Trump. Our president insists he's clueless on the whole thing – our Secretary of State explains, "It sort of happened". Trump then pushed for a conference where the fate of Ukraine would be decided by himself, Putin and China's Xi Jinping – no participation by our European allies or by Ukraine itself.

Anthony Scaramucci refers to the "Budapest Memorandum", where Ukraine exchanged its nuclear weapons in return for security guarantees: "In 1994, Ukraine gave up the world's third-largest nuclear arsenal on America's word. This month, the president traded that word for a diesel deal with Putin."

Maybe aware of the effect all this is having on the polls, Trump is fighting back with his instinctive strategy: reaffirming his promise of $5,000 to every voter if the election goes his way, along with an $8 billion bailout for farmers and $90 payments to us seniors. Again, from history, we know that polls are often wrong. But especially with this ongoing deluge of October "Surprises", I'm not expecting any November Surprise on election day.
